Shaikh Abu Muhammad 'Abdullah ibn Abi Zayd (rahmatullahi alaihi) was one of the people North Africa. Shaikh Abu Zayd's (rahmatullahi alaihi) name was 'Abdu'r-Rahman according to Shaikh ibn Makula (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Qadi ibn al-Hadhdha' (rahmatullahi alaihi). He was from the tribe of Nifza and lived in Qayrawan.

His (rahmatullahi alaihi) position in knowledge

He was the Imam of the Malikis in his time and their model. He had a comprehensive grasp of the school of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) and explained his statements. He had extensive knowledge and a prodigious memory and transmission. His books are ample testimony of that. His writing was fluent, clarifying and defining what he said. He defended the school of Imam Malik and established evidence in its support. He knew how to refute the people of sects. In addition to his writing, he was very righteous, scrupulousness and chastity. He obtained leadership in the deen and this world. and people from all regions traveled to visit him. His companions were noble and many people took knowledge from him. He composed a summary of the school and undertook to spread it and defend it. His books filled the lands and were well-known to most of its people.

Shaikh ash-Shirazi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, 'He was known as 'little Malik'. Shaikh Abu'l-Hasan al-Qabisi (rahmatullahi alaihi) mentioned him and said that he was a reliable Imam in his perception and transmission. Shaikh Abu'l-Hasan 'Ali ibn 'Abdullah al-Qattan (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, 'I did not imitate Shaikh Abu Muhammad ibn Abi Zayd until I saw Shaikh As-Saba'i imitated him.'"

Shaikh Abu Bakr ibn at-Tayyib (rahmatullahi alaihi) mentioned him in his book, and esteemed his value and merit. The same was true among other scholars in the east. Shaikh ibn Mujahid al-Baghdadi (rahmatullahi alaihi) and other Baghadadi companions of him asked him for an ijaza.

Shaikh Abu 'Abdullah al-Mayruqi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "He possessed knowledge, scrupulousness, excellence and intellect. He is too famous to need to be mentioned."

Shaikh ad-Da'udi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "He was quick to follow the truth. He studied fiqh with the fuqaha of his land and listened to its Shaikhs. He relied on Shaikh Abu Bakr ibn al-Lubbad (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh Abu'l-Fadl al-Mumsi
Shaikh al-Ajdabi (rahmatullahi alaihi), Shaikh Abu 'Abdullah al-Khawwas (rahmatullahi alaihi), and Shaikh Abu Muhammad al-Makki al-Muqri' (rahmatullahi alaihi).

The people of Andalusia who followed him (rahmatullahi alaihi) include Shaikh Abu Bakr ibn Mawhab al-Maqburi (rahmatullahi alaihi), Shaikh Abu 'Abdullah ibn al-Hadhdha' (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh Abu Marwan al-Qanazi'i (rahmatullahi alaihi). The people of Ceuta include Shaikh Abu 'Abdu'r-Rahman ibn al-'Ajuz (rahmatullahi alaihi), Shaikh Abu Muhammad ibn Ghalib (rahmatullahi alaihi), and Shaikh Khalaf ibn Nasr (rahmatullahi alaihi). The people of the Maghrib include Shaikh Abu 'Ali ibn Amdakatu as-Sijilmasi (rahmatullahi alaihi).

His (rahmatullahi alaihi) books

He has the Kitab an-Nawadir wa'z-Ziyadat 'ala'l-Mudawwana which is famous and has more than a hundred sections, and the famous Mukhtasar (Summary) of the Mudawwana. Instruction in fiqh in the Maghrib is founded on these two books.

He also wrote a revision of the 'Utibiyya, The Imitation of the People of Madina, The Defense of the School of Madina, the famous Risala, the Kitab an-Tanbih on the position of the children of apostates, Waqfs for the Children of Notables, Explanation of the Times of the Prayer, Trust and Reliance on Allah, The Book of Gnosis and Certainty, Insurance of Provision, Kitab al-Manasik, a treatise on those who are moved by the recitation of the Holy Qur'an and dhikr, a book on Turning Away the Beggar, the Protection of the Reputation of the Believer, Kitab al-Bayan on the inimitability of the Holy Qur'an, Kitab al-Wasawis, a treatise on giving relatives some of the zakat, a treatise prohibiting argumentation, a treatise refuting the Qadariyya and rebuttal to the treatise of al-Baghdadi al-Mu'tazili, the Kitab al-Istizhar on the refutation of the conceptualists [fikriya], Removal of Uncertainty on the same topic, Book of Admonition and Counsel, Treatise on the Seeker of Knowledge, The Excellence of Praying at Night in Ramadan, Excellent Warning for the People of Truthfulness, a letter to the people of Sijilmasa on recitation of the Holy Qur'an, and a treatise on the fundamentals of tauhid. All of his books are beneficial and extraordinary and full of knowledge.

It is mentioned that one day he went to visit Abu Sa’id (rahmatullahi alaihi), the nephew of Hisham (rahmatullahi alaihi), and found his gathering in session. Abu Sa’id (rahmatullahi alaihi) said to him, "I have heard that you have written books." "Yes," he replied, "may Allah azza wa jall make you prosper!" He said, "Listen to a problem." Abu Muhammad (rahmatullahi alaihi) told him, "Mention it, may Allah azza wa jall make you prosper. If I am correct, you will tell me. If I am wrong, you will teach us." Abu Sa'id (rahmatullahi alaihi) was silent and did not do that again.

The rest of his (rahmatullahi alaihi) reports

Shaikh Abu Muhammad (rahmatullahi alaihi) was one of the people of righteousness, scrupulousness and excellence. It is reported that he got up one night to do wudu' and poured water from the jug into the vessel and spilled it. Then he poured it again and spilled it. Then that happened a third time and he had some doubts and remarked, "You are recalcitrant towards us." He heard someone he could not see say, "The child wet the bed over the jug and we disliked for you to do wudu' from it."

When he wrote his books about the conceptualists and criticized the book of 'Abdu'r-Rahman as-Siqilli in al-Kashf and al-Istizhar and refuted a lot of what they had transmitted regarding miracles (kharq al-'adat) according to what was affirmed in his book, the false Sufis and a lot of the people of hadith objected to that and spread it about that he denied miracles (karamat), which he did not do. Indeed, at the beginning of his book, he articulates his aim, which is to refute a certain group of people found in Andalusia and the east. Many well-known books have been written on that, including the books of Abu'l-Hasan ibn Jahdam al-Hamdani (rahmatullahi alaihi), Abu Bakr al-Baqillani (rahmatullahi alaihi), Abu 'Abdu'r-Rahman ibn Shaqq al-Layl (rahmatullahi alaihi), Abu 'Umar at-Talamanki (rahmatullahi alaihi) and others. The most correctly guided of them in that and had the best knowledge of his aim and its worth was the Imam of his time, Qadi Abu Bakr ibn at-Tayyib al-Baqillani (rahmatullahi alaihi). He made his aim clear.

Al-Ajdabi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "I was sitting with Abu Muhammad (rahmatullahi alaihi) when Abu'l-Qasim 'Abdu'r-Rahman ibn 'Abdu'l-Mu'min (rahmatullahi alaihi) the mutakallim was with him (rahmatullahi alaihi). A man asked them about al-Khidr ✪ and whether it could be said that he ✪ was still in this world in spite of all this time and would not die until the Final Hour comes and whether this is refuted by the words of the Almighty, 'We did not give any human being before you immortality.' (Holy Qur'an 21:34) They both replied to him that that was possible and permitted and al-Khidr ✪ could live until the Final Trumpet was blown. Immortality is connected to remaining as long as the Next World remains, and remaining until the Trumpet is blown is not immortality. Do you not see that Iblis - may Allah azza wa jall curse him - is not immortal, but he is one of those deferred until the Day of a Known Time.

It is mentioned that Abu Muhammad (rahmatullahi alaihi) wrote to Abu Bakr al-Aburri (rahmatullahi alaihi):
Hearts refuse the hearts of a people when they have no portion with them. But selves choose selves while they have no portion with them. That is only because of secrets known by the All-Watchful Witness.

Abu'l-Qasim al-Lubaydi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "'Isa ibn Thabit al-‘Abid (rahmatullahi alaihi) met Shaikh Abu Muhammad (rahmatullahi alaihi) and they wept a lot together and admonished one another. When he wanted to leave, 'Isa (rahmatullahi alaihi) said to him, 'I want you to write my name on the carpet under you. When you see it, you can make supplication for me. Abu Muhammad (rahmatullahi alaihi) wept and said to him, 'Allah Almighty says, "All good words rise to Him and He raises up all righteous deeds." (35:10) Let me make supplication for you, but where are the righteous deeds to elevate it?"

Abu Muhammad ibn Abi Zayd (rahmatullahi alaihi) died in 386 and was eulogized by a lot of the writers of Qayrawan who composed a number of moving elegies about him.

It is mentioned that Abu Muhammad (rahmatullahi alaihi) was seen in his assembly reflecting in sorrow and he was asked what the reason for that. He replied, "I dreamt that the door of my house had fallen down. Al-Kirmani (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that it indicates the death of the owner of the house." He was asked, "Is al-Kirmani (rahmatullahi alaihi) considered to be like Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) in his science?" "Yes," he replied, "In his science, he is like Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) is in his knowledge." It was not long after that that he died, may Allah azza wa jall have mercy on him.

A Treatise on Maliki Fiqh

Abu Muhammad Abdullah (rahmatullahi alaihi), a Maliki faqih known as "Shaikh al-Faqih" and "little Malik". He was the head of the Maliki School in Qayrawan. He wrote ar-Risala and an-Nawadir and several other books.

(The translation here is not intended to be the final version, but it is hoped that it will be of some use to those looking for texts on Maliki fiqh.)

Comments are welcome in the guest book.

In the name of Allah, the Merciful, the Compassionate.

May Allah azza wa jall bless our Master Muhammad and his family and Companions and give him peace.

Shaikh Abu Muhammad 'Abdullah ibn Abi Zayd al-Qayrawani, (rahmatullahi alaihi), says:

SHAIKH IBN ABI'S ZAYD'S (rahmatullahi alaihi) PROLOGUE

Praise be to Allah azza wa jall who begins the creation of man as a blessing from Him and fashions him in the womb by His wisdom and brings him out into His tender care and to the provision He eases him to and teaches him what he did not know - "Allah's bounty upon him is ever great."
Allah azza wa jall makes him aware of Himself through the signs in what He has made and has left no excuse for him by virtue of what His Messengers, the best of His creation, have brought. He guides in His generosity, those whom He has granted success and He leads astray, in His justice, those for whom He has decreed debasement. He eases the believers to ease in both the worlds and opens their hearts to the Reminder. So they believe in Allah azza wa jall, pronouncing this belief with their tongues, being sincere about it in their hearts and acting according to what has come down to them through His Messengers and His Books. They learn what He teaches them and keep within the limits that which He has prescribed for them. They are happy with what He has made halal for them and avoid what He has made haram for them.

May Allah azza wa jall assist both us and you in taking care of what He has entrusted us with and in holding to His Shari’ah. You have asked me to write a short treatise for you about what is obligatory in the din - those things which should be pronounced by the tongue and believed by the heart and done by the limbs; and about those Sunnah’s which are associated with these obligatory actions - the confirmed (mu'akkada), the optional (nafila) and the desirable (raghiba); something about the courtesies (adab) associated with them; along with certain of the key principles and derived judgments in jurisprudence (fiqh) according to the madhhab and way of Imam Malik ibn Anas (rahmatullahi alaihi); and in addition to mention what the great men of knowledge and fiqh have said about unclear matters in the madhhab in order to make them easier to understand.

You have made this request because of your desire to teach these things to children in the same way that you teach them how to read the Holy Qur'an so that they may first of all gain an understanding of the din of Allah azza wa jall and His Shari'ah in their hearts, which will hopefully bring them blessing and a good end result.

I have responded to this out of the same hope of gaining for both myself and you something of the reward of those who teach the din of Allah azza wa jall or call to it.

Know that the best of hearts is the one which contains the most good and those hearts which are most likely to gain good are the ones which no evil has been able to get into. The thing that the people of advice are most concerned about and which those who desire its reward most want is to put good into the hearts of the children of the believers so that it becomes firmly established in them; and to make them realize what the bases of the din and the limits of the Shari’ah are in order that they may be satisfied with that and to make them realize those things in the din which their hearts have to accept and their limbs are required to do.
It is related that teaching the Book of Allah azza wa jall to young children extinguishes the anger of Allah azza wa jall and also that teaching something to someone in their childhood is like engraving it on stone.

I have made these things clear and if Allah azza wa jall wills they will get benefit from learning them, nobility from knowing them and happiness from believing them and acting according to them.

It has come down to us that children should be ordered to do the prayer at seven years old and beaten for not doing it at ten years old and be separated in their beds. Similarly, they should be taught before they reach puberty those words and actions which Allah azza wa jall has made obligatory for people so that when they reach puberty these things are fixed in their hearts and they are at ease with them and their limbs are used to doing them. For Allah azza wa jall has made certain beliefs obligatory for the heart and certain acts of obedience obligatory for the limbs.

I will arrange what I have undertaken to talk about in chapters so that it will be easier, if Allah azza wa jall wills, for those who are studying it to understand. It is Him we ask for guidance and Him we ask for help. And there is no power nor strength except by Allah, the High, the Mighty. May Allah bless our Master Muhammad, His Prophet, and his family and Companions and grant them much peace.
CHAPTER ONE: CREEDS

The obligatory matters of the din that the tongue should give expression to and in which the heart should believe.

This chapter clarifies what should be expressed in words and what hearts should believe. It contains about a hundred items of creed, which can be divided into three basic categories: that which must be believed about Allah azza wa jall, that which is impossible in respect of Allah azza wa jall, and that which is permissible in respect of Him.

These are matters which all those who are legally responsible must believe.

1.1 Beliefs regarding Allah azza wa jall

1.1a Tauhid - His Oneness and Disconnection from creatures (tanzih)

These obligatory tenets include believing in the heart and expressing with the tongue that Allah azza wa jall is One
God with no god other than Him, nor any likeness to Him, nor any equal to Him.

Belief is expressed on the tongue and confirmed by sincerity in the heart and action with the limbs. Thus it is composed of all three aspects. Nonetheless, simple belief in the Oneness of Allah azza wa jall will save a person from being in the Fire for all eternity.

The belief that Allah azza wa jall is One is the fundamental basis of Islam, and when Divine Unity is expressed, the name "Allah" must be used. It is not permissible to say, "There is no god but the Almighty" or use any other names except Allah. Nothing at all resembles Him or is equal to Him.

Al-Kalbi (rahmatullahi alaihi) mentions that the clear evidence for this is found in four ayats: "If there had been any gods except Allah in heaven or earth, they would both be ruined" (Holy Qur’an 21:22); "Say: 'If there had been other gods together with Him as you say, they would have sought a way to the Master of the Throne'' (Holy Qur’an 17:42); "Allah has no son and there is no other god accompanying Him, for then each god would have gone off with what he created and one of them would have been exalted above the other" (Holy Qur’an 23:91); and "But they have adopted gods apart from Him which do not create anything. They are themselves created." (Holy Qur’an 25:3)

He has had no child. He had no father. He has no wife. He has no partner.

See the Holy Qur'an 112: "Say: He is Allah, One with no other, Allah the Everlasting Sustainer of all. He has not given birth and was not born and there is no one is equal to Him," and "And say: 'Praise be to Allah Who has had no son and Who has no partner in His Kingdom and Who needs no one to protect Him from abasement.'" (Holy Qur'an 17:111)

He is totally unique. If he were to have a wife or partner, that would imply need, and He is absolutely beyond need.

1.1c Lack of Temporality

There is no beginning to His firstness nor any end to His lastness.

His existence does not begin with firstness so that there is a point at which He could be said to begin nor does He have a point at which He could be said to end. He exists eternally, out of time, before time and after time.

1.1d Ineffability and Indefinability
Those who try to describe Him can never adequately do so nor can thinkers encompass Him in their thought. Real thinkers may derive lessons from His signs but do not try to think about the nature of His Essence. "But they do not attain any of His knowledge except what He wills." (Holy Qur’an 2:254)

It is impossible to grasp His true description, let alone His Essence. Thinkers must learn through the Signs which indicate the splendor of His Power, but must not attempt to reflect on the nature of His Essence because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Reflect on His creation, but do not reflect on His Essence."

1.1e His Footstool

"His Footstool embraces the heavens and the earth, and their preservation does not tire Him. He is the Most High, the Magnificent" (Holy Qur’an 2:254)

He has full control and authority over all creation, high and low, and His preservation of them is no burden for Him.

1.1f His Attributes
The All-Knower and the All-Aware, the Arranger and the All-Powerful. The All-Hearer and the All-Seeing. The High and the Great. He is over His Glorious Throne by His Essence.

He has knowledge of all things, and complete power and authority over all things. His hearing and vision is connected to all things in existence.

1.1g His knowledge

He is everywhere by His knowledge. He created man and He knows what his self whispers to him and He is nearer to him than his jugular vein. No leaf falls without him knowing of it nor is there any seed in the darkness of the earth, nor any fresh thing nor any dry thing, that is not in a clear book.

He knows our inner dialogue and thoughts. He is closer to man that his jugular vein, which is his physical body, and so He is closer to man than his own physicality. "We created man and We know what his own self whispers to him, and We are nearer to him than his jugular vein." (Holy Qur'an 50:16) In addition to the universal scope of His knowledge, He knows the precise details, like each individual leaf which falls – and it only falls by His will and in accordance with His knowledge. Everything is encompassed by His knowledge, dead or alive, growing or dormant. "The keys of the Unseen are in His possession. No one knows them except for Him. He knows everything in the land and sea. Not a leaf falls without His knowing it. There is no seed in the darkness of the earth, and no wet thing or dry thing, but that it is in a Clear Book." (Holy Qur’an 6:59)

1.1h Mastery over all creation

He is firmly established on His throne and has absolute control over His kingdom.

No one knows the true interpretation of this expression. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) was asked about it and said, "'Firmly established' is known but 'how' is not known." Nothing is hidden from Him and His control is absolute. "He then established Himself firmly on the Throne." (Holy Qur’an 10:3, etc.)

1.1i His Names and Attributes

He has the most beautiful names and the most sublime attributes and He has always had all these names and attributes. He is exalted above any of His attributes ever having been created or any of His names having been brought into temporal (worldly) existence.
He is described by the best and noblest of the meanings of His Names. He has attributes like power, will, height, and so forth. He is high, exalted over any imperfection or short-coming. These Names have always been His and will remain His. Thus neither His names nor His attributes are created. They are simply His. "To Allah belong the Most Beautiful Names" (Holy Qur’an 7:180)

1.1j His Speech and Manifestation

He spoke to Nabi Musa (alaihi salam) with His speech which is an attribute of His essence and not something created. He manifested Himself to the mountain and it disintegrated through exposure to His majesty.

Allah azza wa jall spoke to Nabi Musa (alaihi salam) with His timeless words and Nabi Musa (alaihi salam) actually heard His timeless speech. “When Musa came to Our appointed time and his Lord spoke to him, he said, 'My Lord, show me Yourself so that I may look at You!' He said, 'You will not see Me, but look at the mountain. If it remains firm in its place, then you will see Me.' But when His Lord manifested Himself to the mountain, He crushed it flat and Musa fell unconscious to the ground." (Holy Qur’an 7:143)

1.2 Belief in the Holy Qur'an
The Holy Qur'an is the speech of Allah azza wa jall, not something created which must therefore die out, nor the attribute of something created which must therefore come to an end.

The Holy Qur'an is the speech of Allah azza wa jall which is not created and is timeless, outside of temporal (earthly, mortal) time. Hence it will not end as creatures must end, but will abide endlessly.

1.3a The Prior Decree of Good and Evil

Also included is belief in the Decree both the good of it and the evil of it, the sweet of it and the bitter of it. All of this has been decreed by Allah azza wa jall, our Lord. The way things are decided is entirely in His hand and the way they happen is according to His decree. He knows all things before they come into existence and they take place in the way He has already decided.

It is necessary to believe that all things, good and evil, are decreed by Allah azza wa jall and nothing escapes His will and thus only what He wills occurs in His kingdom. All things and their being brought into existence from the concealment of non-existence to the domain of manifestation in their myriad aspects and forms – long and short, at one time rather than one, in one place rather than another. All of that occurs and issues directly from His Decree according to His knowledge and dependent on His will.

1.3b Prior Knowledge

There is nothing that His servants say or do which He has not decreed and does not have knowledge of. "Does not He who creates know, when He is the Subtle and the Aware." (Holy Qur’an 67:14)

He knows everything which happens before it happens. It only occurs in accordance with His knowledge of it.

1.3c The Prior Predisposition of People

He leads astray whoever He wills and in His justice debases them and He guides whoever He wills and in His generosity grants them success. In that way everyone is eased by Him to what He already has knowledge of and has previously decreed as to whether they are to be among the fortunate or the miserable.

Every man has prior disposition to what Allah azza wa jall already knows about him being happy or wretched because Allah azza wa jall only created man according to His knowledge. See Holy Qur'an 14:4, 3:160, etc.

1.3d Exaltedness of Allah azza wa jall's power

He is exalted above there being anything He does not desire in His kingdom, or that there should be anything not dependent on Him, or that there should be any creator of anything other than Him, the Lord of all people, the Lord of their actions, the One who decrees their movements and the time of their death.

The power of Allah azza wa jall is so immense and vast that there is nothing which is not directly under his authority and subject to His will. All things - might and abasement, wealth and poverty, pious actions and all things are subject to His will and power.

1.4 Belief in the Messengers (may Allah azza wa jall bless them all) and the Holy Prophet Muhammad (alaihi salat wa salam)

1.4a The sending of Messengers (may Allah azza wa jall bless them all)

He has sent Messengers to them in order that they should have no argument against Him.
The first of the Prophets was Nabi Adam (alaihi salam) and the last was Nabi Muhammad (alaihi salat wa salam). One must believe and accept that Allah azza wa jall sent the Messengers (may He bless them all) to those who are legally responsible, i.e. adult and sane, and they conveyed the Message. The wisdom of sending the Messengers (may He bless them all) is that it removes any excuse which creatures might offer about not having heard the Message.

1. 4b The Final Messenger (alaihi salat wa salam)

He sealed this Messengership, warning, and Prophethood with his Holy Prophet Muhammad (alaihi salat wa salam), whom He made the last of the Messengers - "A bringer of good news and a warner, calling to Allah azza wa jall by His permission and an illuminating lamp."

Revelation, which is warning and prophethood, which is informing about what Allah azza wa jall has said, reaches its end with the Holy Prophet Muhammad (alaihi salat wa salam). There will be no Prophets after him. He brings the good news that whoever follows him will be happy and whoever does not will be punished. He calls to Allah azza wa jall, conveying tauhid to the legally responsible, and fighting the unbelievers. He is an illuminating light because his Shari’ah is a light which guides the bewildered – whoever follows it and proceeds along the Straight Path will emerge from the darkness of disbelief to the light of belief.

1.4c Divine Guidance through the Book

He sent down on him His Wise Book and by means of him He explained His upright din and guided people to the Straight Path.

One must believe and affirm that Allah azza wa jall revealed to His Holy Prophet Muhammad (alaihi salat wa salam) a Book containing judgment and wisdom to which no falsehood at all comes. Allah azza wa jall opened and expanded the Straight din of Islam through His Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam). Thus He manifests its judgments and clarifies it on the tongue of His Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam). Allah azza wa jall only sent down the revelation to us so that it would be clear to people. The guidance of the Holy Prophet Muhammad (alaihi salat wa salam) is the sun of knowledge’s, the source of right guidance and the fount of certainty which guides people to the Straight Path.

1.5 Belief in the Resurrection and Judgment

1.5a The Last Hour
Also part of what must be believed is that the Hour is coming - there is no doubt about it.

(Holy Qur'an 40:59) This must be confirmed and believed and the one who denies that the Final Hour will come is an unbeliever. However, but only the All-Knower of the Unseen knows when it will come.

1.5b Resurrection of the Dead

It must be believed that Allah azza wa jall will raise up all who have died: "As He brought them into existence the first time so they will be brought back again;"

It must be believed that He will bring the dead back to life after they are dead and bring them back for the Gathering. There is no disagreement among Muslims that it will occur, but there is disagreement about whether He will bring them back from absolutely nothing or from dissolution through a reconstitution of their parts.

1.5c Divine Reward: Multiplication of Good Actions

It must be believed that Allah azza wa jall multiplies the reward of the good actions of His believing servants.
It must be believed that Allah azza wa jall will multiply good actions for the believers according to sincerity and degrees of humility, so that multiplication can be from ten to 700, in other words, a great deal. Imam Ahmad ibn Hanbal (rahmatullahi alaihi) transmitted that Allah azza wa jall multiplies the good action a thousand times. This means the reward for doing them. The "good action" is what is praised in the Shari’ah, and what is the opposite of that is a "bad action", which is what the Shari’ah considers reprehensible.

1.5d Pardoning Wrong Actions

He pardons them for their major wrong actions by virtue of their repentance (tauba) and forgives them for their minor wrong actions by virtue of their avoidance of the major wrong actions.

Part of His bounty to His believing servants is that if anyone does any major wrong actions and then repents and makes amends, He will pardon Him by His favor and generosity. Small wrong actions are expiated by avoiding major ones.

1.5e Those who do not repent are subject to His will

Those who do not repent of their major wrong actions become subject to His will. "He does not forgive anything being associated with Him, but He forgives anything other than that to whoever He wills."

Those believers who commit major wrong actions and die without repenting of them are subject to the Will of Allah. If He wishes, He will forgive them out of His favor. If He wishes, He will punish them out of justice. He may forgive everything except for associating others with Him.

1.5f Deliverance from the Fire because of belief

Those He punishes with His Fire, He will remove from it because of any belief they have and by this He will cause them to enter His Garden. "Whoever does an atom's weight of good will see it." (Holy Qur’an 99:7)

It must also be accepted that if Allah azza wa jall wills that the rebels among the believers be punished in the Abode of Punishment, their punishment will be commensurate with what they have brought on themselves by their evil deeds and then mercy will envelop them and they will emerge from the Abode of Punishment and enter the Abode of Peace. Whoever has the weight of atom of belief in his heart will not be in the Fire forever. Thus belief is a reason for not being forever in the Punishment and a reason for entering the Garden with Allah azza wa jall's pardon and mercy.
1.5g The Intercession of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam)

Any of the community of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) who have committed major wrong actions and for whom he intercedes, will be brought out of the Fire by his intercession.

The intercession of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) and others must be affirmed. He is singled out for mention because he is the first intercessor and by the intercession of our Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) the people of major wrong actions of his community of unifiers will emerge from the Fire. The Mu'tazilites deny intercession, based on the lack of permission to pardon and overlook wrong actions, but we defer to transmitted evidence and they hold to merely logical evidence. Transmitted evidence is more sublime and radiant.

1.6a The Garden

Allah azza wa jall has created the Garden and has made it ready as an everlasting abode for His friends (awliya'). He will honor them in it with the vision of His Noble Face. This is the same Garden from which He sent down Nabi
Adam (alaihi salam), His Prophet and Khalif, to the earth, which was as it had already been decreed in His foreknowledge.

Allah azza wa jall has created the everlasting abode of the Garden for the believers in which they will have no toil or fatigue, but will be rejoicing and will be blessed by contemplation of His Face. See Holy Qur’an 75:23.

1.6b The Fire

He has created the Fire and has made it ready as an everlasting abode for those who disbelieve in him and deny His signs and Books and Messengers (may He bless them all) and He keeps them veiled from seeing Him.

He created the Fire as an eternal abode of punishment for those who deny and reject Him and ignored the evidence which indicates the existence and oneness of the Creator and denied His revealed Books and Messengers (may He bless them all). They will abide in the hatred resulting from disbelief and will be veiled from seeing their Lord on that day.

1.7 Details of the Resurrection

1.7a The Coming of Allah azza wa jall and the Angels
Allah azza wa jall will come on the Day of Rising together with the angels, rank upon rank.

It is confirmed by transmission that on the Day of Resurrection Allah azza wa jall will come with angels in ranks. That must be believed, and its knowledge comes from the Lawgiver. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) and others say about this ayat (Holy Qur’an 89:22) and others that they are read as they have come without qualification. We take what they say literally but do not compare it to any creature.

1.7b Presentation of Peoples

All the different peoples are confronted with their accounts and their punishment or reward.

All the different peoples will come to present themselves so that their states will be investigated and reckoning taken for their actions. The actions of those who present themselves for the Reckoning will have their good and bad actions enumerated. The believer will be called to account with graciousness and favor and the hypocrite and unbeliever with evidence and justice. So Allah azza wa jall will say to the believer, "I veiled it for you in the world and I forgive it for you on the Day of Rising." The unbelievers will be reckoned in front of witnesses and those who they denied will be summoned to their Lord, "The curse of Allah on wrongdoers."

1.7c The Balance

The balances will be set up to weigh people's actions - "Whoever's actions are heavy in the balance - they are the successful."

See Holy Qur'an 21:47; 101:6. The balances will be set up to manifest justice so that no one will be wronged even the weight of a mustard grain. Allah azza wa jall will bring all the person's actions, even to an atom's weight, on the Day of Resurrection. Whoever has his balance heavy will be successful and achieve a happiness after which there will be no misery. Whoever has his balance light will be wretched and will have no happiness after his wretchedness.

1.7d The Books of Actions

People will be given pages on which their actions are recorded - "Whoever is given his book in his right hand will be given an easy accounting and whoever is given his book behind his back - they will burn in a Fire." (Holy Qur'an 84:7-13)
Nations will be given their pages which contain their actions. When they are given them, Allah azza wa jall will create knowledge in them and they will understand what they contain. If someone is given his book in his right hand, that indicates that he is one of the people of the right hand and happiness. If someone is given his book in his left hand, that is an indication that he is one of the people of misery." The receiving of the books should actually be put before the balance and weighing of actions because the weighing is after the Reckoning and the Reckoning is after receiving the Books.

1.7e The Sirat

The Bridge (sirat) is true and people will cross it according to their actions. Those who cross it, and achieve safety from the Fire, do so at different speeds, while the actions of others cast them to their destruction in the Fire.

There is a great deal of description of the Sirat and it is said that it is finer than a hair and sharper than a sword. Shaikh al-Qarafi (rahmatullahi alaihi), on the other hand, says that it is wide with two paths on it, one to the right and one to the left. The people of happiness travel on the right and the people of wretchedness on the left.
There are ropes on it and each rope leads to one of the levels of Jahannam and Jahannam lies between the creatures and the Garden. The Sirat is set up over Jahannam, and none of the people of the Garden enters the Garden until he has crossed over the Sirat.

People will cross over the Sirat according to the disparity in their actions and avoidance of the things forbidden by Allah azza wa jall. Some will pass over like lightning. Some will escape the hooks, some will be scratched but released, and some will be caught by the hooks and tipped into the Fire of Jahannam.

Also included is belief in the Basin (Hawd) of the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) which his community will come down to drink from after which they will never feel thirst again. But those who make any changes or alterations in the din will be driven from it.

It is necessary to believe in the Basin of the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam). He will drive away from it those who alter things, like the apostates and those of his followers who follow him with the best will drink from it when they leave their graves thirsty. Whoever drinks from it will never feel thirst again.

1.8a Definition of Belief

Belief consists of what you say with the tongue, what you believe sincerely in the heart, and what you do with the limbs.

Belief is articulation of the shahadah, belief in the truthfulness of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) and what he brought in the heart and then acting according to the judgments of the Shari’ah, like praying and fasting. Someone with all of these three is a believer. If someone believes that belief does not consist of these three and imagines that what the author said was due to his inclination to what belief obliges because there is consensus that someone who believes with his heart, speaks with his tongue and acts with his limbs is a believer. If he does not believe that belief consists of these three, he takes it as a preface to the words which follow:

1.8b Increase and Decrease of Belief

It increases when your actions increase and decreases when they decrease. So it is through actions or the lack of them that increase and decrease in belief occurs.
It increases according to actions and decreases according to actions. This increase and decrease is in relation to its fruits. This is the school of the early and later people of the community, and this is the final position taken in the matter by Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi). He first had said that it increases and does not decrease. Applying the name “belief" to action is agreed upon. The Almighty says, "Allah would not let your belief go to waste," which referred to the prayers they did facing Jerusalem.

1.8c The intention and following the Sunnah

The statement of belief is not complete without action. Neither the statement nor action are complete without intention. And neither the statement nor intention are complete unless they are in accordance with the sunnah.

Actions and words are according to intentions. The intention is the fulcrum upon which actions are based, and so a man should only base his actions on the pure sunnah and straight Shari’ah and follow the Rightly-guided khalifs (may Allah azza wa jall be pleased with them).

1.8d Islam and Wrong actions

No Muslim becomes an unbeliever (kafir) through wrong actions.
It must be believed that no Muslim who commits a wrong action becomes an unbeliever as long as he believes. The same applies to someone who commits acts of disobedience while he nevertheless believes that the Shari’ah forbids them. If someone does something which shows that he lacks belief, like throwing a copy of the Holy Qur'an into the rubbish, then he is an apostate. We are not discussing him. The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Whoever faces our qibla and eats our sacrifices is truly a believer." The Kharijites were heretics when they said that every sin is a major wrong action and every major wrong action removes actions and the one who does that is an unbeliever. The Mu'tazilites said that every major wrong action renders actions void and the one who commits it is between two stations, and he is not called a believer or an unbeliever. He is called a deviant (fasiq).

1.8e Martyrs

Martyrs (shuhada') are alive, receiving their provision in the presence of their Lord.

It is obligatory to believe that the martyrs, those who fought the unbelievers and were killed in the way of Allah azza wa jall to elevate the word of Allah azza wa jall, are alive and delighting in the Presence of their Lord because of the privileges they have been granted, one of which is that they will be secure from the Greatest Terror on the Day of Rising. See Holy Qur'an 3:169.

1.8f In the grave: the spirits of the fortunate

The spirits of the fortunate remain in bliss until the day they are raised again.

The souls of the fortunate will remain in bliss until the Day of Rising seeing their place in the Garden. When one of them dies, he is shown his place in the Garden morning and evening.

1.8g In the grave: the spirits of the miserable

The spirits of the miserable are tormented until the Day of Judgment.

The souls of the wretched are punished by seeing their place in the Fire and other punishments.

1.8h The questioning in the grave

The believers are tried and questioned in their graves. "Allah makes those who believe firm by giving them firm words in the life of this world and the next world."
This refers to the questioning by the two angels in the grave. The dead person will be placed in his grave and people will leave him and then two angels come and sit with him and ask him, "Who is your Lord? What is your din? Who is your Prophet?" The believer will reply, "My Lord is Allah azza wa jall. My din is Islam, My Prophet is Muhammad (alaihi salat wa salam)," and his grave will be wide for him. When the unbeliever is in the grave and is asked these questions, he will reply, "I do not know," and so he will be dealt a blow from an iron hammer and will scream so that all creatures except men and jinn will hear him. Also reported is the constriction of the grave, which is the pressing on the sides of the body of the dead person and none is safe from that except the one whom Allah azza wa jall grants an exception - they include Fatima bint Asad (radhi’Allahu anha) the mother of 'Ali ibn Abi Talib (radhi’Allahu anhu) because of the blessing of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) going into her grave, and whoever recites Surat al-Ikhlas in his final illness.

1.9 The Angels

1.9a The Recording Angels

People have recording angels over them who write down their actions. Nothing people do escapes the knowledge of their Lord.
Men and jinn, believers and unbelievers, free and slave, have recording angels who write down their actions, even the permissible ones and the groan in illness, and even the actions of the heart, like all the thoughts which occur to it. Allah azza wa jall has given the heart a token by which it can distinguish between the good and bad action. The source for the knowledge of that is the words of the Almighty, "Standing over you are guardians, noble, recording. They know everything you do," (Holy Qur'an 82:10-12) and the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), "The angels of the day and night succeed one another." There is consensus on that. None of the actions are hidden from Allah azza wa jall. That is part of the subtlety of Allah azza wa jall regarding His slaves since they know that Allah azza wa jall has recording angels who record their actions and that will prevent them from acts of disobedience and the proof will be established against them when they reject and deny.

1.9b The Angel of Death

The angel of death seizes people's spirits by the permission of his Lord.

Allah azza wa jall has delegated an angel called 'Azra'il (alaihi salam) to take the spirits of creatures, men, jinn and other birds and all animals who have a spirit. The Almighty says, "Allah takes back all souls at the time of their death," (Holy Qur'an 39:42) and He says, "Then when death comes to one of you, Our messengers take him," (Holy Qur'an 6:61) however the outward appearance differs from this. The action is ascribed to Allah azza wa jall because He is the one who does it in reality, and the attribution of taking the spirits is to the Angel of Death because he does it directly by the permission of Allah azza wa jall. Taking is ascribed to the angels who are messengers because they assist the Angel of Death (alaihi salam) in taking the spirits.

1.10 Authorities

1.10a The Best generation

The best generation are those who saw the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) and believed in him. Then those who followed them and then those who followed them.

The best generation is those who were alive in the time of the Holy Prophet Muhammad (alaihi salat wa salam) and believed in him, respected and helped and followed the Light which was sent down with him and the suns of his prophethood shone on them and they won and chose the virtue of being a Companion. Their generation is the best generation. This is in accordance with his words, "The best of you is my generation and those who follow them and then those who follow them."
1.10b The best Companions

The best of the Companions (Sahaba) are the rightly-guided khalifs. Firstly, Abu Bakr (radhi’Allahu anhu), then 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu), then 'Uthman (radhi’Allahu anhu), then 'Ali (radhi’Allahu anhu).

Not all the Companions had the same degree, but they varied in their degrees of excellence. The Rightly-guided Khalifs are the best and in order of excellence they were Abu Bakr, then 'Umar, then 'Uthman, then 'Ali, may Allah azza wa jall be pleased with all of them.

1.10c Respect for all the Companions

None of the Companions of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) should be mentioned except in the best way and silence should be maintained concerning any disagreements that broke out between them. They are the people who are most worthy of being considered in the best light possible and the people whose opinions should be most respected.

One should avoid getting embroiled in the quarrels between them and one must always take the best interpretation in holding an opinion regarding them. They must always be thought about in the best possible light.

1.10d Those in authority

Obedience to the leaders of the Muslims, both their rulers and their men of knowledge, is obligatory.

It is obligatory to obey the Imams of the Muslims who are in authority who are responsible for the best interests of the Muslims. If they command what is correct, it is obligatory to obey, and if they forbid the reprehensible, it is obligatory to refrain. It is only obligatory to obey the scholars who act by their knowledge and command the correct and forbid the reprehensible and preserve the limits of Allah azza wa jall. The evidence for the obligation is the words of the Almighty, "Obey Allah and obey the Messenger and those in command among you." (Holy Qur’an 4:58) The one who transgresses is not obeyed because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "There is no obedience due to a creature which involves disobedience to the Creator." (Imam ibn Hanbal (radhi’Allahu anhu) & Shaikh al-Hakim (radhi’Allahu anhu)

It is also obligatory to follow the Right-acting Companions, to tread in their footsteps and ask forgiveness for them.

It is obliged to follow the righteous Salaf who are the Companions, in their words and actions, whether it is learned from them or by derivation and ijtihad. Similarly one must pray for forgiveness for them.

1.10f Avoiding Disputation

It is also obligatory to avoid wrangling and argumentation regarding the din.

It is necessary to avoid wrangling and arguments about the din. Wrangling is to deny the truth after it is clear. Argumentation is to quarrel with the people of innovations. That is forbidden because it could lead to attacking the Companions (may Allah azza wa jall bless them all) and cause doubt in the heart. If the aim of the argument is to set forth the truth without obduracy (stubbornness), then it is permitted.

1.10g Avoiding Innovations

...and to avoid every new thing which people have introduced into it.
Avoid innovations because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "If anyone innovates something in this business of ours which is not part of it, it is rejected." This is applied to innovations which did not occur in his time and which the Shari’ah indicates are unlawful, according to some. Some believe that innovation is what did not occur in this time, whether the Shari’ah indicates that it is unlawful, obligatory, recommended, disliked or permitted. Innovations are found in all five categories. This is what is stated by Shaikh ibn Abdu's-Salam (rahmatullahi alaihi), Shaikh al-Qarafi (rahmatullahi alaihi) and others.

May Allah azza wa jall bless and give much peace to our Master Muhammad, His Prophet, and his family and his wives and his descendants.

Chapter Two: What Necessitates Wudu' and Ghusl

This chapter deals with those things which render necessary wudu' and ghusl.
Wudu' designates the action and wadu' designates the water. Linguistically it means cleanliness and excellence, and in the Shari'ah it means to purify certain parts of the body with water to make them clean and to remove the judgment of 'minor impurity' (hadath) from them to permit acts of worship which are forbidden by lack of purity.

Qadi ibn al-'Arabi (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that there is a known dispute about whether ghasl means the action and ghusl the water. However, in adh-Dhakira, ghusl designates the action and ghasl the water. This is the most common position.

The obligation of Wudu' and Ghusl

Evidence for the obligatory nature of wudu' and ghusl is found in the Holy Qur'an and Sunnah and consensus. The Almighty says, "O you who believe! When you get up intending to do the prayer, wash your faces " (Holy Qur'an 5:6) and "Do not approach the prayer when you are drunk until you know what you are saying, nor in a state of major impurity - unless you are traveling - until you have washed yourselves completely." (Holy Qur'an 4:43) The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Allah azza wa jall does not accept the prayer of anyone in a state of impurity until he does wudu'." There is no disagreement between the Imams that it is obligatory.

2.1a Preconditions for wudu':

There are certain preconditions for the validity of wudu':

1. Islam

2. Adulthood

3. Sanity

4. Absence of menstrual blood or bleeding after childbirth

5. The arrival of the time of the prayer,

6. That the legally responsible person is not forgetful, asleep or insensible

7. The existence of adequate water to perform it

8. The possibility of doing it with due care to achieve what is desired, which may preclude the sick and the person who is compelled.

2.1b What makes wudu' necessary
Two things oblige wudu': ritual impurity and certain causes. [Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi) says three things: ritual impurities, causes; and apostasy and doubt.]

Ritual impurity is what breaks wudu' in itself, like urine, and causes are things which do not break wudu' in themselves but leads to ritual impurity, like loss of sanity, touching someone with desire and touching the penis. Shaikh ibn Juzayy (rahmatullahi alaihi) states that apostasy also breaks wudu'.

2.1c The nature of the obligation

The duty of wudu' is one of an obligatory nature, not merely an obligation inasmuch as it is Sunnah and thus strongly recommended.

2.1d Urination and defecation in a normal manner

Wudu' must be done when something emerges from one of the two normal passages, the urethra and the anus, in a normal manner. It is limited to what is normal which excludes anything which emerges abnormally, like pebbles and worms. They do not break wudu', even if he passes some urine and feces. Urine and feces must emerge in a normal manner. So if it emerges for a specific reason, like incontinence in most cases, which is when he does it constantly, most of the time or half of the time, then it does not break wudu'. In the first case, wudu' is neither obligatory or recommended. In the last two cases it is recommended unless that is difficult for him.

The 'passages' are limited to what emerges normally, which precludes what emerges other than urine and feces, like blood as a result of leeches and cupping, vomit which is changed from food, and impurity which emerges from a split under the intestines which is not due to the passages being blocked. When the two passages are blocked and the split is located under the intestines, then it is considered as a normal orifice.

2.2 Things which break wudu'

2.2a Excreta which oblige wudu'

You have to do wudu' after urinating or defecating or passing wind.

This clarifies what excreta which make wudu' necessary: urine from the front orifice and feces from the rear orifice and passing wind, which designates wind which emerges from the anus, whether or not with a sound. As for wind which emerges from the penis or vagina, it does not require wudu' since it is not considered as one of things which break wudu'.
2.2b Other fluids which require wudu': Madhy

You have to do wudu' when the liquid known as madhy comes out of the penis, in which case it is necessary to wash to the whole penis as well. Madhy is a thin, white liquid which comes out at times of sexual excitement when the penis is erect, either during sexual foreplay or when thinking about it.

Wudu' is obliged when madhy emerges from the penis. It is also obligatory to wash the entire penis with an intention before doing wudu'. Wudu' is specified and using stones in not enough.

2.2c Wady

Wady is a thick white liquid which comes out usually after urinating and carries the same judgment regarding cleaning the penis as urine.

Wady is dense and usually comes out after urination. It may come out on its own or during urination. It makes wudu' necessary and it must be completely removed. He should lightly squeeze the place and wash only its place.

2.2d Sperm (maniyy)
Sperm - maniyy - is the white liquid ejaculated at orgasm during sexual intercourse which smells similar to the pollen of the date-palm.

The emission of sperm is one of things which obliges ghusl, not wudu'. The author (rahmatullahi alaihi) mentioned it here among the things which oblige wudu' as a digression since it does oblige wudu' in certain cases. It is what issues with pleasure which is not usual, although it is mentioned among the things which oblige ghusl. Here he mentioned the fluids which flow from the front orifice, and maniyy is one of them. It is ejaculated in spurts and has a particular odor.

2.2e Women's discharge and menstruation

The liquid which comes from a woman is a thin yellow fluid and necessitates purification, that is purification of the whole body as is the case after menstruation.

A woman's liquid which she discharges, which is her maniyy, is described as being thin and yellowish when it normally emerges and in health, not on account of illness or incontinence. Ghusl is obliged on account of it. It is not a precondition that it emerge outside. It is based on the sensation, and so the mere sensation obliges her to purify herself, as she is obliged to do when menstruation ends.

2.2f False menstruation

In the case of bleeding which continues beyond the normal period of menstruation (istihada), only wudu' is necessary, although in such circumstances it is recommended for a woman to repeat wudu' for every prayer.

The blood of false menstruation is blood which flows outside the days of menstruation and lochia, issuing from a vein which is in the lower part of the uterus. The judgment in such a case is that wudu' is obligatory when it stops more than it comes. When it comes more than it stops or the two are equal, then she is not obliged to do wudu'.

Menstruation according to Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi). The normal age of menstruation is considered from the age of adolescence to the age of 50. The individual is consulted from the age of 9 to puberty and from 50 to 70. It can be red, yellow or brown. The minimum is one gush and its maximum is fifteen days. The minimum of purity is fifteen days and it has no maximum. And the maximum length of menstruation for someone with normal periods (even if she has only had one period) is fifteen days. There are three days of using precaution (i.e. above and beyond) her normal maximum. (i.e. if she normally menstruates five days and then menstruates after that and it does not stop after the full five days, she adds three days to it. If it does not stop after that, it is false menstruation.

But if her normal period is 15 days, she does not use precaution at all. This is as long as it does not exceed half a month. (If it is 14, she uses one, and if 13, she uses 2.) Then she is pure (to fast, pray and have intercourse even if the blood is flowing, because it is false menstruation and not menstruation.)

The maximum length of menstruation of a pregnant woman after three months (up until five months) is half a month and five days (i.e. twenty days). When she starts the sixth month, it is twenty days and the like (i.e. ten with the twenty and so the maximum is thirty days). Is the judgment of the woman whose has a period before three months the same as the judgment of a woman whose period comes after it (after three months), or is she like the one with a regular period? There are two statements. If purity is stopped by blood before it is completely finished, even by a hour, she adds only the days of bleeding (i.e. rather than the days it stopped, and it cancels it when it is less than half a month. There must be 15 twenty-four days of continuous purity free of blood by agreement.
Then, after patches and continuous blood, it is false menstruation, not menstruation. So she does ghusl for the end of menstruation. The one who has bleeding patches does the ghusl whenever the blood stops in the patched days unless she thinks that the blood will return before the time she is in finishes. In such a case she is not commanded to do ghusl. She fasting (if it stops at Fajr or before) and prays and has intercourse after ghusl according to the known position as opposed to the author of the Irshad who says that intercourse is not permitted. She can pray in all the days of menstruation when the period comes to her at night and then stops before Fajr. So she might not miss a prayer or a fast.

Blood which is distinct (from false menstrual blood by the change of smell, color or fineness or thickness) after (the full 15 days of) purity is menstruation (and prevents prayer and the like). If it is not distinct from false menstruation in any way, it is false menstruation, even if it goes on a long time. It is like that for what is distinct before the end of purity. One does not pay attention to the distinction. If the blood is distinct from the blood of false menstruation by anything above and is judged to be menstruation and it continues until her normal time is complete and more, is changes from the quality of the blood of menstruation to that of false menstruation. So she does not use caution beyond her normal days, but does ghusl by the simple completion of her normal days according to the soundest version (from Imam Malik
Purity from menstruation is known by the dryness (of the private parts) from blood, yellowness and brownness when she inserts a bit of cotton, for instance, and brings it out without seeing anything on it. Or it is by a white liquid which issues from the private parts after the end of menstruation. This liquid is more conclusive of the end of menstruation than dryness for the one who usually has it. If she sees the liquid before dryness, it is recommended that she do ghusl at the end of the preferred time (for the prayer). There is some discussion about the sign of purity of the one whose has her first period. Shaikh al-Baji (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that she is only pure by dryness which she sees, even if the time for the prayer goes by.

The woman with a period does not have to look for her purity before Fajr. (Indeed, it is disliked because it is not something which the Salaf did.) She should look when she goes to sleep to see whether she can catch Maghrib and Isha' and fast. She should look at the beginning of Subh and the other five prayers (allowing time for ghusl).

Menstruation prevents the validity of prayer and fasting and their obligation and divorce (which is prohibited, but is binding if it takes place.) It prevents the start of idda, which begins with purity. It prevents intercourse or touching under the waist-wrapper (from the waist to knees), even after the end of the period before the ghusl. Tayammum makes the prayer permitted, but does not remove the impurity. It prevents entering the masjid, so there is no itikaf or tawaf. It prevents touching a copy of the Holy Qur'an (except for a teacher or student who has a dispensation) and recitation.

2.2g Incontinence of Urine

This is also the case for incontinence (salas) of urine.

It is recommended for someone with incontinence to do wudu' for every prayer and for his wudu' to be directly before the prayer. There is no special judgment for incontinence of urine. It is a general judgment for everyone with some form of incontinence, be it urine, wind, or maniyy. All are the same in that they do not break wudu' by what emerges from them and are constant, even if it is only half the time when he is unable to remove it by medical treatment or marriage. If someone is able to stop it, then it breaks his wudu', he is excused for the period of treatment in that it does not break it.

2.2h Loss of Consciousness: deep sleep
You have to do wudu' after loss of consciousness caused by deep sleep,

Loss of consciousness is one of the reasons which lead to ritual impurity and obliges wudu' after it passes. The loss of intellect is when it is completely absent. When it departs completely, as in sleep or fainting, and then is restored to him, the judgment is that wudu' is obligatory. A deep sleep, whether long or short, breaks wudu' absolutely. A deep sleep that in which the sleeper is not aware of what he or someone else does. What is understood from the word "deep" is that the dozing in which the person is aware of the slightest thing definitely does not break wudu', be that short or long based on what is in Sahih Muslim, "The Companions of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) used to sleep and then pray without doing wudu'." Nonetheless, it is recommended to do wudu' after a long light sleep.

2.2i Fainting

Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that someone who faints has to do wudu'. Fainting is an illness in the head.

2.2j Drunkenness or intoxication

The one who loses his senses through drunkenness must do wudu'. It makes no difference whether he becomes intoxicated by something lawful or unlawful, as when he drinks milk thinking that it is not intoxicating and it intoxicates him.

2.2k Insanity or a bout of madness.

This even more clearly breaks wudu' because it removes the senses. It is not in itself a reason for it. Wudu' is obliged on account of insanity, intoxication and fainting because it is obliged by sleep which is less severe than it because it removes a little awareness, and these cause that loss of intellect even more so and so it is more likely that it be obligatory on account of them. That is why there is no difference between long or short, deep or light. They judge that legal responsibility is removed with them which is not the case with sleep. The sleeper is responsible, even if he incurs no wrong action. This discussion concerns a bout of madness which ends. The one for whom insanity is complete and without end owes nothing.

2.2l Wudu' on account touching a person

Wudu' is also necessary when you touch someone to gain sexual pleasure or have bodily contact with them for the same reason

One of the causes which results in ritual impurity is touching which is less than intercourse as the Companions, Tabi‘un, Imam
Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) and his companions have explained it. The Almighty says, "Or if you have touched women." (Holy Qur’an 4:43) 'Ali (radhi’Allahu anhu) and Ibn 'Abbas (radhi’Allahu anhu), however, explain this 'touching' as referring to intercourse, and say that His words "Or you have touched women" means to have intercourse with them.

Specifying 'pleasure' tells us that if the one who touches intends pleasure, he must do wudu' simply by touching whether or not there is pleasure. So that is even more so if he touches and experiences it. If he did not intend pleasure, but intended to touch to find out whether the body was hard or not, and then experiences pleasure, he must do wudu' because of the existence of pleasure, even though it did not come from intention. So the obligation of wudu' hinges on intention, even if there was no feeling while touching. If the feeling occurs after touching, then it is like pleasure arising from thinking for which nothing is obliged. If he does not intend pleasure and does not feel it, he does not have to do anything. This is the judgment for touching.

As for anyone who is touched, if they are adult and experience pleasure, they must do wudu'. Otherwise, they do not have to do anything if they did not intend pleasure. Otherwise the judgment regarding the person who is touched is the same as the one who touches.
2.2m Wudu' on account of kissing or for kissing them for sexual pleasure.

It is clear from his words that kissing is general, whether on the mouth or elsewhere with the intention or arousal. That is not the case. The accepted position is that the kiss on the mouth generally breaks wudu' whether or not there is intention and arousal because it is a probable cause of pleasure unless other places give rise to pleasure. [Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that if it is to bid farewell or out of mercy, as when there is some misfortune, it does not break wudu'.] Looking at someone, even with pleasure, does not break wudu'.

2.2n Touching the Human genitals

A man must do wudu' if he touches his penis.

One of the things which lead to ritual impurity is touching the penis because it says in the Muwatta' and elsewhere that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "When one of you touches his penis, he should do wudu'." The touching referred to is with the palm or the inside or sides of the fingers. He only mentioned touching one's own penis. As for the penis of someone else, it follows the judgment regarding touching with respect to intention or arousal. The penis must be connected to the body. As for that which is separate from the body, it does not break wudu' when it is touched.

When dealing with the eunuch, one considers the shape or lack of it. If there is a shape, then touching it breaks wudu. If it does not have a shape, then one takes into consideration the judgment given to it. If masculinity is adjudged for him, it breaks wudu' and otherwise it does not.

There are different considerations regarding touching it through a barrier. If it is thick, that does not break wudu' in one position, If it is light, then the most accepted position is that it does break it. Touching the anus or the testicles does not break wudu' in the accepted position.

2.20 A woman touching her vagina

But there is difference of opinion about whether a woman has to do wudu' if she touches her vagina.

The position of the Mudawwana is that it does not break wudu' based on what is on the hadith, "When one of you touches his penis, he should do wudu'.'" The position is based on the fact that that is what is understood by the word and when something is understood, a concealed meaning is not considered. The one who says that it does break wudu' bases it on the hadith which says, "If someone's hand touches his private parts he should do wudu" because 'private parts' and can be applied to the penis or the vagina. Some of them say that wudu' is not broken it if she touches the outside of it, but it is broken if she presses it or puts her hand inside the labia.

2.2p Further Note

Shaikh ibn Juzayy (rahmatullahi alaihi): Things that break wudu' in other schools, but not in the Maliki school are: vomiting, belching, nosebleeds or other bleeding, cupping, the emission of pus, laughing in the prayer [Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi)], eating camel meat, eating cooked food, carrying the dead person, slaughtering animals. None of these break wudu'.

Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi): It is recommended to wash out the mouth after eating meat or drinking milk.

2.3 Ghusl (Full Ablution)

2.3a Ghusl because of emission of sperm

You have to do ghusl when, as has already been mentioned, sperm (maniyy) is ejaculated accompanied by sexual pleasure either during sleep or when awake whether from a man or woman.
One of the things which oblige ghusl is the emission of sperm with normal pleasure, whether while asleep or awake, or man or woman. It is not a precondition for the obligation of ghusl that it emerge with pleasure when it actually takes place. Ghusl is obliged simply by its emerging after pleasure has departed, as when he has pleasure without intercourse and then sperm emerges from him after the pleasure is over.

2.3b At the end of menstruation and lochia

Ghusl is also necessary at the end of bleeding from menstruation.

It is more precise to say 'the blood of menstruation' because it is more general than simply saying 'menstrual period' since that specifically designates that which is preceded by purity and followed by purity. The beginning or end of the blood which emerges is not called 'a menstrual period'. In the Shari’ah, the blood of menstruation is that which emerges on its own from the vagina which normally does not exceed 15 days and it emerges without being caused by illness or childbirth. Blood which emerges not by some cause, or which emerges from the anus, or emerges from a child of seven or a woman of 70, or which exceeds 15 days, or which emerges because of illness, or because of childbirth is not menstruation so that its judgments apply to it.
2.3c False menstruation or menorrhagia

Ghusl is necessary when abnormal bleeding (istikada) stops

Then the sensation of the blood of false menstruation was made a cause which obliges ghusl. Imam Malik's (rahmatullahi alaihi) final position was that ghusl was recommended. He first said that she does not have a ghusl. None of the people of the school say that it is obligatory except for Shaikh Al-Baji (rahmatullahi alaihi) if one takes his transmission literally.

Ghusl is necessary at the end of the period of bleeding which follows childbirth (nifas).

Lochia is one of the causes which makes ghusl obligatory. Lochia (nifas) linguistically means childbirth, whether there is blood with it or not. It designates the blood itself which emerges from the vagina because of childbirth. In the usage of the people of Shari’ah it designates the blood which emerges from the vagina because of childbirth in a healthy and normal way. The blood which emerges from other than the vagina is not nifas. That which emerges not on account of childbirth is not considered nifas. That which does not emerge in a healthy manner is not nifas. That would normally be bleeding which occurs is after the period of nifas, which is 60 days.

2.3e Penetration of the vagina

Ghusl must also be done if the head of the penis penetrates the vagina even if no ejaculation takes place.

One of the things which obliges ghusl is the penetration of the penis of the adult into the vagina, even if there is no ejaculation, whether it is human or animal, or into the anus, whether female or male, whether or not there is emission, and whether or not there is a covering over it, but that is provided that the barrier is light so that pleasure can be felt with it. As for the thick barrier, ghusl is not obliged with it unless there is ejaculation. Then there is ghusl because of ejaculation, not because of the disappearance of the penis. The basis for that is what is in the Muwatta' and Sahih Muslim from the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), "When he sits between her arms and legs and then presses her, he is obliged to do ghusl." This hadith is abrogated by what Sahih Muslim related from the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), "When you are too quick or there is no ejaculation, there is no ghusl, “and by what was related from his words, "Water is needed on account of water [semen]."
2.4 Legal Consequences of vaginal penetration

2.4a Ghusl is obligatory

This penetration of the vagina by the head of the penis necessitates ghusl.

2.4b Legal consequences in case of fornication

It necessitates the hadd punishment [for zina] and the payment of the dowry and gives the married couples the status of being muhsan and makes a woman who has gone through a triple divorce halal for her original husband and invalidates hajj and fasting.

It obliges the hadd punishment for fornication and obliges the payment of the dower in full because the contract on its own demands half of the dower. It accords the married couple the states of being muhsan provided that they are free, Muslim, sane and adult.

It makes a woman lawful for her prior husband, if he is a free man. As for the woman divorced by a slave, it makes her lawful when he has divorced her twice. However making the divorced woman who has been trebly divorced lawful for her prior husband must involve full penetration. Thus full penetration is not a precondition for requiring ghusl, the hadd punishment and payment of the dowry, but full penetration and lack of barrier are preconditions for making the couple muhsan and making the divorced woman lawful.

2.4.c Invalidation of hajj and fasting

It invalidates hajj and fasting.

It absolutely invalidates hajj, be it obligatory or voluntary, intentional or by forgetfulness, when it occurs before standing at 'Arafa or after it before the Tawaf al-Ifada and stoning the Jamra al-Aqaba on the Day of Sacrifice. He continues with his hajj and makes it up the following year. It invalidates fasting, even without full penetration, be it obligatory or voluntary, intentional or by forgetfulness. He must make it up and owes kaffarah for the obligatory if it is done deliberately. Otherwise there is only making up, as is the case with doing it deliberately in a voluntary fast.

2.5 Ghusl and menstruation

2.5a When ghusl is done after menstruation

A woman does ghusl immediately when she sees the white liquid [qassa] which comes at the end of menstruation, or when she notices dryness, even if she notices this after a day or two days or only an hour.

As the blood of menstruation is mentioned as one of the causes which oblige ghusl, he goes on to clarify the sign which indicates that it has ended and that the womb is free of it. He mentioned that it has two signs: a white liquid and dryness. When the menstruating woman sees one of the two signs, then her purity is clear and she is adjudged to be pure from that moment and does not wait for the second sign. There is no minimum length of menstruation. Its minimum amount is one spurt. There is no maximum amount of it, but has a maximum in time, which is fifteen days.

Shaikh Khalil (rahatullahi alaihi): Its maximum for someone who is having a first period is half a month [i.e. 15 days. If it stops before that and then she remains pure for half a month and then blood comes, it is a new menstruation.] as half a month is the minimum of purity [which is fifteen days and there is no limit to its maximum].

And the maximum length of menstruation for someone with normal periods [even if she has only had one period] is fifteen days. There are three days of using precaution [i.e. above and beyond] her normal maximum. [i.e. if she normally menstruates five days and then menstruates after that and it does not stop after the full five days, she adds three days to it. If it does not stop after that, it is false menstruation. But if her normal period is 15 days, she does not use precaution at all.] This is as long as it does not exceed half a month. [If it is 14, she uses one, and if 13, she uses 2.] Then she is pure [to fast, pray and have intercourse even if the blood is flowing, because it is false menstruation and not menstruation.]

If bleeding starts again or if she sees any yellowish discharge, she must stop doing the prayer and then when the bleeding stops again she should do ghusl and start the prayer once more.

If she sees the sign of purity and the judgment is that she is pure immediately, from the moment she sees purity, and then the blood resumes again or there is a yellowish discharge which does not have the color of blood, she stops praying and reckons that she is still menstruating that day and considers all of it to be the same period. It is one period since it has come before complete purity. Or it may stop before the end of her normal period or extend after its normal length and before looking for purity or before it was complete. When the bleeding comes after complete purity or when it ended after her normal period and the days of looking for the end, then it is not menstruation, but abnormal bleeding, When it stops again, then she again does a ghusl and prays, and does not wait to see whether more blood comes again. This question involves the woman whose purity is interspersed with bleeding to add the days together.

Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi): The one who has bleeding patches has a ghusl whenever the blood stops in the patched days unless she thinks that the blood will return before the time she is in finishes. In such a case she is not commanded to do ghusl. She fasts (if it stops at Fajr or before) and prays and has intercourse after ghusl according to the known position as opposed to the author of the Irshad who says that intercourse is not permitted. She can pray in all the days of menstruation when the period comes to her at night and then stops before Fajr. So she might not miss a prayer or a fast.

2.5c Legal Consideration of Such Gaps

When this situation occurs, it is considered as one menstrual period when reckoning the period of ‘Idda (after divorce or being widowed) or the period of istibra [after the death of a husband].

The intermittent blood is considered as the same period of bleeding in respect of ‘Idda and istibra' and so the days of blood are added together until they reach that at which its judgment normally ends or other than. If it exceeds that it is abnormal bleeding.

2.5d Consideration of a Long gap

If there is a considerable interval between the two periods of bleeding, such as eight or ten days, then the second one is considered a new menstrual period.

If there is not a long gap between the two periods of bleeding, it is considered as one menstrual period for the purposes of ‘Idda and istibra’, but if there is a long interval between them but less than the time of purity, which is eight or ten, even though the accepted interval is 15 days, then the second is a new menstruation, i.e. the beginning of a new one which is counted for purposes of ‘Idda and istibra’.

2.5e Abnormal Bleeding

If menstrual bleeding continues longer than fifteen days, it is considered as istihada and the woman should perform a ghusl, fast, pray and her husband can have sexual intercourse with her.

This means if the bleeding continues for her, then she waits for fifteen days from its beginning because the maximum of menstruation in respect of her is fifteen days. Then she is judged to have abnormal bleeding whether the two periods of bleeding are distinct or not. She has a ghusl and prays and fasts. Her husband can come to her. We mention that which has a beginning to distinguish it from that which has no beginning because there are certain points regarding that because it is either what is normal for her varies or it does not. If it is not different and the blood continues more for her than it normally does, she looks for purity for three days as long as they do not exceed fifteen days. If it varies, she then looks for purity when it is longer than its norm.

2.6a Minimum of Lochia

If the bleeding after childbirth [nifas] stops soon after the birth, a woman should do ghusl straightway and start doing the prayer.

If shortly after childbirth a woman sees the sign which indicates that it is ended with white discharge and dryness, then she washes and prays. "Soon after birth" has no minimum limit in relation to time and it has a minimum in relation to what emerges, which is one gush.

2.6b Maximum of Lochia
However, if bleeding continues longer than sixty days, then she does ghusl anyway, the bleeding is considered as istihada, and she does the prayer and fasts and her husband can have sexual intercourse with her.

If the bleeding continues, she waits for sixty days, which it the maximum of its extent. If it stops after sixty, the matter is clear. If she continues to bleed after sixty, it is abnormal bleeding and she has a ghusl, prays and fasts and her husband can come to her.

Chapter Three: On the Purity of Water, Clothing and the Place of Prayer and What Can Be Worn When Doing the Prayer

This chapter clarifies the condition of purity of water, the precondition of purity of clothing, the precondition of the purity of the place and what clothes are permitted in the prayer.

3.1a Obligation of purity

When you do the prayer you are talking to your Lord. You must therefore prepare yourself for this by doing wudu' or ghusl if a ghusl is necessary.

Purity in the Shari’ah is a legal state which becomes obligatory in order to make the prayer permissible. The one who prays speaks intimately with his Lord. According to the hadith which Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) relates in the Muwatta, he must prepare for the prayer. The text of the Muwatta' is that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) came out to his Companions while they were praying and their voices were raised in the recitation. He said, "When you pray, you are speaking confidentially to your Lord. So look to what you confide to Him, and do not say the Holy Qur'an out loud so that others hear it." He must prepare for that conversation by having an attentive heart and humility, and must stand with respect before Him, seeking His protection. When he lacks that, he does not speak to Him and the term "conversation" is not valid for him. Nonetheless, it is true that he prays and must adopt the means for that by being pure of minor and major impurities.

3.1b Pure Unchanged Water
This must be done using pure water which is uncontaminated by any impurity.

Purification from impurities is achieved by pure water, i.e. that which is not mixed with what changes any of its three qualities: color, taste or smell, whether that change in its attributes is due to something either pure or impure. Thus if it is changed by rose water, it is not valid to use it for things like wudu' and ghusl.

3.1c Change in Color of Water by contact with earth

You cannot use water whose color has been changed by something mixed in with it whether that thing is pure or impure unless the change of color has been caused by something in the earth where the water is from such as salt deposits or mud or similar things.

It is a precondition that the water used for things like wudu' and ghusl has not been changed in its attributes by what is usually separate from it, except for earth with which it is in direct contact and to which it clings as when it lies in salty earth, sulfurous earth or fetid mud.

3.1d Rain Water
Any water coming from the sky or from springs or wells or the sea is all good, pure and purifies impurities.

These waters which originate from the sky are all pure in themselves and good for any use whatsoever, whether drinking or such things or acts of worship, like wudu', ghusl and removing impurities as long as the water remains in its original state and is unchanged anything which is normally separate from it.

3.1e Change in Color of Water

If the color of the water has been changed by something pure which has got into it, it remains pure but cannot be used for purification either in wudu' or ghusl or for removing impurities.

Meaning that water whose color has been changed with something pure, like water from pasta, is pure in itself but does not purify something else, and so it is not used for wudu' or other things like ghusl.

3.1f Change of Water through Impurity

Water that has been changed by something impure getting into it is not pure and cannot be used for purification purposes.
Water which has been changed through impurity, whether in color, taste or smell, and whether the water is little or a lot, it has substance or not, is no longer pure or purifying. It is not used either for normal things or for acts of worship.

3.1g A Small Amount of Impurity

A small amount of impurity makes a small amount of water impure even if there is no change in the water.

If an impurity falls into small amount of water, like the water prepared for wudu' or ghusl, even if it is something small and the impurity does not change it, it is not permitted to use it. The most famous position is that is pure, but it is disliked to use it when other water exists, provided that it has not been altered. If it has been changed, its purity absolutely no longer exists.

Shaikh ibn Juzayy (rahmatullahi alaihi) states that if there is a lot of water and it is not changed, then it remains pure. There is no specific definition of "a lot" in the Maliki School.

3.2 Amount of Water Used

3.2a Using a Small Amount of Water
It is Sunnah to use a small amount of water when washing provided you do it thoroughly. Using an excessive amount is extremism and innovation.

A small amount of water should be used as long as washing is done properly. Pouring while rubbing is recommended, i.e. a desirable aspect in the din. Using a lot of it, pouring it while using it is excess, i.e. increase in the din and innovation, i.e. something innovated which is contrary to the Sunnah and the path of the Salaf.

3.2b The amount used by the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam)

The Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) did wudu' with one mudd of water which is equivalent to [1 1/3 ratls] and he did ghusl with one sa'a which is four mudds measuring by his mudd.

He points out that it is established in the Sunnah that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did wudu' using a mudd, which is 1 1/3 ratls and he did ghusl with a sa' which is four mudds. So altogether it is 5 1/3 ratls. His aim is to inform us of the excellence of economy and abandoning profligacy and the amount which was enough for the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam).
3.3 Purity of the Place and Clothing

3.3a Purity of Place

It is obligatory for the place where you are going to do the prayer to be pure.

The purity of the place where the limbs of the one praying will touch is obligatory for the sake of the prayer, i.e. its purity for the sake of the prayer. Purity for other things, like dhikr is recommended.

3.3b Purity of Clothing

Your clothing must also be pure. It is said by some that the nature of the obligation referred to here is that of an absolute obligation [fard] and by others that it has the obligation of a confirmed Sunnah [Sunnah mu’akkada].

The purity of the garment of the one praying is obligatory provided it is remembered and he has the ability to achieve that. If someone intentionally prays in an impure garment when he is able to remove it, he must always repeat that prayer. If he prays in such a state out of forgetfulness or is unable is remove it, he repeats it if it is still within the time of the prayer. The time of Dhuhr extends until the yellowing of the sky, and Maghrib and 'Isha' extend through the entire night. It is said that it is Sunnah to remove the impurity, and both positions are known and acceptable. Based on the position that it is Sunnah, it is repeated at the time absolutely, whether that was intentional, or he was able to remove it, or out of forgetfulness or ignorance.

3.3c Places where it is forbidden to pray:

You should not do the prayer in the following places:

3.3c1 Camel places

in places where camels congregate,

It is disliked to pray in places where camels are kept when they come from water, even if it is safe from impurity and even if something pure is spread out and is prayed on it because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did not say that the reason was impurity so that it would be negated if it was negated.

3.3c2 The Middle of the Road or in the middle of the road,

It is disliked to pray in the middle of the road where you are unsure whether the odor of animals and urine will get on you. If you do pray there, it is recommended that you repeat it within the time. When someone prays there because the masjid is too crowded or he spreads something pure and prays on it or he is certain that it is pure, then there is no dislike.

3.3c3 On top of the Ka'ba

or on top of the Ka'ba,

It is prohibited to pray on top on the Ka'ba, based on the fact that it is necessary to face its building. The one who is above it cannot face the building. So if he prays an obligatory prayer on top of it, he must always repeat it because what is important is to face it.

3.3c4 Public Baths

or in public baths, a place which you are not certain whether it is pure or not.

It is disliked to pray in the baths. The reason for the dislike is the likelihood of impurity. If he is certain of its purity, then the dislike is negated and the prayer is permitted.

3.3c5 Rubbish Dumps

or on a rubbish heap
It is disliked to pray at a place where rubbish is thrown since one is not safe from impurity. If he is safe from impurity, then it is not disliked.

3.3c6 Slaughterhouses

or in a slaughter house,

It is disliked to pray in a place where animals are slaughtered if he is not safe from impurity. Otherwise, it is not disliked.

3.3c7 Graveyards

or in the graveyards

When the graveyard is a Muslim one, and there are no disinterred parts of the dead in the place of prayer, then it is permitted to pray there. If there are any parts of those buried in the place of prayer, then the judgment of the prayer there depends on the disagreement about and whether the human being becomes impure by death or not. If the dead person is not impure, and the person prays there deliberately, then it is disliked to pray there since there is uncertainty or certainty that there are parts of the dead person which would involve humiliation or walking on the grave. As for the prayer, it is not disliked in itself.
Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) disliked praying in the graveyards of the unbelievers because they are pits of the Fire, but if someone prays in them and is safe from impurity, his prayer is not invalid, even if he is not actually safe from praying on impurity.

3.3c8 Non-Muslim places of worship and places of worship of non-Muslims.

This designates churches, synagogues and fire temples of the Magians. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) disliked praying in them because of impurity from their feet, i.e. that is the custom in them. The dislike is inasmuch as he prays in it by choice, not when is compelled to that. Otherwise there is no dislike. There is no difference between the ruined or inhabited place.

3.3d Minimum Clothing in the Prayer for a man

The least clothing a man can do the prayer in is something which covers his 'awra (everything between his navel and his knees) such as a long shirt or a piece of cloth he can wrap round him.
This minimum of what does not involve sin and is adequate for what is desired of the one who prays is a garment is that which covers the private parts, be it a long shirt, cloak or trousers. A precondition for the cloak is that it is thick and not thin or transparent, i.e. the private parts should not be outlined or encompassed. If it is like that, it is disliked as long as the definition is not due to wind. Otherwise not. If it is transparent, then sometimes the private parts might appear through it without thinking about and then the prayer would be invalid. Sometimes it only appears by thinking about it, and it is judgment is like the person whose is doing something disliked and the prayer is valid.

However, it is disliked to do the prayer wearing something that does not cover the shoulders, but if this does happen the prayer need not be repeated.

It is disliked for a man to pray in a garment which leaves his shoulders completely uncovered when something else is available. If he prays and his shoulder-blades show when he is able to cover them, he does not have to repeat the prayer either in the time or after it.

3.4 Women's Dress and Prostration
3.4a A Woman's minimum dress

The least clothing a woman can do the prayer in is a thick full-length garment covering her whole body including the top of the feet and something covering her head.

The minimum of adequate clothing for a free adult women in the prayer consists of two things: one is a thick or ample full-length garment which does not define the figure nor is transparent. This is either hasif, which means thick, or khasif, which a full complete covering which covers the top of the feet. It also means what does not define figure nor is transparent because what he means by the minimum is that the prayer is that with which the prayer does not have to repeated in the time or outside of it.

The second item is a head-covering which covers her hair and her neck. Part of its precondition is that it is thick. In short, the fiqh is it is obliged for a woman to cover all her body in the prayer, even the soles of her feet based on the statement of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi), "It is not permitted for a woman to show anything in the prayer except her face and palms."

A woman should touch the ground with the palms of her hands in sujud just as a man does.
The woman touches the earth with her palms in prostration. It is mentioned here because it might be imagined from his words about covering the top and soles of her feet that she covers her palms because each of them are part of the person who prays who is obliged to cover the entire body. Therefore this idea which is mentioned here must be eliminated.

Chapter Four: On How to do Wudu' and what is Fard and Sunnah in it – How to Clean Yourself after Going to the Lavatory with Water [Istinja'] or with Stones and Other Things [Istijmar]

4.1 Istinja' [Cleansing with water in the lavatory]

Istinja' is to wash the place of filth with water, derived from naja, to rescue, meaning to cut. It is as if the one who does istinja' removes something offensive from himself. Istijmar is to use small stones to remove offensive matter on the place.

Cleaning yourself with water after going to the lavatory should not be considered a part of wudu', being neither one of its Sunnah nor its fard aspects.

It is neither obligatory, Sunnah or recommended to connect wudu' to istinja'. It is a separate form of worship which is distinct from wudu' in time and place. It is not considered one of the sunan nor one of the obligations nor one of the merits of wudu'. Its aim is to clean the place in particular. It is recommended that it precede wudu'. If he delays it, then he must be careful about touching his penis which would break his wudu'.

4.1b Its Purpose

However, you have to do it in order that all impurities are removed before doing the prayer. You do not have to make a special intention before doing it.

Istinja' is to remove impurity and so it is obligatory that it be done with water, as istijmar is done with stones so that he does not pray with impurity on the body. Part of what indicates that it is part of removing impurity is that it is enough that he remove it without intention.
4.1c Impurity on Clothes

The same thing applies when washing impurities off clothes.

Cleaning impurity from clothes does not require an intention.

4.1d Description of Istinja'

The way you wash yourself after going to the lavatory (istinja') is first of all to wash your hand and then the end of the penis where the urine comes out. You then wipe any impurity from your anus using hard earth or other things or your left hand, which you should then wipe on the ground and wash.

The full description of istinja' is that after he has removed anything by lightly using his fingers, he takes his penis in his left hand with his index finger and thumb and then lightly pulls it from the bottom to the glans. Then he wipes any impurity from his anus with clods or anything which can be used for istijmar. Then he washes his left hand fearing that any unpleasant smell will remain on it. Then he does istinja' with water, but he first washes the place of urine before the place of feces so that his hand will not be impure. Combining istijmar and istinja' with water is better since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did that.
4.1e Further Cleaning

After this you wash your anus by pouring water over it which you continue to do while at the same time relaxing it a little, rubbing the area thoroughly with the left hand until it is clean.

You continue to pour water without letting up because it is more helpful in removing filth. You relax the anus a little because there are folds in it. When water touches it, it contracts. When it is relaxed, it can be washed. The place is rubbed with the hand while the water is being poured until it is cleaned of noxiousness. It is enough that he thinks it probable if he is able to do that. If he is not able to do it because his hand is cut off or short, he delegates someone who is able to touch that place, be it wife or slavegirl. He does not do wudu' when he leaves that without washing it.

4.1f What is unnecessary

You do not have to wash the inside of either of the two openings.

It is not recommended or Sunnah to wash inside the openings. For a man, there is only one opening, because the urethra has no opening.
4.1g In case of breaking wind

You should not do istinja' on account having broken wind.

It is forbidden to do this cleansing on account of wind. The basis for that is the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), "The one who does istinja' on account of wind is not one of us." There is no text which clarifies whether the prohibition is one of prohibition or one of dislike. The hadith can imply either.

4.2 Istijmar [Cleansing with stones]

4.2a Number of stones

When doing istijmar it is sufficient to use only three stones provided that the last one comes out clean, Istijmar is done with three stones. When the last one comes out clear of noxiousness, then that is adequate, even if water is available. One might conclude from his words that istijmar using less than three stones is not permissible. But the well-known position is that it is based on cleanliness, even if it that is achieved with only one stone.

Shaikh ibn Juzayy (rahmatullahi alaihi) points out that it should be an odd number.

4.2b Water is better

but using water is more purifying, pleasanter and preferred by the men of knowledge ['ulama'].

It is understood from his words that the stones are enough, even if water exists, out of the fear that someone might imagine that that is the same as using water and that they are equally excellent. That possibility is eliminated by his words that water is "more purifying" because neither substance nor trace remains when it is used while the stone only removes the actual thing, and water is better because it removes doubt. It is preferred by scholars, with the exception of Shaikh ibn al-Musayyab (rahmatullahi alaihi) who said that using water is the action of women and implies that it is part of their obligation, i.e. specific to them and they are not allowed to use stones, as it is specifically necessary in menstruation, lochia and sperm, i.e. in respect of the one obliged to do tayammum because of illness or when he does not have enough water for ghusl, but does have enough water to remove the impurity. Water is also specifically necessary when a lot spreads out from the orifice when it is more than is customary.

If someone has neither urinated nor defecated but is doing wudu' because he has broken it in some other way or has been asleep or done something else which makes it necessary for him to do wudu' he should wash his hands before he puts them into whatever water container he is using.

If someone has not urinated nor defecated or anything else which would require istinja', like madhy and Wady, and wants to do wudu' because he has broken wind or done something else which obliges wudu', like apostasy, uncertainty about impurity, becoming a Rafidite [extreme Shi'ite], and other reasons like sleep, intoxication and unconsciousness, in following the Sunnah, he must wash his hands first even if there is nothing on them which demands washing them as when they are both clean. Washing the hands must absolutely be done whether he does istinja' or anything else.

4.4 Sunnah’s and obligations of Wudu'

4.4aWashing the hands to the Wrists

The Sunnah’s of wudu' include: washing the hands before putting them into the water container,
One of the Sunnah’s of wudu' is to wash the hands to the wrists before putting them in the vessel. The Sunnah of washing the hands before putting them into the vessel is when there is little water and it is possible that it might be used up. Otherwise it is not Sunnah to wash them before putting them in the vessel.

4.4b Rinsing the mouth

rinsing the mouth,

Rinsing the mouth is a Sunnah: it is to move water about in the mouth and spit it out. If he swallows it, it is not the Sunnah. Also if he opens his mouth so the water runs into it, it is not the Sunnah. The water must be moved about in the mouth and then spat out.

4.4c Sniffing up water

sniffing up water into the nose and blowing it out again,

One of the Sunnah’s is to put water in the nostril by inhaling and if water is put up the nose without sniffing, that is not the Sunnah. To blow it out, he puts his forefinger and thumb of his left on his nose and blows out the water from the nostrils using his breath.
4.4d Wiping the ears and wiping the ears. These are all Sunnah actions,

It is a Sunnah of wudu' to wipe the outside and inside of the ears. The outside is what is next to the head and the inside is what is beside the face.

4.5 Obligatory Elements of Wudu'

the rest being obligatory [fard].

The rest of wudu' is obligatory. This sentence is unclear since the rest of wudu' includes aspects which are Sunnah, like repeating the wiping of the head, renewing the water for the ears, and the correct sequence, and that which is recommended, like saying the basmala at the beginning. The answer to that is that his words, 'the rest being obligatory' means the rest of the limbs which are washed and wiped independently since it is obligatory to wipe the head, and repeating it is dependent on it. The rest of the limbs designates independent obligations. Renewing the water and the correct sequence are not limbs. They are not connected to limbs, but to other than limbs because renewal is connected to water and proper sequence is connected to washing.

4.6 How to do wudu'
4.6a Basmala

Some of the men of knowledge ['ulama'] say that when you go to do wudu' because you have been asleep or for any other reason you should begin by saying "bismillah" [in the name of Allah], whereas others say that this is not part of doing wudu' correctly.

When you go to do wudu' for some reason which obliges it, like sleep or something else, some scholars say that one begins with the basmala. It is said that he says, "In the name of Allah, the Merciful, the Compassionate," and it is said that he simply says, "Bismillah." Some scholars do not think that beginning with the basmala was part of the known business of the Salaf, and indeed think that it is reprehensible, i.e. disliked.

It is evident from the words of the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) when he ascribes each position to 'some' that Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) did not take any stand regarding the basmala. There are three transmissions from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) about the basmala. One is that it is recommended, and that is what was stated by Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi), and is well-known because of the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), "There is no wudu' for the one who does not mention Allah." The hadith appears to imply the obligation, and that is what was said by Imam Ahmad (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh Ishaq ibn Rahawayh (rahmatullahi alaihi), who was a mujtahid. The second is that it is reprehensible, saying, "Is he slaughtering so that he needs to say the basmala?" The third is that there is a choice and then the judgment is that it is permitted.

4.6b Where to place the water vessel

It is easier to get at the water if the container is on your right hand side.

It is recommended for the person doing wudu' to put the vessel from which he does wudu' to his right because it is easier to take water. If the vessel is open, he can scoop from it. If the opening is narrow, it is better to have it on his left because that is easier.

4.6c Washing the hands three times

You begin by washing your hands three times before putting them into the water container,

After putting the open vessel to the right and the narrow one to the left, to follow the Sunnah, he begins by washing his hands to the wrists three times before putting them into the vessel with a separate intention.
4.6d If you have gone to the lavatory except if you have just urinated or defecated in which case you wash off any traces of impurity before starting to do wudu'.

What precedes is about the one who has not urinated or defecated. If he has urinated or defecated, then that person washes off the urine or feces from himself before doing wudu'. Then he does wudu', meaning the linguistic washing of the hands. Thus his first words about washing the hands before putting them in the vessel is about the one who has not urinated or defecated. If he has urinated or defecated, then he washes the place of urine or other filth and then does wudu', i.e., washes his hands, which is the first of the Sunnah’s of wudu'.

4.6f Rinsing the Mouth

You put your hand into the container, take some water, and rinse your mouth out three times, using either one handful or three as you wish.

You put your hand in the vessel if it is possible. Otherwise you pour the water and take enough water without being extravagant. You can rinse the mouth three times using one handful of water.
The first handful is Sunnah and each of the remaining two is recommended. If he wishes, he rinses the mouth three times with three handfuls, and the second form is better than the first form.

4.6g Rubbing the Teeth

It is also good to rub your teeth with your finger.

It is recommended to clean the teeth with the finger before doing wudu'.

4.6h Sniffing Water up the Nose

You then sniff up water into your nose

For the correct sequence only, so after he has rinsed the mouth, he sniffs water up his nose. Note that he says, "into the nose" because there might be sniffing without in going into the nose. Perhaps he mentioned that to seek the blessing of the actual words of the hadith. Sahih Muslim says, "He sniffs water up his nose."

4.6i Blowing water out the nose

and blow it out again three times, holding your nose as you do when you blow it.
What is accepted is that it is Sunnah on its own, and the description of blowing out is to put the finger and thumb of the left hand on the nose and to bring the water with the air of the nose as he does when he blows the nose. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) disliked blowing it like a donkey because of the prohibition against that in the hadith.

4.6j Number of Times

It is all right if you do this rinsing and sniffing less than three times. It is also all right to do all of this with only one handful of water but three handfuls is preferable.

Less than three is adequate for rinsing and sniffing. The minimum is achieved by one or two times. The evidence for what he mentioned is that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did wudu' doing each action once and each action twice. The person doing wudu' can also combine rinsing and sniffing in the same handful. It has two forms. One is that he only moves to sniffing after he finishes rinsing and the second is that he rinses and sniffs and then rinses and sniffs and then rinses and sniffs. The first is better because it is free of any reversal of order in worship.

4.6k Washing the Face: Wetting the Face
Then you take water, either with both hands together or with the right hand bringing the hands together afterwards, and using both hands pour the water onto the face.

After finishing rinsing the mouth and sniffing, then he takes water with both hands if he wishes, or with the right hand and then puts it onto both hands and brings the water to his face. It appears that moving the water to the face is a precondition. This is according to Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi), Shaikh ibn Majishun (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh Sahnun (rahmatullahi alaihi). The well-known position is that it is not a precondition to move it. What is desired is to bring water to the surface of the face however that happens, even by a water-spout.

4.6l Actual Washing of the Face

Then using both hands you wash the face

He applies water to the face without splashing the face with water as women and most men do it. He washes it with the hands. This means that washing connected to moving the water to the washed limb is a precondition of the recommendation in wudu'. He also does that himself, even if he entrusts someone else to do the wudu' when that is not necessary. It does not satisfy the requirement because that is one of the actions of the arrogant. Rubbing is also obligatory, and the well-known position is that rubbing is obligatory in itself, not simply bringing the water to the face.

4.6m Area covered: Top of forehead

from the top of the forehead - which is marked by the hairline -

The Sunnah in washing is to begin to wash the limbs from their top. If he begins from the bottom, it is allowed, but what he has done is disliked. He explains that what is meant by forehead is what touches the earth in prostration and the right and left sides of the brow, which is next to the normal roots of the hair. One does not take into consideration thick hair or baldness. He includes the thick hair in washing but not the place of baldness. From 'hairline' it is understood that part of the head must be washed to achieve the obligation.

4.6n End of the chin

to the end of the chin,

The face has both length and width. The beginning of its length is the normal roots of the hair and the end is to the end of the chin, which is point of the beard, and the hairs on the bottom lip. There is no dispute about it being included in the washing. Its width is from ear to ear.

4.6o Covering the entire face covering the whole area of the face from the jawbones to where the ears start, making sure you include the eye sockets, any wrinkles on the forehead and the bottom of the nose.

He must wash the entire face, rubbing around it, including the temples between the ears and the eyes. The well-known position is that it is included in washing. You run your hand over what is hidden inside the sockets and inside the eyes. That must be washed. Also the hand must pass over the wrinkles on the brow, which is the place of prostration. The hand must be passed over the bottom of the nostrils. This refers to the outside out and not the inside. He must wash the outside of his lips if they are not covered while washing the face.

4.6p Doing it three times

You wash your face in this way three times taking water to it.
The face is washed in this manner three times from the beginning of the limb to the end and rubbing it.

4.6q The Beard

When washing your face you rub the beard with both palms to make sure that water gets into it since hair has a natural tendency to repel water. You do not have to put your fingers through your beard when doing wudu' according to Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi). You merely rub your hands over your beard down to the end.

When the beard is thick, when washing the face, rub the hair of the thick beard with the palms in order to make the water enter it. If he does not do this, he will not do all of the outside of the hair because the hair repels water which gets on it unless it is moved by the hands. The well-known position from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) is that one does not have to put your fingers through the hair of a thick beard when doing wudu'. Indeed the apparent text of the Mudawwana is that it is disliked in the case of a thick beard. As for the sparse beard through which the skin shows, he must put his fingers through it when doing wudu'. It is obligatory to absolutely to do this to make water penetrate the hair of the thin or thick beard in washing. The hands must move the water to the end of the beard.
4.6r The Second Obligation: the Hands

You then wash your right hand and forearm three times, or twice, pouring water over it and rubbing it with the left hand, making the fingers of one hand go between the fingers of the other. Then you wash the left hand and forearm in the same way.

Then first after finishing washing the face, which is the first obligation, he moves on to the second obligation, which is the hands. He washes the right hand first because it is recommended without dispute to begin with the right in things before the left since it is sound that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "When you do wudu' begin with the right." It is done three or two times. There is a choice in the number times the hands are washed, but there is no choice in washing the face and feet. The reason for that is that it is established that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) washed his face three times and his hands twice each.

He pours water on the right hand and rubs it with the left hand. The rubbing must be connected to pouring the water. He puts the fingers of one hand between those of the other hand. He inserts them through the gaps from the top and not the bottom because otherwise that would entail entwining which is disliked. His words can imply either obligation or recommendation, but the first is the well-known position. The basis for that is the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), "When you do wudu', put water between your fingers and your toes." However, the command is obligatory for the hands and recommended for the feet. Then he washes the left hand in the same manner.

When washing the arms you go right up to the elbow, including it in what you wash. It has also been said that you only wash up to the elbows and that it is not necessary to include them but it is better to include them in order to remain on the safe side.

When doing wudu' you wash up to the elbows and include the elbows in the washing. It is possible to include them or not in the washing. The most famous position is that it is obligatory to include them. He clearly stated that here. This is taking the ayat ("and your hands to the elbows,"") to mean "with". Those who say that the washing ends at the elbows take the ayat to actually mean " up to". The third position is that it is recommended to include them in the washing to remove the difficulty of definition because it is difficult to define the end which the washing reaches.

4.6t The Third Obligation: Wiping the Head
Then you take water with your right hand, pour it onto the left hand and using both hands you wipe over your head, beginning at the hairline at the front of the head. You place fingertips together with the thumbs at the temples then wipe over your head with both hands as far as the hairline at the back of the neck. Then you bring them back to the place you started, bringing your thumbs up behind your ears back to the temples. Whatever way you wipe your head is acceptable as long as the whole head is covered but the way mentioned is better. If you were to put both hands into the container, then lift them out wet, and wipe over your head with them this is also acceptable.

After finishing the second obligation, he moves to the third obligation, and takes the water with the right hand and pours it onto the left palm and wipes his entire head with his hands. It is recommended to start at the front of the head or the normal hairline whether the hair is thick or he is bald. The fingers are put together except for the thumbs which are put at each of the temples. Then the head is wiped to the back of the neck, which is the bottom of the skull and then it is brought back to the place from where you started. It is recommended to bring the thumbs behind the ears and back to the temples which must be wiped along with the rest of the face including the hair. This manner of wiping is not obligatory, but the basis is to achieve a comprehensive washing and to completely wipe the head and hair.
If he put his hands in the vessel, that is another way of taking water for wiping the head. So if he brings his hands out wet after putting them in the water, whether it is in a vessel or not and then wipes his head, that is enough according to Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) without dislike and it is recommended according to Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi).

Then you pour water over your index fingers and thumbs or if you like you dip them into the water and with them you wipe the outside and inside of both ears.

After wiping the head, then the ears are wiped by taking water in the right hand and pouring it over the index finger and thumb of the left hand and the adjoining part of the left palm and he pours it on the same of the right hand. Then he wipes the outside and inside of both ears. If he wishes, he can dip the index fingers and thumbs in the water and then wipe with them. The first manner comes from Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) and the second from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi).

4.6v Women's Action in Wiping
Women wipe their heads and ears in the same way but they have to wipe over any hair that is hanging loose and cannot wipe over any head covering.

The woman wipes her head and ears like the man in amount and description by the words of the Almighty, "Wipe your heads," and women are the sisters of men. She wipes over any hair hanging loose. What is well-known is the obligation to wipe over any of man's hair which is hanging on the two sides since it will fall on the place of the obligation or on the face. As for that which actually extends over the place of the obligation, it is agreed that it is obligatory to wipe it.

The 'head covering' is a cloth by which a woman binds her hair to protect it from the dust. She also does not wipe over other similar hair coverings when they are put next to the head because all of that is a barrier since it does not let her wipe what must be wiped. Otherwise it is permitted as Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) wiped over his turban, which is by necessity. Imam Ahmad (rahmatullahi alaihi) disagreed and said that there is choice in that. It is affirmed that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) wiped the forelock at the front of the head first and finished by wiping over the turban.

Wiping under plaits
They should put their hands under their plaits when bringing their hands back to the front.

After the woman begins the wiping from the front of her head and reaches the back where the hair hangs down, she must put her hands under the plaits of hair to complete it, and it is Sunnah to bring the hands back if there is any moisture left on them. It is clear from his words that she does not have to undo her plaits because of the difficulty involved. Some people limit that to what is tied with a thread or two. When there are a lot of threads, it must be undone.

4.6w Fourth Obligation: the Feet

After he finishes wiping the ears, he begins the fourth obligation, i.e. washing the feet. It is said that its obligation is wiping. The reason for the disagreement has to do with how the words of the Almighty are read and whether "your feet" is in the genitive or accusative. If it is accusative, then the feet are added to "face and hands" and there is no doubt that its obligation is washing, and so this judgment is given by the conjunction. If it is genitive, then it is joined to "head" and it has the judgment of what it is joined to, which is wiping, and so they are wiped. They are wiped if he is wearing leather socks. This is deduced from what the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did since it is confirmed that he only wiped his feet when he was wearing leather socks. The multiple transmissions from him (alaihi salat wa salam) is that he always washed them when he was not wearing leather socks.

4.6x The Manner of Washing the Feet

You then wash both feet pouring water onto your right foot with your right hand and rubbing it with your left hand little by little. You do this thoroughly three times.

The description of washing the feet is that water is poured with the right hand onto the right foot which is rubbed with the left hand. Rubbing one foot with the other is not enough. This is the position of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi).

Its washing is recommended to be completed by water and rubbing three times and should not be more than that. The washing of the feet is limited to three times, which is one of two well-known positions about whether the fourth is disliked or forbidden. The other statement is that washing the feet has no limitation. What is desired is to cleanse, even that is more than three. It is also well-known.

4.6y The Toes and Heels

If you want you can put your fingers between your toes. If you do not do this it does not matter, but doing it makes you feel more satisfied. You then rub your heels and ankles and any part which water does not get to easily due to hardening or cracking of the skin. You should make sure you do this well, pouring water on the area with your hand because there is a hadith which says, "Woe to the heels from the Fire." The "heel" of a thing is its extremity or end. You then do the same thing with the left foot.

If he wishes, he puts water between his toes while washing them, and if he wishes, he leaves that, but it is better to put them between the toes and no doubt remains when it is done.

Rubbing the heels can mean either the obligation or recommendation. What is meant is the first. He must rub all those places where the water does not immediately reach due to hardness or cracks as well as wrinkles in loose skin. The threat regarding "Woe to the heels from the Fire" does not only apply to heels, but to every part of the limbs of wudu'. The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said that about when he saw that the heels had no water on them and had not been wiped with water. The whole process is repeated with the left foot. He (alaihi salat wa salam) did not state the limit of washing, and it extends to the ankles. The best known position is to include them in the washing.

Washing each of the limbs three times is not an actual command. You can do it less but three is the most you should do. If you can do it thoroughly with less than that it is acceptable as long as you do not leave anything out. Not everyone is the same in the amount of water they require to do wudu' thoroughly.

There is no actual definition that it is not adequate if the limbs are not washed in wudu' three times each. Three is the limit of what can be done, and no more than three. Shaikh ibn Bashir (rahmatullahi alaihi) transmits the consensus that the fourth time is forbidden. The story of the consensus of its prohibition is not established because of the existence of the statement that it is disliked. However prohibition can include what is disliked. The basis in this is that it is related that a bedouin asked the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) about wudu' and he showed him three times each. It is clear that he did wudu' in his presence and then said, "This is how wudu' is." Therefore anyone who does more than this has acted badly, transgressed and done wrong. If it is done thoroughly with less than that, it is allowed. The maximum is specified, but not the minimum since it is contained in one and two and so its state is known and there is no need to define it.

Not all people are the same in doing that washing thoroughly. If someone does not do it thoroughly with one time, then it is not allowed and specified in respect of him that which will achieve it.
If that is only complete with two, then he intends the obligation by them, and the third is excellence. If it is only thorough with three, then the obligation is intended by it and the recommendation removes what is more. It is clear that the description of wudu' contains obligations, Sunnah's and virtues and the person is encouraged to perform them in the manner by which none of them is lacking.

4.7 The reward for performing wudu'

The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), said, "Anyone who does wudu' and does it well and then raises his eyes to the sky and says, 'I bear witness that there is no god but Allah alone, without any partner and I bear witness that Muhammad is His slave and Messenger,' will have the eight gates of the Garden opened for him and he can enter by any of them he chooses."

47a What to say afterwards

Some of the 'ulama' recommend saying when you finish wudu', "O Allah, make me one of those who turn back to You and make me one of those who purify themselves."

ALLAHUMMA IJA'ALNI MINA'T-TAWWABIN WA'JA'ALNI MINA'L-MUTATAHHIRIN
Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that it is recommended to say this. The 'tawwabin' are those who have committed wrong actions and then repented and purified themselves of the wrong actions.

4.8 Purpose of Wudu'

4.8a Aim

You must do wudu' realizing that you are doing it for Allah azza wa jall as He has ordered you to do, hoping that it will be accepted and that you will get the reward for it and that it will purify you of your wrong actions.

Scholars say that the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) did not speak about the intention (niyya) for wudu' because he did not say that he makes the intention to perform wudu' which is an obligation by agreement with Shaikh ibn Rushd (rahmatullahi alaihi) because he did not recall any disagreement about its being obligatory for wudu'. That is why the agreement is related about its being obligatory and in the soundest position with Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi). Opposite it there is a text on wudu' from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) about it not being obligatory. Then they disagree about whether it can be deduced from his words or not. Some say that he does not speak about intention in the Risala at all and some of that say that it is deduced from his words "he must", meaning the person doing wudu' must be doing wudu' sincerely for Allah azza wa jall, not for showing off or reputation. That is because sincerity is commanded in the words of the Almighty, "They were only commanded to worship Allah making the din sincerely His." Sincerity is that a person intend the Worshipped by the act of worship without actual articulation. The focus of the intention is the heart. Part of its precondition is that it accompany the first obligation in wudu', which is washing the face. If it precedes it by a lot, then it is agreed that it is not permissible. There are two accepted positions about it preceding by a little. The best known is that it is allowed. They agreed that if he makes the intention after washing the face, then it is not adequate. The basis for the intention is that it accompany it. If it happens that he overlooks it, he is forgiven.

When wudu' is done sincerely with the intention of obeying Allah azza wa jall's command and secure in himself that the action is done freely, he should hope that it will be accepted and he will be purified of wrong actions based on what is in Muslim where the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "When a Muslim (or a believer) does wudu' and washes his face, then every wrong action at which his eye looked leaves from his face with the water - or with the last drop of water."

4.8b Wudu' as preparation
You should feel in yourself that it is a preparation and a cleansing for speaking to your Lord and standing in front of Him to carry out the acts He has made obligatory on you with humility in your bowing and prostration.

He should know that wudu' is a preparation and a cleansing from wrong actions and dirt. When the legally responsible person wants to perform wudu', he does it sincerely for Allah azza wa jall desiring that Allah azza wa jall will accept it because he is purifying himself and this is in order to prepare to converse with his Lord. Conversing with the Lord demands sincerity of heart and devotion of inner consciousness to His remembrance. It is also in order to perform the obligation Allah azza wa jall has imposed on him. Bowing and prostration are specifically mentioned as well as humility in other actions because total humility is meant and because the closest a slave is to his Lord is when he is in prostration.

You should do wudu' with a certainty of this, taking good care to do it properly for no action is complete without the right intention behind it.
You should be aware that wudu' is preparation for intimate conversation with your Lord in order to make reverence and esteem firm in your heart. That will result in doing wudu' with due humility to your Master. This reverence and esteem will result in doing wudu' in a manner which is mindful of avoiding imperfections and whisperings. Actions are only according to intentions. It is enough that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Every man has what he intends."

Chapter Five: Ghusl

Evidence for it and its preconditions were already mentioned in the chapter on wudu'. The description of ghusl contains obligations, Sunnah’s and meritorious elements. The author (rahmatullahi alaihi) did not clarify which are the obligations and so we will make that clear. There are five obligations:

Covering the entire body with water;

the intention;

lack of interruption;
rubbing;

and making water penetrate the hair, whether it is thick or there are thick plaits.

There are five Sunnah’s of ghusl:

washing the hands to the wrists first:

rinsing the mouth;

sniffing water up the nose;

blowing water out the nose;

and wiping the ear holes. He wipes whatever he can wash of them. The description of the washing is to take water in the hands and tilting his head so the water can reach the inside of his ears. He does not pour water into his ears because that would entail harm.

Its meritorious parts are seven:

the basmala;

beginning by removing filth from the body;
washing all the limbs of wudu' before the bath;

beginning with the upper body before the lower;

beginning with the right side before the left;

doing the head three times;

and using a small amount of water while doing ghusl completely.

There are five disliked things:

reversing the order of the actions;

pouring a lot of water;

repeating the washing after having done it fully;

doing ghusl in the lavatory or in a filthy place;

and to purify oneself while showing the private parts.

Ghusl is washing which covers the entire surface of the body accompanied with rubbing because the reality of ghusl consists of both.
5.1 Things which make ghusl obligatory

5.1a Janaba

You must do ghusl because of janaba

Janaba results from two things: ejaculation and the disappearance of the end of the penis in the vagina.

5.1b End of menstruation or lochia or at the end of menstruation and the bleeding after childbirth.

At the cessation of the bleeding of both states, in both attribute and judgment. Some of them say that it is attribute rather than judgment which was already discussed. You are aware of the similarity in the attribute, but not in the judgment. The attribute is not specific to the obligation.

5.2 Ghusl with or without wudu'

5.2a Ghusl without wudu'
If, when doing ghusl, you do not include wudu' it is acceptable

If the person who is purifying himself or herself from janaba, menstruation and lochia confines himself to ghusl without wudu', the ghusl satisfies wudu' and so he can pray with that ghusl without doing wudu' if he has not touched his penis since the minor impurity is included in the major impurity. This is when ghusl is obligatory, like the ghusl for janaba. As for the ghusl which is Sunnah or recommended, it does not satisfy wudu'.

5.2b What to do first but it is better to do wudu', having begun by washing off any impurity from the private parts or the rest of the body.

It is better for the one who is purifying himself from janaba and the like to perform two meritorious actions, one of which is to begin by washing the private parts or any filth on his body. If he washes it with the intention of janaba and removes the filth, that is enough for him in the well-known position. He does not have to repeat his ghusl a second time. If he washes with the intention of removing the impurity and then does not wash it afterwards, it is not enough by agreement. The second meritorious action is wudu' before washing his body to honor the limbs of wudu'.
5.2c Doing Wudu' First

After this you do wudu' as you would for the prayer.

Based on his previous statement that it is better for him to do wudu', which linguistically is washing the hands to the wrists. So he completes the wudu' which he would do for the prayer. This would necessitate that he washes off any filth on the body or private parts before washing his hands. That is not the case since washing the hands is put first. So it is better to say that he speaks first about the judgment, and secondly about the actual description.

Another matter remains. It is whether he repeats washing the hands a second time after washing his penis without the intention of janaba or not. The hadith of Maymuna (radhi’Allahu anha) demands that after the filth is removed, the hands are not washed again. That is the definite position of some people, but most of the commentators of Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi) say that he washes them again.

If you want to, you can include your feet, or if you want, you can leave them to the end.
His words show that he can choose between washing his feet before washing his body or delay that. Some of them therefore say that he can choose between washing his feet before or later. The well-known statement is that he washes his feet before absolutely whether the place where he washing is clean of filth or not. The evidence for the accepted position is in the Muwatta' that "whenever the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) performed ghusl for janaba, he would begin by washing his hands, and then did wudu' as for the prayer. "So it is clear that he (alaihi salat wa salam) did a full wudu', which is the school of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Imam Shafi'i (rahmatullahi alaihi). Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it is the well-known position. It is said that he can absolutely delay washing them whether the place is clean or not. The position about delaying them is more evident than the well-known position based on what is in the two Sahih collections that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) used to delay washing his feet to the end of his washing and then he would wash them.

5.3 Description of Wudu'

5.3a Putting the hands in the vessel

Then you immerse your hands completely in the water container, take them out without holding any water in them, and rub the roots of your hair with your fingertips.
After he has finished wudu', he puts his hands in the vessel if it is open. If it is closed, he pours the water on them. He takes them out uncupped without any actual water other than the traces of the water and he rubs the roots of the head, beginning from the back of the skull. There are two benefits in rubbing in fiqh: the speed of making water reach the skin, and medicinal, which is that it prepares the head for the water so that it will not be harmed when the water is poured on it afterwards since the pores of the skin will be closed.

5.3b Three handfuls of water

You then take out three handfuls of water washing your head thoroughly with each one.

After finishing rubbing the roots of head, water is scooped on the head three times while rubbing his head with them. The entire head must be covered with each of the three handfuls and there must not be less than three, even if it is all covered with one and does his separate parts with it. If three is not enough, he does more until it is covered.

5.3c Women's hair
Women do the same as this. They gather up their hair and do not have to undo their plaits.

The woman washes filth off and does wudu' first and wets the roots of the hair as a man does. She gathers up and holds her hair and it is neither obligatory or recommended in the ghusl for janaba or menstruation for her to undo her plaits. The evidence for what he said is in Sahih Muslim where Umm Salama (radhi’Allahu anha) said, "Rasulullah, I am a woman who keeps her hair closely plaited. Do I have to undo it for ghusl after sexual defilement?" He (alaihi salat wa salam) replied, "It is enough for you to throw three handfuls over your head and then pour the water over yourself. Then you will be purified." It is an argument for the one who says that rubbing is not a precondition because the pouring washes away. As the woman is not obliged to undo her plaits, she is not obliged to remove her ring, even if it is tight, or her bracelets, nor is it obligatory for a man to remove a permissible ring, even if it is tight.

You then pour water over your right side, then over the left, rubbing the body with both hands immediately the water has been poured so that the whole body is covered.
After washing his head, he begins to wash his body by washing the entire right side beginning from the top and then does the same with the left side. It is obligatory to rub it in the well-known position. From what he says it appears that he does not rub after pouring water on the right side until water is poured on the left side. When water is poured on the left side, he rubs both sides. Something similar is stated in Tahqiq al-Mabani. It is clear that he rubs the right side before pouring on the left side. That is how you find it elsewhere. He rubs with both hands if that is possible. If it is not possible, he delegates someone else to do to do the rubbing. The area between the navel and knees can only be rubbed by someone who can touch that directly - a wife or slavegirl. If he does not find anyone to do that, it is enough to pour the water over his body without rubbing. If he delegates someone when it is not necessary, that is not allowed in the well-known position. The rubbing should be done after the water has been poured, and that is evident.

5.3e Covering the entire body

If you have any doubt about water reaching any part of your body you pour water over it again,

The water must cover all the body to discharge the responsibility and it is only satisfied when he is certain. If there is any doubt about whether or not the water has reached the limbs of the person performing the bathing, then he is obliged to pour water over himself again, and it is not enough to wash it with water still on his body.

5.3f Rubbing

rubbing with your hand until you are certain every part of your body has been covered.

There must be rubbing or whatever takes its place if that is impossible. It is like that when he is unsure about whether or not he has rubbed a place on his body. He takes water again and rubs it until he is certain of that. It is enough that he thinks it probable, differing from those who say that it is not enough. If it is enough to make the water reach the skin, which is agreed upon, it is better to carry out the rubbing which is disputed. He must repeat until he is sure that his entire body has been covered.

5.3g Inaccessible areas

You must make sure that you include the inside of the navel, under your chin, that you put your fingers right through your beard, that you rub under your armpits, between your buttocks and thighs, behind your knees, not forgetting the heels and the soles of your feet. You also make sure you rub between each finger.
The water and rubbing must include all these areas, the neck/throat and that which is under the beard, putting the fingers through the hair of the beard. The hair of the head is not mentioned because it was already dealt with, and other hair must be washed as well, like the eyebrows, eyelashes, mustache, armpits and pubic region. Inside the navel must be washed, which is a place where dirt gathers, between the buttocks which must be relaxed so that water reaches the folds of the anus, but not inside the anus. Also inside the thighs, which is between the anus and penis, behind the knees, and the soles of the feet. It is obligatory to put water between the fingers which would have been covered a prior wudu'. Otherwise it is done in ghusl. He does not mention things which are far from water, like the lines of the brow and hollows of the outside eyelids and under the nostrils and other places since that was covered in wudu'.

If you have delayed washing your feet, you wash them last, thereby completing both your ghusl and your wudu'.

If they were not washed first, then they are washed, completing the obligatory ghusl and recommended wudu'. If he delayed washing the feet in wudu', he washes them with the intention of wudu' and ghusl.
5.4 Avoiding touching the penis:

5.4a After the ghusl

You should be careful not to touch your penis with the inside of your hand when rubbing your body but if you do, having already completed your ghusl, you have to do wudu' again.

When he does wudu' on account of janaba after washing the uncleanness from his private parts with the intention of removing janaba, he should be careful about touching the penis. It is mentioned because it is the most common of several things which break wudu'. Wudu' is only obliged by touching the penis with the inside of the hand. It appears from this that wudu' is not obliged for touching the penis unless it is done with the inside of the hand. That is the position of Imam Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi). The school of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) is that wudu' is obliged for touching the penis with the inside of the hand or the fingers. In the Mukhtasar of Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi), he adds "or by the sides of the fingers". If you touch the penis deliberately or forgetfully and you have finished wudu', then wudu' must be repeated if you want to pray. Otherwise it is not necessary to repeat it until you wish to pray. as is the case with other ritual impurities. It is necessary to have an intention to repeat wudu' if he wants to pray, because his major impurity has been removed and so some say that the intention for wudu' must be renewed which is agreed upon.

5.4b touching the penis before ghusl is completed

But if you touch it at the beginning of your ghusl, after having washed the areas included in wudu', you should then go over them again with water in the right order and with the intention of doing wudu'.

All or part, as is transmitted from Shaikh Abu 'Imran (rahmatullahi alaihi). It makes no difference whether he washes them first and then touches or whether he has washed some of them. Following the correct order is recommended. We consider that the correct sequence in wudu' is Sunnah. It is evident that he means that it is not obligatory in the Sunnah. It is said that it is referring to the obligations of wudu', its Sunnah’s and its meritorious actions. It is said that it refers to making water flow on the limbs and rubbing. On this basis and on the basis of what is before it must mean that it is obligatory.

There is disagreement about the renewing the intention of wudu'. The author (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that it is obliged to renew the intention of wudu'. If he intends to remove the major impurity, that is not enough. He is in the position of someone doing wudu' who is not in janaba who intends to remove major impurity. Shaikh al-Qabisi (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that he is not obliged to renew it. The basis of the disagreement is whether each limb which is purifies first or its own is purified without the full completion. If we said the first, then it is obliged to renew it because its purity has gone with the ritual impurity and so it is obliged to make an intention to wash it again. If we state the second, then it is not obliged to renew it because it remains and so we include it in the intention for the greater purity.

Chapter Six: Tayammum and Its Description

6.1 When it is done

If you cannot find water, then you must do tayyamum, which is recommended. Linguistically tayammum means aiming for something. The Almighty says, "Do not have recourse to bad things," (2:267) i.e. aim for them. In the Shari’ah it is a legal act of worship by which the prayer becomes allowed. This means that the Shari’ah has judged it. This exists in wudu' and ghusl. By it the prayer is permitted when wudu' and ghusl are excluded because tayammum is only to make lawful. Wudu' and ghusl are done in order to remove impurity. It is obligatory by the Holy Qur'an, Sunnah and consensus. The Almighty says, "If you cannot find any water, then do tayammum with pure earth," (Holy Qur'an 4:43) and in Sahih Muslim the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "We were preferred over people by three things: our rows were made like the rows of the angels, the entire earth was made a masjid for us and its earth is purification if we do not find water." The consensus is that tayammum is obligatory when water is lacking or the ability to use it lacking it. There are preconditions for the obligation: Islam, adulthood, sanity, absence of the blood of menstruation or lochia, the arrival of the time, lack of water or lack of ability to use it, and that there is no barrier over the limbs and nothing which precludes it.

If you are on a journey and you cannot find water, you have to do tayammum, provided that you do not expect to find any water before the time for the prayer has finished.

The situation is that either that there is no water to be found at all or a judgment that he will not find enough water for wudu' or ghusl in a journey (or while resident), whether short or not, whether the traveler is healthy or not, and whether the journey is permissible or not, because the allowance for doing it on a journey or while resident does not have the precondition that the journey be for something permissible. If the allowance is only in the journey, like breaking the fast in Ramadan, then the journey must be permissible and it must be a distance of at least four postal stages, like that for shortening the prayer.

Thus the mere absence of water is only a reason for the obligation of tayammum when he despairs of finding water or he thinks it probable that there is no water. It is not the case if he is unsure or hopes for water or is certain of finding water within the time.

What is meant by the obligation is the widest period of obligation. The one who has despaired is someone who has searched for it in a manner which is not arduous for someone like him. He is only obliged to seek if he hopes to find it or suspects its presence. If he is certain that water does not exist, then he does not look for it in the time. By 'time', the preferred time is meant.

You also have to do tayammum even when there is water, whether on a journey or staying in one place, if you are unable to touch water on account of illness or are disabled by illness to such an extent that although you could use it, you are unable to get to it and cannot find anyone else to bring it to you.
This is when there is water and you are unable to use it, on a journey or at home, because of illness which prevents using it since you fear that using it will cause death, loss of use of a faculty or limb, increased illness, delayed recovery, or will actually cause a illness. If he does not fear any of that, but is only pained by it, he must continue to do wudu' or ghusl. So tayammum is obliged for someone who is healthy when water exists because he cannot use it because illness would occur, or for a sick person who is able to use it, but does not find anyone to bring it to him, even for a payment equal to the price which the seller would oblige or it or he does not find a vessel or he only finds a forbidden vessel or cannot pay for using it.

The same applies to someone traveling who is near water but prevented from reaching it because of the fear of thieves or wild animals.

This is also true about the traveler who is near water but cannot reach it out of fear of thieves as he must preserve his property and the property of others. The property must be more than what he would have to pay to buy water. It must be ascertained that they exist or he thinks that it is probable that they exist. Uncertainty is not taken into consideration. The same applies if he fears for himself from wild animals when he is certain about that or thinks that it is probable.

6.1d Certainty about reaching water

If a traveler feels certain that he will get to water within the time of the prayer, he avoids doing tayammum until the end of the time.

Whether he is in a journey where he shortens the prayer or not and he is certain that he will find enough water for wudu' or ghusl, it is recommended that he delay tayammum. The upshot of the fiqh in the matter is that one of the preconditions of the obligation of tayammum is the arrival of the time. The judgment in it varies according to the state of the person doing tayammum because either he is certain that water will exist in the time or he will reach it or he despairs of finding it or reaching it, or he is unsure about finding it or reaching it in time or hopes to find it or reach it in time. The author (rahmatullahi alaihi) clarifies these circumstances and indicates it when he says, "If a traveler feels certain." In fact, it is not particular to the traveler, but applies to all who are permitted to do tayammum due to the absence of water. When he is certain that water exists or that he will reach it within the time or thinks that it is probable that it exists or that he will reach it in time, then it is recommended to delay tayammum to the end of the time.
6.1e Certainty about not reaching water

If he feels certain he will not get to water he should do tayammum at the beginning of the time.

This is about the absence of water or the failure to reach it in time after seeking for it. If there is what obliges seeking, then it is recommended that he do tayammum at the beginning of the time to obtain the excellence of the time because the excellence of water is despaired of. That is how it is judged by the one who thinks it probable that it will not exist within the time or will not be found in it.

6.1f Uncertainty about reaching water

If he does not know whether he will get to water or not, he should do tayammum in the middle of the time. This also applies to someone who is afraid that he will not be able to get to water but nevertheless hopes that he will.

If he is unsure about finding it, it is recommended to do it in the middle of the time. It is affirmed, by Shaikh Ahmad Zarruq (rahmatullahi alaihi), that what is meant is uncertainty about reaching it. He said that there is no difference between it and what before it according to the Maliki School. Although it is sound from the aspect of the judgment, the author's (rahmatullahi alaihi) words imply a difference when based on what is meant by the one who hopes. He said that the words of the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) contain something different from the position of the School. That is because his literal words say that the one who hopes does not delay, but does tayammum in the middle of the time. It is not as he said. His judgment is that of the one who is certain and the one who is certain delays to the end of the time. Shaikh ibn Harun (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "I do not know of anyone who transmitted that the one who hopes does tayammum in the middle of the time except Shaikh ibn Abi Zayd (rahmatullahi alaihi). Shaikh ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it is possible that it refutes his words. According to the words of Shaikh ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi) by "fears" the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) means 'suspects'.

6.2 Finding Water after doing Tayammum

If, under any of these circumstances, you do tayammum and do the prayer and then come across water within the time of the prayer the following judgments apply.

These seven who can do tayammum are: the sick person who cannot touch water, the sick person who cannot find anyone to bring him water, the traveler who is near water but is prevented from reaching it by fear of thieves or animals, the traveler who is certain that water will exist within the time, the one who despairs of finding it within the time, the one who has no knowledge, and the fearful one who hopes to find it. This is what happens if such a person (except for the sick person who cannot use water then find water or the sick person who can, but does not find anyone to bring him the water) finds water. Finding water means having the ability to use it, its existence, or the existence of a vessel to bring it.

6.2.a A sick person

A sick person who could not find anybody to bring water to him should do the prayer again.

It is recommended that he does the prayer again within the time. The rule for the sick person who does not find anyone to bring him water or any vessel with which to bring the water is to delay tayammum to the middle of the time. If he does the necessary tayammum in the middle of the time and prays and then before the end of the time of the prayer then that which stops him from using the water is removed, as when he finds what will enable him to obtain it, then it is recommended for him to repeat the prayer within the time if he is restricted in that people do not come in to him often. If people come in to him often, then he has no restriction, then he does not have to repeat it.

This also applies to someone who was afraid of wild animals or other dangers of that sort, and to a traveler who was afraid he would not get to water but hoped that he would. If you have done tayammum for any other reason, you should not repeat the prayer.

The one who fears for himself from wild animals or for his property from thieves is like the sick person who does not find anyone to bring him water in the time. It is recommended that he repeat the prayer when he gets water within the time. The result is that when the person who is afraid of animals does tayammum in the middle if the time, it is recommended that he repeat it in the time with four provisos. That is that he is certain that water exists or that he will find it were it not for his fear. His fear must be definite or likely and he ascertains the absence of what he fears and the existence of water itself. If he is not certain that it exists or that he will reach it, or what he fears is clear, or none of it is certain and someone else finds it, he does not repeat it. If his fear is a simple doubt, then he always repeats it.

and to a traveler who was afraid he would not get to water but hoped that he would.
When he finds water within the time, it is recommended that he repeat the prayer he has prayed in the time allotted for it, which is the middle. Part of the subject is that it is better if it is advanced. What is meant by 'fear' in the words of the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) is uncertainty about reaching it. It is recommended for the one who prayed in the time allotted to it to repeat it within the time. That is even more the case if he has advanced it. As for the one who is unsure about whether it exists, if he does it before the middle of the time allotted for it, then he repeats it. If he prayed in the middle of the time allotted for it, he does not have to repeat it. The difference between them is that the one who is unsure about reaching it, has a sort of falling short and so he is asked to repeat it. As for the one who is unsure about whether it exists, he relies on the basis, which is its non-existence.

6.2d Other reasons

If you have done tayammum for any other reason than these three, you should not repeat the prayer.

It appears from his words that the one who despairs does not repeat the prayer when he finds water absolutely. It is not like that, and it must be explained. If he finds the water which he despaired of, he repeats it. If he finds other water, he does not repeat it. It also seems from his words that someone who finds water in his bag or saddle or forgets it is there and then remembers it, does not have to repeat it. The one who acts deliberately in the three cases has to repeat it, which differs from the literal words of the author (rahmatullahi alaihi).

6.3a Number of fard prayers with one tayammum

You should not pray two fard prayers with one tayammum except if you are ill and cannot touch water because of some harm to your body which will last at least until the time of the next prayer.

None of those seven categories should pray two obligatory or Sunnah prayers at home or on a journey, whether they share in the time or not, with the same tayyamum except for the person with a constant illness which will continue to the time of the second prayer. It may happen that he does not do the first prayer in its time, either intentionally or by forgetfulness or ignorance. In that case he can pray them both together with one tayammum. This is a general judgment for prayers at home and on a journey.

6.3b For each prayer
Although there are some who say that even in this situation you should do tayammum again for each prayer.

For each obligatory prayer, whether he is healthy or ill, traveling or at home.

6.3c A number of missed prayers

It has been related from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) that someone who remembers not having done a number of prayers can do them with one tayammum.

This is a number of fard prayers which he missed by forgetfulness or by sleeping through them or deliberately not praying them and then repenting and wanting to make them up: he can pray them with one tayammum, whether healthy or ill, traveling or at home.

The first statement is by Shaikh ibn Sha'ban (rahmatullahi alaihi) and the second is by Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) and is the famous one. This is why it was rejected by the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) when he was ill at midday when someone else suggested it to him. According to the well-known position, if he disagrees and prays two prayers with one tayammum, whether they are shared or not, he does not ever have to make up the second.
According to his words at the beginning of the chapter about the time, one does tayammum for the obligatory prayer absolutely, even for Jumu'a. That is not the case, since the healthy person who is resident does not do tayammum for Jumu'a since it is a substitute for Dhuhr. He prays Dhuhr with tayammum, even at the beginning of the time. If he prays Jumu'a with tayammum, that is not acceptable. The sick person and the traveler can do tayammum for it. It That is also the case with the funeral prayer. The healthy resident does not do tayammum for it unless it becomes a specific obligation for him since no one else is found who can pray it nor is it possible to delay it until he can obtain water.

6.3d Voluntary prayers

As for the Sunnah’s and the voluntary prayers, the traveler but not the healthy resident person does tayammum for them, i.e. the one who is obliged to do tayammum because of lack of water. The judgment of the healthy resident for whom tayammum is obliged out of fear of illness is like that of the sick person and he does tayammum for Jumu'a and the funeral, even if it is not a specific obligation, and for the Sunnah and voluntary prayers. If he intends an obligatory prayer by his tayammum, he is permitted to pray the voluntary prayer with it afterwards with the precondition that it is connected to the obligation, even if he did not intend the voluntary prayer after the obligatory. It is limited to prayers which are after the obligatory, although if he prays a voluntary prayer before it, it is valid by his statement, 'provided that it is connected to the obligatory.'

If there is a long separation or he leaves the masjid, he must repeat his tayammum if he wants to pray the voluntary prayers. A short separation is overlooked. That is defined as about the length it takes to recite Ayat al-Kursi. It is also a precondition that he does not do more than the voluntary. What is "more" is defined by custom.

Tayammum is done using pure surface earth, that is any substance on the earth's surface such as soil, sand, stones, or salt deposits.

"Pure" is how the people of firm knowledge and those who know fiqh explain "tayyib" where Allah azza wa jall says, "do tayammum with clean earth." Tayyib means pure earth in Arabic and that is what Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) said. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that sa'îd means what is on the surface of the earth in accordance with Arab usage. Others believe that the sa'îd in the ayat designates pure earth found on the surface of the earth or brought out from inside of it. This includes salt deposits, and secretions. Tayammum is not done deliberately on wood, plants and grass and groups. The literal meaning of his words is that tayammum can be done on stones, even hard ones, if there is no soil as long as it has not been baked. It is not permitted to do tayammum on lime nor baked bricks, which are red bricks. Tayammum can be done on soil, whether it has been moved or not, although it is better when it is not moved by agreement. The first is based on the well-known position.

One does not do tayammum on other things than earth. Things like salt, alum, sulfur, copper and iron are not used for tayammum except in their original place or moved from one place to another. But it cannot be in a form which is firm in people's hands, like medicines. As for what can be held in people's hands like medicines, it is not valid to use them for tayammum.

6.4 How to do it

6.4a Beginning tayammum

To do tayammum you hit both hands on the ground - if anything clings to them it should be lightly shaken off -

This clarifies how tayammum is done. He strikes both hands on the ground. If he is missing a hand, he does tayammum with the other. If he is unable to do it, someone does it for him. If he cannot delegate someone, he rubs his face in the dust. What is meant by 'striking' is not actual striking. What is meant is to place his hands on the surface used for tayammum, soil or whatever. This 'striking' is an obligation. It is not a precondition that anything clings to his hands. If something clings to them, he shakes them lightly so that some people consider this shaking as one of the meritorious parts of tayammum so that it does not harm his face.

6.4b The Intention

Before beginning, the one doing tayammum must intend earth and nothing else with which tayammum is not valid. He must intend to make the prayer lawful or intend the obligation of tayammum in the first striking. If he is in minor impurity, he intends to make the prayer permissible from the lesser impurity. If he is in greater impurity, he intends to make the prayer lawful from the greater impurity. If he does not call the major impurity to mind and thus omits the intention regarding the greater impurity intentionally or by forgetfulness, and prays with that tayammum, then he must always repeat the prayer. If he intends the greater impurity, believing that he has it and then the opposite is clear, then it allows the lesser. When he intends the obligations of tayammum, it is enough for him, even if the intention of the greater does not occur to him. If he intends to remove the impurity, it is enough for him in the well-known position. Tayammum does not remove lesser impurity. It only makes the prayer permissible.
6.4c Wiping the face

then using both of them you wipe over your whole face.

After shaking his hands, then he wipes his face and does not omit any of it. He does not miss the cartilage of the upper ear and other things. If he leaves any of the wiping of all of the face, even a little, then it is not allowed. He begins from the top, as in wudu' and runs his hands over the length of it to his beard. He passes over the lines of the face, because the basis of wiping is doing it lightly.

6.4d Striking the ground a second time

Then you hit both hands on the ground again

The second blow is for wiping the hands by way of Sunnah. It is not said how the obligation is done in a Sunnah manner because we say after the obligation that the second comes after the first so if he fails to strike the earth the second time and then wipes his face and hands with the first, it is adequate.

6.4e Wiping the hands and then wipe your right hand and arm with your left hand. To do this you put the fingers of your left hand on the tips of the fingers of your right. Then you slide your fingers down the back of your right hand and arm, as far as the elbow, folding your fingers round it as you do so thoroughly.

The recommended manner of wiping is to first wipe the right with the left, putting the fingers on the right on the left except for the thumbs. The palm is passed over the top of the hand and arm to the elbow. It appears from the words of the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) that the elbow is not wiped because it is the end. It is said that he meant including the elbows as is done with wudu' since tayammum replaces it.

Wiping to the elbows is Sunnah, and to the wrists is obligatory according to what is in al-Mukhtasar. Shaikh al-Bisami (rahmatullahi alaihi) adds to it by saying that the well-known position of the school is that wiping is to the elbows is obligatory. The dispute is when it is confined to the wrists and he prays. The well-known position is that he repeats the prayer if still within the time. An opposite position is that he must always repeat it. This consequence is rejected. Al-Muqaddamat (Shaikh ibn Rushd) prefers that which is followed in al-Mukhtasar, and Qadi 'Iyad (rahmatullahi alaihi) summarized it in his (Qawa'id, and it is preferred.
The well-known position of the school is that the fingers go between each other, and that is by the flat sides of the fingers, not the sides because they have not touched earth. The well-known position is also that a ring is removed and moving it from its place can be done instead of actually removing it. The difference between tayammum and wudu' is said to lie in the fact that the ring is removed in tayammum but not in wudu' because of the force of the water flowing in wudu' which is not the case with earth.

Then you put your palm on the inside of your arm and, gripping your arm, slide your hand from your elbow just back as far as your wrist.

After wiping the outside of the right hand, using the palm, because the fingers were already used on the outside of the hand except for the thumb.

and then run the inside of the left thumb over the outside of your right thumb.
This is because it was not wiped before. What he mentioned about wiping the thumbs was also mentioned by Shaikh ibn Ata’Illah' (rahmatullahi alaihi) who is the Shaikh of the fuqaha' in his time. The literal of the transmission, which is relied upon, it wiping the outside of the right thumb with the outside of the fingers. Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "I do not know of anyone of the people of language who transmit that the thumb is the largest "finger."

You then wipe over the left hand and arm in the same way and after reaching the wrist you wipe your right palm with the left down to the tips of the fingers.

After finishing the right, then do the left to the wrist. The tips of the fingers designates the inside of the palm and fingers. Observe how he is silent about the left palm unless he says that each of them wipes and is wiped. This is the description which the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) mentioned and it was also mentioned by Shaikh Khalid (rahmatullahi alaihi). He begins with the outside of the right hand with the left and moves to the left before completing the right. This was transmitted by Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi). Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "He only moves to the left after finishing the right." Shaikh Al-Lakhmi

6.4i Other methods of wiping

If you wipe the right with the left or the left with the right in some other way that you find easy, that is acceptable as long as it is done fully.

If you differ from the recommended manner, your tayammum is still allowed. It only differs from the best manner. One can deduce from his words, "done fully" that if he does not wipe his forearms, it is not allowed because the arms are mentioned in wiping. The well-known position is that if he confines himself to the wrists and then prays, then he repeats it within the time.

6.5 Judgments about someone in a major state of impurity
6.5a Tayammum for janaba or end of menstruation

If someone is in a state of janaba, or has been menstruating, and cannot find any water to do ghusl with, they should do tayammum and do the prayer and then when they find water they should do ghusl.

Even if someone like this finds enough water for wudu', they still do tayammum following the previous information regarding the possibility of finding water which is not repeated here. Tayammum is obliged when there is no water. He mentions it here to refute those who say that someone in a state of janaba and or a woman who has been menstruating do not do tayammum.

6.5b Not repeating prayers done with tayammum

They do not have to repeat any prayers they have done.

Because their prayer occurs in manner which is commanded. The literal import of his words is that that is the case in the time or after it. It is explained that it is repeated within the time in the instances which were already mentioned. Its literal meaning is that is the case or not whether there is impurity on their bodies. It is in the text of the Mudawwana and it is restricted by there not being any impurity on the body. If there is impurity in his body and he prays with it by forgetfulness and they remember after they have finished, then they repeat it within the time. The statement of the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) about not repeating it is informing about when water is found after they have prayed with tayammum. If there is water before the prayer, and there is enough time for ghusl and the prayer, even a rak'at, within the time, then tayammum is invalid. If they find it after the time has begun and before it finished, even if the time is ample, or the time has begun, but there is not enough time for a ghusl and still catching a rak'at, they pray with tayammum.

6.6a Tayammum does not make intercourse permissible

A man cannot have sexual intercourse with his wife if she has just finished menstruating or the bleeding after childbirth if she has only purified herself by tayammum until there is enough water for her to do ghusl first and both of them to do ghusl afterwards.

This is whether she is a Muslim or a kitabi or a slave girl. According to the well-known position, it is forbidden for him to have intercourse with her. This does not only imply to actual intercourse, but enjoying her between the navel and knee, even through a barrier, is unlawful. Finding water can either be his responsibility or the responsibility of both.
6.6b Water for ghusl after intercourse

There must be enough water for ghusl on account of bleeding and then for ghusl on account of janaba. This explains the words at the end of the book about not approaching a woman bleeding from menstruation or lochia because the literal meaning is that when the bleeding stops, he is permitted to have intercourse, and so here he explains that even if menstruation has stopped, intercourse is not permitted, even with tayammum. Intercourse is forbidden in the well-known position because tayammum does not remove impurity. It only makes the prayer permitted. The words of the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) show that tayammum is called 'purification,' and that is indeed the case since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Its earth is pure." It is also called wudu' by since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Tayammum is the wudu' of the Muslim.

6.6c Avoiding janaba if there is no water

It is also deduced from this that if he does not find water, he should not voluntarily bring about a state of janaba in himself. That is the position of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) in al-Mudawwana, i.e. that it is disliked. If he does tayammum for the lesser impurity, he should not bring about janaba in himself so that he has to do tayammum for the greater impurity. This does not negate what was already stated about the unlawfulness in the statement of the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) about having intercourse, because the unlawfulness comes from his going to have intercourse with her when she has purified herself from menstruation by tayammum. This is when he does not fear any harm to his body or fear fornication. If he is physically harmed by the length of time or fears fornication, then he has intercourse and does tayammum.

Other matters relating to tayammum will be mentioned in the general chapter on the prayer.

Chapter Seven: on Wiping Over Leather Socks

This chapter is about the judgment regarding wiping over leather socks, the lack of a defined period of time in for doing that, what invalidates it, some of its preconditions, its description and what makes wiping forbidden.

7.1 Its Judgment

You can wipe over leather socks
It is an allowance to wipe which is understood from the context or from wiping because there must be a wiper, man or women.

It is permitted to wipe over leather socks. It is a dispensation, but washing is better than it. The permission applies to what is understood by leather socks. They resemble galoshes, which are thick socks with no legs (toes), and they resemble socks which have the form of leather socks, but are made from cotton and covered with leather. The basis for its legality is that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did it.

7.1a Location

either when traveling or otherwise permitted,

Wiping over socks is an allowance and so it is not particular to the traveler and it is permitted to do at home and on a journey. In the well-known position, it is not a precondition for the wiping that the journey be for something permissible.

7.1b As long as the socks have not been removed provided you have not taken them off.

Wiping over socks is not limited by a known period of time. It is related from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) that its maximum length when someone is resident is a day and a night, and three days in a journey. This allowance continues, and it is permitted to wipe over them without limit within that period until he removes them. If he removes them, it is agreed that it is invalid to wipe over them and he should hasten to wash his feet again.

If he delays washing them deliberately for as long as it takes the limbs of wudu' to dry, he does wudu'. He is like the one who is unable and the one who forgets and builds on his wudu', whether it is long or not. If he removes one sock he must remove the other as well, and wash both feet. It is not permitted to wipe over one of them while washing the other.

7.1c Preconditions of Wiping

Wiping has ten preconditions, five of which concern what is wiped and five which concern the person who wipes.

The preconditions in what is wiped are:

That they are made of leather and are not things like cotton socks

They are pure and not impure, like the skin of carrion, even if it is tanned
They are not polluted and pierced except with something like glue;

They must cover the place of the obligation (to the ankles) without missing any of it and he must be able to walk in them without them being overly loose-fitting or narrow. Otherwise, it is not permitted to wipe over them.

The preconditions of the wiper are:

That he is not rebelling against Allah azza wa jall by wearing them, and so the man in ihram does not wipe over the socks or act affluent by wearing them. This is when the affluent person wears them to avoid the bother of washing the feet or other things which have the sense of indulgent affluence. Such a person is not permitted to wipe over them and must always repeat it. If he wears them to protect himself from heat or cold or to imitate the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), then he can wipe over them.

He must put them on while pure. The one who puts them on does not wipe over impurity, even when they are washed.

The one who puts them on in state of purity by tayammum cannot wipe.

He must fully wash the limbs of wudu' before putting them on.
He does not just wash his feet and put them on then finish doing wudu', or wash one foot and then put it on before washing the other. If he removes them at the beginning and then puts them on after full purity or removes the one he is wearing and then and puts it on after washing the second, then he can wipe. The meaning is that the prayer is permitted by it to when he is afraid of doing wudu' on account of the cold.

7.1d When the socks were put on

This is if you put them on after you have washed them as part of wudu' for doing the prayer. It is in this situation that, if you then break wudu', you are entitled to wipe over your leather socks when doing wudu'.

This contains some of the preconditions which permit wiping. His words, "after you have washed them" means that they were put on while in a state of purity which is achieved by water. His words, "for doing the prayer" means that it is complete in the senses and meaning. So the one who puts on the socks after wudu' and having fulfilled all the preconditions is allowed to wipe when he breaks wudu' by lesser impurity. It is limited to lesser impurity because major impurity invalidates wiping because it obliges that they be washed.
7.1e When it is not permitted

In any other case it is not permitted.

If it is not like that since he was not pure when he put them or he had purified himself with earth or put them on before his purification with water was complete, then it is not permitted.

7.2 Description

7.2a Right Foot and removing impurity

The way you do the wiping is to put your right hand on the top of your foot beginning at the toes and your left hand underneath. Then you pass your hands over your foot as far as the ankle.

This is the recommended manner of wiping. The ankles are included in the wiping as in wudu' because that is indicated. It is disliked to follow the creases in it because the basis for wiping is lightening. It is disliked to repeat the wiping or to wash it. If he does that, it is still allowable. It is recommended for him to wipe when he is going to pray to wash them with the intention of wudu' only or to add the intention of removing mud or impurity, even if is overlooked. If he washes with the intention of removing the mud or impurity, or he does not intend anything, it is not enough.

The hands are reversed here. Shaikh ibn Shibli (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that the left is like the right according to the literal meaning of the Mudawwana. What is mentioned about wiping on the top and bottom of the leather socks at the same time is agreed upon. The disagreement is about the amount which must be wiped. Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) believes that if he confines himself to wiping the top or bottom of the socks to the upper or the lower, it is enough and he does not repeat his prayer. Shaikh ibn Nafi' (rahmatullahi alaihi) believed that it is not adequate.

But the well-known position is that it is obligatory to wipe the top and recommended to wipe the bottom. If he confines himself to wiping the upper and prays, it is recommended that he repeat it in the preferred time. It is recommended that he repeat wudu' and the prayer when he abandons wiping the bottom out of ignorance, intentionally or inability if it has been a long time. If it has not been a long time, he wipes the bottom only. It is like that if he only wipes the bottom out of oversight, if it has been a long time or not. If he omits wiping on the bottom, he always repeats it, intentionally or by ignorance or forgetfulness. He builds on the intention absolutely if he forgets and if he is unable, if it is not long. Some of the Shaikhs believe that the sides of the feet are part of the top.

If there is any mud or dung or your leather socks you cannot wipe over them until you have wiped or washed it off.

The dung refers to that of mules, horses and asses. Impure dung must be wiped. It is best to wash off pure mud or dung. Shaikh Abdu'l-Wahhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that that is because wiping is done over the socks and this constitutes a barrier over the socks, and so it is obliged to remove it. Shaikh al-Fakihi (rahmatullahi alaihi) sees it as strong recommendation rather than obligation because if he fails to wipe the bottom of the socks altogether, he does not have to repeat it either in the time or otherwise according to the position of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi). According to the position of Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi), he only has to repeat it within the time, not any time else.

Some people say you should start at the ankles and wipe to the tip of the toes so that any dust on the socks which might get wet does not end up at the ankle end of your socks.

This is another description of wiping over the socks, i.e. putting the right on the right and the left on the left, and beginning at the ankles to avoid moving the dust on the top of the socks in particular because moving impurity from one place to another must happen in any case, whether he begins from the heels or the toes, i.e. impurity is moved to the top of the sock more than it is moved to the bottom, since if he were not to wipe the tops, the wiping would be invalid, which is not the case with the bottoms. His words must be examined. When he is asked to wipe the mud and wash the impure dung before wiping, how can it be understood that it is moving an impurity from one place to another, top or otherwise, whether he begins to wipe from the heals or the toes?

But if there is any actual mud on the bottom of your socks you should not wipe over it until it has been removed in any case.
i.e. it is obliged to remove it according to the position that it is obligatory to wipe the bottom and recommended according to the other statement.

Chapter Eight: On the Times of the Prayers and Their Names

This chapter deals with the recognition of the times of prayer. It is an individual obligation for every legally responsible person to know their times if he can do that. If he cannot do that, as when someone is blind, he follows someone else. The "time" designates the amount of time allotted for an act of worship in the Shari’ah. It is either the time of performing it or the time of making it up. The time of performing is either the optional (ikhtiyari) time, meaning the time in which a legally responsible person can choose when to perform the prayer at any part of it, or it’s imperative (daruri) time.

The optional can be either the time of excellence or the time of leeway. As regards the prayer, what is meant by it in the usage of the people of the Shari’ah is a body of rak'ats and prostration’s, which are transmitted from the supplication (which is the linguistic meaning) since it contains the Fatiha which contains the supplication, which is "Guide us" other suras than the Fatiha, and it is that whose obligation is known from the Din as necessity. The one who denies it is an apostate and is asked to repent. If he repents, he is all right. Otherwise he is killed. It is like that with the one who denies the rest of the pillars of Islam which are: the shahadah, zakat, fasting and hajj.

Its preconditions

There are five preconditions for its being obligatory:

Islam,

Adulthood

Sanity

Lack of bleeding from menstruation and lochia, and

The arrival of the time of the prayer.

Qadi 'Iyad (rahmatullahi alaihi) adds hearing the call to prayer.

It is one of the greatest acts of worship because it was prescribed in Heaven during the Night Journey. That was in Makka a year before the Hijra as opposed to the rest of the laws. They were prescribed on earth. There is disagreement about how it was obliged. 'A'isha (radhi’Allahu anha) said that they were prescribed as two rak'ats at home and in the journey and then it was confirmed in the journey and increased to four when someone is resident. It is said that four rak'ats were obliged except for Maghrib, which was three and Subh, which was two. Then in the journey they were shortened to two rak'ats. As for knowing the names of the prayers, that is also obligatory because it is by their names that there is distinction and specification because if the prayer is not specified, then the prayer is invalid.

8.1a Its name

According to the people of Madina the middle prayer is the early morning prayer, namely the dawn prayer.

It is evident that a multiplicity names is indicative of the honor of the named. There are four names given to this prayer: as-Subh, al-Wusta (the middle), al-Fajr and al-Ghada. Subh is derived from sabah, which is whiteness since it becomes obligatory at this time. Fajr is derived from infijar (bursting forth) since it is obliged when dawn breaks from the darkness of the night.
8.1b The Beginning of its time

The beginning of the time for this prayer is when dawn breaks and the light spreads out in the extreme east, going from the qibla to behind the qibla, [1] until it rises up and fills the whole horizon.

The beginning of its ikhtiyari time is when dawn breaks and the light of dawn which comes from the light of the sun spreads out. It sometimes rises from the extreme east and sometimes elsewhere and follows it. The place of its breaking is the place where the sun rises. This excludes the false dawn which is the whiteness like the tail of a wolf, which thins and does not spread. It has no jurisdiction.

The light of dawn continues until it fills up the entire horizon. Shaikh ibn 'Umar (rahmatullahi alaihi) thought this was unclear and said that the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that the light is in the extreme east and so it is clear that it rises in the extreme east. "Going from the qibla to behind the qibla" means that it rises from the qibla. It might give rise to the idea that the qibla has a behind, but it is not like that. Shaikh al-Ujhuri (rahmatullahi alaihi) replies that the qibla and the east are the same. It is what is opposite the west. "Behind" means the middle. When the qibla is hidden from him, he faces the east and puts the west behind him. Then he is facing it because his deviation from the qibla is slight.

1. This must necessarily refer to North Africa, where the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) lived. The commentators are not sure of the exact meaning of this phrase.

8.1c The end of the time

The end of the time is when the light has got very bright so that someone ending the prayer says the salam just as the edge of the sun appears over the horizon.

The end of the time of Subh. This is derived from that fact the end of the ikhtiyari time for Subh is sunrise, and it is the well-known position of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi). Shaikh ibn 'Abdu'l-Barr (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it is that on which the people act. Qadi 'Iyad (rahmatullahi alaihi) attributes it to all the scholars and Imams of fatwa. On that basis there is no daruri time for Subh. In the Mudawwana, which is approved, and on whose basis the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) of the Mukhtasasr proceeds, the ikhtiyari time is from the rising of true dawn until the upper brightening, and the end is when the upper brightening leaves and it is that time in which faces can be seen in a place without a roof or covering by someone with average sight. Then the daruri time of Subh is from the beginning of the upper brightening to the first part of sunrise.

8.1d Its scope

Any time between these two points is acceptable but the beginning of the time is the best.

It is established that the time of the Subh prayer is the breaking of dawn and the end of the time is the clear brightening. The prayer can occur in any of that time if he is not excessive because the beginning and end of time subject to choice are equal unless it is negated by a constriction. However if he thinks that he will die before he does it if he does not occupy himself with it, then there is agreement that he rebels by leaving it because the wide time then becomes constricted in respect of him, i.e. whoever thinks that he will die during the time must pray early in that time. If he does not pray in that time in which he must pray, he sins whether he dies or not. In this respect, other impediments to prayer which occur are the same as death, like menstruation. If a woman delays and the impediment occurs, she does not make it because the lack of making up does not negate the wrong action.

Then it is affirmed that the ikhtiyari time is all the same unless it is negated by a constriction, but you should know that they vary in excellence. The early part is absolutely better, whether in summer or winter, individually or in a group. It is like that according to Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) and most of the schools in order to obtain the virtue of the time. The basis in this is that it is sound that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) used to pray Subh when it was still dark as did the Rashidun khalifs (may Allah azza wa jall bless them all).

8.2a The time of Dhuhr

The time of Dhuhr is from when the sun has passed the zenith, and that is when the shadows start to get longer.

The beginning of the time where there is choice is when the sun begins to decline and has passed the zenith. Then the shadows begin to increase as the sun moves. It is known as "zawal": that comes from the fact that when a stick is set upright, it is that point between the increase and decrease of the shadow, and so it is not simply the shadow cast, but has to do with its increase.

It is recommended to delay the prayer in summer until the shadow of an object reaches a quarter of the length of that object added to the length of its shadow at noon.
Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that it is delayed in the summer rather than the winter, in a group or individually. Shaikh ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "His words 'in the summer' are not understood. It can be like that in the winter." Delay is recommended until the time mentioned about the shadow. The shadow is not measured from its root, but from the shadow after noon. However that is an unusual linguistic usage. The well-known usage is that the shadow (dhill) is until midday comes and the shadow is after it is called fay’.

It is also said that this practice is only recommended as far as masjids are concerned so that more people can catch the prayer, and that it is better for a man praying by himself to do the prayer at the beginning of the time.

This delaying is said to be only about the masjid, so that people can join in the prayer. As for someone on his own, it is better to pray at the beginning of the time because there is no benefit in delaying it.

8.2d In intense heat
It is also said that it is better to delay the prayer until it is a little cooler, when the heat is fierce, even if you are praying by yourself since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Delay the prayer until it gets a little cooler because the fierceness of the heat is from the flames of Jahannam."

This is when the intensity of heat abates. So there are three positions about waiting for the cooling in the case of Dhuhr. Either it is absolutely recommended to delay it for individual and the group, or the recommendation is confined to the masjid for the group, and the third is to make a distinction between strong heat and other times, and so it is recommended in the case of intense heat for both the group and the individual.

The expression in the Muwatta' is that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "When the heat is fierce, then delay the prayer until it gets cooler, for scorching heat is from the blast of Jahannam." It means to wait for some shade and for the intensity of the heat to abate. The hadith about hastening the prayer is abrogated by this hadith. It is that the Holy prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) prayed Dhuhr at midday at the time of intense heat.

8.2e The end of the time
The end of the time of Dhuhr is when the shadow of an object is the same length as that object in addition to the length of its shadow at noon.

This is the end of the ikhtiyari time for Dhuhr. The consideration of day here is from sunrise to sunset, as opposed to the day in fasting which begins when dawn breaks.

8.3a The beginning of 'Asr and end of Dhuhr

The beginning of the time of 'Asr is the end of the time of Dhuhr

The beginning of the ikhtiyari time of 'Asr is the end of the ikhtiyari time of Dhuhr. On this basis, they share in the same time for the amount of four rak'ats or 'Asr shares with Dhuhr at the end of its time for the amount of four rak'ats. According to the first, if Dhuhr is delayed until the time of 'Asr begins and Dhuhr is done at the beginning of the time, he incurs no wrong action. According to this, if someone prays 'Asr at the end of the first length, it is invalid. According to the second, if he prays 'Asr while there still remains the time for four rak'ats of the time of Dhuhr at the beginning of the second length, he commits a wrong action since he does it before the time of the other has ended.
8.3b The end of the time of 'Asr

Its end is when the shadow of an object is twice the length of that object in addition to the length of its shadow at noon.

This is the end of the ikhtiyari time of 'Asr.

8.3c Another view

It is also said that if, standing upright facing the sun with your eyes looking straight ahead, you can see the sun, then the time of 'Asr has arrived. If you cannot see the sun the time has not yet begun. If the sun has descended right into your field of vision you are well into the time. According to Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) the time for 'Asr lasts until the sun begins to turn yellow.

Another view of the beginning of the time: this is with the head slightly bowed but not properly bowed (proper bowing is when the eyes are facing the ground.) Then if the sun comes into your line of sight, it is 'Asr. Some people deny that the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) said this since its speaker is not known. The reply to him is that the arrival of the time is not known because this not apply at all times because the sun is high in the summer and low in the winter.

In defining the end of the ikhtiyari time of 'Asr from the transmission of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi), it is when the sun begins to turn yellow in the earth. The position of the school is that it is better to perform 'Asr in the beginning of the time.

8.4 Maghrib

8.4a The time of Maghrib

The time of Maghrib - also known as the prayer of the one who is resident, meaning that a traveler does not shorten it but prays it in the same way as someone who is resident - is at sunset.

This is the ikhtiyari time. The Maghrib prayer has two names. This is because it occurs at sunset, and the other name is ash-Shahid, meaning resident. This is because the traveler prays it the same as the resident. Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that the reason Maghrib is called Shahid is because the traveler does not shorten it as is the case with Subh. Shaikh Abdu'l-Wahhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) reported that it is heard but it is not analogous because Subh is not so-named.
8.4b Its Time

When the sun has completely disappeared below the horizon, the prayer is due and it should not be delayed. This moment is the time for this prayer and it should not be delayed beyond it.

What is observed in that is the disappearance of its body and circular orb, not its traces and its rays. Shaikh ibn Bashir (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that this applies to a location where there are no mountains. When there are mountains, he looks towards the east and when darkness appears, that is an indication of its setting. When it disappears and sets, i.e. we can no longer see it because of the intervening barrier between us and it, then its time has begun and the prayer is not delayed. Maghrib only has one ikhtiyari time. When it is delayed, it moves into its daruri time. The well-known position is that it is not extensive. Indeed the amount required for doing it after the preconditions of its time exist is narrow. It is permitted for the one who obtains its preconditions of purity, sutra, facing qibla, the adhan and iqama, to delay doing it for the necessary time required to achieve its preconditions. It is also said that its time extends to the disappearance of the red twilight. Shaikh al-Baji (rahmatullahi alaihi) and many of the people of the Madhhab prefer it because of what is in the Muwatta' where Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi)

8.5a Its name

The ikhtiyari time for 'Atama or 'Isha', and Isha' is the recommended name for it because it was used in the Noble Book. A group of scholars, including Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi), dislike calling it 'Atama. As for what is related in the Muwatta', the Musnad of Imam Ahmad (rahmatullahi alaihi) and the two Sahih collections from the hadith of Abu Huraira (radhi'Allahu anhu), "If they had known what is in 'Atama and Subh, they would have come to them, even crawling" where it is called 'Atama, that clarifies that it is permitted and not unlawful to call it that, and there is no contradiction with the fact that it is disliked.

8.5b The time of 'Isha'

The time of the prayer of darkness or 'Isha', the latter being the better name for it, is when there is no redness remaining in the sky from the remaining rays of the sun.
When all yellowness and redness has gone, the time of 'Isha' has arrived. No attention need be paid to any whiteness which may remain on the western horizon.

The time of 'Isha' is when the redness in the direction of the sunset has disappeared, not the entire west, as the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) states. Note that he mentioned yellowness first, even though it is later than redness. However, in Arabic the waw (and) does not demand sequence.

The comment about the whiteness is in reference to the statement of Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi) that the "shafq" (twilight) is the whiteness. Our evidence is what ad-Daraqutni (radhi'Allahu anhu) related that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The twilight is the redness. When the twilight departs, then the prayer is obligatory." This is the beginning of the ikhtiyari time.

8.5c The end of its time

The time for 'Isha' extends from this time until a third of the night has passed for those who want to delay doing it because of working or some other good reason.

It ends with the first third according to the well-known position. Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it extends to the middle of the night. It can be delayed for someone with an excuse, like work, and it should only be delayed from its early time by those with excuses. Other people, even if they are alone, should hasten to perform the 'Isha' prayer at the beginning of its time. This is recommended.

8.5d Delaying in the masjids

It is better to do it as early as possible although there is no harm in delaying it a little in masjids to allow time for people to gather.

"There is no harm" means it is recommended to delay the prayer in the masjids to allow people to gather. The author's (rahmatullahi alaihi) premise is weak, and it is preferred that it is always advanced to the beginning of the time.

8.5e After the prayer

Sleeping before doing 'Isha' is disliked and so is talking after it unless there is a good reason for it.

Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi'Allahu anhu) said, "It is disliked to talk after it more than it is disliked to sleep before it because the person might miss the virtues of the prayer of Subh in group or miss its time or miss rising for tahajjud and Dhikr'Allah in the night. An exception to that is discussing knowledge and acts of nearness to Allah azza wa jall. Exceptions to this are the bridegroom, the guest and the traveler, i.e. someone who has arrived from a journey or is going on a journey, and whatever need demands like talking connected to someone's best interests, like buying and selling.

8.6 Daruri Times

The Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) spoke about the ikhtiyari time and not the daruri time. Subh was already mentioned. The daruri time of Dhuhr begins at the beginning of the second length and that of 'Asr begins with the yellowing and ends at sunset, although 'Asr is particular to four rak'ats before sunset. This time is daruri for it in particular so that if you pray Dhuhr in that time, it is making it up. It begins in Maghrib when it can be finished without negligence, i.e. follows finishing it. That of 'Isha' begins with second third of the night and ends when the dawn rises. The last of it is the amount of four rak'ats, as there is between Dhuhr and 'Asr.

These times are called daruri times because it is not permitted to delay the prayer until them except for the people of necessity (darura), and the people of necessity are menstruating women, a woman with bleeding on account of childbirth, the unbeliever, the apostate, the child, the mad person, the person who is unconscious, the sleeper and the one who forgets. So when the impediment is removed from any of those, he prays in the daruri time and incurs no wrong action. Anyone who prays in these times except those with an excuse are disobedient.

Chapter Nine: On the Adhan and the Iqama

Linguistically adhan means informing, whatever it is, and in the Shari'ah it is informing people of the times of prayer with particular words.

9.1 The Adhan

9.1a Its obligatory nature

It is obligatory to call the adhan in masjids and wherever people meet regularly to do the prayer.

The judgment of the adhan is that it is an obligation in the form of the sunan, i.e. it is a confirmed Sunnah, in the masjids. It is clear from his words that there is no difference between the communal masjid, i.e. that in which Jumu'a is held, and masjids other than communal. There is also no difference between the masjids being close together or whether there is one masjid on top of another. It is also done is places where groups meet regularly to pray.

It is clear that it is done whether it is in masjids or elsewhere since they seek to call others to the prayers. Every group seeks others. Even if it is not a regular prayer, then it is Sunnah for there to be an adhan. The regular group differs from the irregular in that it is a group in a settled place where they do not wait for others in a place outside of a masjid, and so the adhan is not Sunnah for them nor is it recommended. Indeed, it is disliked. However in a journey, the adhan is recommended. It is recommended for someone who is alone on a journey to do the adhan.

It is unlawful to do the adhan before the time has come, and it is disliked for the Sunnah’s as it is disliked for missed prayers and in the daruri time and the general obligation. The evidence for the Sunnah nature of the adhan is his command and the perseverance of the people of the Din on it in his time and after his time. This is the exact Sunnah.

9.1b Someone who is alone

If you are alone it is good to do the adhan
It is recommended to do it, whether at home or on a journey. The well-known position is that this applies particularly to the traveler rather than the resident since it is true that Abu Sa’id (radhi’Allahu anhu) heard the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) say, "When you are in your desert or among your sheep give the adhan. No man or jinn or anything within range hears the voice of the mu’adhdhan without bearing witness for him on the Day of Rising."

9.1c Status of Iqama

A man must do the iqama

It is confirmed that the legally responsible person is obliged to do the iqama if he is a man. Shaikh ibn Kinana (rahmatullahi alaihi) applies the words of the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) to the obligation, saying that if someone omits it deliberately, his prayer is invalid. Shaikh Abdu'l-Wahhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) considers it Sunnah, i.e. the individual Sunnah for an adult who prays, even if it is a missed prayer or he is alone, or an Imam of only women. and it is enough for a group prayer of only men or one in which there are women as well in respect of the Imam and men. The iqama is more confirmed than the adhan because it is connected to the prayer. If there is a gap between them, the iqama is invalid and must be said again."
9.1d Women and the Iqama

but for a woman it is only recommended and if she doesn't do it does not matter.

A woman commits no wrong action by omitting it.

9.1e When the Adhan is done

The adhan for a prayer should not be done before the time of that prayer

The aim of prescribing the adhan is to announce the arrival of the time, to inform those legally responsible that the time has come so that they can fulfill the obligation imposed on them. Therefore it is done after the time has come. It is not permitted to give the adhan before the time for any of the five prayers, even Jumu'a, i.e. it is unlawful. Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that the adhan for Jumu'a is given before the zenith while it is only prayed after it.

except in the case of Subh when there is no harm in calling the adhan in the last sixth of the night.
"No harm" means that it is recommended to give the adhan in the last two hours of the night before dawn and then to give it again when the time comes in order to follow the Sunnah. The first adhan is recommended and the second is Sunnah. Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) gives the adhan at half of the night. Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi) does not have an adhan before its time like the other prayers. We have what is in the Sahih that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Bilal (radhi’Allahu anhu) calls the adhan while it is still night, so eat and drink until ibn Umm Maktum (radhi’Allahu anha) calls the adhan." Shaikh al-Bistami (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that the exact position of the people of the Madhhab is that it is given in the last sixth."

9.1g Description

The adhan consists of the words:

Allahu Akbar, Allahu Akbar.
Ash-hadu an la ilaha ill'Allah. Ash-hadu an la ilaha ill'Allah.
Hayya 'ala's-salah Hayya 'ala's-salah.
Hayya 'ala'l-Falah. Hayya 'ala'l-Falah.

Hayya means to come quickly without haste that would cause you to lose tranquillity and gravity. Haste is disliked then, even if he fears missing the group. Success is obtaining bliss in the Next World.

9.1h Subh

Then if you are calling the adhan for Subh you add here: As-Salatu khayrun min'n-nawm. As-Salatu khayrun min'n-nawm. This is not said in the adhan for any other prayer. Allahu Akbar. Allahu Akbar. La ilaha ill’Allah. The last phrase is only said once.

Even if he is in a desert and there is no one else there. This is the expression and it means that waking up for the prayer is better than the rest obtained by sleep. They disagree about the one who commanded this sentence, i.e. "The prayer is better than sleep." It is said that it was the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) and it is said that it was 'Umar (radhi'Allahu anhu).
9.2 The Iqama

The phrases in the iqama are said only once. It consists of:

Allahu Akbar, Allahu Akbar.
Ash-hadu an la ilaha ill’Allah.
Ash-hadu anna Muhammadan Rasulullah.
Hayya 'ala's-salati
Hayya 'ala'l-falahi.
Qad qamati’s-salah Allahu Akbar Allahu Akbar
La ilaha ill’Allah

The expressions are said once except for the takbir. Making it single is the Madhhab. When it is made double by mistake, it is not allowed in the well-known position. So if error and forgetfulness do not suffice, it is more likely that the deliberate does not suffice either.

Chapter Ten: On How to Do the Fard Prayers and the Sunnah and Nafila Prayers Connected with Them
10.1 The Form of the Prayer

10.1a The state of Ihram

Going into the state of ihram as far as the prayer is concerned is by saying Allahu Akbar and no other expression is acceptable.

Is ihram the intention or the takbir or both while facing qibla? Shaikh al-Ajhurri (rahmatullahi alaihi) prefers the later. According to the first, the idafa is their words "takbir al-Ihram" is the relation of the associate to its associate. According to the second, it is for clarification. According to the third, is part of the idafa of the part to the whole, i.e. the beginning of the attribute is ihram. It is to enter. This applies to all prayers, obligatory or supererogatory.

10.1b The Takbir

It is to say, "Allahu Akbar" with a natural extension for the amount of an alif (Allah). If he fails to do that, then his ihram is not valid. No other expression is acceptable if he speaks good Arabic. If he does not speak good Arabic, then Shaikh Abdu'l-Wahhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that he enters the prayer by the intention except for the non-Arab. Shaikh Abu'l-Faraj (rahmatullahi alaihi) says he enters it in his own language, but this is weak, even if the prayer is not invalidated by analogy with the dislike of the supplication in non-Arabic by the one who can do it in Arabic. But what is relied on is the first statement. The author (rahmatullahi alaihi) calls this sentence a "word" following grammatical usage.

The takbir is obligatory for the Imam and the person praying alone by agreement, and in respect for the one following in the well-known position. It is related from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) that the Imam bears the responsibility of the takbir al-ihram for the follower. If the Imam omits the takbir al-ihram, intentionally or by forgetfulness, then his prayer is invalid as is the prayer of those following. The evidence for its obligatory nature is found in the two Sahih collections where the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The key to the prayer is purification and its sanctification is the takbir and its ending is the taslim." Purification is general and includes wudu' and ghusl.

A precondition of the takbir is that it is done while standing, and it is agreed that it cannot be done before that. If that is omitted in the obligatory prayer, in that he says it sitting, or bending, or leaning on some support in such a manner that if it were removed, he would fall, then his prayer is invalid.
A precondition of the takbir al-ihram is that it be accompanied by the intention. If it comes after it, then it is agreed that it is not allowed. The same applies if it is a lot before it. There are two well-known positions about whether it can be a little before it. One says that it is allowed and the other is that it is not. The preferred one is that it is allowed since it is not transmitted from them that it is a precondition of the accompaniment. The meaning of the precondition that it accompany it according to the second position is that it is not permitted for there to be a gap between the intention and the takbir. It is not a precondition that the intention actually accompany the takbir.

10.1c Raising the Hands in the Takbir

At the same time your raise your hands level with your shoulders, or lower

When you say the takbir, it is recommended to raise your hands. Their backs are towards sky and palms to earth, level with the shoulders or a little lower, i.e. the top of the chest. This is for the man. As for the woman, it is a little less than that. Shaikh al-Qarafi (rahmatullahi alaihi) related that consensus on that. There is disagreement about the judgment of this raising of the hands. Some believe that it is Sunnah and some that it is a meritorious act, which is what is accepted. The words of the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) state that rising is particular to the takbir al-ihram. It is like that in the well-known position. It is also stated that he raises them in ruku' and in rising from two rak'ats.

10.1d Recitation and then begin the recitation.

The takbir is followed by the recitation without any division between them. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) disliked for there to be glorification and supplication between the Takbir al-ihram and the recitation. Some of them recommend separating them with the words, "Glory be to You, O Allah, and by Your praise. Blessed is Your name and exalted is Your majesty. There is no god but You."

10.1e How to do Subh

If you are doing Subh you recite the Fatiha out loud.

The recitation of the Fatiha is obligatory in Subh and other obligatory prayers for the Imam and the one praying alone. There are two positions by Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) in the Mudawwana about whether it is in every rak'at or most. The sound one is that it is obligatory in every rak'at. Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that. In general, it means one rak'at, even if it is Subh, Jumu'a or the travel prayer.
As for the one following an Imam, it is recommended for him in what the Imam says silently. As for recitation in what is done out loud, it is Sunnah.

You do not say bismi'llahi-r-rahmani'r-rahim for the Fatiha nor for the sura which comes after it

When he recites in Subh or other obligatory prayers, he does not recite the basmala in it at all, not in the Fatiha nor in the sura after it, silently or aloud, whether Imam or following. The prohibition in the words designates dislike since it is true that 'Abdullah ibn Mughaffal (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "My father heard me saying, 'bismi'llahi-r- rahmani'r-rahim' and he said, 'My son, beware of new things. Beware of doing something new which the Chosen one (alaihi salat wa salam) and his Companions did not do.' 'Abdullah ibn Mughaffal (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "I did not see a man among the Companions of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) who more hated new things in Islam than him. He was the strongest of the Companions in hating the new. Part of the words of my father were, 'I prayed with the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), Abu Bakr (radhi'Allahu anhu), 'Umar (radhi'Allahu anhu) and 'Uthman (radhi'Allahu anhu), and I did not hear any of them say it. So do not say it when you recite."
Rather begin with, "Praise belongs to Allah, Lord of the worlds," etc. When you recite in the voluntary prayers, then there is scope. If you wish, recite it. If you wish, do not recite it." He disliked seeking refuge (saying, "I seek refuge with Allah") in the obligatory rather than the voluntary prayer.

10.1g Saying "Amin"

If you are by yourself or behind an Imam you say _amin_ after the words, wala'd-daalleen, but you do not say it out loud. An Imam does not say amin if he is reciting out loud but he does if the recitation is silent. There is, however, a difference of opinion about whether the Imam should say _amin_ when the recitation is out loud.

It is recommended to say it. "Amin" means "Answer!" You do this whether you are praying alone in a silent or loud prayer or if you are praying behind an Imam in a silent or loud prayer when you hear him say "Wala'd-daalleen." You do not say it out loud, but silently, even if the prayer is out loud. In other words, it is disliked to say it out loud and recommended to say it silently.

It is disliked for the Imam to say it if the prayer is out loud, and it is agreed that he says it in the silent prayer. However, there is disagreement about the Imam saying it when the prayer is out loud.
10.1h Reciting the sura

After that you recite ...

After reciting the Fatiha, without any separation between them in the form of supplication or anything else. The judgment of the recitation of a whole sura after the Fatiha is that it is recommended and Sunnah. There must be more than the Fatiha, even if it is one ayat or part of an ayat. The evidence for the Sunnah is being more that the Fatiha is that the prostration of forgetfulness or lack of it is based on reciting more than the Fatiha, not the sura. If he does more than the Fatiha, there is no prostration. Otherwise he prostrates.

It is deduced from his words, "a sura" that he does not recite two suras in the same rak'at. That is the best for the Imam and the one praying alone. There is no harm in someone following the Imam doing that.

one of the larger suras from the mufassal. If the sura you recite is longer than that, that is good so long as it is not getting too light
The sura which he recites in Subh should be one of the long mufassal, the first of which is al-Hujurat (Holy Qur'an 49) according to the accepted position. There are other positions, saying from ash-Shura (Holy Qur'an 42), or from al-Jathiyya (Holy Qur'an 45), or from al-Fath (Holy Qur'an 48) or from an-Najm (Holy Qur'an 53), and extends to 'Abasa (Holy Qur'an 80). The medium ones are from 'Abasa (Holy Qur'an 80) to ad-Duha (Holy Qur'an 93), and from ad-Duha (Holy Qur'an 93) to the end. They are called mufassal because of the great number of divisions by the basmalas.

It is good if the sura which he recites in the first rak'at of Subh is longer than one of the long muffasal, in that you are near a sura which is one of the long mufassal, not that your recite al-Baqara (Holy Qur'an 2) or its like. This length is in respect to the Imam of a limited number of people who are content with that or someone on his own who is strong enough for that. Otherwise, it is best not to make it long. "Good" here means recommended, and his words imply that the Sunnah is only obtained by reciting one of the long mufassal, and the recommendation is to do more. That is not like that. The Sunnah is obtained, even by reciting an ayat. "Getting light" is when the darkness is mixed with light and vice versa before it begins to brighten. It is understood from his words that when it is like that, he does not make it long.

10.1j The recitation is out loud in Subh
The sura is also recited out loud.

It is Sunnah to recite the sura and the Fatiha out loud.

10.1k Ruku'

When you have finished the sura you say Allahu Akbar as you go down into ruku' - the bowing position of the prayer.

You say the takbir as you go down. Three things are taken from his words about ruku'. One is the takbir, which is Sunnah. Are all of them except the takbir al-Ihram as one Sunnah? That is what Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) says and most of the scholars take that position. Some say that every takbir is a separate Sunnah, and that is the position of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi), and it is predominant view. The evidence for it being predominant is that they stipulate the prostration of forgetfulness for omitting two of them. If all of them had been a Sunnah, then they would not have imposed because there is no prostration for omitting a part. The upshot of that is that if one takbir is omitted - except for the takbir of the ‘Id - by forgetfulness, he does not prostrate. If he prostrates for it before the taslim deliberately or out of ignorance, then his prayer is invalid. If he omits more than one, even all of them, then he prostrates. If he omits the prostration and a long time passes, then there is a difference according to the two positions. According to the statement that all is one Sunnah, then the prayer is not invalid by omitting three or more. According to the other, it is invalid when the prostration is omitted since the second mentions that the takbir is connected to ruku', and is recommended. It is like with every action of the prayer except for standing after two rak'ats.

The Ruku' position

You put your hands on your knees, straightening your back so it is parallel to the ground.

Ruku' is one of the agreed-upon obligations of the prayer and it has three forms: low, middle and high. The low is to place the hands near the knees. The middle is to place them on the knees without firmness, and the high is that which the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) indicated here.

Putting the hands on the knees is recommended, if they are both sound and he is not prevented from putting them on them by some impediment. An impediment would be amputation or shortening. He does not bend any further than having his back straight. Having the back straight is not obligatory. It is recommended since the obligation is general - bowing is obligatory. Its fullest form is to place the hands on the knees. It is recommended for him to spread his fingers based on what Shaikh al-Hakim (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh al-Bayhaqi (rahmatullahi alaihi) transmitted that when he (alaihi salat wa salam) bowed, he spread his fingers, and then he prostrated, he kept them together.

It is recommended that the back be straight. The author (rahmatullahi alaihi) mentioned both placing the hands on the knees and keeping the back straight since one of them does not necessitate the other. Keeping the back straight does not necessitate placing the hands on the knees and placing the hands on the knees does not necessitate keeping the back straight. Are both of them recommended or is simply one of them alone recommended?

You do not lift your head nor do you let it drop. You make sure that the insides of your arms are away from your sides.

This is recommended. Omitting any of that does not invalidate the prayer. It is recommended that the insides of the arms be far from the sides. That is explained as being not very far, but a medium amount. This does not apply to both men and women. Women keep their arms to the sides. He does not mention the straightness of the knees, and he is not excessive in bowing by making them straight. He is also silent about the straightness of the feet which is that they are not right together. That is disliked. It is recommended that it be avoided.

10.11 Awareness in ruku'

In both ruku' and sujud you should be aware of your state of complete submission.

Your heart must be humble. This is recommended as is well-known with the fuqaha'. Shaikh ibn Rushd (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it is one of its obligations although the prayer is not invalidated if it is omitted. It is an obligatory in part of it, and must exist in the ihram.

What to say after that

And then if you are by yourself you say, Allahumma Rabbana wa laka'l-hamd (O Allah, our Lord, all praise belongs to You.) This is not said by the Imam. Someone praying behind an Imam does not say Sami'a'llahu liman hamidah, but he does say, Allahumma Rabbana wa laka'l-hamd.

Then you say, "O Allah, our Lord, all praise belongs to You", meaning You accept and You are praised for accepting or for your allowing that act of worship to be completed. You say this if you are alone or behind the Imam. The Imam only says the first statement. Someone praying behind an Imam only says, "O Allah, our Lord, all praise belongs to You". The basis for these details is in the Muwatta' and elsewhere which report that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "When the Imam says, 'Allah hears whoever praises Him,' say, 'O Allah, our Lord, all praise belongs to You' for the previous wrong actions done by the one whose utterance coincides with that of the angels are forgiven," i.e. both minor and major. They are only expiated by repentance or the pardon of Allah azza wa jall. In a version of Shaikh at-Tirmidhi (rahmatullahi alaihi), "Praise is Yours," This hadith demands that the Imam does not say, "Our Lord, praise is Yours," and the one following does not say, "Allah hears whoever praises Him."

You stand up straight, still, and with the limbs settled

When you lift your head from ruku', you stand up straight and still. There are two things here: stillness, which is obligatory and will be discussed, and straightness, which is the Sunnah according to Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) in all the pillars of the prayer and obligatory according to Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) and it is sound. The difference between stillness and straightness is that straightness has to do with stature and stillness involves the limbs resisting for a time.

10.1n Prostration

and then go down into sujud without going into a sitting position on the way.

Then you go down to the ground in prostration, going into prostration from a standing position as the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did. There is no disagreement that prostration is obligatory. You do not prostate from a sitting position as some people of knowledge say. It is useful to be precise. Imam ash-Shafi'i (rahmatullahi alaihi) states that a very slight sitting before prostration is part of the Sunnah. The argument of some of the people of knowledge that he did that and the argument of one who denies that he sat before prostration is what is related from 'A'isha (radhi'Allahu anha) that he (alaihi salat wa salam) did that at the end of his life because the movement of his noble limbs had become heavy. It was not to change the Sunnah. It was due to an excuse, and it is negated when the excuse does not exist. If this sitting occurs by forgetfulness, and is not long, there is no harm. If it is long, then he prostrates on account of it. There is disagreement about when it is deliberate. That famous position is that if it is not long, there is no harm. If it is long, there is harm.
Length is considered inasmuch as someone looking would think that he has turned away from the prayer.

As you go down into sujud you say, "Allahu Akbar."

This is Sunnah to fulfill the pillar with the takbir. He did not mention what touches the earth first. It is recommended to place the hands before the knees when you go into prostration and to have the hands leave the earth after the knees in rising by his command to do that. That is what the people of Madina did. As for what the people of the Sunan relate stating that when he prostrated, he put his knees down before his hands and when he came he lifted his hands before his knees, ad-Daraqutni (radhi’Allahu anhu) said that only Sharik has it, and things are said about Sharik. Some claim that it is an abrogated Sunnah.

You put your forehead and nose on the ground

The forehead is what is between the temples to the forelock. As much of it as possible is placed on the ground. This is recommended. As for fulfilling the obligation in that, it is enough to place the least amount of the forehead. When he puts his forehead on the earth, he should not press it hard on the earth so that it leaves a mark - that it disliked because it is the action of the ignorant who have no knowledge.

Prostration on both the forehead and nose is obligatory. There are various positions if it is confined to one of them. The famous one is that if it is confined to his nose, it is not enough and he must repeat it. If it is confined to his forehead, it is enough although he should repeat it within the time. It is said to apply to both ikhtiyari and daruri times. This is if the forehead is sound. If there are ulcers on the forehead, it says in the Mudawwana that he indicates but does not prostrate on his nose because prostration on the nose naturally demands prostration on the brow. So when its obligation does not apply, its consequence does not apply. If he goes down and prostrates on his nose, Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that it is enough for him because it is more than indication. The Mudawwana says that it is disliked to prostrate on his turban.

with your palms flat on the ground, fingers facing qibla, on a level with your ears or further back - there being no fixed position for the hands
It is recommend he put the palms on the ground without barrier. It is recommended for the face and hands to be directly touching the ground because it is humility and that it is disliked to prostrate on what is luxurious and comfortable like wool and cotton. Matting is overlooked because it is like the earth, but it is best to forego it. Prostration on it is different from the first. The fingers are spread out on the earth. This is stressed and it is recommended that they face qibla. Shaikh al-Qarafi (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that the reason for that is that they prostrate and so face qibla. Prostration itself is done on the hands, like the knees and the toes of the feet, and so it is Sunnah. They should be level with the ears or somewhat further back. There is no definition as to where the hands are placed based on the statement of the Mudawwana that there is no definition in that. It is all permitted, and there is no obligation. If he does it differently, he only commits something disliked.

Position of the Arms

although you must make sure your forearms are not touching the ground. Your arms should not be close against your sides but should be held out a little

Since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade for a man to rest his forearms on the ground like a wild animal. One variant has "like a dog." It is disliked for a man to do this in prostration and it is disliked for him to rest them on his thighs. It is forbidden, meaning disliked, for a man to hold his arms close to his sides in prostration. It is recommended for a man to keep his arms away from his sides as the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did. In the two Sahih collections it reports that in prostration he (alaihi salat wa salam) kept his arms from his sides so that the white of his armpits could be seen.

Position of the Feet

During sujud your feet should be upright with your toes on the ground facing forwards

The toes should be facing qibla and the knees should be apart and the stomach away from the thighs. The proof that that is part of the Sunnah is what Abu Dawud (radhi’Allahu anhu) transmitted: when the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) prostrated, he had a gap between his thighs and they were not against his stomach at all.

What to say in sajda

And then when you are in sujud you can say if you like, "Subhaanaka rabbi, dhalamu nafsi wa 'amiltu suu'an faghfir li." (Glory be to You my Lord. I have wronged myself and acted badly, so forgive me.) or if you like you can say something else.

You have a choice in what you say between saying the first or not, and secondly between these words or other dhikrs. The first choice indicates a rejection of the one who says that tasbih is obligatory. The second choice indicates the refutation of the one who says that this must be said, i.e. even if the glorification is recommended, it must be with these words, and so the recommendation is only obtained by it. The result is that glorification in prostration is recommended by the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) and others. The expression of the choice means that taken literally, one side are equal, only indicates the rejection.

You can also make du'a' in your sujud if you want

It is recommended to make supplication using the Holy Qur'an or something else, but it must be something permitted in the Shari’ah and custom which is not denied, and the prayer is not invalidated by it. This is a separate supplication from the glorification.

Length of prostration
There is no particular limit to the length of time you may stay in sujud but the shortest is the time it takes for the whole body to become still

There is no limit to prostration in the obligatory. For the one praying alone, it should not be excessively long. If it is excessively long, it is disliked. There is no harm in it in the voluntary. For the Imam it is what will not harm those behind him. Its minimum which is adequate is that in which the joints become still and at rest. Stillness is obligatory in the prostration and in all the pillars of the prayer. But the Risala only deals with stillness in this place about the minimum which makes the obligatory prostration adequate. It is obligatory because that obligation, which is prostration, rests on it. There is disagreement about remaining longer than stillness. The view of the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) of al-Mukhtasrar is that it is Sunnah. He examines what is defined as extra in respect of the individual, the Imam and the one following, and whether it is equal in the length regarding it and other positions of the prayer or not. What is said in al-Mukhtasrar demands that all of that be equal.

10.10 Sitting between prostration’s

Then, saying, "Allahu Akbar", you lift your head and sit back. In the sitting position between the two sajdas your left foot is folded underneath and your right foot remains upright and you lift your hands from the ground and put them on your knees

Then you say, "Allah is greater" while you are coming up. This rising is an obligation without disagreement, and multiple prostration’s are inconceivable without a division between them. After you lift your head, you must sit straight. The bottom of the toes of the right foot remain on the earth. It is not understood from his words that you sit between the two prostration’s as you sit in the tashahhud. As for the sitting of the person who prays sitting while he recites and bows, it is recommended to be cross-legged. He is silent about where to place the left foot. Shaikh Abdu'l-Wahhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that he puts it under his right thigh. It is said that it is between his thighs. It is said that it is outside. Men and women are the same in that.

You remove your hands from the earth and put them on your knees. He says in al-Jawhar that he puts his hands near his knees with his fingers level. If he does not lift his hands from the earth, there are two positions about the invalidity of the prayer. The best known is that it is invalid. The soundest, based on what Shaikh al-Qarafi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, is that it is not invalid. It is accepted because this rising from the earth is only recommended and not doing something recommended is not one of the things which invalidate the prayer.
10.1p Second prostration

You then go into sujud again repeating what you did the first time

Then after coming up from the first prostration, you prostrate again like the first with the relevant details.

10.1q Rising from prostration

Then you stand up again directly from sujud pushing yourself up with your hands. You do not go back to the sitting position and stand up from there but rather you do as I have described. As you stand up you say, "Allahu Akbar."

After the second prostration, you stand up as you were without sitting. This indicates refutation of the Hanafi position. Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi'Allahu anhu) said that if he sits and then stands, and it is deliberate, he asks Allah azza wa jall's forgiveness and does not have to do anything. If he forgets, he prostrates after the salam. The one who does it deliberately does not have to prostrate. Not going back to the sitting position indicates that it differs from the Shafi'ites who say it is Sunnah for him to rise for the second and fourth rak'ats from a sitting. We consider it meritorious for him to go back to the standing and to come up directly with your hands. You say the takbir during the move because it is recommended to say the takbir when beginning actions in the prayer.

10.1r Recitation in the second rak'at

You then recite as much as you did in the first rak'at or a little less

After the takbir, you recite the Fatiha and a sura. The second should be similar or shorter than the length of the first. Both are affirmed. The author (rahmatullahi alaihi) follows Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) in what he recommended is that the first rak'at should be longer than the second. The evidence for that is found in the two Sahih collections where the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) made the first long and the second short. What is meant is that the first is longer than the second in time, even if the recitation in the second is more, but he (alaihi salat wa salam) recited slowly in the first. It is recommended that he recites by the order of the Holy Qur'an, and reversal of order is disliked. However, he if inverts the order, there is nothing against him. The disliked reversal is to reverse the suras or recite the last half a sura and then the first half. It is like that in one or two rak'ats. When he does the forbidden reversal, then the prayer is invalid. That is like reversing the order the ayats of the same sura in the same rak'at.
and do the same again

This means that you repeat all the previous actions. Then you perform the prostration and sitting as was already described.

10.1s The Qunut

except that (being Subh) you also recite the Qunut after doing ruku' although you can, if you want, recite it before ruku' after finishing your recitation of the Holy Qur'\'an

The Qunut is done in the second rak'at after coming up from ruku', although it could be before the ruku', there being a disagreement about whether it is meritorious or Sunnah. If it is Sunnah and he omits it and he does not prostrate for it, his prayer is invalid. If it is meritorious and he prostrates for it, his prayer is invalid if the prostration is before the salam. It appears from the words of the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) that it is better after ruku'. It is the position of Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi). The well-known position is that it is better before ruku' based on what is in the Sahih that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) was asked whether it was before or after and he replied that it was before. It is also based on kindness to the one who is preceded and because that is what 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) continued to do in the presence of the Companions.
The well-known position is that he does not raise his hands as he does not raise them in saying "Amin" or in the supplication of the tashahhud. It is better to do it silently because it is a supplication. If he forgets to do it before ruku', he can do it after it if he remembers. He cannot go back from ruku' if he remembers. If he does go back, then his prayer is invalid because he went back from an obligation to something recommended.

The Qunut consists of the words:

Allahumma innaa nasta'eenuka wa nastaghfiruka wa nuuminu bika wa natwakkalu 'alayka wa nakhna'u laka wa nakhla'u wa natruku man yakfuruk. Allahumma iyyaaka na'budu wa laka nusalli wa nasjud. Wa ilayka nas'a wa nahfid. Narju rahmataka wa nakhaafu 'adhaabaka'l-jidd. Inna 'adhaabaka bil-kaafireena mulhiq.

(O Allah, we seek help from You and ask forgiveness of You and believe in You and rely on You. We humble ourselves before you and renounce all other dins. And we abandon all who reject You. O Allah it is You we worship and to You that we pray and prostrate and for You that we strive and struggle. We hope for Your mercy and fear Your certain punishment. Your punishment will surely come to those who disbelieve.)

This is its chosen expression among the Malikis, although it is said, "We rely on you" is an addition in the Risala. One variant has after it, "We praise You well."

10.3 The final sitting, tashahhud and salam

10.3a The final sitting

Then you do the same regarding your sujud and sitting as has already been described. When you sit back again after your two sajdas you keep your right foot upright with the toes pointing forward and fold your left foot underneath with your left buttock resting on the ground, not on your left foot.

When you finish the Qunut, you go down into prostration without sitting. You sit between the two prostration’s as was described.

When you sit after the second rak'at for the tashahhud, you have your right foot upright with the toes forward, and the left foot folded underneath, sitting on your left buttock. That is the sound transmission. It is related as "buttocks" which it a mistake because if he sits on them, that it resembles squatting which is disliked, even though it is not actual squatting which is to put the buttocks on the ground and keep the thighs upright and place the hands on the ground, as a dog sits. You do not sit on your left foot. He said that in reference to Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi) who says that he sits on his left foot. The description which he mentioned resembles that in the Mudawwana in all the sitting positions of the prayer.

Another foot position

If you want, your right foot can be at an angle, with the side of the big toe resting on the ground. Both of these positions are acceptable.

Without having the foot upright. What the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) mentioned is opposed to Shaikh al-Baji (rahmatullahi alaihi) that the bottom of the toes are on the ground and not the side. It is preferred. Then you sit for the tashahhud after the two prostration’s of the second rak'at.

10.3b The tashahhud

You then say the tashahhud, which consists of the words: at-tahiyyatu Lillah. az-zakiyatu Lillah. at-tayyibatu's-salawatu Lillah. as-salamu 'alayka ayyuha'n-nabiyyu wa rahmatullahi wa barakatuhu. assalamu 'alaynâ wa 'ala 'ibadai'llahi's-salihin. ash-hadu an la ilaha ill'Allah wahdahu la sharikalah. wa ash-hadu anna Muhammadan 'abduhu wa Rasuluh.

(Greetings are for Allah, Good actions are for Allah. good words and prayers are for Allah. Peace be upon you, O Prophet, and the mercy of Rasulullah and His blessings. Peace be upon us and upon the righteous slaves of Allah. I bear witness that there is no god except Allah alone without partner and I bear witness that Muhammad is His slave and His Messenger.)

These are the words of the tashahhud preferred by most of the Malikis. In the Mudawwana instead of "Muhammadan 'abduhu" he has "Muhammad 'Abdullah" (Muhammad is the slave of Allah).

10.3c The salam

If you then say the salam at this point, your prayer is valid i.e. after saying, "I bear witness that Muhammad is His slave and His Messenger", the prayer is valid, whether you say part of it or leave part, ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, i.e. with either of the two statements or if he says something else. It is not valid to say that it is enough in the form of perfection because he did not mention the prayer on the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam).
So the truth is that it a discarded description.

10.3d Possible Additions

You can also add to this, one possibility being:

wa ash-hadu anna'lladhi jaa'a bihi Muhammadun haqq. wa anna'n-naara haqq. wa anna's-saa'ata aatiyatun la rayba fihaa. wa anna'illla yarn ab'athu man fi'l-qubuur.

Allahumma salli 'ala Muhammadin wa 'alaa aali Muhammadin warham Muhamadan wa aala Muhammadin wa barik 'ala Muhammadin wa 'ala ali Muhammadin kama sallayta wa rahimta wa barakta 'ala Ibrahima wa 'alaa aali Ibrahima fi'l-alamîna innaka hameedun majeed.
Allahumma salli 'alaa malaa-ikatika wa'l-muqarrabeena wa 'alaa anbiyaa-ika wa'l-mursaleena wa 'ala ahli taa'atika ajma'een.
Allahumma'ghfir li wa liwalidaya wa li a'immatina wa liman sabbaqanaa bi'l-eemani maghfiratun 'azmaa.
Allahumma inni as'aluka min kulli khayrin sa'alaka minhu Muhammadun nabiyyuka wa a'udhu bika min kulli sharrin ista'adhaka minhu Muhammadun nabiyyuka.
Allahumma'ghfir lana ma qaddamnâ wa ma akharnaa wa ma asrarnaa wa ma a'lannaa wa ma anta a'lamu bihi minhaa.

Rabbanaa aatina fi'd-dunyaa hasanatan wa fi'l-akhirati hasanatan wa qina 'adhaaba'n-naar wa a'udhu bika min fitna'l-mahya wa'l-mamati wa min fitna'l-qabri wa min fitna'l- masîhi'd- dajjali wa min 'adhaabi'n-naari wa su'i'l-maseer.

As-salaamu 'alayka ayyuha'n-nabiyyu wa rahmatu'llahi wa barakatuh. As-salaamu 'alaynaa wa 'ala 'ibaadi'llahi's-saaliheen.

(And I bear witness that what Muhammad brought is true. And that the Garden is true. And that the Fire is true. And that the Hour is coming and there is no doubt about it. And that Allah will raise up those in the graves. O Allah pray on Muhammad and the family of Muhammad and have mercy on Muhammad and the family of Muhammad as you prayed on and had mercy on and blessed Ibrahim and the family of Ibrahim. In all the worlds, You are praiseworthy, glorious.
O Allah, pray on Your angels and those brought near and on Your Prophets and Messengers and on all the people who obey You.

O Allah, forgive me and my parents and our Imams and those who have gone before us with iman with complete forgiveness.

O Allah, I ask You for every good thing that Muhammad, Your Prophet, asked You for and I seek refuge in You from every evil that Muhammad, Your Prophet, sought refuge in You from.

O Allah, forgive us for what we have done and for what we have put off doing, for what we have kept hidden and what we have done openly and for what You have more knowledge about than us.

Our Lord give us good in this world and good in the next world and protect us from the torment of the Fire. I seek refuge in You from the trials of life and death and from the trials of the grave and from the trials of the Dajjal and from the torment of the Fire and from an evil end.
Peace be upon you, O Prophet and the mercy of Allah and His blessings. Peace be upon us and upon the right-acting slaves of Allah.)

It is understood that when he has said the supplication, it is recommended that he does not end with the salam until he has asked for peace on the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam). That is necessary for everyone who prays as opposed to the well-known position which is what Shaikh al-Qarafi (rahmatullahi alaihi) related: that the salam on the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) is not repeated when he makes supplication. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) recommended it for someone following an Imam. When the Imam says the salam, he says, "Peace be upon you, etc." This addition is weak. Part of its weakness is that it is particular to the one following the Imam as Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) stated.

10.3e Saying the Salam

Then you say, "As-salamu 'alaikum" once

After that you say that salam which ends the prayer. This salam is obligatory without dispute for every one who prays, Imam, individual, or following an Imam. He only ends the prayer by it. Specifically incumbent is the phrase which the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) mentioned, by definition and order and in the plural. If he says, "Upon you peace" or "My peace upon you" or "The peace of Allah on you," or he omits the definite article, it is not adequate.

Does he require an intention to end the prayer or not? There are two well-known positions. The predominant, as is seen in the words of Shaikh ibn 'Arafa (rahmatullahi alaihi), is that it is not a precondition, although it is recommended to do it. Indeed, the one who is unable to say the salam of release as a sentence leaves the prayer by his intention. Then the intention of ending is obligatory and the salam does not remove when he is unable to say part of it.

10.3f The direction faced in the salam

starting to the front and turning to the right a little as you say it. This is what the Imam does or anyone doing the prayer by themselves

This means you incline your head a little to the right. The description of the salam differs with the different people praying. An Imam or one praying alone say one salam, facing the front and a little to the right. He begins by facing is desirable. It is sunnah for anyone who prays to say the taslim aloud. As for the taslim of someone else, namely someone following the Imam, it is best to say it silently. This applies to the man who has no one with him so that any error might result. "Saying it out loud" in the case of a woman is so that she can hear herself.

It is recommended for everyone praying to say the takbir al-ihram aloud, and that is the case for the rest of the takbirs for the Imam as opposed to the one who is following, and for the person praying alone. It is recommended for the Imam to make the salam and takbir al-ihram short so that the one following does not precede him in them. What is meant is quickness without extension.

The Imam and the one praying alone should begin to say it while facing the qibla because they are commanded to face qibla in all the pillars of the prayer, and the salam is one of its pillars, even though he leaves the prayer by it. It is recommended to turn to his right side in the course of it. If he says the salam on his left, intending to end it, and does not say it to his right, his prayer is not invalid according to the well-known position because he has omitted the right, which is meritorious. If the one following says the salam to the left, intending the merit with the intention of returning to the salam of ending, and he believes that the salam to the left is meritorious which does not end the prayer, and a long time passes before he returns to the final salam, then his prayer is invalid. If it is not a long time, it is not invalid because the salam to the left is for a meritorious action, and is to like extraneous speech before the final salam because when he does it with the intention of bringing the final salam after it, he becomes like someone who advances something meritorious before an obligation.

10.3g The salam for someone following an Imam

If you are doing the prayer behind an Imam you say the salam once, turning a little to the right, then you return the salam of the Imam towards the front

The salam of the follower is to say one salam, turning to the right for all of it, as opposed to the Imam and the one praying alone. The difference between him and them is that their salam and response is considered to be part of the prayer, and so they face the qibla at the beginning like all the actions of the prayer. As for the one following the Imam, his Imam said the salam, and he follows him, so it means that his prayer had ended.

It is Sunnah for the one following to say another salam other than the final salam in the direction of the Imam, neither to the right nor the left. He indicates him with his heart by agreement.

then, if there is anyone on your left who has said the salam, you greet them in return. You do not say the salam to the left if no one has said it to you
It is Sunnah for the one following the Imam to respond to his left if there is anyone on his left. It is evident that he does not say the salam to his left unless there is someone on his left who greets him. If he supposes that he did not greet him, as when he omits the salam, for instance he might suppose that he does greet him, but that is not the case.

The position of the necessity of returning the salam to the left by the one following if there is someone on the left and he earns the merit of the group. If there is no one on his left who obtains the blessing of the group since there is actually no one there or there is someone who comes late and missed a rak'at with the Imam, he is not asked to return it. Shaikh Bahram (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "Does the one who comes late who caught the merit of the group reply to the Imam and to the one who said the salam on the left when he finishes the prayer or not since he has missed its place? There are two transmissions: one is that which Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) prefers and it is accepted is that he replies, even if the person on the left has departed.

10.3i The position of the tashahhud

While you are saying the tashahhud you put your hands on your thighs, clenching all the fingers of the right hand except your forefinger which you extend with its side uppermost

It is recommended in the tashahhud to place the hands on the thighs close to the knees. This varies. The fingers of the right hand are clenched except for the forefinger. It is extended in supplication and glorification to indicate tauhid and to avert Shaitan based on what is in Sahih Muslim, "It drives away Shaitan and he does not forget as long as he is pointing with his finger." You point with its side uppermost. The bottom of the finger is not facing the earth or the reverse.

Whether or not to move the finger

There is some difference of opinion as regards the movement of this finger

Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that it is moved, and he is relied on. Others say that he does not move it. Based on the position that it is moved, there are two positions about whether it moved in the entire tashahhud or only in the testimonies because he confines himself to the first in the Mukhtasar. The literal meaning of the words of Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) is that the second is the well-known one. There is also a question in both statements about whether it is moved from right to left or top to bottom.
Holding it straight

There are those who say that by holding it straight you are indicating that Allah is one God while those who move it say that doing so repels Shaitan. I think they mean by this that you will be reminded in your prayer by moving your finger of what will prevent you, if Allah azza wa jall wills, from becoming forgetful and distracted. Your left hand is laid flat on your left thigh and you neither move it nor point with it.

This means he holds it straight without moving it. The one who moves says that it is to repel Shaitan. The left hand is kept flat, and he does not point with it, even if his right hand has been amputated.

10.4 Dhikr after prayer

It is recommended to do dhikr immediately after the prayer. You say 'Subhan’Allah' (Glory be to Allah) thirty-three times, 'Alhamdulillah' (Praise be to Allah) thirty-three times, and 'Allahu Akbar' (Allah is greater) thirty-three times. Then you seal the hundred by saying, 'La ilaha ill'Allah wahdahu la sharikalah. Lahu'l-mulku wa lahu'l-hamdu wa huwa 'ala kulli shay'in qadir.' (There is no god but Allah, alone without partner. His is the kingdom and His is the praise and He is capable of all things.)

This is done after the obligatory prayers without being separated by the nafila based on what Abu Dawud (radhi’Allahu anhu) transmitted that a man prayed the obligatory prayer and then did the voluntary and 'Umar ibn al-Khattab (radhi’Allahu anhu) pulled him and made him sit. He said, "Do not pray the nafila prayers straight after the obligatory." The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said to him, 'You are right, Ibn al-Khattab. Allah has made you right. The dhikr is done with the expressions heard from the Lawgiver."

This is the sound transmission with the omission "makes lives and dies." Praise is put before takbir and the reverse is done in the salam and asking permission. That is done to be mindful of what is found in the hadith. The like of what is here is in the two Sahih collections. In the Muwatta' is like what is in the chapter of greeting and asking permission. The literal meaning of what he says here is that he says, "Subhan’Allah, Alhamdulillah and Allahu Akbar" 33 times in a group. A group prefer it, including Shaikh ibn 'Arafa (rahmatullahi alaihi). Some prefer that they be said with each one separate.

It is also recommended, after Subh, to continue to do dhikr and ask forgiveness and glorify Allah and make du'a up until sunrise or near to sunrise, but this is not obligatory.

It is clear from his words that dhikr is other than asking forgiveness, glorification and supplication, Some of them say that dhikr is recitation of the Holy Qur'an. Some of them say that dhikr is explained by what is after it, so it is as if he were saying that it is asking forgiveness, etc.

This lasts until sunrise based on what Shaikh at-Tirmidhi (rahmatullahi alaihi) related and said is hasan. The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "If anyone prays Fajr in a group and then sits remembering Allah azza wa jall until sun rises and then prays two rak'ats, has a reward similar to that of a completed hajj." This is what the Salaf did. They persevered in occupying themselves with dhikr after Subh until the end of its time. It is not obligatory, recommended.

There are also the two rak'ats of Fajr which you do before Subh after the break of dawn. In each rak'at you recite just the Fatiha silently.
It is not enough if they are done before dawn, even with only the takbir al-ihram because it is a prayer which is prescribed and is dependent on the obligation of Fajr and it is connected to the time of that which it follows. Two positions are related about it in the general chapter of the obligatory prayers: desirable and Sunnah. The author (rahmatullahi alaihi) of al-Mukhtasar follows the first, which is the accepted position. He must intend them as the two rak'ats of Fajr to make them distinct them from the nafla prayers. If he prays without that, they are not adequate.

In each rak'at it is recommended to only recite the Fatiha silently, based on what is in the Muwatta' and Muslim where 'A'isha (radhi'Allahu anha) said, "The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) used to pray the two rak'ats of Fajr and they were so quick that I would wonder whether he had said the Fatiha in them or not." Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) related that Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) recited the Fatiha and a sura in them from the short ones based on what is in Sahih Muslim that after the Fatiha, the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) recited in them al-Kafirun and Ikhlas. It is better to pray them in the masjid.

If someone enters the masjid without having prayed them, and the iqama for the obligatory prayer has been given, he omits them and joins the Imam and then prays them after sunrise. Their time extends until midday. He does not make up any nafla prayers except them. Whoever sleeps through Subh until sunrise, prays Subh and then prays them afterwards. Whoever forgets them until he has prayed Subh or the time of Subh has come does not pray them until sunrise.

10.5a Recitation in Dhuhr

Your recitation for Dhuhr should be from suras like the ones you recite at Subh or a little shorter,

His words means that the recitation in Dhuhr is equal is what is recited in Subh, i.e. from the long. That is what Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) said. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it is recommended that the recitation in Dhuhr be a little less than the recitation in Subh. That is preferred. If, for example, he recited al-Fath (Holy Qur’an 48) in Subh, he recites something like al-Jumu'a (Holy Qur’an 62) or as-Saff (Holy Qur’an 61). It is not understood that he recites the middle mufassal. Shaikh ibn 'Umar (rahmatullahi alaihi) considers that the words of the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) imply a third position, which is choice.

10.5b Out loud
but at Dhuhr none of the recitation is done out loud. In both the first and the second rak'ats you recite the Fatiha and another sura silently and in the last two rak'ats you recite just the Fatiha silently

Recitation is not out loud in Dhuhr, either the Fatiha nor anything else. Reciting the Fatiha in the last two is by way of Sunnah.

10.5c Tashahhud

You do the tashahhud in the first sitting as far as the phrase, 'wa ash-hadu anna Muhammadan 'abduhu wa Rasuluh.'

He adds this.

105d Takbir for standing

After that you stand up but do not say 'Allahu Akbar' until you are fully upright. This is what someone leading the prayer, or someone doing the prayer by themselves, does

Then after finishing the tashahhud to the point mentioned, he rises for the third rak'at, and he does not say the takbir when he begins to stand up, but waits until he is upright according to what is known in the school in action and because he has not moved from a pillar. He has moved from a Sunnah to a fard, and the fard is more entitled to the takbir, and because rising for the third is like beginning a new prayer. That is how the Imam and person praying alone does it.

10.5e Standing when following the Imam

If you are doing the prayer behind an Imam you stand up after the Imam has said, 'Allahu Akbar', and, when you are fully upright, you say, 'Allahu Akbar'

If you are following an Imam, you only stand up after the Imam has said, "Allahu Akbar" and has finished it. When you are upright, then you follow the Imam, and imitate it. All his actions come after the Imam's actions. In the hadith, "Do not precede me in bowing or prostrating." This tells us that the one following the Imam follows him because the prohibition against going ahead of him demands following. It negates getting ahead and doing at the same time.

Apart from that, the rest of the prayer, in terms of the ruku', sujud and sitting, is the same as has been mentioned for Subh
The rest of the prayer is the same as that for Subh. The proof of that is that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did it and taught people. There is no difference in what was mentioned between him doing it and teaching people.

10.5f Nafila prayers after Dhuhr

It is recommended to pray four nafila rak'ats after Dhuhr, saying the salam after each two rak'ats

This is because of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "If anyone perseveres in the four rak'ats before Dhuhr and four after them, Allah azza wa jall will forbid him to the Fire," i.e. persevering in what was mentioned is a reason for not committing a major wrong action. Then his body will be forbidden to the Fire. The hadith is related by Imam Ahmad (rahmatullahi alaihi) and the people of the Sunan, i.e. Shaikh at-Tirmidhi (rahmatullahi alaihi), Shaikh an-Nasa’i (rahmatullahi alaihi), Shaikh ibn Majah (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh Abu Dawud(rahmatullahi alaihi). If you said that since it is encouraged to persevere with four before and four after, why does the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) confine it to the four afterwards, I said that it is to point out the difference between it and 'Asr where he only does nafila before it. Shaikh at-Tata'i (rahmatullahi alaihi) mentioned it.

10.6a Nafila before 'Asr

It is also recommended to do the same before 'Asr

He should do four rak'ats before 'Asr since it is confirmed that he (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "May Allah azza wa jall show mercy on a man who prays four rak'ats before 'Asr" which has the senses of, "O Prophet, show mercy." There is no doubt that his supplication is answered.

10.6b Recitation in 'Asr

For 'Asr you do exactly the same as we have detailed for Dhuhr except that in the first two rak'ats, after reciting the Fatiha, you recite one of the short suras such as "Wa'd-duha" (93) or "Innaa anzalnaahu". (97)

You do 'Asr like Dhuhr except that you use shorter suras. So if you begin it with one of the long sura, you should leave it and recite a short sura.

10.7 Maghrib

10.7a Recitation in Maghrib
For Maghrib you do the recitation out loud in the first two rak'ats, in each rak'at reciting the Fatiha and one of the short suras. In the third rak'at you recite the Fatiha on its own and do the tashahhud and say the salam

The third rak'at is done silently. The 'amal is that short suras are used. What is transmitted to the contrary is, interpreted, i.e. Shaikh an-Nasa’i (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Abu Dawud (radhi’Allahu anhu) transmitted that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) used to recite al-A’raf (Holy Qur’an 7) in Maghrib. So it is interpreted that it is possible that he (alaihi salat wa salam) knew that those behind him would not be harmed by that. Otherwise, he would have continued on an easier action.

You only recite the Fatiha in the third. After it, you do the tashahhud and prayer on the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) and make supplication after that and say the salam.

10.7b Nafila prayers

It is recommended to do two nafila rak'ats after Maghrib and if you do more than this, that is good. Six rak'ats are specifically recommended
He stressed the recommendation to pray two rak'ats after finishing Maghrib and more is good. Evidence for its recommendation lies in the fact that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did it. What is more than two is good since He says, "Whoever does an atom's weight of good will see it." Six are recommended since he (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "If anyone prays six rak'ats after Maghrib in which he does not say anything evil [i.e. haram] between them, that is equal to the worship of twelve years." Shaikh ibn Khuzayma (rahmatullahi alaihi) related it in his Sahih as did Shaikh at-Tirmidhi (rahmatullahi alaihi). That which is in at-Tata'i from the Sahih of Shaikh ibn Khuzayma (rahmatullahi alaihi) is that they are equal to the worship. One of them said, "To the worship of the Banu Israel". In the Collections of Shaikh at-Tabarani (rahmatullahi alaihi), "If anyone prays six after Maghrib he will be forgiven his wrong actions, even if they are like the froth of the sea."

10.7c Nafila between Maghrib and 'Isha'

Doing rak'ats in the time between Maghrib and 'Isha is also strongly recommended

Imam al-Ghazali (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) was asked about the words of the Almighty, "Their sides avoid the beds," and said that it is praying between Maghrib and 'Isha'. The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "You must pray between Maghrib and 'Isha', It removes vanities," i.e. it expels what someone has disliked, words or actions so that he is not criticized for it nor is he moved to a forbidden action or from a small sin to a great one which only repentance of Allah azza wa jall's pardon expiates.

10.7d Other aspects of Maghrib

As for the other aspects of Maghrib, they are the same as has already been mentioned regarding the other prayers

This is to have the recitation out loud in the first two with the Fatiha and a short sura, and only the Fatiha silently in the third.

10.8a Recitation in 'Isha'

For the last prayer, 'Isha - which is also known as al-'Atama although the name 'Isha is more appropriate -you pray the first two rak'ats out loud, reciting in both of them the Fatiha and another sura. The suras chosen should be a little longer than those chosen for 'Asr. In each of the last two rak'ats you recite the Fatiha to yourself. The other parts of the prayer are done as has already been described Recitation in the 'Isha' prayer is longer than 'Asr. In the last two rak'ats, he recites only the Fatiha.

10.8b Sleeping before 'Isha'

Sleeping before 'Isha is disliked, as is talking after it unless there is a special need to do so.

It is not disliked to talk after its time has come and before it has not been prayed. Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that. It is also disliked to sit up without conversation out of the fear of missing Subh and rising at night.

10.9 Volume of Recitation

10.9a What is meant by 'reciting to yourself'

The expression 'reciting to yourself' as far as the prayers are concerned means moving the tongue as you articulate the words of the Holy Qur'an. The expression 'reciting out loud' means, if you are doing the prayer alone, that you recite loud enough for yourself and anyone standing close to you to hear.

This is the least of doing it silently and the most is that he only can hear himself. By moving his tongue, he is careful more reciting in the prayer with his heart. It is not enough. So if he were to take an oath that he would not recite the Holy Qur'an and then made it flow in his heart, he does not break the oath of not reciting.

The minimum of out loud in the obligation is that someone can hear it and its maximum has no limit. Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "Look at the meaning of his words, "if he is alone." It is clear that it is not for the Imam who should make it heard by himself to hear himself and those behind him. If the one behind him does not hear him, his prayer is valid. The Sunnah is achieved by the one next to him hearing. Shaikh al-Aqfahasi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that if he is alone. he considers the one near him to be another persons praying, and so his principle in being out loud is that of a woman.

The place where the out loud is demanded, as in the commentary of Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi), is when it does not entail confusing someone else. Otherwise that which will result in confusion is forbidden, even if it leads to making the Sunnah fall because he does not commit anything unlawful to obtain the Sunnah.

10.10 Women's Prayer

10.10a Women's recitation
Women's recitation in the Holy Qur'an should be quieter than that of men

The woman is quieter than man so that only she can hear herself, like the talbiyya. The loudest of her loud and quiet recitation of it is the same, and it is that only that she can hear herself. According to this, she is the same silently and aloud, i.e. the silent is not lower than that which is done with the movement of the tongue, i.e. with how a man recites silently.

10.10b Difference from men's prayer

Otherwise they do the prayer in the same way as men except that they should keep their legs together and their arms close to their sides and keep themselves as gathered as possible when sitting and in sujud and in the whole of the prayer in general

She is like the man in the prayer except that she keeps her legs together and arms close in. She does this out of fear of breaking wind because she is not like the man in retention. She has a certain looseness. If her legs were apart, she might break wind which would break wudu'. This is also true of ruku' and she does not put her arms out like a man. What the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) mentioned is the transmission of Shaikh ibn Ziyad (rahmatullahi alaihi) from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) which is contrary to the statement of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) in al-Mudawwana because he considers the man and woman the same in the form. That which the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) mentioned from the transmission of Shaikh ibn Ziyad (rahmatullahi alaihi) is preferred and the words of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) are weak.

10.11 The Witr and nafla prayers at night

10.11a The Shaf'i and Witr

Then you pray the Shaf'i (even) and Witr (odd) out loud

After 'Isha', you pray the shaf'i prayer which is two rak'ats. There are positions about whether it a precondition that it have a specific intention or whether any two rak'ats enough. The evident one is the second based on that fact that it is valid that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The prayer at night is in ones and twos. When one of you fears the approach of Subh prayer, he should pray the one rak'at of the witr to make odd what he prayed". After the two rak'ats, he prays the witr. It is a confirmed Sunnah in the famous position. It is said that it is obligatory and that it is the most confirmed of the Sunnah’s. It is a stronger Sunnah than the ‘Id, and stronger than the Eclipse and Rain prayers. The two rak'ats of tawaf are stronger than the witr.
As for the funeral prayer, it is less than the witr and more than the ‘Id. Shaikh Abdu'l-Baqi (rahmatullahi alaihi) demonstrated that the funeral is more confirmed than the witr.

In the best position it is a single rak'at after the shaf'i. The place of its excellence is after the shaf'i. There are two statements about whether the shaf'i is a precondition of completeness or a precondition of validity. The first is taken by the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) of al-Jawhar and Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi). Shaikh al-Baji (rahmatullahi alaihi) clearly stated that it is well-known. The second is that he does a witr without the shaf'i. Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that he repeats his witr after the shaf'i as long as he has not prayed Subh, i.e. by way of Sunnah. When we say that the shaf'i must be put first it means its being before it is a precondition of validity. It must be connected to the witr. A small gap is permitted. There are two positions about whether a long gap is permitted.

10.11b Night nafila prayers

In the same way it is recommended to do nafila prayers at night out loud whereas nafila prayers during the day should be done to yourself although if you say them out loud during the day it is still acceptable.
This means it is permitted. Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) related to statements about it being disliked.

10.11c Number of rak'ats for shafi'i

The least number of rak'ats you can do for the shafi'i is two

There is no limit to its maximum.

10.11d Recitation in the shafi'i

It is recommended that you recite the Fatiha and Sura al-A'la (87) in the first rak'at and the Fatiha and Surat al-Kafirun (109) in the second followed by the tashahhud and the salam

After the salam, you stand for the witr. It is recommended that they be separated by a salam based on the previous hadith and the Maliki Madhhab.

10.11e Recitation in the Witr

You then pray the single rak'at of witr, reciting in it the Fatiha, Surat al-Ikhlas and the two suras of protection. [113 and 114.] If you do more than one pair of rak'ats for the Shafi'i you do the Witr at the end
This recitation is recommended. Qadi ibn al-'Arabi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that the one who strives recites in it the end of his hizb and others recite Ikhlas. The accepted position which the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) mentioned is based on what Abu Dawud (radhi’Allahu anhu) and others related. 'A'isha (radhi’Allahu anha) was asked what the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) recited in the witr. She said, "He used to recite al-A’la in the first, al-Kafirun in the second and Ikhlas and the suras of protection in the third. It is clear that this answer does not conform to the literal words of the question because it literally was whether he did the witr with three or something else. So perhaps she understood that the asker meant what the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) recited in his witr.

10.11f The night prayers of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam)

The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) used to pray twelve rak'ats at night making the number odd by praying one rak'at at the end. It is also said that he did twenty rak'ats making the number odd by adding one rak'at at the end.

There are sound transmissions in the Sahih, i.e. from the hadith of 'A'isha (radhi’Allahu anha) and there is no contradiction between the transmission of 12 rak'ats and that of 11 rak'ats because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) used to begin his prayer with two quick rak'ats after wudu' and sometimes they were considered part of his devotions. So sometimes she reported 12 and sometimes did not because they were connected to wudu' and the release of the knot of Shaitan, and so she reported ten rak'ats. Standing at night or tahajjud was an obligation in respect of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) and recommended for us since he said, "You should stand at night. It is the habit of the righteous before you and an act of nearness for your Lord and an expiation of evil deeds and prevents wrong actions.

The best time for doing night prayers is the last part of the night

This is for the sake of tahajjud according to Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) and his followers based on what is in the two Sahih collections where the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) says, "Our Lord descends every night to the lower heaven when a third of the night remains. He says, 'Is there any who calls on Me so that I can answer him? Who asks of Me so that I can give to him? Who asks My forgiveness so that I can forgive him?" Imam ash-Shafi'i (rahmatullahi alaihi) singled out the middle of the night by the report that the Prophet Da'ud (alaihi salam) used to sleep half the night and stand in prayer for a third of it and then sleep a sixth. Then it is established that the end of the night is better.

10.11h Delaying night prayers

For this reason it is better to delay your nafil night prayers and your Witr until the last part of the night. However, if you are someone who does not usually wake up in time you should do your Witr, along with any nafil prayers you want to do, at the beginning of the night.

This is based on what is in Muslim and elsewhere from the marfu' hadith of Jabir (radhi'Allahu anhu): "Anyone who is afraid that he will not get up at the end of the night should do his witr at its beginning. Anyone who intends to get up at the end of night, should do the witr at its end. The prayer at the end of the night is witnessed" i.e. the angels of mercy attend it. The upshot is that it is recommended to delay the witr in two cases if it is his custom to wake up at the end of the night or whether he does or does not is equal. It is prayed before in one case. which is when he usually sleeps until Subh.

and then if you do wake up in the last part of the night you can do whatever nafila prayers you want to in pairs, but you do not repeat the Witr

If someone does not usually awake up and does his witr before and his nafila as is best for him, and then he later wakes at the end of the night, he can do whatever nafila he wishes because the fact that he has already done the witr does not keep him from beginning prayers after it. However the place of that is when he has the intention of nafila after the witr or during it, not that it happens before he begins the witr. If he intends to do nafila after the witr, that is not permitted. Indeed it is disliked. The best is for the nafila to be in pairs of two rak'ats based on the hadith about the night prayer being in twos. Then when he finishes his nafila, he does not repeat the witr since doing it after 'Isha' was valid and it is feared that it is disliked for him to repeat the witr since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "There are not two witr in the night," as Abu Dawud (radhi'Allahu anhu) and Shaikh at-Tirmidhi (rahmatullahi alaihi) transmitted it.

If you normally pray at the end of the night but oversleep, you can still do your night prayers overlapping the time of Fajr up to when it begins to get light.
Connected to oversleeping is the one who becomes unconscious, insane, or menstruates and then the excuse disappears at dawn. He did not deliberately delay it and so he does not have to pray it, even if he is able to do it with Fajr and Subh before it gets light. He is permitted to do it between dawn and light. The precondition for doing it is that he does not fear that it will get light and that he slept through it by being overcome and that he does not fear missing the group. If he lacks its precondition, he omits it and prays Subh without the shaf'i and witr because they are done after Fajr without any precondition.

When someone sleeps through his normal prayers until after Fajr, he does the witr because it has two times, ikhtiyari which is after the 'Isha' prayer until dawn, and a daruri time from dawn until he prays Subh according to the well-known position by the one who says that the witr is not prayed after dawn.

10.11k Praying witr late

Then you pray your Witr and do Subh

If he prays Subh and omits witr, he prays it after the time of the nafila. This is if there is enough time for three rak'ats. If there is only enough time for two rak'ats, he leaves the witr and prays Subh in the well-known position. Opposite it is the statement of Shaikh Asbagh (rahmatullahi alaihi) that he prays the witr as one rak'at and one rak'at of Subh before the sun. If there is only enough time for one rak'at, then Subh is incumbent by agreement. If there is enough time for five or six, he prays the Shaf'i and witr and Subh and omits Fajr. If it is ample enough for seven, he prays all.

10.11 Witr after Subh

If you remember that you have not prayed Witr after you have done Subh you do not make it up

The like of it is in the Muwatta' from a group of Companions. If he forgets the witr and remembers it in the Subh prayer, it is recommended that he step in the famous view if he is alone and then pray the witr and then start the Subh prayer again, i.e. after he repeats the Fajr after the witr. It is even more so if he remembers the witr after the Fajr prayer and before beginning Subh. So he prays the witr and then repeats Fajr. It is the same if he has prayed Fajr and then remembers an obligatory prayer before Subh, it is few. Then he repeats Fajr after he has prayed the missed prayer. If he is following an Imam, it is recommended that he continue, even if he is certain that if he stops the prayer and prays the witr, he will catch the excellence of the group. There are two transmissions about the Imam. One is that he stops and the other that he does not. According to the position that he stops, does he appoint a deputy based on an analogy with minor impurity or does he not do so based on analogy of what was mentioned of a prayer in a prayer. According to the statement that he does not appoint a deputy, does the one following stop or not? He appoints and they complete their prayer. This disagreement about stopping or continuing is when the time is ample. If the time is short, he continues without disagreement.

10.12 Entering the Masjid

10.12a Two rak'ats

If you are in wudu' when you go into a masjid you should not sit down until you have prayed two rak'ats

When you enter a masjid, it is disliked to sit before praying and this is not eliminated by the fact of sitting. If he enters often, then the first is enough for him if he returns to the masjid soon by custom. Otherwise he should do it again.

These two are a greeting for the masjid which is meritorious and is accepted. Shaikh ibn 'Abdu's-Salam (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that they are Sunnah. The basis for this is the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), "When one of you enters the masjid, he should not sit down until he has prayed two rak'ats." (Sahih Muslim in the form of a prohibition) Sahih al-Bukhari has it, "When one of you enters the masjid, he should do two rak'ats before he sits, by way of command. This command is by way of meritorious action, not by obligation, and the prohibition is dislike and not prohibition.

There is no difference in the command to greet the masjid on the Friday masjid or others except the masjid of Makka. In it he begins with the tawaf when it is demanded of him, even if by recommendation or it is desirable for someone coming from outside to do them first or who does not intend it. If he is in Makka and does not have to do tawaf and does not desire it, but he enters it for the prayer or to visit the House and greets it with two rak’ats if it is the time in which the nafîla is allowed. Otherwise, he sits like in any other masjid. An exception is also the masjid of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) according to one of two statements of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) that he begins with the greeting to the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) before beginning to bow and the other is that he begins with ruku' and Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) recommends it and he is relied on because the greeting is the right of Allah azza wa jall and the greeting is a human right and the first is more confirmed.

10.12b The time

provided it is at a time when you are allowed to pray
A precondition for greeting the masjid is that it is a time in which prayer is permitted. If a prohibited time has begun, like sunrise and sunset, the khutba for Jumu'a, after 'Asr and after Fajr, then it is obligatory that he does not pray in sunrise, sunset and the khutba, and desirable that he not pray after 'Asr and Fajr. If he begins the prayer in a prohibited time, then it is obligatory to stop and it is recommended in a disliked time.

It is recommended for the one who is not permitted to greet because of the prior impediments to say four times, "Glory be to Allah and praise belongs to Allah. There is no god but Allah and Allah is greater" and he performs the greeting with the fard prayer or, which is better, with a Sunnah or desirable prayer. He obtains the reward if he intends the greeting and the fard.

10.12c Fajr taking their place

If you go into the masjid before you have done the two rak'ats of Fajr they take the place of those two rak'ats. If you have already prayed the two rak'ats of Fajr before you go to the masjid, there is a difference of opinion about what you should do. Some people say you pray two rak'ats and some people say you do not

In such a case, the two rak'ats of Fajr suffice for the greeting of the masjid and he does not pray the two rak'ats of greeting the masjid before it. That is accepted position. It is also said that he prays them, but that is weak. If you said that time does not demand the greeting and satisfying the thing is a branch of demanding it, I said that this is based on the position that the greeting is demanded at this time. If you pray them at home and then go to the masjid and find that the iqama for the prayer has not been given, there is disagreement about someone who prays the Sunnah of Fajr outside it. It is said that he prays two rak'ats and some say that the sits down before praying, and that is accepted.

10.12d No nafila prayers between dawn and sunrise

Between the break of dawn and sunrise there are no nafila prayers except the two rak'ats of Fajr

i.e. and the regular prayers of the one who slept through them as was stated, the shafi'i and the witr absolutely, the funeral for the one it is not feared will putrefy, and the prostration of recitation are done before brightening, and so doing them in that time is disliked. When you fear the corpse will putrefy, it is no unlawful to pray over him at the time of prohibition and it is not disliked at the disliked time. When he fears that the corpse will putrefy and prays over it at the time of prohibition or dislike, the prayer over him is not repeated when it is permitted, whether he is buried or not. It is like that in the prohibited time if he is buried. Otherwise it is repeated.

When the sun begins to rise, nafila are forbidden, including the funeral, the prostration of recitation and vowed nafila to preserve the root until it has fully risen, and the dislike lasts until it has risen the length of a spear from the spears which are measured as 12 spans.

Chapter Eleven: the Function of the Imam

11.1 The office of Imam

On leading the prayer and judgments concerning the Imam and those who pray behind an Imam

This chapter clarifies who is the best person to be the Imam and who it is disliked to have as Imam. When someone prays alone, that takes the place of the group. It also clarifies one who joins alone on the night of rain. The judgment of the one following is that he recites with the Imam when it is silent and he stands at the right of the Imam when he is alone.
11.1a The best one to be Imam

The man who should lead a group of people in prayer is the best and most knowledgeable one among them.

The one who leads them is the one with the greatest virtue, i.e. if a group gather, and all are excellent and one is more so, he is the one who is entitled to be Imam. It is said that the amount of knowledge has to do with the excellence.

11.1b Women cannot be Imams

Women cannot lead the prayer. This is the case whether the prayer is fard or nafila and whether the group in question are men or women.

As the woman does not lead the prayer, neither does the hermaphrodite. If either of them lead the prayer, the prayer must always be repeated according to the Maliki Madhhab whether those following are like them or not. Their own prayers are valid, even if they intend to be the Imams. Abu Ibrahim al-Andalusi (rahmatullahi alaihi) disagrees with that and says, "Any woman or a hermaphrodite like her who resembles a woman who leads a prayer must repeat it within the time. Know that actually being a male is a precondition for the validity of being an Imam."
11.1c Non-Muslims cannot be Imams

In addition to this precondition, there is another precondition, which is being a Muslim. The Imamate of an unbeliever is not valid.

11.1d Imams must be adults

Also maturity is a precondition and it is not valid for a child to be the Imam of an adult in the obligatory prayer because the child is doing nafila and nafila does not make someone following in a fard prayer valid.

11.1e Imams must be sane

Another precondition is sanity. The Imamate of a madman is not valid.

11.1f The Imam must know the prayer and be upright

Another precondition is knowledge. The prayer is not valid except lead by someone with recitation, fiqh, uprightness and the ability to perform the pillars of the prayer. The one who is ignorant of recitation or fiqh cannot validly lead in prayer someone who has knowledge. As for someone who is illiterate like him, that is valid when there is no one present who can read.

11.1g The Imam must have good character

By good character is meant lack of impiety connected to the prayer. The impiety in the person who is impious towards it is someone who intends to be an Imam through pride and so his Imamate is not valid. As for the impiety of the limb, like the fornicator, it is disliked for him to be the Imam but his prayer is valid as opposed to what is followed by the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) of al-Mukhtasar that it is invalid by such an impious person.

11.1h Ability

Similarly invalid is the Imamate of the one who is unable to perform some of the pillars of the prayer which are fard for the one who is able to.

11.1i Congruence

There must be congruence in the one followed, i.e. the person, place and time. Doing dhuhr behind someone doing 'Asr is not valid nor the reverse, nor performing a prayer behind someone making one up or the reverse, nor Dhuhr of Saturday behind Dhuhr of Sunday nor the reverse.

11.1j Agreement of madhhab

The agreement of the school of the one following with the Imam in obligatory parts. So it is not valid to follow someone who omits the recitation in the last two or fails to rise from ruku' or prostration, for instance, and residence and freedom in Jumu'a. So the Imamate of the traveler is not valid except when he is the khalif. What is meant by a traveler is the one outside of the land of the Jumu'a by a farsang. The Imamate of a slave on Jumu'a is not valid, and the Jumu'a must be repeated if that is possible.

11.1k Reciting with the Imam

People praying behind an Imam should recite to themselves when he recites to himself

It is related that this means that the judgment of the one following the Imam is that it is recommended for him to recite with the Imam in what the Imam says silently. That is since lack of recitation is a means to thinking and whispering.

11.1l When the Imam recites aloud
but should not recite with him when he recites out loud

It is disliked to recite when he recites out loud, even if he cannot hear his voice, according to the text. If he recites with him, what he has done is bad, but his prayer is not invalidated. The basis for this is the words of Allah azza wa jall, "When the Qur'an is recited, then listen to it and be silent." Shaikh al-Bayhaqi (rahmatullahi alaihi) reported from Mujahid (radhi’Allahu anhu) that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) was reciting in the prayer and he heard one of the Ansar reciting, and then the words of Allah azza wa jall were revealed: "When the Qur'an is recited, then listen to it and be silent." They related it from Mujahid (radhi’Allahu anhu) from another path that he said it was during the khutba on Friday, and another path has the prayer and the khutba.

11.2 Late-comer making up missed prayer

11.2a Catching the prayer

If you catch one or more rak'ats of a group prayer then it is as if you have caught the whole prayer

If you catch one or more rak'ats of the obligatory prayer or another prayer prescribed in a group like the 'Ids, with the Imam, is judged to have caught the prayer. The Muwatta' has the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) "Whoever catches a rak'at of the prayer had caught the prayer," i.e. he is obliged what is obliged of the Imam in the prostration of forgetfulness. He does not follow anyone else nor repeat his prayer in another group. He says the salam to the Imam and to the one of his left and he obtains a reward similar to the reward of those who were present from its beginning. It is 27 degrees higher. This is when he misses the rest of it by necessity, not from choice. Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that he obtains the excellence of the group. It is the literal meaning of the words of the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) and agrees with its explanation.

What we said indicates catching one rak'at of the ikhtiyari time is in the position of catching all the prayer in negating the sin, even if he delays the ikhtiyari. Also no one said that one who misses part of the prayer with the Imam repeats it to obtain the benefits of the group. This is clear in the rest of his words. “Catching the rak'at with the Imam" is by placing the hands on the knees, meaning he bows over so that if he wanted to place his hands on his knees, he could certainly do that and the Imam would not rise from ruku' before he placed his hands on his knees.

The judgment of the one who misses a rak'at or more with the Imam is that he performs what he missed with the Imam.

11.2b Making up the missed recitation
You then make up the rak'ats you have missed after the Imam has said the salam, making your recitation in them out loud or silent in the way that the Imam did.

What the Imam recited of the Fatiha and the sura, he recites as the Imam recited: what he did silently he does silently and what he did out loud, he does out loud. If he sits in the place, he is permitted to sit, even if he is alone, by catching two rak'ats, then he stands with a takbir. If he sits in a place where it is not permitted to sit, even if alone, by catching one or three rak'ats with him, he stands without a takbir. It is the famous position as opposed to Shaikh ibn al-Majishun (rahmatullahi alaihi). It is as he thought that the takbir is for moving to a pillar of the prayer. The author (rahmatullahi alaihi) of at-Tiraz mentioned from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) in al-'Utibiyya the position that if he sits in the second, he stands without a takbir. He said that it is based on the fact that he is making up the two previous ones and that which begins the first is the takbir al-ihram.

The other aspects of the prayer such as your standing and sitting are done as if you were continuing a prayer you had started by yourself.
He builds on what he has done. He prays like someone who prays until the end of his prayer and then remembers that he has missed some of the prayer. This has three forms because he either remembers what would invalidate one, two or three rak'ats by omitting prostration, recitation of the Fatiha or something else which would invalidate the prayer.

11.3 Repeating the Prayer

If you have already done the prayer by yourself you can do it again with a group in order to get the benefit there is in doing that

If you have prayed the obligatory prayer alone outside one of the three masjids (Makka, Madina and al-Aqsa), where there is no regular Imam and the Iqama was not given while you were in the masjid, it is recommended that you repeat what he prayed in the group, even in the daruri time. The repeating is for the sake of the excellence of the group which is limited by not being outside of the time of the prayer. If it is outside of the time of the prayer, it is not repeated.

The group consists of two and more, and so there is no repeating with one until he is a regular Imam.
If the iqama of the prayer is called while someone is in the masjid, he joins it. The Mudawwana states: "If anyone hears the iqama and has already prayed alone, it is not obligatory for him to repeat it unless he wishes, even if he is in a masjid which he has entered with the Imam. The intention of the one who has prayed alone who repeats it in the group is to obtain the excellence reported in that by the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), "The group prayer is 27 degrees better than the pray alone." The prayer which is repeated for the excellence of the group is general in every obligatory prayer.

11.3b The case of Maghrib

except in the case of Maghrib

If he were to repeat it with the Imam, he bows an even number, and does it as nafila. If he does not remember until he has prayed three with him, when the Imam says the salam, he does a fourth after it as nafila. If he does not remember until he has prayed with the Imam, he does not repeat it. It is also said that he does not repeat it. He is not asked to repeat Maghrib for the group because if it is repeated, it becomes even. Maghrib is three so that the number of rak'ats of the day and night will be odd. According to the words of the author (rahmatullahi alaihi), he repeats Isha', even if he has done the witr. The well-known position is that it is not repeated if he has done the witr for the joining of the two witr in the night according to one of two statements by Shaikh Sahnun (rahmatullahi alaihi) that he repeats the witr when he repeats 'Isha'.

11.3c Only one group prayer

If you have caught one rak'at or more of a group prayer then you should not do that prayer again with another group i.e. it is forbidden for him, even if the second group is greater in number that more excellent. It is the well-known position, i.e. because the excellence for which repeating is prescribed has been obtained, even if the prayer begins with the excellent, and the large group is better. However, this excellence is not prescribed for the sake of repetition. Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "The excellence of the group is have number and the excellence of the Imam is based on what is stated by the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), "The prayer of a man with another man is better than his prayer alone, and his prayer with two men is better than his prayer with one man, and what is more is more beloved to Allah azza wa jall," i.e. wherever he is, that is the case. So this would mean whoever prays with a group should repeat it with a better group, or the one who prayed with an Imam should repeat it with a better Imam. This is not what is meant and it is not what is meant in the hadith. This hadith indicates the encouragement to pray in a group or in large group. Then the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) explains what is understood by his words, to make it clearer.

11.3d When it is allowed

But if you have only caught the sujud or the tashahhud then you can, if you want, do that prayer again with another group

He can choose between two things: either building on his ihram or stopping and joining another group if he hopes to catch it. If he does not hope to catch it, then he completes his prayer and does not stop it. This is in respect of the one who has not prayed before that. As for the one who has prayed before that, and not caught the group prayer except for this amount, he does two, i.e. it is desirable after the salam of the Imam. He does two when the prayer is one after which nafila is permitted, as in at-Tata'i. According to Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi), he absolutely stops, whether he began the prayer with the intention of the fard or nafila, i.e. after the two rakat’s, and does not complete his prayer.

Opposite that is what Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) related in al-Mabsut about his intention when he joined the Imam was to make it Dhuhr with four and his prayer at home nafila, then he must complete it and it is up to Allah azza wa jall to make the fard whichever of them He wishes. If he does not mean to negate the first, then the first is adequate and he does not have to complete this one.

11.4 Positions behind an Imam

Then there are six positions regarding someone following the Imam regarding whether he is alone, or other men or women are with him.

11.4a Two men

If there is just one man with the Imam he stands on the Imam's right

If there is one man or a child who understands the prayer, i.e. grasps that obedience is rewarded and disobedience is punished. Otherwise he is only a child. It is desirable for such a person to stand with the Imam to his right and a little bit behind him so that the Imam can be distinguished from the follower. It is disliked to be level. The fact that his place is to the right is based on what is in the Sahih that Ibn 'Abbas (radhi'Allahu anhu) said, "I spent the night in the house of my aunt, Maymuna (radhi'Allahu anha) and the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) rose to pray and I stood at his left and he moved me with his hand behind his back to the right side.

11.4b Two men or more men

Two men or more stand behind the Imam

This is based on what is in Sahih Muslim where Jabir (radhi’Allahu anhu) said, "The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) stood to pray and I went and stood at the left of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) and he took my hand and brought me round to stand at his right. Then Jabir ibn Sakhr (radhi’Allahu anhu) came and stood at the left of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) and he took our hands and pushed us until he had us stand behind him."

11.4c Women

If there is a woman there as well she stands behind the men

If there a woman, she stands behind the men because of what is in Sahih Muslim where Anas (radhi’Allahu anhu) said, "When I was an orphan in our house, I prayed behind the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) and Umm Sulaym (radhi’Allahu anha) was behind us."
11.4d A man and a woman following the Imam

If there is just one man and a woman praying with the Imam, the man stands on the Imam's right and the woman stands behind them.

The man, or the child who understands the act of worship, stands to the right and the woman stands behind them based on what Anas (radhi'Allahu anhu) said where the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) prayed with him and his mother or aunt and he (alaihi salat wa salam) made him stand to his right the woman behind him. The judgment regarding a group of women with the Imam is the same of a man is with one woman with them. That is indicated in the chapter of Jumu'a where he says that the women should be behind the rows of men.

11.4e A man and a woman

If a man prays with his wife, she stands behind him.

Qadi ibn al-'Arabi (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that the clearest in it is that the husband is like the man. Allah azza wa jall says, "Dwell, you and your wife, in the Garden." She does not stand to his right, meaning it is disliked for to her do that. He should indicate to her to go back but the prayer of neither is invalidated by being level unless there is invalidation by impurity.

11.4f A boy and man

A young boy with a man stand side by side behind the Imam as long as the boy is sensible enough not to run off and leave the man he is standing with on his own

When there is a child and a man, they stand behind the Imam based on the previous hadith of Anas (radhi’Allahu anhu), but it is limited by the people of the Madhhab to when the boy is sensible and he understands the reward of the one who completes the prayer and the wrong action of the one who stops. If the boy does not understand what was mentioned, the man stands to the right of the Imam and the child is left to stand wherever he wishes.

The judgment of these ranks is that it is recommended. Whoever disagrees with the order and prays otherwise has nothing against him unless that the woman goes forward to the rank of the man or in front of the Imam. It is like a man who goes ahead of the Imam—that is disliked without excuse. When a woman goes in front of the Imam, his prayer is not invalidated nor the prayer of anyone with him unless he takes pleasure in looking at her or touching her. The statement that it is invalid by pleasure or looking is weak since there is no touching nor ejaculation. If the one following an Imam goes in front because of an excuse, like the lack of space in the masjid, it is permitted for him without dislike.

11.5 The Imam's single prayer

11.5a The Imam's prayer is a group prayer

The prayer of the regular Imam when he is alone is considered as a group prayer

The regular Imam is the one who is appointed by the ruler or his representative or the waqif (trustee) or group of Muslims in any permitted or disliked manner because the precondition of the waqif demands that he be followed, even if he is disliked. It is like that with the ruler or his representative, even if they command something disliked in one of two positions. It is the same whether the position of the Imamate is in an actual masjid or is a judgment, and thus ships are included in it, and any place in which there is normally a group prayer.

On his own he is considered to achieve the group prayer in its excellence and judgment. Therefore another group prayer is not repeated and it is not held in that masjid again. Whoever prays alone repeats it with him, but with the precondition that the prayer is within its normal time and people expect it normally, with the intention of the Imam, the adhan and the iqama. He can join prayers alone on the night of rain because the difficulty in respect of it and he says, "Allah hears whoever praises him," and does not add, "Our Lord, praise is yours," i.e. that is disliked.

11.5b No two prayers in the masjid

It is disliked for there to be two group prayers for any one prayer in any masjid that has a regular Imam

Before, after or with the regular Imam according to the position of the school that it is unlawful for anyone to pray the prayer while the regular Imam is praying it, alone or in a group, because that would lead to mutual hate and dispute between the Imams and the splitting of the community whereas the Shari'ah commands harmony.

11.5c If someone has already prayed he cannot be Imam

Anyone who has already prayed a particular prayer cannot then be the Imam for that same prayer for anyone else

Anyone who has prayed an obligatory prayer alone or in a group, as Imam or following, cannot lead that prayer which he repeats. It is known from the Madhhab that it is not permitted for someone doing a fard prayer to follow someone doing a voluntary one and is repeating that in which he led a group if they wish, which is the approved position of the school, or individuals. Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) says "individuals" and it seems that he noted the Madhhab of the opponent because the first prayer is allowed by Imam ash-Shafi'i (rahmatullahi alaihi) and others. When they repeat it in a group, they become like the one who prayed in a group and then repeated in another group.

11.6 How to follow the Imam

11.6a Following the Imam in the sujud of forgetfulness

If the Imam leaves out something in his prayer and does the sujud of forgetfulness those behind him follow him even though they themselves have not left anything out

It is obligatory that the one following follow him, even if he did it before him. The question has different cases. If he caught all the prayer with him, he is obliged to follow him in every aspect, whether prostration before or after. If he preceded him, then he must either have a rak'at with him or not. If he had a rak'at with him and his prostration is before, then he prostrates with him. If it is after, he does not prostate with him and waits for him sitting, according to what is in the Mudawwana. They said that he is silent and does not say that tashahhud with him. If he differs and prostrates, then his prayer is invalid. If he is ignorant, Shaikh 'Isa (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that he always repeats it. He said in al-Bayan, and it is the most comparable on the basis of the Madhhab is that it is because he has introduced into the prayer what is not part of it. Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) has excused it when it is ignorance and says that its judgment is that of forgetfulness to observe the one who says that he used to prostrate with the Imam.

If he does not do a rak'at with him, he does not consequently prostrate afterwards. As for the prostration before, Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that he does not follow him. If he differs and follows him, then his prayer is invalid, whether intentional or by ignorance, not by oversight. The basis is in what ad-Daraqutni (radhi'Allahu anhu) reported that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "There is no oversight against the person following the Imam. If the Imam forgets, then it is against him and whoever follows him." In the two Sahih collections is that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The Imam is made to be followed in the states of the prayer."

No one should raise their head before the Imam nor do any of the actions of the prayer until he has done them
None of those following the Imam precedes him in ruku', prostration or anything else. If he gets ahead of him, he returns to him thinking to catch him before rising. Is returning Sunnah or obligatory? Shaikh al-Mawwaq (rahmatullahi alaihi) confined himself to the second and even if he fails to return, his prayer is valid since he took his obligation with the Imam before he rose. Otherwise, it is obligatory for him to return. If he omits it intentionally or by ignorance, then his prayer is invalid, but not by oversight. It is in the position of the one who is crowded and it is an analogy with the lowering.

Not going down before the Imam is based on what is in the Sahih collections that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Does not the one who raises his head before the Imam fear that Allah will transform his face into that of a donkey or make his form the form of a donkey?" In the variant of Sahih Muslim is that he said, "O people! I am your Imam so do not precede me in bowing, prostration, standing or leaving.

You only do something after he has begun to do it. It is better to do it after he has begun it and to catch him in it. This is outside of the standing up after two rak'ats. In the rak'at, he must not do it until the Imam is already standing. The basis for that is that Shaikh al-Bara' (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "When the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, 'Allah hears whoever praises Him,' none of them moved his back, i.e. stood up until the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) had gone into prostration. Then we went into prostration after him," i.e. they delayed beginning their action from when he began it and they begin their action before he finished his prostration. The commentator of the hadith said, "It is forbidden to precede the Imam and to do it at the same time as him, and it is disliked to delay until he moves on to another pillar of the prayer. It is also said that accompanying him is disliked.

11.6c Beginning the prayer behind the Imam

You begin the prayer after he has begun it

The one following begins the prayer with the takbir after the Imam has said it. This is obligatory. This is after he finishes saying the takbir. If he says it before him or at the same time as him, then his prayer is invalid, whether he concludes it before him, with him, or after him. There are six forms of this. If he begins after him and ends before him, it is invalid, and if he ends with him or after him, it is sound. So the forms are nine. The same applies to the salam, although in the case of tahrim, there is no difference between the intentional and the oversight. In the case of the salam, it is confined to the intentional, not to oversight. So his prayer is not invalid by that salam.
Note: When he knows that he has said the tahrim before the Imam and wants to say it after him, Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that he says the takbir and not the salam because it is as if he has not said the takbir by his disagreement from what he was commanded. Shaikh Sahnun (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that he says the salam because he disagrees about the validity of the first tahrim.

11.6d Standing up

stand up after two rak'ats after he has stood up i.e. it is recommended to stand after the Imam is completely standing.

11.6e The Salam

and say the salam after he has said the salam

This is obligatory. If he says it before him or at the same time, then his prayer is invalid, unless he starts from forgetfulness. Otherwise, he waits until the Imam says the salam and then says the salam after him.

11.6f Other actions
As for any other of the actions of the prayer, it is acceptable to do them at the same time as the Imam but it is better to do them after him i.e. other than beginning, standing up from two rak'ats, and the salam. These are like going down into ruku', prostration, standing for the second and the fourth. It is permitted to do them at the same time, even though it is disliked, as is shown by the fact that he says, "it is better."

11.6g Omissions by the follower

If anything is left out (sahw) by someone praying behind an Imam, the responsibility for it is borne by the Imam

This is like the takbir and the words of the tashahhud or adding a sajda or ruku'. There is no understanding of oversight, and it includes some intentionality, like omitting the takbir or the tashahhud. That is while he is following the Imam. If he arrived late and forgets while making up what the missed with the Imam, the Imam is not responsible for it because following has ended and his judgment is that of someone praying alone. Then there are exceptions which he mentioned:

11.6h Exceptions
except if it is something like not going into ruku' [Lit. like the rak'at] or sujud or leaving out the "Allahu Akbar" that begins the prayer (takbirat al-ihram) or the salam at the end or neglecting to make the intention for that specific prayer.

"Like the rak'at" means all that is obligatory except for the Fatiha, and the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) did not enumerate it. That is because all of these are obligations and the obligations do not fall aside by forgetfulness and are not made up by prostration.

11.6i A meritorious action: the Imam changing his position after the prayer

The Imam should not stay in the same place after he has said the salam but should move away

When the Imam has said the salam for the obligatory prayer, he should not remain where he is, whether the prayer is nafla or not, but should move. It is clear in the words of the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) that he moves. What is meant is not that he leaves the mihrab. What is meant is to move to the right or left. Shaikh al-Ujhuri (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it is enough that he change his place. Shaikh ath-Tha'labi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "This is the Sunnah."
There is disagreement about the reason for it. It is said that he only deserves the place for the sake of the prayer. When he finishes, he does not deserve it. It is said that the reason is to avoid confusion for the one who arrives. It is transmitted from Imam ash-Shafi’i RA) that he stays firm a little after the salam based on what is in the Sahih of Muslim that when he said the salam, he only sat for as long as to say, "O Allah, You are the Peace and peace is from You. You are blessed, O You with Majesty and Honor."

Then he makes an exception about the Imam moving his place after the salam:

11.6j An exception

except if he is in his own place in which case he can do either

This means his house while he is resident or his mount while traveling or if he is in some wasteland. It is permitted for him without dislike because he is safe from what might be feared in that.

Point: Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) and a group of scholars disliked for the Imams of the masjids and groups to make supplication out loud after the obligatory prayers for those who are present so as to convey precedence and honor for this Imam and establishing him as a medium between Allah azza wa jall and His servants to obtain their best interests through him in supplication. Thus he is on the verge of exalting himself and his heart will be corrupted and he will disobey his Lord in this state more than obeying Him. It is related that one of the Imams asked 'Umar ibn al-Khattab (radhi’Allahu anhu) for permission to make supplication for his people after the prayer and he replied, "No, I fear that you will become arrogant until you reach for the Pleads!"

Chapter Twelve: On Various Aspects of the Prayer

This deals with various topics which go beyond the prayer, like the one who is certain about wudu' and uncertain about breaking it, the one who cannot touch water by necessity or does not find anyone to bring it to him who does tayammum.

12.1 Clothing in the prayer

12.1a Minimum Clothing for a woman
The least amount of clothing in which is acceptable for a woman to do the prayer is a robe which cannot be seen through which is long enough to cover the tops of her feet and a head covering through which the hair cannot be seen

Two things are necessary: a robe, and the descriptive words means either thick or enveloping. According to the second, it should be ample so that it covers the tops of the her feet.

The second item is a head covering. It is a garment with which a woman covers her head. Its precondition is the same as the long garment, in that it has to be thick and not transparent. If she prays in something which is lightly woven and transparent, and it is something which shows the 'awra without thinking, then she always repeats the prayer. If it only defines the 'awra, it is disliked and she repeats it within the time. The man is like the woman in that. So the woman must cover the top and soles of her feet and her neck and her hair. She is permitted to only show her face and palms in the prayer. The basis for that is the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), "Allah does not accept the prayer of a woman who has reached the age of menstruation except with a head covering" In one variant, "The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) was asked, "Can a woman pray in a robe and head covering without a waist-wrapper?" He said, "If the robe is ample and covers the tops of her feet."
12.1b Minimum Clothing for a Man

The least which is acceptable for a man is a single garment

Without dislike if it is thick and conceals all his body. If it only covers his private parts, then his prayer is allowed but there is dislike.

12.1c What should not be covered

You should not cover your nose or your face in the prayer

Neither a man nor woman should cover the face in the prayer. All these things which are prohibited are disliked.

12.1d Gathering clothes and tying back hair

Nor should you gather up your clothes or tie back your hair especially for it

As for gathering up the clothes, it is disliked when it is done specifically for the prayer or because of fear that clothes might get dirty because that contains a form of non-humility. When he is working and the time for the prayer comes while he is like that, he is permitted to pray with what he has on without dislike.
As for tying back the hair, it is disliked if that is in order to keep the hair from becoming dirtied by the earth or he does that for the prayer, i.e. ties his hair for the especially prayer.

12.2 Prostration on account of a mistake

12.2a Adding to the prayer

Any time you inadvertently add something to the prayer you should do two sajdas after saying the salam and then do the tashahhud and say the salam again.

This is whenever the Imam, the one on his own or the one following makes a mistake in one of the suras or in what is prescribed for him in the obligatory or nafila prayer, according to what is in the Mudawwana as opposed to the one who said that there is no prostration in the nafila. Our evidence is in the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), "There are two prostration’s for every forgetfulness." The result is that the nafila is like the obligatory except in five questions, silent and out loud: the sura is overlooked in the nafila rather than the obligatory. The fourth is when he raises his head from ruku', he completes it as a fourth in the nafila as opposed to the fard. The fifth is when he forgets a pillar of the nafila, and a long time has passed or he has begun an obligatory prayer or nafila, and has bowed - he does not have do anything, as opposed to the fard, which he must repeat.

If you add something, whether outside the words of the prayer, like speaking inadvertently, or an action of the prayer, like bowing and prostrating, you prostrate for the forgetfulness in the Sunnah according to what is in the Mukhtasar and in at-Tiraz as the obligation of doing it afterwards. Shaikh at-Tata'i (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that.

He does the two prostration’s after the salam, even if there is more than one oversight as long as it is not a lot. Otherwise the prayer would be invalid whether it is from other than the words of the prayer, like speech out of forgetfulness and is lengthy. If it is part of the words of the prayer, there is not prostration for saying it forgetfully, as the prayer is not invalid if it is intentional, as when he repeats the sura or adds a sura at the end of it, unless the words are a fard. Then he would prostrate for forgetfulness. This is like when he repeats the Fatiha out of forgetfulness, even in the same rak'at. There is disagreement about whether the prayer is invalidated by deliberately reciting it. The accepted position is that it is not invalid.
Or he may add something which is not one of the actions of the prayer, as when he forgets that he is praying and eats and drinks. There is disagreement about that and it is said that all of them invalidates the prayer, whether a lot or not. It is said that if it is a lot, it invalidates, and otherwise it does not and is put right by the prostration.

Or it can be one of the actions of the prayer when there is a lot of it in the four rak'ats, like the four actual rak'ats based on what is well-known from Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) and those who follow him. The rak'at is considered to be rising from ruku'. When he raises his head from the second in four, or the first in three or four in two, then the prayer is invalid. There are two positions about whether it is invalid by half of it. It is said that it is invalid, and it is said that it is not, and that is the accepted position. He prostrates for forgetfulness.

A lot in two is like two rak'ats. It is not invalidated by adding one rak'at in the famous position, like the two of Subh and Jumu'a, based on its being fard in its day. Opposite it is that it is only invalid by adding four rak'ats. It is like the four while traveling. They are not invalid except by adding four rak'ats. A lot in Maghrib is four rak'ats in the approved position that three is like four and its not invalidated except by adding four complete rak'ats.
12.2c Missing out something

If you miss something out of the prayer you should do two sajdas before saying the salam after having finished the tashahhud. You then do the tashahhud again and say the salam.

There is the case when the Imam or the one alone or the one following omit something which is a confirmed Sunnah, or the two minor Sunnah’s, whether it is an actual decrease or uncertain one. The confirmed Sunnah’s are those for which there are prostration’s are eight:

Recitation of more than the Fatiha in the fard, and so he prostrates for omitting that in the fard, but not in a nafla.

Reciting out loud in the prayers which are out loud, and he prostrates for omitting that in the fard, not the nafla since he can do them silently.

Doing it silently in its place. When he recites out loud in the place of the silent, he prostrates before the salam. This is related from the opinion of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi), but it is weak. What is approved is that it is after the salam.
A takbir other than the takbir al-ihram. This is based on all of them being one sunnah. As for the statement that each takbir is a sunnah, which is what the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) of al-Mukhtasar says and is stated in al-Mudawwana as well, he prostrates for omitting two takbirs.

The words, "Allah hears whoever praises Him." It is applies as what is before it does.

The first tashahhud and sitting for it. It is one Sunnah, and its words are one Sunnah, and the sitting for it is another Sunnah, and so it is composed of three Sunnah’s.

The final tashahhud.

There is no prostration for other than these eight and the prostration before the salam is after the tashahhud. Then you finish the two prostration’s and do the tashahhud a second time in the well-known position and then say the salam. It is preferred by Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) and he stated that part of the sunnah of the salam is that it follows the tashahhud. His words imply that he does not repeat the prayer on the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam). That is the case.]

12.2d Not repeating the tashahhud
Some people say that it is not necessary to repeat the tashahhud

That is also related from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh Abdu'l-Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) preferred it because the method of one sitting does not have the tashahhud repeated in it twice.

12.2e Both omitting and adding

If you both leave something out and add something you do the two sajdás before the salam

If you leave out some of the confirmed sunnah’s and add something insignificant which was already clarified, then the prostration is also done before the salam, for instance, if he omits the tashahhud and sitting for it and adds a prostration. What the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) mentioned about prostrating only for omission first with the increase after the salam and prostrating only for increase after the salam is the position of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi). Imam Ash-Shafi'i (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that he absolutely prostrates before the salam and Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi) says absolutely after it. Our evidence for the increase is that it is true that once he (SAW) prayed 'Asr and said the salam after two rak'ats. Dhu'l-Yadyn (radhi'Allahu anhu) stood up and said, "Has the prayer been shortened, Rasulullah? Or have you forgotten?" The Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) stood up and did the rest of the prayer and then did two prostration’s after the salam while sitting,

The evidence for the omission is that it is confirmed that he (alaihi salat wa salam) prayed Dhuhr and stood after the first two rak'ats without sitting. The people stood up with him. When he finished the prayer, people waited for the salam, but he said the takbir while sitting. He did two prostration’s before the salam and then said it. Shaikh ibn 'Abdu's-Salam (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "Decrease overcomes increase when they are together." The hadith contains an indication of the prescription of the prostration for forgetfulness - it is two prostration’s. The taslim done forgetfully does not invalidate the prayer. A slight gap after it does not invalidate it. Words of no use by the Imam and the one following do not invalidate the prayer.

12.2f Forgetting to do the prostration of forgetfulness before

If you forget to do the two sajdas which should be done after the salam you do them whenever you remember them even if a long time has elapsed

The prostration of forgetfulness which are after the salam should be done afterwards, even if it is a long time after the salam of the prayer, even after a month. The prostration afterwards is to spite Shaitan. So it is appropriate that he prostrate, even later.

12.2g Forgetting to do the prostration of forgetfulness before

If you forget to do the two sajdas which should be done before the salam

As for the one before, it mends the omission in the prayer and should be in it or close after it. His words in the Mudawwana is that he does it, even if it is in the time which it is forbidden. If he remembers it in a prayer which is not obligatory in the time of prohibition, he delays it until the nafila. It is also clear that it if it is a consequence of the Jumu'a prayer, he does not return to the masjid. The school, according to Shaikh at-Tadili (rahmatullahi alaihi), is that he returns to the masjid. The literal text of the Mukhtasar is that it is particular to returning to the masjid for the prostration before rather than the one after it. It is the approved position. This is the literal text of the Mukhtasar because he says, "in the masjid in the Jumu'a" in the context of the words about the prostration before.

The prostration before must be done in the masjid in which the Jumu'a was performed if he misses the first rak'at of Jumu'a and rises to finish it and forgets the sura and leaves the masjid and a long time has not passed. He returns to the masjid in which he prayed Jumu'a. As for the one afterwards, if when he speaks out of forgetfulness or adds a rak'at by forgetfulness and forgets to prostrate until he has left the masjid, he can prostrate in any masjid.

12.2h Doing the two prostration’s later

then you do them straight away so long as the prayer is not long over

This is when you remember them shortly after finishing the prayer - and this shortness is not defined according to the School. It is the position of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi). It is like that with length. One consults custom. Whatever the custom is acted on in them. According to Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi), it is defined by not having left the masjid.

12.2i After a long time

If quite some time has elapsed, however, you have to do the prayer again

If it is a long time, then he repeats the prayer. This is obligatory because it is invalid since it is a result of omitting three sunnah’s. Shaikh at-Tata’i (rahmatullahi alaihi) says it is like forgetting the middle sitting, or three takbis. This is if he omitted them by forgetfulness. If he left them deliberately, the prayer is invalid by simply omitting them according to Shaikh al-Ujhuri (rahmatullahi alaihi). Shaikh as-Sanhuri (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it is only invalid by length, even if he omits them deliberately.

12.2j Minor omissions

unless what you left out was not particularly critical such as only the sura which should follow the Fatiha or two takbis or saying the tashahhud or similar things i.e. it consists of two slight sunnah’s like being silent or out loud, i.e. he prostrates for them, but when he omits that and a long time passes, his prayer is not invalid. This is when he comes to undertake it. Otherwise, it is invalid in this case because he omitted three sunnah’s. It is said that it is not invalid. If he does not do the standing for it. The words of Shaikh al-Jazuli (rahmatullahi alaihi) are useful in preferring the first. It is agreed that it is invalid since he left a sura in more than one rak'at. When the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) says, "only the sura which should follow the Fatiha", even after the Fatiha, it is clearer so that it will not be imagined that the Fatiha is also omitted. "Similar things" are like the two praises. This is permitted as a mercy from Allah in the prevailing position, based on the fact that the specific expression is desirable. If he omits the two tashahhuds and sits for them because in that case his prostration is only for two slight sunnah’s.

12.2k When nothing is obliged in which case you need not do anything

i.e. he does not have to repeat the prayer nor prostrate, i.e. even after a period of time, since it is the subject of the question of the author (rahmatullahi alaihi). It is known that the two slight sunnah’s are prostrated for, but when a long time has passed, and he does not prostrate, he is not asked to prostrate or to repeat the prayer since it is for two slight sunnah’s. I know from what preceded that the prostration is prescribed to mend the gaps which occur in the prayer as if there is an extra ruku’ or prostration through forgetfulness, or the omission of ruku’ or prostration by forgetfulness, he repairs that omission before the salam. If he omits a confirmed Sunnah or two slight sunnah’s, he must prostrate according to its circumstances, before or after to repair those gaps. There are gaps which occur in the prayer which are not mended by prostration, i.e. the prostration does not replace them - this is when he omits a pillar of the prayer.'

12.2l When they are not sufficient
The two sajdas of forgetfulness are not sufficient to make up for missing out one full rak'at or sujud or failing to recite the Fatiha in two rak'ats of any prayer (or, in case of Subh, one rak'at)

i.e. a full rak'at which he is certain that he omitted or is unsure of it during his tashahhud and before his salam. Then he must perform that rak'at. The manner in which he does is that he does it, building on the preceding rak'ats, even if that rak'at, is one of two, and he prostrates after that for the one before the salam because of moving one of the rak'ats since he is Imam or alone. If it is not one of two, then he prostrates after the salam after he does the rak'at for the increase, not the decrease.

If he omits a prostration or ruku' or rising from them and remembers that while he is standing, for instance, or doing the final tashahhud when he realizes his omission or is unsure about it, and it is not possible to satisfy the fard in its place, then he does the unsure substitution and prostrates before the salam because the obligation in prostration is before. What is meant by doubt is hesitation and so it includes supposition, doubt, and uncertainty. This is in respect of obligations because doubt in decrease in them is like realizing it in the obligation of bringing the unsure substitute as opposed to the sunnah’s. He does not prostrate for omitting them except when he is certain of missing them or it is equally balanced in his mind whether he did it or note.

In cases of failing to recite, he mentions that if someone misses out an obligation or pillar, he performs it, and what he mentioned of lack of mending by prostration for missing out a rak'at or prostration is agreed upon. What he mentioned of lack of mending by prostration for omitting the recitation of the Fatiha in the entire prayer is the position of the majority, and it is preferred. Opposite it is what Shaikh al-Waqidi (rahmatullahi alaihi) related from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) that when recitation is omitted in the entire prayer, his prayer is allowed.

Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that there are three positions about omitting recitation in half of the prayer, like one rak'at of a two rak'at prayer and two of a four rak'at prayer. The best known is that he continues and prostrates before the salam and it is desirable that he repeat his prayer in order to be careful. The second is that he prostrates before the salam and it is enough for him. The third is that what he omitted of the recitation nullifies and he does the like of it and prostrates after the salam. This is what happens in the accepted position that it is obligatory in every rak'at. So it is accepted. Having clarified this point, he moves on to its minimum omission:

12.2m Missing the Fatiha in one rak'at
There is a difference of opinion about what you should do if you miss out the Fatiha in one rak'at in any prayer apart from Subh. Some people say that you only have to do the two sajdases before the salam; others say that the whole rak'at is invalidated and that you must do another rak'at to make up for it; yet others say that you do the two sajdases before the salam without doing another rak'at but then repeat the whole prayer to make sure of being correct.

This is like one rak'at of a three or four rak'at prayer. There are three positions, all of which are in the Mudawwana. One is that the forgetfulness in recitation is satisfied by the prostration as long as it is not Subh. It does not invalidate it and satisfies it. Shaikh Abdu'l-Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) preferred this position based on the fact that it is fard in the majority or based on the fact that it is not obligation or that it is obligatory in one or half of the rak'ats.

The second is that the rak'at from which the Fatiha was omitted is invalid and he must do another rak'at to replace it. Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) prefers this statement. This necessitates that it is obligatory in every rak'at. It is the approved statement. Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that it is sound. Shaikh ibn Shas (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it is the famous transmission.
The third is two prostration’s and no rak'at, but the prayer is repeated to be follow the one who says that it is obligatory in every rak'at. The third transmission is derived from the first. The author (rahmatullahi alaihi) states that completing the first is obligatory and repeating the second is recommended for care, and it is only recommended.]

12.2n The best judgment

This last judgment is the best if Allah wills

This is because it complies with the other two positions. His prostration before the salam and the prayer is not invalid, compiling with the position that it is obligatory in the majority, for instance, and repeating the prayer compiles with the second.

Two points from Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi): The first is that the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) does not mention the judgment of when he omits recitation from most of the prayer, say three out of four or two of out Maghrib. There are two positions in that. The best known is that he prostrates before the salam and repeats the prayer out of caution, i.e. it is recommended. In short, it is that if he omits most and half it is not invalid and he prostrates before the salam and repeats the prayer out of caution.
The second is the place of the prior dispute. All of it is about omitting recitation of the Fatiha when he misses the place where it is done. If he does not miss it in that he remembers before he raises his head from the ruku' he returns to his recitation.

There are two positions about repeating the sura. Shaikh al-Lakhmi (rahmatullahi alaihi) recommends that it be repeated, and it is the well-known position, as in at-Tawdih, either since it is sunnah after the Fatiha or since it is sunnah that it is only done after the Fatiha. It is apparent that the second statement, which is that it is not repeated, is not seen by Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) in the collections. He thought that the sunnah was obtained by reciting it either before or after the Fatiha. Allah know best. Based on what Shaikh al-Lakhmi (rahmatullahi alaihi) preferred of repeating it, Shaikh Sahnun (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that he prostrates after the salam, i.e. for that increase in words. Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that he does not have to prostrate for it, i.e. he does not think a prostration is entailed for that increase in words. This is the predominant position. The author of at-Tawdih said that Shaikh ibn Habib's (rahmatullahi alaihi) statement is sounder because there is no prostration for additional recitation by evidence, even if he recites two suras or recites a sura in the last two, as it says in at-Tahqiq.

12.2o No prostration for omission of a slight sunnah or meritorious action
If you forget to say one takbir or to say 'Sami’allahu liman hamidah' once or to do the Qunut you do not have to do the sajdas of forgetfulness

Except for the takbir al-ihram. As for not prostrating for one takbir, that is well-known. On that basis, if he prostrates for it before the salam, his prayer is invalid, unless he is following someone who believes that there is prostration for omitting that. Then his prayer is not invalid as it is not invalid if he omits the prostration after it. Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that he prostrates for it, and what he mentioned of not prostrating for omitting the one praise is the School. There is no prostration for omitting the Qunut. If he prostrates for it before the salam, his prayer is invalid.

12.2p Remembering omissions after finishing the prayer

If you finish the prayer and then remember that you left out part of it, you should go back to it straight-away by saying a new takbir al-ihram - provided that very little time has passed since you finished it -

This is if you finish with the salam, believing you have done the prayer in full, forgetting that you have omitted something. This is not incompatible with saying the salam intentionally. If he says the salam forgetting that he is in the prayer or that he is speaking the salam, then he is in the position of the one who did not say the salam, and so he catches what he omitted. If he finishes and then remembers with certainty or doubt, and what is meant is by uncertainty is supposition, doubt, or suspicion, and he remembers that he owes one of the obligatory pillars of the prayer like the ruku', prostration or sitting according to the salam. If he says the salam forgetting when rising from prostration, he sits for the amount of the salam and says the salam, and then goes back, i.e. intends to complete it if it is close to the time where he left. Shaikh at-Tata’i (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that literal position of the school demands that he prays where he is immediately. If he does not do so and prays in another place, his prayer is invalid.

When he resumes and intends to complete the prayer, he says the takbir al-iham, with his intention to resume accompanying the takbir. His outward words, "very little time has passed" is the transmission of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi). This is the accepted position. Opposite is that it is that if very little time has passed, he does not say the tahrim. The difference is about the takbir. There is agreement about the intention. When we said that he resumes with the tahrim, if he remembers while he is sitting, he says the tahrim as he is and does not have to stand. This is when he has left the prayer from the place of sitting. If he has left it in another place, like ending after praying one rak'at or three, except for Maghrib, he returns to rising from prostration and says that tahrim for it and does not sit. If he remembers while he is standing, there are two statements about his tahrim. In short, the early companions of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) believed that he says the tahrim from standing because of immediacy. On that basis, there are two positions on whether he sits afterwards and then rise or not. Shaikh ibn Shiblun (rahmatullahi alaihi) believed that he sits because it was the state in which he left the prayer. That is the accepted position. He does not say the takbir for that sitting. He sits without a takbir. When he sits, he says the takbir for ihram, and then he stands with the takbir which is done by the one who leaves the prayer after two. The place is that he sits is for ihram when he says the salam after two. As for the one who says the salam for one or three, he returns to the state of his rising from prostration and says the tahrim and does not sit since that is the place of his sitting. It is desirable for him to raise his hands when the takbir is said.

12.2q Doing what was missed out and then do whatever it was that you missed out

After the takbir al-ihram, he prays the rest of the prayer when he says the salam with certainly that his prayer was complete. If he said it either knowing that his prayer was not complete or being unsure whether it is clear that it was complete or incomplete, then the prayer is invalid. You know what happens if you remember after you said the salam. When you remember it before the salam, and it is in the last rak'at, he is either in ruku' or not. If he is in ruku' he does it standing. If he has come up from ruku', he does it fixed. If it is in prostration, he does from a sitting position, or from two, then he does them from standing. If he does them from sitting out of forgetfulness then he prostrates before the salam because of the lack of going down for them which is not obligatory. Otherwise, it would not be mended by the prostration of forgetfulness. It is disliked to do that deliberately as Shaikh Zarruq (rahmatullahi alaihi) said.

If what is omitted is not in the last, he does it as we stated when it is in the last in sitting or standing or bending and he has not completed the rak'at after the rak'at which has an omission, when he finishes it, he has misses it and puts what he has done in its place when he is alone or an Imam. What we mentioned is that he does the omitted obligation if he can catch it. If what was omitted was the intention and the takbir al-ihram, they cannot be caught because if they are forgotten, there is no prayer. If he forgets one of them, he starts the prayer from its beginning. Know that the unsure omission is like the definite one, What is meant by doubt is hesitation. As for in the sunnah’s, he only considers certain omission or where the doubt is equally balanced, not suspicion.

12.2r After a long lapse of time
If, however, a long time has elapsed or you have left the masjid, you must begin the whole prayer again.

If you remember after a long time has passed after finishing the prayer, which is defined by custom according to Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) or you leave the masjid according to Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi), you must begin again because one of the preconditions of the prayer is that all of it is at the same time.

12.2s Forgetting the salam

That is also the case if someone forgets the salam.

He returns to sitting if it is soon and says the takbir al-ihram while seated and says the tashahhud. He brings the salam and prostrates after the salam, even if that is has been a long time or he has left the masjid where he began his prayer and his place. He says the takbir al-ihram while seated and the tashahhud and brings the salam when he remembers the salam after leaving the place. If he remembers it soon while he is sitting facing qibla, he says the salam where he is and does not need a takbir by which he says the ihram and he does not say a tashahhud. If he turns from it, they prayer is not invalidated if he faces it and says the salam.
He does not owe the takbir al-ihram, or the tashahhud and he must prostrate after the salam for forgetfulness.

12.2t Uncertainty about the number of rak'ats

If you do not know whether you have prayed three or four rak'ats you build on what you are certain of, repeating anything you are unsure about, in this case praying another rak'at to make sure of having prayed four. You then do the sajdas of forgetfulness after the salam.

He prays until he is uncertain. So if he is certain about three, and unsure about the fourth, complete discharge of responsibility is only obtained by four. That is what the author means, "He repeats anything he is unsure about". He prostrates after the salam in the famous position. Shaikh ibn Lubaba (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that he prostrates before the salam, and it is the literal interpretation of what is in the Muwatta' and Muslim where the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "When one you is unsure about his prayer and does not know whether he has prayed three or four, he should remove the doubt and build on what he is certain about and then do two prostrations’s before the salam."

12.2u Speaking inadvertently in the prayer
If you speak during the prayer inadvertently, you also do the sajdahs of forgetfulness after the salam

This is if the Imam or the individual speaks a little in the prayer, forgetting he is in the prayer or that he is speaking. If he speaks deliberately, his prayer is invalid unless it has no purpose and so it is not invalid unless it is a lot in himself. A lot is known by custom. Then he prostrates after the salam because it is increase and is mended by the prostration. Forgetfulness excludes the intentional, ignorant and the one forced, and the one who is obliged to speak to rescue a blind person, for instance. Their prayer is invalid.

12.2v Uncertainty about having said the salam

If you are not sure whether you said the salam or not, you say it and do not do any sajdahs of forgetfulness

He does not rise from his place. If it is near the tashahhud, and does not prostrate for forgetfulness because he said the salam, and his prayer is complete. The second salam occurs outside the prayer and so there is no reason for prostration. If he did not say the salam, he says it now, and no forgetfulness occurs from him for which he prostrates. When it is near, but he has moved from his place, i.e. has not turned from qibla, he says the takbir again, the tashahhud and the salam and prostrates after the salam because of the increase. If he has not moved but turned from qibla, he faces it and says the salam and does not do the tashahhud or tahrim and prostrates after the salam.

12.3a The case of someone subject to constant doubts

Anyone who finds themselves thinking all the time that they have made a mistake in the prayer should pay no attention to their doubts.

If this happens, it is obligatory to ignore it and he should rely on what he feels in himself about that because it is a test from Shaitan. When it has power over the heart, no action ever succeeds with it and so the useful remedy for this disease which brings about confusion is to turn away and the most beneficial remedy is to remember Allah azza wa jall: "As for those who are godfearing, when they are bothered by visitors from Shaitan, they remember. " (7:201) When he says to him, for instance, "You have only prayed three," so he says, "I have only prayed four and my prayer is sound."

12.3b What he does
They do not have to do anything in reparation but they should do the two sajdas after the salam

If he repairs and builds on what he is certain about, his prayer is not invalid as Shaikh al-Khattabi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said. Perhaps his reason is that the basis is building on certainty. He ignores the person with constant doubts to make things easier for him. According to Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi), it is recommended that he prostrate after the salam because is more like an addition if someone is like this since when he is unsure about whether he prayed three or four, he might well pray five.

12.3c General position about people with doubts

This refers to people who find this happening a lot and who are continually in doubt about whether they have added something to the prayer or left something out and never feel certain that they have prayed correctly

i.e. doubt occurs very frequently, and he is always unsure about whether he omitted or forgot. The end of the excuse in it is that he does not have to prostrate by way of the sunnah. This does not contradict the fact that it is recommended for him to prostrate.

Know that a lot is considered to be when this occurs to him in every prayer or every wudu', or once to twice every day, or when it comes one day and stops, or two days and then stops in the third. That is the person with frequent doubt. If it comes two days and then stops on the third, that is not someone with continual doubt, as when it comes to him one day about wudu' and one day about the prayer: he is not someone with continual doubt because the doubt about the means, like wudu' does not include doubt about aims, like the prayer.

They should only do the two sajdas after the salam. On the other hand if they are certain that they have made a mistake they should make the appropriate reparation and do the sajdas of forgetfulness

He only has to prostrate after the salam only. However, if someone is certain that he is omitted something which would invalidate a rak'at, i.e. he is certain that he had forgotten a prostration or ruku' and failed to catch it, as when he remembers while he is in the final tashahhud, for instance, he does a rak'at in place of that which was corrupted and then he prostrates. If the rak'at in which he forgot is one of the first two, he prostrates before the salam, because he has both increase and decrease. The increase is the rak'at which he nullified and sitting in other than its proper place. the decrease is by omitting the sura because he brings a dubious rak'at by building, i.e., with the Fatiha only. If it is one of the last two, he only has increase and so he prostrates after the salam.

12.3e Always making the same mistake

If someone is always making a particular mistake in the prayer and this happens a lot, he should make the appropriate reparation but not do the sajdas of forgetfulness

If he often forgets something, as when it becomes his habit to always forget the first sitting, or to forget the prostration, he puts it right. The reparation of that has two aspects: one is that he missed the place of catching it and the second that he did not. The example of the first is the one is someone who habitually forgets the second prostration of the second rak'at, for instance, without it being a two rak'at prayer and he only remembers after the salam or after starting the third. He does a rak'at in the first and does not prostrate and the third becomes the second and he does not prostrate. The example of the second is when he remembers in the fard before he starts the third. These two aspects are included under "appropriate reparation". He does not prostrate for his forgetfulness.

12.3f Standing up directly after prostration
If you begin to stand up directly from sujud at the end of two rak'ats you should sit back down again as long as your hands and knees have not left the ground

Meaning you move to rise. We do not take it literally so that it does not contradict with his words "after he goes back" because it literally means that he does not stand up after two of the obligatory prayer, omitting the sitting and whoever obliges that he omits the tashahhud. When he sits and stands up forgetting the tashahhud, he does not go back nor prostrate for it. It is agreed about when his hands and knees have not left the ground, so it applies even more if only his hands or knees have left the ground. Then he does the tashahhud and completes the prayer and does not have to prostrate because of the insignificance of that. If he continues to stand up deliberately, his prayer is invalid in the well-known position because he omitted three sunnah’s deliberately. If he continues out of forgetfulness, he prostrates before the salam.

If they have you should continue on up and not go back down and then do the sajdas of forgetfulness before the salam
If his hands and knees have left the ground, he continues. If the time of omission has been a long time and he has not prostrated, his prayer is invalid. This is true in two cases: one is when he leaves the earth with his hands and knees without standing up straight and then remembers after he has left the earth. The second is that he has left the earth and stood up straight. The judgment in it is the same: he continues and does not go back and then he prostrates before the salam. However if he differs and returns to sitting in the first instance deliberately, forgetfully or by ignorance, his prayer is not invalid and he prostrates after the salam for the addition.

In the second case, if he deliberately returns to sitting, the Tawdih states that is well-known that it is sound, and he prostrates for it after the salam for the addition. If he returns by ignorance, Shaikh Sahnun (rahmatullahi alaihi) is reported in an-Nawadir as saying that his prayer is invalid. Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) related that he continues his prayer and then prostrates. If he goes back, he does not rise until he does the tashahhud.

If he abandoned the tashahhud deliberately after returning, then his prayer is invalid according to Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi), but not of Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi). Perhaps the words of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) are based on its being invalid by deliberately abandoning a sunnah which differs from Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi). It is like that in some commentaries on Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi). If he goes back inadvertently, there is agreement that his prayer is not invalid. He prostrates after the salam.

12.4 Missing a Prayer

12.4a Missing a prayer

If you have missed a prayer you should do it as soon as you remember in the same way that you would have done it if you have done it at its right time

If you remember a prayer which you forgot, or slept through or deliberately omitted in the well-known position of the School, you must make it up without any disagreement in the case of the forgotten prayer, and the recognized position of the School in the case of the deliberately omitted prayer. The basis for that is what Sahih Muslim related that Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "If anyone forgets a prayer or sleeps through it, its expiation is that he pray it when he remembers it."

When you remember is whether it is in night or day at the sunrise and sunset, i.e. whenever you are certain or think that you have omitted it. As for when you are unsure, and things are equally balanced, it must be made up, but you avoid those times of the prohibition, as is obligatory in the forbidden times and desirable to forbid the disliked times. As for a suspicion of omission or logical possibility, it is neither obliged nor desirable to make it up in such cases. It is clear from the words of the author that it is obligatory to make up missed prayers immediately, and it is not permitted to delay except for an excuse.

He does the number of ruku' and prostration and its forms - silent or aloud and does the Qunut if it is Subh and does the iqama for every prayer. If he forgets it on a journey, he makes it up as on a journey. If he forgets it while resident, he makes it up as resident. He the time of making it up and missing it differ in respect of health or illness, he takes account of the time when he is making them up. If he misses it while healthy and is ill when he makes it up and can only make the intention or indicate with gesture, he makes it up with intention or gesture and does not defer it because he might die. If this is adequate in performing the prayer, it is even more proper that it be adequate when making up a prayer.

If you have already done the prayer of the time you are in you should do it again after making up the prayer you missed
Then after making up the missed prayers, you repeat the current prayer when it is within its time. This applies equally to the Imam, the one praying alone, and one following. It is desirable for each of them to do it if he remembers a small number of missed prayers - four or five - after he has prayed the current prayer and there still remains enough time to repeat the current prayer after making up what he forgot of a small number of missed prayers. The example of that is if he forgets Maghrib of the day before, for instance, and remembers it after he has prayed Subh the following day and before the sun rises. He prays Maghrib and repeats Subh, but does not repeat 'Isha' since its time has gone. If he remembers Maghrib after sunrise, he does it and does not repeat anything at all.

If he has prayed the current one and then remembers several missed prayers, six or five, he does not repeat the present prayer after he makes up what he missed.

12.4c If there are a lot of prayers to make up

If you have a lot of prayers to make up you can do them at any time of the day or night, including sunrise and sunset, according to what is convenient in your particular situation
If he has forgotten them, or slept through them, or intentionally left them, he makes them up at any time of the day or night, even at sunset and sunset. He first spoke about a few prayers and here about many, and repeats his words about sunset and sunrise to indicate Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi) who says that only Subh of the day can be prayed at sunrise and at sunset only 'Asr of the day. His evidence is the previous hadith. However he indicates that hardship is removed when they are made up without laxness. Then he indicates the second part:

12.4d Less than five prayers to make up

If the number of prayers you have to make up is less than five you should do them before doing the prayer of the time you are in even if that means going over the time of that prayer

If the number of prayers is less than the prayers of a 24 hour day, then he is obliged to do them before the present prayer. Included in this is the one who owes Dhuhr and 'Asr, or Maghrib and 'Isha', and only has enough time for the last. Nevertheless he must do the first. If he does the present prayer first, then it is valid although it is a wrong action to do it intentionally rather than out of forgetfulness, and he does not have to repeat when the time has gone. Thus he does the missed prayers even if that entails missing the current prayer. This is the well-known position. Shaikh ibn
Wahb (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that he begins with the current prayer.

12.4e Several missed prayers

If the numbers of prayers you have to make up is greater than this and you are afraid that if you do them you will not be able to do the prayer of the time you are in its time, you should pray that prayer first.

Then he begins to clarify the judgment of the order of several missed prayers with the current prayer. It is if he misses, according to what the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) says, five or more, or according what Shaikh al-Maziri (rahmatullahi alaihi) states, six or more. It is understood from his words that when he does not fear missing the current prayer, he begins with the omitted ones. This is the position of Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi). The accepted is what Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) related that he begins absolutely with the current prayer, whether the time is narrow or wide, but it is obligatory when the time is short and recommended when it is wide. Then he moves to speak on the third category.

If, while you are doing a prayer, you remember having missed a previous prayer, the prayer you are doing becomes invalid

If he remembers a few prayers, which are those which must be in order with the current prayer while doing an obligatory prayer, then the prayer becomes invalid and so he must stop it. It is not actually that it is invalid. Shaikh ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that it means that it is obligatory to stop the prayer. This statement is the literal position of the school as he said in at-Tawdih. It is said that it is recommended. The famous position is what is in al-Mudawanna that he continues with the Imam and repeats it, and there is disagreement about the obligation to repeat the prayer, i.e. based on the fact the order between a few prayers and several ones is an obligation of the precondition. It is well-known in al-Mukhtasar that he repeats it in the time, i.e. it is not obligatory to repeat it in the time, but it is recommended.

In short, when the Imam or the one praying alone remembers a few missed prayers before performing one rak'at with its prostration’s, he must stop. It is also said that it is desirable. If he has performed one rak'at with its prostration’s, it is recommended that he make it double. It is said that it is obligatory. The one following follows his Imam in that. There is no difference between four and two, like Subh, Jumu'a, and the shortened prayer. The literal meaning of the Mudawwana is that Maghrib is like the others and he makes it double if he has done one rak'at. This is not relied on. Rather he completes Maghrib. That is what Shaikh ibn 'Arafa (rahmatullahi alaihi) prefers. If he remembers it after completing two full rak'ats of Maghrib with their prostration, he completes it with the intention of the obligation. If the one following remembers a few missed prayers, he continues with his Imam. Then it is desirable for him to repeat it within the time. There is no difference whether the repeated prayer is a Jumu'a or other and he repeats it as Jumu'a is possible. Otherwise it is Dhuhr.

12.5 Invalidation of the Prayer in Certain Cases

12.5a Laughing

If you laugh while doing a prayer you have to repeat the prayer

This is laughing with sound. It is obligatory to repeat the prayer because it is invalid by agreement if it is deliberate, whether it be the Imam, person following or individual. According to the well-known position, it is the same if it is inadvertent or from being overcome. Opposite it is the position that it does not impair it, based on analogy with speech. Shaikh ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that the literal meaning of his words would be even if he laughs silently at what Allah azza wa jall promises the believers as when he reads an ayat which describes the people of the Garden and laughs out of happiness.

Based on the well-known position about the inadvertent and being overcome, the Imam should delegate someone and then become a follower and then it is obligatory to repeat it after that within the time. What is meant inadvertence forgetfulness, as when he forgets that he is doing the prayer.

12.5b Laughing does not break wudu'

but you do not have to do wudu' again

This differs from Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi) who says that laughing breaks wudu' as it invalidates the prayer except in the funeral prayer where it only invalidates the prayer. The one following is different from the one alone and the Imam in such a case.

12.5c If you laugh behind an Imam

If this happens when you are praying behind an Imam you complete the prayer with him but then do it again afterwards
If someone laughs in a prayer behind an Imam, it is recommended that he continue to observe the prayer. It is said that it is obligatory, and the one who follows continues limited by the first so he cannot leave while laughing, but is overcome. It is the same if he does it by forgetfulness. If he is able to leave, he does not continue. The second is that he did not laugh intentionally. Otherwise he does not continue in being overcome and forgetfulness afterwards. The third is that he does not fear by continuing that the will miss the time. Otherwise he stops. The fourth is that the laughter of those following, all or some, does not oblige that it continue. Otherwise, he stops, even if he suspects that. The fifth is that it is not Jumu'a. Otherwise he stops, even if the time is ample.

12.5d Smiling

If you merely smile no reparation is necessary

If anyone praying only smiles while praying, he does not have to prostrate for forgetfulness nor does the prayer become invalid when it is intentional or done through ignorance, although it is disliked to do it intentionally. If it is a lot, then the prayer is invalidated, even if it is due to forgetfulness because the smile is the movement of the lips and so it is like the movements of eyelids or feet.
12.5e Blowing

Blowing in the prayer incurs the same judgment as talking - if it is intentional it invalidates your prayer

It invalidates it if it is deliberate and done by ignorance, but does not when it is by a slight forgetfulness, and he prostrates after the salam. It is not a precondition for the invalidation on account of blowing that two letters appear from him nor one letter. It is clear from that what is meant is blowing with the mouth. When it is done with the nose, it does not invalidate the prayer, even if intentionally, and there is no prostration for its forgetfulness. The evidence for invalidation is what is related from Ibn 'Abbas (radhi’Allahu anhu) who said that blowing in the prayer is speech, and so it invalidates it.

It is agreed that clearing the throat out of necessity does not invalidate the prayer nor is there prostration for it. There are two positions about when it is not necessary by Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi), which distinguish between the intentional and forgetful. The other statement is that it absolutely does not invalidate it. Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) takes that position and Shaikh al-Ujhuri (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh al-Lakhmi (rahmatullahi alaihi) prefer it since it is insignificant.
The school is that the sigh on account of illness does not invalidate the prayer, even though it is one of the sounds which are connected to speech because it is the place of necessity. Shaikh Bahram (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh at-Tata'i (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that. It is like that with weeping. When it is not accompanied with sound, it does not invalidate when it is used to humility, i.e. it is a precondition that he be overcome. In short, what is connected to weeping is when it is without sound that it does not invalidate, whether it is by choice or being overcome by humility or not unless there is a lot of volition in it. That which is has sound invalidates, whether it is by humility or affliction if it is by choice.

12.5f Mistake about qibla

If you make a mistake regarding the direction of qibla you should do the prayer again if there is still time

This refers to any of the people of ijtihad with evidence of the direction of the Ka'ba. It includes the one who imitates someone else of good reputation and knowledge, or a mihrab when he is outside of Makka or Madina and strives in the direction which he thinks is it since he has tokens of it. So he prays in that direction and then it becomes clear to him after he has finishes the prayer that he was wrong about the direction of qibla, so that he had his back to qibla or deviated a lot from it. It is always recommended that he repeat the prayer within the ikhtiyari time. If he prays without striving, then must repeat the prayer even if he gets it right.

12.5g If there is impurity on clothes or the place

The same applies if you do the prayer in clothes with some impurity on them or pray in an impure place

Or if there is impurity on the body and you then remember that impurity after finishing the prayer, then the prayer is repeated in the time. The time for Dhuhr is until yellowing and for Maghrib and 'Isha' it is the entire night.

12.5h Wudu' with unacceptable water

The same also applies if you have done wudu' with water whose color, taste, or smell has definitely changed, you must do the prayer again however much time has elapsed and of course repeat your wudu'

If he does this out of forgetfulness with impure water, which is that which has changed, as a small amount of water into which something impure has fallen and not changed and he does not remember until he has finished his prayer. If he remembers it during the prayer, then it is invalid simply by remembering it.
The recommendation is dependent on remembering it. His words are based on his school, which is that a little matter in which impurity has fallen and has not changed is impure. The accepted position is that it is not impure. On that basis, he does not have to repeat it at all.

12.6 Joining prayers

12.6a Joining Maghrib and 'Isha'

You are allowed to join Maghrib and 'Isha when there is heavy rain and also if the night is muddy and very dark

What he mentioned about joining on a rainy night is an indulgence upon which the author of the Mukhtasar proceeds, and does not make its judgment clear. Is it allowable, which is the literal meaning of their words, but not the most appropriate which is the occurrence of the prayer in its time?

Linguistically allowance is to make easy. In the Shari'ah it is to permit something forbidden when a preventative reason exists, i.e. if it were not for the existence of that difficulty, and the preventative reason here is that it can be done in its time. Part of what the author mentioned as a reason for joining is well-known, and it is rain. Rain is a reason for joining Maghrib and 'Isha' according to the famous position provided that it is a lot of rain. It is that which causes average people to cover their heads, whether it falls or is about to fall which is known by the conditions. Snow and cold are similar to rain.

It is agreed that another reason for joining is mud and darkness. What is meant is thick mud and darkness means a night without moon. If the clouds cover the moon, then it is not darkness, and the prayers are not joined for that. It is evident from the words of the author that the prayers are not joined for darkness alone nor for mud alone. That is the case. The people of the school agree that the prayers are not joined for darkness alone. As for mud, Shaikh al-Qarafi (rahmatullahi alaihi) states that the well-known position that they are not joined. To summarize, his position is that the allowance between Maghrib and 'Isha' is that only these two prayers can be joined. That is indeed the case. Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that.

12.6b How joining is done: when it is done

When this is the case the adhan for Maghrib is called at the beginning of the time outside the masjid. Then, according to Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi), you should wait a little,

The well-known position of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) is that you wait a little. Shaikh ibn 'Abdu'l-Hakim (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh ibn Wahb (rahmatullahi alaihi) disagrees, but this is the well-known position. Maghrib should be delayed a little so that those whose houses is far from the masjid can come to the masjid.

12.6c The iqama for Maghrib of the joined prayers

Then call the iqama inside the masjid and do the prayer

After this short delay, it is sunnah to give the iqama for the prayer inside the masjid. It should not be long in the well-known position because it should be shortened in other instances and so it is more appropriate here. Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that joining should be intended in the first. There are two statements about when he delays it to the second, i.e. about whether or not it is allowed. Both agree that the intention should be with the first and the dispute is whether it is allowed when it is in the second, being obligatory that he intend it then. In short, its place is the first and it is demanded of the Imam and the follower. If the follower omits it, it is not invalid, and so it is obligatory, but not a precondition. As for the intention of the Imam, it is necessary. If the Imam omits the intention to be Imam, they are invalid since it is omitted in them. If he leaves it in the second and does it in the first, the evident position is that it is sound and the second is invalid. He only prays it when the twilight vanishes. If he omits it in the first and intends to join, it is invalid because its validity is dependent on the intention of being an Imam.

12.6d The adhan and iqama for 'Isha'

Then you call the adhan for 'Isha inside the masjid and do the iqama and then do the prayer

This is done after Maghrib is finished, without delay or glorification or praise or nafila. So there is no nafila between Maghrib and 'Isha' in the well-known position. The adhan for 'Isha' is given after Maghrib. It is clear that this adhan is recommended because it is not a group which needs another one. It is inside the masjid so that people do not think that it is the time of 'Isha' has come. After the adhan, the iqama is given and the Imam leads the people in the prayer immediately. This is a precondition for every joining, and it is not particular to joining on a rainy night.

12.6e Leaving after the joining

Then everyone should leave while there is still some light left in the sky
They should leave after the prayer without delay. If they join and do not leave until the twilight has gone, then they repeat 'Isha'. It is also said that they do not repeat it.

12.6f The second case of joining: 'Arafat

It is an obligatory sunnah to join together Dhuhr and 'Asr at Arafat at midday with an adhan and an iqama for each prayer

This is on the hajj. It is a confirmed sunnah. This question is dealt with in the chapter on Hajj.

12.6g The third case of joining: at Muzdalifa

The same applies to joining Maghrib and 'Isha on your arrival at Muzdalifa

i.e. the same judgment as regards the sunnah and the adhan for Maghrib and 'Isha' applies at Muzdalifa. The author of the Mukhtasar considered it to be recommended. The accepted position is that it is sunnah. This is when it is possible to reach it. If that is not possible due to illness or his mount, then he joins when the twilight departs when he stops with the Imam. The fiqh of the question is that the one going to Muzdalifa either stands with the Imam or not. The obligation is that he stands with the Imam. If he does not stand with the Imam as when he stands alone or does not stand at all, he prays every prayer in its proper time.

12.6h The fourth case: joining when traveling

If you are traveling hard you are permitted to join two prayers together; that is to pray Dhuhr at the end of its time together with 'Asr at the beginning of its time and likewise with Maghrib and 'Isha.

This is on an obligatory journey like the hajj and the commercial journey, whether the prayer is shortened in it or not. He is permitted to join two prayers whose time is shared, like Dhuhr and 'Asr, and Maghrib and 'Isha'. When midday catches him while traveling and he intends to camp before sunset, he can join Dhuhr and 'Asr at the end the first time and the beginning of 'Asr.

The description of joining Maghrib and 'Isha' the same as that of joining Dhuhr and 'Asr in that when sunset catches him and he intends to camp after dawn, he can join Maghrib and 'Isha' formally since he prays Maghrib near the vanishing of the twilight and prays 'Isha' at the beginning of its time because he will dawn here is like sunset in respect of Dhuhr and 'Asr.

12.6i When starting out
If you are starting your journey at the beginning of the time of the first prayer you may also join the two prayers together then

According to the famous position, he can join before he sets out by putting the first of them at the beginning of the ikhtiyari time and the other in its daruri time. This is the real joining. From this it is known that the daruri time of 'Asr extends before and after it. The real joining is not like this and is only done by someone with an excuse in the form of a journey or something else. As for the formal joining, it is permitted for the one who has an excuse and others. When he intends to camp before the sun yellows, he cannot join. Rather he should pray Dhuhr before he travels and delay 'Asr until he stops, i.e. it is obligatory because he is able to put each prayer in its allotted time in the Shari'ah. He can choose about the 'Asr prayer. If he wishes he delays it until he stops. If he wishes, he brings it forward if he intends to camp when the sun yellows.

Sick people are permitted to join the prayers if they are afraid, at the time or Dhuhr or Maghrib, that their sickness will cause them to lose consciousness before the time of the next prayer
They can join prayers which share in the time in the well-known position. Shaikh ibn Nafi' (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that each prayer should be prayed in its proper time. If they fear that they might become unconscious at the second prayer, they can join. This is at the beginning of the time of the first prayer according to the well-known position. It is said that the first is at the end of its time and the second at the beginning of its time. In the well-known position, he joins Dhuhr and 'Asr at midday and Maghrib and 'Isha' at sunset. He joins at the beginning of the time because he is afraid that he will become unconscious and that permits joining. It is like the fever which comes in fits, i.e. shakes, or vertigo which will come at the second time when he is sure of that.

NOTE: When he joins out of fear of being unconscious at the second time and then that is removed by being free of that, 'Isla said that he repeats the second prayer. Shaikh Sanad (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that he means within the time. The most probable is that it is the daruri time. Shaikh ibn Sha'ban (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that he does not repeat it, but that weak.

12.6j Second category Joining making it easier for the sick person

If joining the prayers makes things easier for someone suffering from dysentery or a similar illness, he can do the two prayers together either in the middle of the time of Dhuhr or when the redness in the sky fades after Maghrib

This applies to all illnesses which make it difficult for him to rise for every prayer. Then he can join two prayers whose time is shared, and so he joins Dhuhr and 'Asr in the middle of Dhuhr, and Maghrib and 'Isha' when the twilight fades. So Maghrib occurs at the end of its ikhtiyari time, based on its extending to twilight and 'Isha' at the beginning of its ikhtiyari time.

12.7 Prayer missed because of an impediment

12.7a Prayers missed while unconscious

If you faint you do not have to make up any prayers whose time finishes while you are still unconscious. If you regain consciousness, however, while there is still time to do at least one rak‘at you must make up that prayer.

You do not have to make up any prayers while you were unconscious. The same applies to the one who is intoxicated by something lawful, as when someone drinks wine thinking that it is milk or honey. The same applies to someone who is insane. This is while they are in that state, whether what he misses it is a lot or little, as opposed to Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi‘Allahu anhu) who says that he makes up what is little, like five prayers or less. When you regain consciousness, you make up the prayer of the time, meaning within the daruri time. It is sunset for Dhuhr and 'Asr, and dawn for Maghrib and 'Isha' and sunrise for Subh.

He clarifies the amount and says that the time in which he recovers consciousness must be enough to perform one rak'at with its prostration’s after obtaining what is necessary to perform the prayer, which is only purity from minor impurity in the accepted position. When he faints and does not pray Dhuhr and 'Asr and there remains enough of the day to pray five rak'ats after purification from impurity, he does not make it up because he was unconscious in their time. If he recovers consciousness and there remains enough of the day to pray five rak'ats after purification, he makes them up because he was conscious in their time. If he faints when he has not prayed Maghrib and 'Isha', and there remains of their time the amount of five rak'ats, he does not make them up. If he becomes conscious for this amount, he makes them up. It is like that with the judgment in dropping and the making up when there remains four rakat's of Fajr because one considers the excellence of one rak'at from the first. If there remains the amount of three rak'ats of Fajr, 'Isha' falls and Maghrib remains his responsibility.

12.7b When a menstruating woman becomes pure
The same applies to a menstruating woman when she becomes pure. If, after doing ghusl straight away, there is still enough of the daytime left to do five rak'ats, she should pray both Dhuhr and 'Asr.

Then means when her period stops. The same applies to bleeding after childbirth. She does not make up any prayer whose time has passed and performs a time sufficient for one rak'at or more remains after she has purified herself. The time in which she purifies herself is either day or night. In the day, it applies when she becomes pure and after she has purified herself with water when tayammum is not obliged for her. Otherwise it is the amount required for tayammum. In short purity is determined for her for more than what sufficient for a full rak'at with both prostration's. It is like all the excuses except for disbelief.

12.7c More about the menstruating woman

If there is enough of the night left to do four rak'ats she should pray both Maghrib and 'Isha. If there is less left of the day or night than that she should only pray the second of the two prayers.

This is when she becomes pure at night. If, after she purifies herself, there is enough time for four rak'ats according to the position of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) based on estimating Maghrib with three rak'ats and one rak'at for 'Isha'. This is the determination for the woman at home and traveling without difference since there is no difference in the two night prayers between the resident and traveler.

12.7d When menstruation starts

If a woman's period starts with these same amounts of time left in the day or the night without her having done the prayers in question she does not have to make them up

This is five rak'ats in the day and four in the night, whether she delayed them out of forgetfulness or intentionally, and if she was rebellious in the deliberateness. If she menstruates and there remains of the day the amount of five rak'ats and she has not prayed Dhuhr and 'Asr, she does not make them up because she menstruated in the time.

12.7e More about when menstruation starts

However, if it starts in the daytime when there is only time for three rak'ats or less she should make up the first of the two prayers

If it starts in the day when she has not prayed Dhuhr and 'Asr, or she menstruates, and there still enough time for three rak'ats or less up to one, or she has not prayed Maghrib and 'Isha', she makes up the first prayer which is Dhuhr in the first instance and Maghrib in the second because it came while she was pure and the second is omitted because she menstruated in its time. When the time is short, then the last is singled out for being caught or dropped.

12.7f Another point on this

There is a difference of opinion about the judgment if a woman's period starts when there is enough of the night left to pray four rak'ats. Some people say that the same applies and others say that since her period began in the time of both prayers she does not have to make either of them up.

It is said that the judgment is like when she menstruates when there are three rak'ats of the night left: she makes up only the first prayer. That is stated by Shaikh ibn 'Abdu'l-Hakam (rahmatullahi alaihi) and others, based on the calculating the second. Its reason is that when the time is short so that there is only enough for one of the two prayers, then the obligation is the last one. The other is that she does not make them up, and it is the position of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi), Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) and others. It is the school since they believe that calculation in two prayers with a shared time is by the first. Its reason is that the first of the two prayers must be advanced before the other and that actually obliges calculation of it. Then he discusses things which oblige wudu'.

12.8 Defects in wudu'

12.8a Certainty about wudu' but not about breaking it

If you are sure that you have done wudu' but not sure whether you have broken it or not since, you should make wudu' again

It is obliged according the well-known position. The literal words of the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) are when doubt accompanies certainty at the same time, which is impossible. So it is better to assume the "then" means "and" so he knows that the doubt is later than certainty. What is meant is something which breaks wudu' in general, whether that doubt is during the prayer or outside it, unless it arises in it after he has begun it feeling certain about purity. In such a case, he must continue in it and after he completes it is clear to him that he is still in purity he does not repeat it. If it clear that he broke purity or he still has doubts, he is obliged to repeat it.

12.8b Miss out a fard aspect of wudu'
If you remember missing out any fard aspect of wudu' soon after finishing it, you do the thing you missed out and whatever comes after it

Then he speaks about the judgment of someone who omits any fard aspect of the wudu' or one of its sunnah’s. The first has four categories because he either omits it intentionally or forgetfully, and each of them either remembers soon after or a long time after. The second is also like that and so there are eight categories.

The first is when he remembers that he did not wash a fard part, like the face, hands to elbows, feet to the ankles, or wipe the head, and it is soon after, it is an obligation that he repeat that with the intention of completing wudu' because the fard is not removed by forgetfulness. He must intend to complete wudu' in the well-known position. Otherwise it is not adequate as Shaikh at-Tata'i (rahmatullahi alaihi) clearly states. When he does what he left out, it is recommended that he repeat what followed it to the end of wudu' for the sake of the proper order. Some commentaries say it is sunnah.

There is disagreement about the definition of nearness. Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) refers to custom in all that is not defined by the Lawgiver. He says that its limit is as long as the limbs have not dried within the normal time and the normal limb and normal place. It is well-known.
12.8c Second category: if it is after a long time

If some time has elapsed you just do the thing you missed out

When he remembers the forgotten things after the washed place is dry, he only does it three times with the intention immediately at the time when he remembers. If he delays it a long time after he remembers it, his wudu' is invalid, even if he forgets, because he does not have the excuse of forgetting the second time in the accepted position. Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that he repeats it.

12.8d Third category: Deliberate except if you missed it out deliberately in which case you must do the whole wudu' again i.e. you deliberately missed out one of the fards of wudu', then it is obligatory to begin again if it is a long time since omitting washing the washed limb or wiping the wiped limb. This is based on the fact that doing it immediately is obligatory. It is to do wudu' in the same time without significant separation with remembrance and ability. It is the well-known position.

12.8e Fourth category: deliberate but not long

The fourth category is when he intentionally omits that and not long has passed: he repeats it and what is after it for the sake of order. There is no difference between the deliberate and forgetful when it is soon, but they differ after a long time. The forgetter builds, even if it is a long time, as opposed to when it is deliberate. If a long time has passed, he starts wudu'.

12.8f If you have done the prayer

If, in any of the above situations, you have already done the prayer you must do it over again no matter how much time has gone by having put right wudu' as necessary

If he omits any fard element of his wudu' and then prays with that wudu', whether deliberate or by forgetfulness, soon or after a long time, then he must always repeat the prayer because he prayed it without wudu'. But repeating wudu' is in the one category and it is when it is intentional and a long time has passed.

12.8g Fifth category: omitting a sunnah element

If you remember missing out something like rinsing out the mouth or snuffing up water or wiping the ears and only a short time has elapsed you should do the thing you missed on its own

He does not repeat what is after it in the school because the order between sunnah and fard is not obligatory.

12.8h The sixth: after a long time

If a long time has passed you must do the thing you missed before doing any other prayers

If he remembers what he forgot of the sunnah’s of his wudu' after a long time, he only does that which he forgot before any other prayers. As when he remembers after he has prayed Dhuhr, he does it for 'Asr if he is still in wudu'. So if he wants to pray 'Asr with it, it is sunnah for him to do that omitted sunnah. Tawaf is like the prayer. In short, if it is near, he does the omitted sunnah when he wants to remain in purity. If he does not want to pray or do anything else and it is a long time, it is sunnah to do when he wants to pray or do tawaf. Length means that he has prayed with that wudu' and its absence is that he has not prayed with it. That is explicitly stated by Shaikh ibn al-Jallab (rahmatullahi alaihi).

12.8i Prayers already done
You do not have to repeat any prayer you have already done

When you pray with a wudu' in which a sunnah is forgotten, because it was done with certainty of purity and because the prayer is not invalidated by omitting one of the sunan of wudu', even if all of them are omitted. It is like that with the sunnah’s of ghusl. There is strong disagreement about the sunnah’s of the prayer so that if he intentionally omits a sunnah intentionally, it is said that the prayer is invalid. It is said that it is because of the absence of the sunnah element because the obligation is applied to its sunnah’s, i.e. the prayer by the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), "Pray as you saw me pray." That is weak in respect of wudu' by the Holy Prophet’s (alaihi salat wa salam) words, "Do wudu' as Allah has commanded you," i.e. He only commanded four.

The author (rahmatullahi alaihi) did not speak about reversals, as when he puts the hands before the face, for instance. In short, the one who reverses repeats only that part if he reverses by forgetfulness. Otherwise it is always desirable to repeat wudu' and the prayer within the time and elsewhere. When time is short, there is no difference between it being deliberate or forgetful. He repeats what was reversed three times by the sunnah in following it in the Shari’ah, one each times is not desirable.

If a mat has some impurity on it but you do the prayer on a part which is pure your prayer is valid

If whatever you pray on has an impurity, wet or dry, whether or not it moves when he moves, he does not have to repeat the prayer because it is not invalid so that it would need to be repeated. He is asked to purify the place which his limbs touch. This is opposed to the turban whose end hangs on the ground where there is impurity: his prayer is invalid by agreement if the impurity moves with it.

12.8k A dispensation

There is no harm in a sick man putting down a thick cloth which is pure over his bedding which has impurity on it and then doing the prayer on that

It is a precondition that the garment on which he reclines is separate from the place of prayer. Otherwise the prayer is invalid. It is also a precondition that it be thick and not thin. It clear from this that the healthy person has no excuse to do that, and that is explicit in the text of the Mudawwana. It is said that that is general to the sick and healthy person and Shaikh ibn Yunus (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that it is correct.
12.9 The Prayer of a sick person

12.9a If he is unable to stand

If a sick man cannot pray standing up

If a person cannot stand upright to recite all of the Fatiha on his own or leaning on someone else other than someone in janaba or menstruating or it will entail great hardship. If he is ill, then he is either unable to stand at all, or fears he will become ill, or it will increase, or there will be great hardship with the precondition that he is ill, not that he is healthy. If he is healthy, the hardship mentioned does not permit him not to stand and make it permissible for him to pray sitting. The obligation to stand independently is in the state of doing obligatory elements, like ruku', tahrim and reciting the Fatiha for other than the one following, and not for the one following. If the one following leans on a pillar while it is recited such that if it were to be removed, he would fall, is prayer is still valid as is the case absolutely in the reciting the sura, i.e. for one praying alone, an Imam or one following, as is confirmed by the one who knows and does not pay attention to what was said other than that. Some commentators are mislead by the literal expression.

12.9b The sick person prays as best he can he should pray sitting down, cross-legged if possible; if not then to the best of his ability

On his own in the well-known position, i.e. it is not valid for him to be Imam either for those ill or healthy, even those like him. That is what some of them state, but that is weak. The accepted position is that the Imam should be healthy for those who are healthy. It is best that he sit cross-legged in the place of standing, if he is able to do so. This is on the basis that sitting is a substitute for standing. It is said that he sits as he sits for the tashahhud, and the later people prefer that. According to the first, he alters his sitting between the two prostration's, as in the tashahhud. Similarly, it is the best in respect of nafila prayers to sit cross-legged since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did that. Otherwise he sits as best he can, and it is desirable but not obligatory that there be an order between it and being cross-legged.

12.9c Gestures for prostration and bowing

If he is not able to go into sujud he should make a gesture of going into ruku' and sujud, making what he does for sujud lower than what he does for ruku'
If the sick person cannot sit, he indicates prostration by bowing. If he is unable to do it altogether or there will be great hardship in going so, he indicates by his head and back, i.e. must indicate with them. If he cannot do it with his back, he indicates with his head. If he cannot do that, then he indicates as he can, and places his hand on his knees when he indicates bowing. When he rises, he raises them. When he indicates prostration, he places his hands on the earth and when he rises from it, he places them on his knees. It is recommended that his prostration be lower than his bowing. Some say that it is obligatory. It is understood from the words of the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) and the Mudawwana. It is also understood from some of the commentators on Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi). When you know that, then the judgment that it is recommended is weak. It is disliked for the one who gestures to lift anything on which he prostrates. If he does that he does not repeat his prayer, whether he does that intentionally or out of ignorance. This is when he intends the earth by his indication. If he intends that what he lifts is not the earth, it is not permitted, as Shaikh al-Lakhmi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said.

12.9d If he is unable to sit

If he cannot sit he should pray lying on his right side making gestures to indicate the various positions
If he cannot sit on his own or supported or cross-legged or otherwise, he prays on side with his face towards qibla as he would be in the grave. If he cannot go on his right side, then on his left side.

12.9e If he can only lie on his back

If he is unable to do anything but lie on his back he should pray in that position

If he can only pray on his back, he gestures with his feet to qibla. If he is unable to pray on his back, he prays lying on his stomach with his face to qibla and his feet behind him. The judgment about facing qibla in those states is that it is obligatory when he has the ability to do so. If he prays to other than the qibla when he is able to face it, the prayer is invalid. The ability is when there is someone who is able to move him. If he finds someone to move him after the prayer, it is recommended that he repeat it within the time.

The one who prays lying down indicates with his head. If he is unable to indicate with his head, he indicates with his eyes and eyebrows. If he cannot do this, then it is with his finger. The literal text as Shaikh al-Ujhuri (rahmatullahi alaihi) said is that the order in the gesture using these three is obligatory.
12.9f The prayer should not be delayed

As long as he is in his right mind he should not delay the prayer and do it as best as he is able

This means he does not omit it, and he should pray as best he can, standing, sitting, indicating and lying down. The sick person prays according to his ability, even only with the intention of its actions, if he is unable to indicate with a limb or something else. He intends its pillars with his heart so that he intends tahrim, recitation, bowing, rising and prostration, etc. of the actions of the prayer.

If a sick man cannot use water because doing so would be harmful to him or because he cannot get anyone to bring him any, he should do tayammum. If he cannot find anyone to bring him earth, he should do tayammum using the wall at his side provided that it is made of clay or covered with clay. However if the wall is covered with plaster or whitewash it cannot be used for tayammum

When the one who must perform the prayer is unable to use water, then he does tayammum. If no one brings him earth, he can use the wall if it clay, or covered with clay. So he can do tayammum with earth brought to him. It is also understood that he only uses the wall for tayammum when there is no earth. That is different from the School. The School is that it is permitted to do tayammum with the wall when there is earth, but it is desirable that he not do tayammum with it except when there are is no earth. The author (rahmatullahi alaihi) of the Mukhtasar said that it is like earth, and it is best. In short, the sick person or healthy person is permitted to do tayammum on the unbaked brick wall and the stone wall, even if he finds earth when there is no barrier to prevent him touching it. If the wall is covered with something manufactured, it is not used. Shaikh az-Zabidi (rahmatullahi alaihi) mentioned it.

12.10 The prayer while mounted

12.10a In case of mud which prevents prostration

If the prayer becomes due while you are traveling and you cannot find anywhere to pray because of mud, you should get off your riding animal and do the prayer standing up, making the motion you do for sajda lower than the one for ruku'

When you are traveling and the ikhtiyari time is short, as it says some of the commentaries on Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi) and the commentary of Shaikh at-Tata’i (rahmatullahi alaihi).
The best time is that in which it is ikhtiyari or daruri. If it is light mud, and he despairs of getting out of it in the ikhtiyari or daruri time and he is able to dismount, but cannot find any place to pray because of soiling his clothes or flood on the road, then he dismounts and prays standing, bowing for ruku' and prostration. He indicates ruku' by partially bowing his chest. If he touches his knees, for instance, which is a full ruku', then he bows in fact and his indication of prostration is lower than ruku'. When he indicates ruku', he places his hands on his knees and when he rises he lifts them from them. When he indicates prostration, he indicates the earth with his hands and intends to sit between the two prostration's standing, and the same with the sitting of the tashahhud. While standing, he separates the standing and sitting with an intention. As for the one who thinks it probable that he will get out of it before the end of the time, he delays it to the end of the time.

12.10b The necessity of praying mounted

If there is so much mud that you cannot even dismount you should do the prayer on your riding animal facing qibla

i.e. the place where he would alight from his mount. He prays by indication, but if he cannot dismount out of fear of sinking, he prays on his mount towards qibla. The prayer on the animal is only permitted by fear of sinking. Fear of getting his clothes dirty does not oblige the validity of the prayer on the animal. It is permitted to pray by indication on land. It is the same, for instance, if he prays on the animal facing qibla when there is no mud and he fears to dismount because of thieves or wild animals. Then he can pray on his animal and indicate ruku' and prostration the earth and he lifts his turban from his forehead when he indicates prostration. He does not prostrate on the saddle or anything else. He sits cross-legged if he can. The judgment of the resident is like the traveler when the time finds him in deep mud.

12.10c Nafila prayers while on the move

A traveler can do nafila prayers on the move while seated on his riding animal no matter what direction the animal is going in,

If he is riding on his back or in a sedan or something else. But he must be riding normally. The literal words of the author would mean whether or not he is facing qibla when he begins the prayer, as opposed to the text of Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) that he turns his animal to qibla first and then says the ihram and then prays wherever it turns. The school of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) permits that at night and day as opposed to ibn 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu), who does not allow the traveler to do nafila in the day.
He should be seated cross-legged if possible and lift his turban from his forehead in prostration. He can hit and kick the animals, but should not speak nor look around. The traveler rather than the resident is mentioned. The walker does not do nafila in his journey walking. He said, "No matter what observe direction the animal is going" excludes someone on a ship. He does not do nafila on it except towards qibla, and turns with it wherever it turns if he can do that. The basis in what he mentioned is that is confirmed that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) prayed on a camel in any direction it turned, and did the witr on it, i.e. nafila and not the obligatory prayers.

12.10d Proviso about the journey provided that he is on a journey for which the prayer can be shortened

i.e. the precondition of the traveler doing nafila on the animal wherever it turns is that the journey is one in which the prayer can be shortened. If it is a less shorter than that or a journey which involves disobeying Allah azza wa jall, that is not the case.

12.10e Praying the witr mounted

He can also do the witr mounted if he wants
With the previous preconditions. If he wants, he performs the witr on the ground, which is preferable.

12.10f Fard prayers while traveling

However fard prayers, even in the case of illness, should only be done on the ground unless the illness is such that getting off the animal would mean that the sick person was forced by his illness to do the prayer sitting down using gestures. In this case he should pray on his animal after it has been brought to a halt and made to face qibla

Even if the traveler is ill he can only pray on the earth by the evidence of the precious hadith. However, if he is so ill he can only perform prostration and bowing with gestures, then he can pray on the animal. In the Mukhtasar there is permission without dislike. In the Mudawwana it is disliked. It is limited by the direction he faces with his animal. If he stops and faces qibla and prays, there is no dislike. This qualification is transmitted by Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) from the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi). He said that what is in the Risala qualifies what is in the Mudawwana.

12.11 Nosebleeds

12.11a Stopping for a nosebleed
If you have a nosebleed when you are praying behind an Imam you should go out and wash off the blood

You leave to wash off the blood from the nose, holding the nose from the top if you does not suspect that it will last to the need of the preferred time. If you think that it will last to the end of the preferred time, you complete the prayer and do not go out, even if the blood is flowing if you are not in a masjid, or in a masjid if you have spread out something to catch the blood, or it is pebbles or earth with no mat on it because that is due to necessity. You wash away the blood when you finish. If he is in a carpeted or tiled masjid, and you fear you will soil it, even less than a dirham, you must stop.

12.11b Resuming the prayer and then return and complete the prayer as long as you have not spoken or stepped on any impurity

After washing the blood off, you complete the prayer because the faqih speaks about independent judgments and the prayer is not stopped in the famous position. Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that the best is to stop. The basis of the famous position is the action of the majority of the Companions and Tabi’un. Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that the prayer is invalid based an emergence of impurity which breaks wudu'. We said that it there is building on what was done. That has six preconditions of which two are indicated when he mentioned not speaking or stepping on impurity.

12.11c Preconditions: 1. Not speaking

It is clear that speaking invalidates it if he speaks at all: deliberately, out of ignorance or forgetfulness.

12.11d Preconditions: 2. Not stepping on impurity

The second precondition is clear because it is evident that it invalidates if he steps on impurity at all, whether wet or dry. If it is wet it is agreed that it invalidates. If it is dry, like a skin, it is like that according to Shaikh Sahnun (rahmatullahi alaihi). As for the droppings and urine of animals, he continues when he steps on them by agreement because roads are not free of that in general. Shaikh al-Hattab (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "He must qualify what he steps on forgetfully or by necessity for that is by its generality and spread over the road. As for walking on it deliberately without excuse when the road is wide and it is not universal and there is a possibility of stepping over it, then it must invalidate his prayer by the negation of the cause which is necessary."
12.11e Preconditions: 3. Proximity of water

The third precondition is that he does not go pass water which is near to other water.

12.11f Preconditions: 4. Not turning one's back on qibla

The fourth is that he does not turn his back on qibla for other than seeking water. As for the seeking water, that does invalidate.

12.11g Preconditions: 5. The blood drips or flows

The fifth is that the blood drips or flows and does not splatter. If it only leaks without flowing or dripping, he does not leave to wash it.

12.11h Precondition: 6. It is in a group prayer

The sixth is that the nosebleed occurs in the group prayer, whether he is an Imam or follower. As for the one on his own, there are two famous statements about building on it, which derive from whether the allowance of building is for the respect of the prayer, which prevents its invalidation, or is to obtain the benefit of the group.

12.11i Discounting partially completed rak'ats
You should discount any partial rak'at you have already prayed unless you completed its two sajdas

It is not counted as a rak'at if it has not been completed with its two sajdas according to what is transmitted from Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi). Shaikh ibn Maslama (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that he builds on it, be it a little or a lot. That is in the first rak'at or others. Shaikh ibn 'Abdu's-Salam (rahmatullahi alaihi) deduced that according to the transmission of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi), if he has a nosebleed after ruku' and before prostration or after one prostration, that is void and he begins with the recitation.

12.11j When the bleeding is slight

If there is only a little blood you should not leave the prayer but staunch the blood with your fingers except if it is pouring out or dripping

You staunch it with the ends of the fingers of the left hand, and the manner of staunching it is to first with the end of the thumb and the little finger, then the finger next to the little finger, then the middle finger and then the index finger. This is unless it is pouring out or dripping. In such a case, he does not staunch it, but goes for water.
12.11k Breaking off a prayer because of vomiting or breaking wudu'

You may not, however, complete a prayer in this way if you have to leave it because of vomiting or breaking wudu'

Absolutely, whether intentional or inadvertent, i.e. vomiting something impure which leaves him in the state of the prayer, even if a little, and the same holds true for vomiting a lot of what is pure. The upshot is that the prayer is not invalidated by the pure provided that it a little and comes out usually. When it is impure, even if a little, or a lot of the pure, or vomited deliberately, then the prayer is invalid. The same holds true if he intentionally swallows it. The case is that it comes out usually. If he swallows it usually in that case, there are two equal statements about his prayer being invalid neither of which are preferred. That is not the case in the inadvertent.

If your nosebleed starts after the Imam has said the salam, you say the salam and then leave the prayer-line, but if it starts just before the Imam says the salam you should go out, wash off the blood, come back, sit down, and then say the salam
It is permitted for him to say the salam while he has the impurity because it is easier than going for water. If it is before the salam of the Imam, he goes for water because if he does not leave, he deliberately carries impurity in his prayer while some of it still remains. Then he returns and sits and repeats the tashahhud if he has said it in the well-known position. If he has not said it, there is no dispute that he says it. His words would seem to mean that he leaves to wash off the blood, even if the salam of the Imam was after his nosebleed. That is not the case, If the salam of the Imam was close to his nose-bleed, he says the salam and goes and his prayer is allowed, as in the question before it. He no longer owes any actions of the prayer which would have to be restored. Then he goes on to make clear where the one with a nosebleed ends his prayer after washing off the blood with the previous preconditions.

12.11m Where to finish the prayer

If there is no chance of catching the end of the prayer with the Imam, you can complete the prayer in your house

If he is in a group, he can complete it in his house where he washed off he blood if he can or the nearest place in which he can pray if he despairs - or thinks it probable that he will not catch the prayer. Shaikh ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi) said if he hopes to catch any of the prayer with the Imam, even the salam, he returns to it. It is like that also in Mudawwana and elsewhere. Shaikh ibn Sha'ban (rahmatullahi alaihi) said if he does not hope to catch a rak'at, he complete the place. What was said about completing the prayer in any place is general to all prayers except one: Jumu'a.

12.11n If it happens in Jumu'a except in the case of Jumu'a when you must complete it in the masjid

This is when he catches one rak'at with the Imam with its prostration's. He must also return if he thinks that he will catch a rak'at with the Imam after he returns, even if he did not catch a rak'at with him before the nosebleed. If he does not catch a rak'at before the nosebleed nor think that he will catch it after he returns to the Imam, he does not return. He begins Dhuhr with ihram. If he builds on his ihram, and prays four, then it is evident that it is sound as Shaikh al-Hattab (rahmatullahi alaihi) said.

He must complete it in the masjid in which he began it, even if he thinks that the Imam has finished because the masjid is a precondition for the validity of Jumu'a and it is not complete in its courtyard, even if he begins there because of lack of space or joining the rows, as Shaikh al-Hattab (rahmatullahi alaihi) concludes. Shaikh ibn 'Abdu's-Salam (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that it is valid to complete it in the courtyard. Those who oblige completing it in the masjid in which he began it does not oblige the exact place in which he prayed with the Imam. It is enough that it is any place in it because otherwise would lead to a lot of action and a lot of it invalidates the prayer. If he prays in a masjid other than the one in which he prayed, his prayer is invalid, even if it is closer to him. It is clear from his words that he only completes it in the masjid, whether there is an impediment or not between him and returning to it. That is the well-known position, and accordingly, if something comes between him and the masjid in which he began it before he completes the prayer, then his Jumu'a is invalid.

After speaking on the nosebleed, he speaks on an earlier question in the chapter of purity because it is appropriate to this question.

12.12 Purity after a Nosebleed

12.12a A small amount of blood on clothes

If there is a small amount of blood on your clothes you should wash it off but you do not have to repeat the prayer.

It is a recommendation which is the agreed position since it is stated that blood is overlooked. Washing it refers to also to the body and the place. Shaikh ibn 'Umar (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that the author meant the recommendation and so it means that this is desirable and not obligatory. This is the school of the Mudawwana, i.e. about washing off a small amount of blood, not a large amount is recommended in the school of the Mudawwana, i.e. it is confirmed. This is known that the school of the Mudawwana recommends washing off a little, not a lot. It is differs from what Shaikh Zarruq (rahmatullahi alaihi) said about the school of the Mudawwana being that it is obligatory to wash off a small amount of blood.

You only have to repeat the prayer if there is a large amount of blood

There is a well-known disagreement about its definition and the definition of a lot. It is said that a lot in according to custom, and it is said that it is not. The well-known position is that a lot is the size of the Baghli dirham. So whatever covers the area of the Baghli dirham is a lot. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) indicated that in al-'Utbiya. Shaikh ibn Sabiq (rahmatullahi alaihi) said a that a small amount is less than a dirham and a lot is more than it. The position of the author is that he does not repeat it, meaning within the time if he prays forgetting about it. If he prays with it deliberately, he always repeats it according to the position of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi). That is because Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that it is obligatory to remove impurities, and blood is one of them. This is contrary to what is transmitted by the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) of the Bayan that the well-known position is the transmission of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) that removing the impurity is sunnah. Impurities other than blood have a different judgment according to the disagreement between a little, which is overlooked and a lot, which is not. Fearing that someone might imagine otherwise, he says:

With any other impurity it is immaterial whether the amount is small or large, you have to repeat the prayer in any case

A small amount of any other impurity must be removed and the prayer always repeated when he prays it deliberately wearing an impure garment, and in the time if he prays it forgetfully or by inability. The difference between blood and other impurities is that blood cannot be guarded against because the body of man is like a vessel filled with blood as opposed to other impurities which can generally be avoided.

12.12d Blood from insect bites
You do not have to wash off the blood which comes from insects bites except if it is excessive

Because washing it is great hardship and extra imposition since man is almost never without a little blood, which is overlooked. Excessive means more than normal: then it is recommended to wash it. It is said that it is obligatory and the definition of excessive is that when it reaches a point at which he would be embarrassed by among people.

Chapter Thirteen: On the sajdas of the Holy Qur'an

The prostration’s of the Holy Qur'an are sunnah. The decision of Shaikh ibn 'Arafa (rahmatullahi alaihi) is the preferred. It is said that they are meritorious. Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) and others said that it is well-known for the reciter and the one who intends to listen, not the one who hears it.

There are three preconditions for the prostration of the listener.
The reciter is fit to be Imam, i.e. he is a sane, adult male in wudu'. He does not prostrate when he hears an ayat of prostration recited by a hermaphrodite, woman, child, or someone not in wudu'.

The listener is sitting to learn from the reciter what he needs of recitation in idgham or memorization of what is recited.

The reciter has not sat so that people can listen to the excellence of his recitation. He has sat to recite the words of Allah azza wa jall or intends to let people listen for the sake of admonition and preventing acts of disobedience.

When these preconditions exist, and the reciter does not prostrate, the one who intends to listen prostrates according to the well-known position.

13.2 Verses where prostration is made

There are eleven sajdas in the Holy Qur'an, these being the places where you are commanded to go into sujud. None of these are in the Mufassal.

They are called 'aza'im in Arabic to encourage that it be done out of fear of abandoning them which is disliked. The Mufassal are those frequently separated by the basmala, the first of which is al-
Hujurat (Holy Qur’an 49), according to some. So there is no prostration in an-Najm, al-Inshiqaq (Holy Qur’an 84), and al-Qalam (Holy Qur’an 68).

The first is:

1. In Surat al-A'raf, (Holy Qur’an 7:206) where Allah azza wa jall says: (And they glorify Him and to Him they prostrate) which is the end of the sura. If you are doing the prayer you should go into sujud when you reach this point and then recite what is easy for you from Surat al-Anfal or some other sura and then go into ruku' and sujud.

If you are doing a prayer, whether nafila or obligatory and recite it, then you prostrate for it at the moment of respect because it is subject to the prayer. It is disliked to intentionally recite an ayat of prostration in an obligatory prayer. After prostrating, it is recommended that you stand and recite some of al-Anfal or another which is easy, then do ruku’ as normal so that it is not immediately after prostration.

The rest are:
2. In Surat ar-Ra'd (Holy Qur'an 13:15) where Allah azza wa jall says: (...and their shadows in the morning and the afternoon).

3. In Surat an-Nahl (Holy Qur'an 16:50) where Allah azza wa jall says: (They fear their Lord above them and do what they are ordered to do.)

4. In Surat al-Isra (Holy Qur'an 17:109) where Allah azza wa jall says: (They fall on their faces weeping and it increases them in humility.)

5. In Surat Maryam (Holy Qur'an 19:58) where Allah azza wa jall says: (When the signs of the Rahman are recited to them they fall down prostrating and weeping.)

7. In Surat al-Furqan (Holy Qur'an 25:60) where Allah azza wa jall says: (Should we prostrate to what you order us to prostrate to? And it makes them run even further away.)
8. In Surat an-Naml (Holy Qur’an 27:26) where Allah azza wa jall says: (There is no god except Him, the Lord of the Mighty Throne.)

9. In Surat as-Sajda (Holy Qur’an 32:15) where Allah azza wa jall says: (They glorify their Lord with praise and they are not proud.)

10. In Surat Sad (Holy Qur’an 38:24) where Allah azza wa jall says: (He sought forgiveness from His Lord and fell down bowing and turned to His Lord in repentance.) It is also said that this sajda is done after the words. (...an exalted place with Us and an excellent return.) (Holy Qur’an 38:25)

11. In Surat Fusillat (Holy Qur’an 41:37) where Allah azza wa jall says: (And prostrate to Allah who created them if it is indeed Him you worship.)

13.3 How the prostration is done

13.3a You must be in wudu'

You do not do these sajdahs in the Holy Qur'an unless you are in wudu'.

A Precondition for it is what is preconditional for the other prayers: purity from both major and minor impurity and facing qibla.

13.3b The takbir

You say a takbir for them

In going down and coming up by agreement if that is while he is in the prayer, and in the well-known statement, if he is not in the prayer. It is said that it is disliked and it is said that he can choose between the takbir or not doing it. Then there are three positions. He does not raise his hands, which is disliked in going down and rising. There is no tashahhud in the well-known position. It is also said that there is a tashahhud.

13.3c No salam

but do not say the salam

There is no salam, i.e. it is disliked unless he intends to remove any dispute.

13.3d The takbir on rising
There is leeway as to whether you say 'Allahu Akbar' as you come up from the sajda although we consider it preferable to do so.

It a fourth position in the question in which Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) relates three positions, i.e. he has a choice when he rises, but not when he does down, as Shaikh ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi) pointed out. Do his words, 'Whether you say 'Allahu Akbar' although we consider it preferable' refer to the takbir when rising? i.e. does it mean that he says the takbir when rising as he does when going down so that it is the same as the first of the three positions, or does the takbir refer to rising and going down which is also the first? So in any case he chooses the well-known position.

13.4 When to do or omit the prostration

13.4a In the prayers

You should do these sajdas, if you recite the ayats where they come, in both fard and nafila prayers

These prostration’s are done in the fard and nafila prayers, whether you are the Imam or praying alone, even if it is disliked to recite them intentionally in the fard prayer in the well-known position. It is disliked for the Imam and someone praying alone to recite the prostration ayat deliberately in the fard because if he does not prostrate, he enters into the threat, and if he prostrates, he increases the prostration over the obligation and that might lead to confusing those following. As for the nafila, it is not disliked to intentionally recite the prostration ayat in them alone or in a group, out loud or secretly, resident or on a journey, at night or day, confirmed or not confirmed, fearing to confuse the one behind him or not.

NOTE ONE: Part of what he says about the fard and nafila is that if he recites them in a khutba he does not prostrate. It is said that is since there is no space in it in the order of the khutba and the judgment is that reciting it is disliked. If it occurs that he prostrates in the khutba, it is not invalid, even if he is forbidden to prostrate.

NOTE TWO: If an Imam recites a prostration ayat and does not prostrate, then the follower leaves it. If the follower prostrates when his Imam has not done so, his prayer is invalid when that is deliberate rather than inadvertent, as the prayer of the follower is not invalid by not prostrating with the Imam who prostrates, even if he leaves it deliberately - but he has behaved badly. Shaikh ibn Wahb (rahmatullahi alaihi) related that it is not disliked to recite it in the fard. Shaikh al-Lakhmi (rahmatullahi alaihi), Shaikh ibn Yunus (rahmatullahi alaihi), Shaikh ibn Bashir (rahmatullahi alaihi) and others say that is correct since it is confirmed that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) continued to recite the prostration ayat in the first rak'at of the Subh prayer on Jumu'a. Shaikh ibn Bashir (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "Our excellent Shaikhs and theirs used to persevere on that, and it is done at any time of day or night except the Friday khutba, sunrise, when it becomes yellow and daybreak. It is disliked to do it at these times. There is disagreement about doing it at daybreak and yellowing after praying Subh and after praying 'Asr. In the Muwatta' it is absolutely not allowed after them, either in yellowing or daybreak. In the Mudawwana, it is the accepted position that he can prostrate after it after them as long as it is not yellow or daybreak. This is what the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) says.

13.4b At times when prayer is forbidden

You should also do them if you recite any of these ayats after praying Subh, provided the light is not yet bright, and after 'Asr provided the sun has not turned yellow

This is a confirmed sunnah. Thus it resembles funerals. and there is a difference between the one who does them in the two times because of it being confirmed sunnah because the simple nafila are not done after 'Asr and after Subh.
Chapter Fourteen: On Traveling Prayers

Its judgment is that it is sunnah. Its reason is the journey and its place is the four rak'ats prayer. One of its preconditions, which are four, is the distance. It deals with of what invalidates shortening and questions connected to it. He indicated the first five which are the description of the travel prayer and its judgment, reason, place and some of its preconditions.

14.1 Travel which requires shortening the prayer

14.1a The distance

If you travel a distance of four mail stages which is forty-eight miles, you should shorten the prayer

This is when you intend to make a land or sea journey which is obligatory, like the obligatory hajj, or desirable, like voluntary hajj, or permitted, like for commerce, of at least four mail stages. This definition indicates the distance, and in terms of time, the prayer is only shortened in a journey of a day and a night by animals carrying normal burdens. If he shortens before that, it is said that if it is 35 miles, he always repeats it, and in 40 he does not repeat. There is some disagreement about whether he repeats it within the time or not. Shaikh ibn Rushd (rahmatullahi alaihi) said in at-Tawdih that he always repeats for shortening the prayer in 36 miles in the school. The prayer which is shortened is the obligatory prayer and the prayer which is being made up.

14.1b The number of rak'ats doing only two rak'ats for each except in the case of Maghrib which is not shortened

Maghrib is odd and cannot be divided. It is also because it makes the number of prayers in the day odd. Subh is not shortened because it is not established in the Shari’ah that it is shortened, which would make it one rak'at. He is silent about Subh because it is not shortened. So there is consensus that Subh and Maghrib are not shortened and so the journey has no effect on them.

14.1c Its preconditions

There are preconditions for shortening:

1. The distance intended is in one go. If it is not intended, as when he goes for a need which he thinks is close but ends up going a further distance. Indeed, that is the case if he is sure that it is but he does not know exactly where. He does not shorten, even if he goes four mail stages. Similarly he does not shorten when he stays in the middle of distance for the time in which it is obliged to do the full prayer, like four days. To sum up, the first precondition contains two things: one is the intention and the second is that it is in one go.

The journey is a permissible one.

According to what is in ad-Dakhira, a traveler does not follow a resident. Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) said in the book that he does it in full if he catches a rak'at with him. If he catches less than a rak'at, Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that he does not do the full prayer. The fiqh of the question is that if the follower is a traveler behind a resident sometimes he will intend the full prayer behind him and he will make his ihram like that of the Imam. Sometimes he will intend the travel prayer. In all of this, he either catches one rak'at or not. In the first case, he follows him absolutely. In the second if he catches a rak'at with him, then his prayer is invalid. Otherwise it is valid and he prays two rak'ats.

He does not turn a short journey into a long one without excuse.

He does not shorten the prayers until he leaves the houses of the town behind him.

14.1d When you can start shortening
You are not permitted to shorten the prayer until you have passed beyond the houses of the town you are in so they are all behind you, leaving none in front of you or level with you.

Shaikh ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that it is whether it is a place where Jumu'a is held or not. That is the case in the well-known position. Opposite it is what Shaikh Mutarrif (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh ibn al-Majishun (rahmatullahi alaihi) related from the Imam that if the town from which the journey begins is a Jumu'a town, the prayer is not shortened until he has gone three miles beyond its walls. Otherwise, it is from the end of its buildings. The place of the dispute is about adding the gardens when it happens that he passes the gardens. If the houses are separate, he must leave them all when they are united under the name of 'quarter' and 'abode' or the name 'abode alone or the name 'quarter' when share together. Otherwise he shortens as soon as he leaves his house. It is clear that they are behind him.

14.1e When you stop shortening

You do not leave off shortening the prayers until you return to the place you set out from or come within a mile of it.
Until he returns to the houses or less than a mile. Shaikh ibn 'Umar (rahmatullahi alaihi) is unsure of the words here. This phrase is unclear because at the beginning of his words he made it less than a mile while traveling and the last words he made him resident. This is not sound. Some say that the contradiction when he says, "until he returns to it." with "or is near to it" as another statement means until he returns to it means until he is near them. Then his words, "or near" mean the same. The upshot of this interpretation is that if he is less than a mile, he must do the full prayer, whether he is at its gardens or not. A little means a third of a mile, or more.

14.1f If a traveler stays in a place for four days

If a traveler intends to stay in a place for four days or twenty prayers he should do the complete prayer until he moves from that place

This is based on Shaikh ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi). There are two positions. Shortening ends when he has the intention of staying four full days or more if it reaches twenty prayers, and it is that on whose basis Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) proceeded. Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) considers that stopping the judgment of the journey is four full days and 20 prayers. So he considers that the stop which ends the judgment of the journey is that he stays until the fourth 'Isha'. If someone arrives before Fajr on a day and intends to leave after sunset on the fourth, he shortens because he will not be there for the period of 20 prayers. Shaikh Sahnun (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh Abdu'l-Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that if the intention of what he will pray in it is 20 prayers, that ends the judgment of the journey. The point of the dispute appears when the time of Dhuhr comes. If he is able to perform the prayers according to Dhuhr of its day and 'Asr and he does Dhuhr and 'Asr in full. If he counts the days, he voids the day in which he entered, meaning he does not count it among the four days which he abides. If someone intends to remain for four full days, he prays in full from the time he enters the place in which he intends to remain. If he enters at Dhuhr, he does it in full and completes 'Asr and 'Isha' and the day he enters is not counted among the days which he abides.

They make an exception to the intention of remaining four days or more invalidating the principle of travel is the intention of an army to stop in the Abode of War. What is meant by the Abode of War is the place where the army settles, even in the Abode of Islam when it is not secure. Another things which stops shortening is the knowledge of abiding by custom like the custom of the hajji when he enters Makka to abide for four days.

14.2 Leaving and arriving towards the end of the time of Dhuhr and 'Asr
14.2a Leaving before praying Dhuhr and 'Asr

If you leave a place before you have prayed Dhuhr and 'Asr and there is still enough daytime left to pray three rak'ats you should pray them both as traveling prayers. If there is only enough time to pray two rak'ats or one you should pray Dhuhr in full and 'Asr as a traveling prayer.

If you start to travel in this case there is agreement if he omitted them by forgetfulness. The same applies is that if he left them intentionally but he is a sinner. If he is like that, he prays them as travel prayers because he travels in their time when Dhuhr is estimated as two rak'ats and one rak'at of 'Asr remains. There is disagreement about this estimation and whether or not one takes purification into account in it he is not in a state of purity. Shaikh al-Lakhmi (rahmatullahi alaihi), Shaikh al-Qarafi (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh Abu'l-Hasan (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that. Others said that it, and that is the position of Shaikh ibn 'Arafa (rahmatullahi alaihi).

If there is only enough time for two rak'ats, you pray Dhuhr in full because you became responsible for it while resident. 'Asr is prayed with a traveling prayer, because he was traveling in its time. He begins with Dhuhr according to Shaikh ibn al-Qasim(rahmatullahi alaihi) , which is the preferred position. He begins with 'Asr according to Shaikh ibn Wahb (rahmatullahi alaihi) so that he does not miss it in its time, while Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that he begins with whichever he wishes because of the disagreement of the people of knowledge on that. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh ibn Shihab (rahmatullahi alaihi) both say that he begins with the first while Shaikh Sa’id ibn al-Musayyab (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that he begins with the last.

14.2b Arriving before having prayed them

If you return from a journey without having prayed these two prayers and there is still time for five rak’ats you do them both as full prayers

If you return from a journey and there is time for five rak'ats in the day, and you have forgotten to pray Dhuhr and 'Asr, you pray them as resident because you have caught their time with four of Dhuhr and one of 'Asr. The judgment of the deliberate is the same as the forgetful.

14.2c When there is still time for four rak'ats

but if there is time for four rak’ats or less down to one rak’at you do Dhuhr as a traveling prayer and 'Asr in full Because the time for Dhuhr went when you were responsible for it while traveling. 'Asr is prayed in full because he caught it while resident.

14.3 Arriving at the end of the time of Maghrib and 'Isha'

14.3a When you arrive and there is time for one or more rak'ats

If you return during the night without having prayed Maghrib and 'Isha and there is still time enough before Fajr for one or more rak'ats you pray both Maghrib and 'Isha in full

This is estimated, and applies whether he omitted them out of forgetfulness or intentionally. They are prayed in full because there remains enough time to catch Isha' and so he is obliged to pray it as a resident. As for Maghrib, there is no disagreement that it is always three, either at home or on a journey.

If you set out on a journey and there is enough of the night left to pray one rak'at or more you do Maghrib in full and pray 'Isha as a traveling prayer
Because he catches its time in the journey. The rule of this chapter in relation to the two night prayers is that it considers one rak'at on arrival and leaving, while in relation to the day prayers or one of them, on leaving if there is what is enough for three rak'ats, he prays the two travel prayers and two or one. The second is a travel prayer. In respect of the day prayers, if he arrives when there remains enough of the day to pray five rak'ats, then he prays them as resident. If there are four or less to one, he prays Dhuhr as a travel prayer. Allah knows best.

Chapter Fifteen: On the Jumu'a (Friday)

Prayer

It is obligatory. He clarifies the time of its obligation and the place in which it must be performed and for whom it is obligatory and other topics connected to it. It is derived from jama' (to gather) since people gather in it and the first to call it Jumu'a was Qusayy (radhi'Allahu anhu). He gathered Quraysh on that day and said, "This is the Day of Jumu'a."

15.1 It is obligatory
Going to Jumu'a is obligatory

It is clear that what he goes to is obligatory. The Friday prayer and going to it are obligatory by the Book, sunnah and consensus. In the Holy Qur'an, it is the words of the Almighty, "O you who believe! When the prayer is called on the Day of Jumu'a, rush to the remembrance of Allah." (Holy Qur'an 62:9) Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "Going in the Book of Allah is action. Action and doing are synonyms," i.e. it means that rushing to remembrance means going in general, whether it is on foot or not. Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) used as evidence for that the recitation, "go to the remembrance of Allah." What is meant by remembrance is the khutba or the prayer or both as stated by the commentator of the Muwatta'.

As for the sunnah, it is what is in Sahih Muslim from what the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said about some people who refrained from going to Jumu'a: "I seriously thought about ordering a man to lead the people in prayer and then burning down the houses of certain men who failed to attend Jumu'a."

As for the consensus on that, Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) stated that there is no disagreement between the Imams that Jumu'a is an individual obligation. Going to it is obliged when there is no impediment. If there is an impediment, then it is not obligatory. The impediment can consist of various things: illness which makes it hard for him to do it, when one of his parents is ill or near death, or he fears loss. This also applies to close relative, like child or wife. Another reason is when he fears for his property from a ruler, thief or arsonists. Another reason is severe rain and mud, etc.

15.1a When it becomes obligatory

It becomes obligatory when the Imam sits on the minbar and the mu'adhdhins begins the adhan

The obligation to go to the Jumu'a prayer begins when the mu'adhdhins begin the adhan if their house is near. As for someone whose house is far, it is according to what it takes to reach the place where Jumu'a is held at midday. These are the details for others than those by which the Jumu'a is held. As for those who make up the number by which the Jumu'a is held, they are obliged to go so that he will hears the khutba from its beginning. Those in the city and a distance of three miles or less from it are obliged to go to it.

The two adhans were already mentioned. Jumu'a has two adhans: one did not exist in the time of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), and the other did. He explains the early one.
15.2 The Sunnah of the adhan

The early sunnah was for the mu'adhhdhins to climb the minaret

The desirable method is to ascend when the Imam sits on the minbar. This was the sunnah of the Companions since there was no minaret in the time of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam). They used to give the adhan at the door of the masjid. Shaikh Zarruq (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that. So there was one adhan in the time of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) which was done at the door of the masjid while the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) was sitting on the minbar. Then 'Uthman (radhi’Allahu anhu) introduced another adhan which was done before that on the minbar while the Imam was also sitting on the minbar. Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) reported that Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "When the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) entered the masjid, he ascended the minbar and sat. Then the mu’adhhdhins gave the adhan. There were three who gave the adhan on the minaret one after the other. When the third finished, the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) stood up to give the khutba. It was like that in the time of Abu Bakr (radhi’Allahu anhu) and 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu). Then when there were a lot of people, 'Uthman (radhi’Allahu anhu) commanded the introduction of an earlier adhan before that which was done on the minaret and it was done at midday at az-Zawra', a place in the market, so that people could gather and leave the market. When he went out and sat on the minbar, then the mu'adhdhin gave the adhan on the minbar. When Hisham ibn 'Abdu'l-Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) was khalif, he moved the adhan at az-Zawra' and put it on the minaret at midday. When he sat on the minbar, then an adhan was given in front of him. When the mu'adhdhin finished, he gave the khutba. The adhan which 'Uthman (radhi'Allahu anhu) introduced is done first but was the second to be prescribed, and it happens now on the minaret. That which happens before the Khatib is done second but was first to be prescribed because that which is now done before the Khatib was done at the door of the masjid in the time of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) and Hisham (rahmatullahi alaihi) changed it." What is meant by the minaret in what Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) said is the place where the adhan was given because there was no minaret in the time of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) and the place of the adhan was at the door of the masjid.

at that point when selling or doing anything else which might distract you from going to Jumu'a becomes haram
When the adhan is given before the imam, then selling becomes unlawful for everyone for whom Jumu'a is obligatory except the one who is compelled to it as when it happens that the call for Jumu'a is given and he cannot find water with which to purify himself except by buying it. So both are allowed to buy and sell because this is part of mutual help to worship. Other distracting things are forbidden: like eating, sewing, traveling, the gift, sadaqa and taking by a pre-preemption.

15.2c Giving an earlier adhan

The calling of an earlier adhan is a practice which was introduced by the Banu Umayya

It was introduced by 'Uthman ibn ‘Affan (radhi’Allahu anhu).

15.3 Preconditions for Jumu'a

Know that Jumu'a has preconditions for its being obligatory, and preconditions for its performance. The difference between them is that the preconditions for obligation are those by which responsibility arises and the legally responsible person is not required to achieve them. The preconditions for performance are those by which responsibility is removed and it is obligatory for the responsible person to obtain them.
15.3a Preconditions for its being obligatory

They are ten:

Announcement of the time

Islam

Adulthood

Sanity

Maleness

Being free

Residence

Health

Nearness so that he is not more than three miles away - or quarter or a third of a mile more.

That it be a settled place.

15.3b Preconditions for performance
They are four:

The Imam

The group

The masjid

The khutba.

The Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) mentioned some of these conditions and he did not distinguish them from one another.

15.3c The required size of the town

Jumu'a is obligatory if there is a large enough town and a large enough group of people in it

It is clear from the school of Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi) that the Jumu'a is only held in the city. Some of his companions added that it should be in a city in which the Imam has established the hudud. The school of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) is that it is held in the city and in the town where buildings are connected, even if their connection is only be benefit in that they help one another, even the hudud are not established there. On this basis, the words of the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) must be interpreted that it is said that he meant by town of connected buildings the category of towns.

Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it should be in the oldest masjid of the locality.

15.3d The group

The second is a precondition for validity, i.e. for establishing the Jumu'a there must be a group. They do not give the number with Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi), but what is meant is the existence of those who are independent in terms of defense and mutual help in things necessary for life. When they can remain indefinitely with security and the power to defend themselves, then the Jumu'a is valid, even if there are only twelve men remaining to complete the prayer with the Imam. There is no difference between the first Jumu'a and others.

15.3e The khutba

There must be a khutba before the prayer

It is obligatory in the famous position, and it is said that it is sunnah. They are both related in the preferences. It is a precondition of validity because it is not transmitted that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) prayed Jumu'a without a khutba. If they pray without a khutba, then they repeat it within the time. If they do not repeat until the time has gone, they repeat it as Dhuhr.

15.4 Preconditions for the khutba

15.4a Khutba before the prayer

There are preconditions for the validity of the khutba. The author (rahmatullahi alaihi) indicates them, beginning with the khutba before the prayer since the Almighty says, "Then when the prayer is finished spread through the earth." (Holy Qur'an 62:10) The fa' is for the order and consequence. It does not deny that people disperse after the prayer and it is not incompatible with its being after the khutba if the khutba is after the prayer. "Afterness' is a wide preposition. That is what was done by him (alaihi salat wa salam) and the Rightly-guided khalifs after him. Whoever is ignorant and prays before the khutba repeats the prayer only. One precondition is that it is after midday. One of them is that it is in the presence of the group by whom the Jumu'a is constituted. One of them is that it is two khutbahs. If there is one khutba and then he prays, the Jumu'a is repeated after the second khutba. The separation between the two khutbahs by the prayer is slight, and so it does not oblige the invalidation of the first khutba.
The least of what satisfies the khutba in the well-known position is that to which khutba is applied to by the Arabs. It is a form of rhymed words different from poetry or prose. For it to be done not in Arabic is null. If no one can be found who knows Arabic, then it is canceled. It is said that its minimum is "Alhamdulillah" and the “prayer on the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) " and cautioning and good news. This is weak since the accepted position is that they are recommended in the two khutbahs. Another precondition it is that it is out loud. If it is silent it is null. There are two well-known positions about whether purification is a precondition for its validity. One of them if that purification is not a precondition and it is disliked without it.

15.4b Leaning on a bow or staff and sitting in the middle

During the khutba the Imam should lean on a bow shaft or a staff. He should sit before the start of the khutba and in the middle of it

While he is giving his khutba, it is recommended that he lean on a bow shaft or staff. He sits at the beginning of the khutba and in the middle. There is disagreement about this and in standing for it. Shaikh al-Maziri (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that standing for it is obligatory and a precondition, It is said that it is a sunnah. If he gives the khutba sitting it is valid, but he behaves badly. So both of the first and second sitting are sunnah in the well-known position. The length of the middle sitting is that of the sitting between the two prostration’s. The basis in what he mentioned is that it continues to be the action in all cities and times from the time of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) until now.

15.4c After the khutba

The prayer is performed when the khutba is over

It is a precondition to connect the prayer to the khutba, and a short gap is overlooked as opposed to a large one. It is obliged as a precondition that the Imam of the prayer is the Khatib. If something prevents his Imamate, like breaking wudu’, or a nosebleed, and water is near, the prayer must wait for him. If it is far, he delegates someone, and it is desirable that he delegates someone who was at the khutba.

15.5a Two rak'ats done out loud

The prayer consists of two rak’ats in which the Imam recites out loud

There is agreement that the prayer is two rak'ats. If it is deliberately more, it is invalid. If he adds out of oversight, then he proceeds on the basis of having added something to the prayer. The Imam must intend to be the Imam. Otherwise the intention is not adequate. It is recommended to perform the prayer at the beginning of the time. Shaikh Bahram (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that there is no one disagrees that the beginning of its time is midday. The well-known position is that it extends until sunset.

15.5b Recitation in it

In the first rak'at he should recite Surat al-Jumu'a (Holy Qur'an 62) or something similar and in the second Surat al-Ghashiya (Holy Qur'an 88) or something similar

There is consensus that recitation in it is out loud. In the first rak'at after the Fatiha he recites Surat al-Jumu'a (Holy Qur'an 62). Shaikh ibn 'Umar (rahmatullahi alaihi) objects to "or something similar" since it is recommended to recite Surat al-Jumu'a (Holy Qur'an 62) in it since it contains the rules of Jumu'a and because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) used to recite it at the first rak'at. The answer to that objection is that he means to refute the one who said that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) only recited it in Jumu'a. In Sahih Muslim we read that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) recited al-A'la (Holy Qur'an 87) in the first rak'at., There is no objection to the fact that in the second rak'at it is recommended that he recite Surat al-Ghashiya (Holy Qur'an 88) or its like.
15.6 The obligation of Jumu'a

15.6a Its obligatory nature

Going to Jumu'a is obligatory for anyone in the town or within three miles of it

It is agreed that it is obligatory if he meets the preconditions of the Jumu'a and has no legitimate impediment, as it is obligatory for those outside the city within three miles. That is the position of Shaikh ibn 'Abdu'l-Hakam (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) stated it. Shaikh Abdu'l-Wahhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) and others say that the distance begins from the masjid. That is the position of the author of al-'Umda. He deduced that because the definition of three miles is by hearing, and hearing related to the minaret. If it is said that it is not obliged if it is more, that is the position of Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi). What is relied on is the transmission of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi), that three miles is approximate and so it is obliged for those a little beyond it, like a third or quarter of a mile. Then he indicates the preconditions of Jumu'a:

15.6b Those for whom it is not obligatory
It is not obligatory for travelers nor is it obligatory for the people at Mina nor for slaves, women or children

It is agreed that it is not obligatory for the traveler, nor for the people of Mina other than its inhabitants. It is obligatory for its inhabitants when they have a sufficient number for Jumu'a, whether they are Hajjis or not. Nor is it obligatory for women or children by agreement. The basis in what was mentioned is what Shaikh at-Tabarani (rahmatullahi alaihi) related in al-Kabir from the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), "Jumu'a is obligatory for every Muslim except four - a owned slave, a woman, a child, and someone who is ill." If those for whom it is not obligatory he attends it and prays, it suffices for Dhuhr.

15.6c When a slave or woman is present

If a slave or a woman does attend they should do the Jumu'a prayer

Meaning it is sufficient for Dhuhr. In the case of the traveler, it is sufficient for Dhuhr according to Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi). Shaikh ibn al-Majishun (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it is not sufficient for him because he is not responsible for it. The nafila does not satisfy the fard.

15.6d Where women stand
Women should be behind the rows of the men. Young women should not go to Jumu'a

15.6e The obligation to listen to the Imam

It is obligatory to listen to the Imam while he is giving the khutba

It is obligatory for everyone who attends the Jumu'a to be silent and listen to the Imam while he is giving the first and second khutbahs and in the sitting between them, whether he can hear the khutba or whether the Imam abuses someone he is not permitted to abuse or praises someone he is not permitted to praise. Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that words are permitted if the Imam says something which is not permitted. Shaikh al-Lakhmi (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that is correct. The author (rahmatullahi alaihi) of the Mukhtasar confines himself to it. One does bless the sneezer and he says “Praise be to Allah” silently in himself. One does not greet nor return a greeting, even by indication. One does not drink water. In short, he is forbidden anything incompatible with the obligation of being silent, even for the one who is not listening. The basis for that is the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) in the two Sahih collections: "Even saying, 'Be quiet!' to your companion while the Imam is speaking on the Day of Jumu'a constitutes foolish chatter." If commanding to the correct is called foolish talk, so that applies even more to other things. 'Foolish talk' is speech in which there is no good.

Among the times when speech is permitted is the time when he asks for blessing for the Companions and supplication for the ruler. It is permitted to speak during the khutba for certain matters which include a little dhikr when there reason for it, saying 'Amin' with listening to forgiveness or rescue from the Fire, seeking refuge when hearing the Fire and Shaitan mentioned, and the prayer on the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) when he is mentioned. All that is silent and disliked out loud.

15.6f Sitting facing the Imam

and you should sit facing him

The people face the Imam while he is giving the khutba, and all rows are the same in this. What Shaikh al-Baji (rahmatullahi alaihi) says about the first row not having to do that is weak.

15.7 Other points related to Jumu'a

It is also necessary to do a ghusl before going to Jumu'a
Ghusl for the Jumu'a prayer is obligatory, not for the day. It is part of the adab of the prayer. It is obligatory as a confirmed sunnah. Its time is before the Jumu'a prayer. It must be connected to going out to the Jumu'a in the well-known position. Shaikh ibn Wahb (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that if he washes after Fajr, that is enough, even if it is not connected to going out. It is performed the same as the ghusl on account on janaba.

15.7b Going early to the masjid

It is recommended to get to the masjid early but not right at the beginning of the day

One of the adab of Jumu'a is to go early. It is recommended because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) and the Companions used to do that, i.e. they went to the masjid at this time. The first of what satisfies it is the sixth meant where the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) says, "Whoever washes on the Day of Jumu'a and then goes in the first hour, it is as if he offered a camel." It is not at the beginning of the day for that is disliked because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did not do it and none of the Companions did it.

15.7c Perfume and best clothes
It is also good to put on perfume and dress in your best clothes

It is recommended that perfume be put on for it. One of the adab of the Jumu'a is to use perfume for the one who attends it - men but not women. It is perfume whose color is hidden and scent is discerned, like musk. By it he intends to obey the sunnah and does not intend boasting and showing off.

One of the adab is to deck oneself in one's best lawful clothes. It is that which the people of the Shari'ah consider good on this day, Friday: it is white. The basis is in what Abu Dawud (radhi’Allahu anhu) related from the hadith of Abu Hurayra (radhi’Allahu anhu) where the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "'If anyone bathes on Jumu'a, puts on his best clothes, applies on scent in his house if he has any, then comes to Jumu'a, and takes care not to step over the necks of people, then prays what was prescribed for him and then keeps silent when the Imam comes out until he finishes his prayer, it will expiate for what happened in the previous week." Abu Hurayra (radhi’Allahu anhu) says "And three days more." He (alaihi salat wa salam) says, "The good actions is multiplied ten times."

With us it is preferred that you should leave after finishing the prayer without doing any nafila rak’ats in the masjid

The Malikis prefer that one who prays Jumu'a leave after finishing the tasbih and the like connected to it and not do any nafila in the masjid, whether Imam or follower. It is like that by agreement about the Imam. According to one statement about the follower, i.e. it is part of the adab that the one who prays Jumu'a leave after the prayer and not do any nafila is based it being is related that Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) prayed Jumu'a and left and prayed two rak'ats in his house. Then he said, 'The Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) used to do this with nafila after them." As for before, it is permitted for the follower rather than the Imam, i.e. desirable.

15.7e Nafila before Jumu'a

You can do nafila rak’ats before Jumu'a

The one who is a follower in the masjid can do nafila before Jumu'a if he wishes as long as the Imam has not sat on the minbar. If he sits, then there is no nafila. When he comes out for the khutba, he does not do nafila. When he enters while he is doing nafila, he makes it quick.

15.7f The Imam does not do nafila
The Imam should not do any nafila rak’ats before the prayer but should go straight to the minbar when he comes in

The Imam does not do nafila before Jumu'a in the masjid, i.e. it is disliked for the Imam since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did not pray before Jumu'a at all. Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi‘Allahu anhu) said that that is the same whether there is ample time or not.

The recommended adab include trimming the mustache and nails, plucking the armpits, shaving the pubes when that is needed, using the tooth-stick and walking to the prayer based on what is reported about that in traditions.

Chapter Sixteen: On the Fear Prayer

Shaikh al-Qarafi (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that it is possible to define it as doing one of the five fard prayers. Its judgment is obligatory, i.e. obligatory as a sunnah. Shaikh ibn al-Mawwaz (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it is an allowance and the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) of the Mukhtasar confines himself to the truth of the allowance for it, a which is the legal principle of the excuse which allows what is forbidden, like eating carrion. It is prescribed by an excuse, which is necessity while confirming the existence of the forbidden, which is foulness in carrion. By analogy he says here that it is prescribed for an excuse, which is fear, with the establishment of the forbidden, which is altering the prescribed prayer.

There is no contradiction between its being sunnah and its being an allowance because the allowance can become an obligation: like eating carrion for one so compelled. The evidence for the confirmation of its judgment and that it is not abrogated is the Book, the sunnah and consensus. Shaikh al-Muzani (rahmatullahi alaihi) claims that it is abrogated, but that is rejected. As for its evidence in the Book, it is the words of the Almighty, "When you are with them" (Holy Qur’an 4:102) In the sunnah, part of it is what Yazid ibn Ruman (radhi’Allahu anhu) related with his isnad that a group prayed with the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) while a group faced the enemy. He (alaihi salat wa salam) prayed one rak'at with them and then remained standing and they led themselves. Then they went and faced the enemy and the other group came and he led them in the remaining rak'at and then remained sitting and they led themselves. Then he said the salam with them. As for consensus, a group of the Companions prayed it after the death of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) including 'Ali ibn Abi Talib (radhi’Allahu anhu), Abu Hurayra (radhi’Allahu anhu), and Abu Musa (radhi’Allahu anhu), and none of the Companions objected to it. It was done on journeys and while resident, singly and in groups.

16.2 When it is done on a journey

The fear prayer is done when traveling if there is fear of trouble from an enemy

The fear prayer is done when the Muslims fear the enemy, i.e. they believe or think that there is harm from the enemy. What is meant are the unbelievers because fighting them allowed, and there is an analogy made to include revels.

16.2a Beginning the Fear Prayer

The Imam steps forward with one group leaving the other group to face the enemy

As in al-Mukhtasar, whether the enemy is in qibla or not. It is like that as opposed to Imam Ahmad (rahmatullahi alaihi) who said that if the enemy is in the direction of the qibla, they all pray with the Imam without any division since they see the enemy. It is not a precondition that the two groups be equally divided as opposed to the one who makes that a precondition. The sound version is that each group should have power to resist the enemy. If the enemy can be resisted by half, they are divided in two halves. If they can be resisted with a third, he prays with a third the first rak'at, and with two-thirds in the second. According to the Imam he informs people how it will be done they begin the prayer to avoid confusions since most people are not familiar with it.

16.2b The first group

He prays one rak'at with this group and then remains standing while they pray a second rak'at by themselves. They then say the salam and go and stand where their companions were standing

He leads the group in prayer and remains on his own and then they leave him. If that happens deliberately before he is on his own, then their prayer is invalid. When he is on his own, he can chose between standing between recitation, supplication or silence. Then they pray a rak'at on their own, say the salam and go to replace the second group in facing the enemy.

16.2c The second group
This second group then come and do the takbir al-ihram. The Imam prays his second rak’at with them and then does the tashahhud and says the salam whereupon they pray their second rak’at and finish their prayer.

Then the second group say the ihram and stand behind the Imam who prays the second rak'at. The Imam says the tashahhud and salam in the well-known position. A counter view is that he does not say the salam, but indicates to the second group to stand for the second rak'at which they owe and pray it, and he says the salam for it. So they catch the salam with him as the first group caught the ihram. The well-known position is that the Imam says the salam and does not wait for the second group who pray with him one rak'at and left the Imam. They make up the rak'at they missed with him and finish.

16.2d The case of Maghrib

This is what is done for all the fard prayers except Maghrib when the Imam prays two rak’ats with the first group and one with the second.

In Maghrib, the Imam prays two rak'ats and says the tashahhud. After he has said the tashahhud, he stands and remains so according to the well-known position and indicates to the first group to stand. Then they stand and complete their prayer on their own. They say the tashahhud and the salam and leave and take the place of their companions. Then the second group come and say the ihram behind him and he leads them in praying a rak'at and then says the tashahhud and salam. Then they finish the two rak'ats they missed with the Fatiha and sura and then they go. This description which the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) mentions is the well-known one from the position of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi), and he considers it sound that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did it.

It was two preconditions: the first is that the fighting is permitted, i.e. allowed, and it includes the obligatory, like fighting the people of shirk and rebellion, and the permitted, like fighting those who desire property and that those who pray with Imam can leave. If the enemy is such that they cannot resist the ambush, then the second is not permitted when the fear ends in the course of the prayer. They complete it with the quality of security. If there is security after the prayer, it is not repeated. This is the description of the fear prayer when traveling.

16.3 When it is done while Resident

16.3a When there is danger

If an Imam is leading the prayer in a situation of great danger for a group of people who are not traveling, he prays two rak'ats with each group for Dhuhr, 'Asr, and 'Isha

When they are resident, the Imam can lead them in the fear prayer. The expression of Shaikh al-Jallab (rahmatullahi alaihi) is clearer than this: "When there is fear in the resident prayer, it is not permitted to shorten the prayer, but it is permitted to divide the people. So the Imam leads one of the two groups in two rak'ats and sits and does the tashahhud and then indicates them to stand to complete it. It is said that he stands when he finishes his tashahhud and waits for them to finish and go and the others to come, standing, silent or making supplication, not reciting. Then he prays the remaining two rak'ats with the second group. Then he says the salam and they finishes what they misses after the salam, It is said that he waits for them to make up what they missed and then says the salam, and they say the salam with his salam, but the first is the well-known.

16.3b The adhan and iqama

The adhan and the iqama are done for each prayer

Traveling and when resident in a group. This is because every prayer is an obligation absolutely in the journey, and when resident.
16.4 The Fear Prayer done alone

If the situation is too dangerous for even this, then everyone should pray individually as best they can, either on foot or horseback, walking or running, and whether facing the qibla or not.

If it is too dangerous for a group prayer, then they pray individually as best they can in ruku' and prostration. If they cannot do that, they use gestures to indicate prostration lower than bowing. They can be on foot or mounted on horses or camels, walking or running, facing qibla or not. Then they do not have to repeat it when they are safe, wether in the time or after it. The basis for what he mentioned is the words of Allah azza wa jall, "If you fear an enemy, then pray on foot or riding," (Holy Qur'an 2:239) and His words, "Remember Allah standing and sitting and lying on your sides. When you are safe again do the prayer in the normal way." (Holy Qur'an 4:103) So Allah Almighty commands that you pray the prayer in its time according to the situation. In the Muwatta', Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi'Allahu anhu) said, "When fear is intense, then pray, standing, and on foot or riding, facing qibla or not." Nafi' (radhi'Allahu anhu) ) said, "I do not think 'Abdullah (radhi'Allahu anhu) mentioned that except from the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam)."
NOTE: It is permitted in a state of intense fear to walk a lot and to rush, which is to move the foot, jab with the spear, and shoot the arrow and speech, even if it is a lot if he needs to do that in what is connected to them, like warning someone about someone who is aiming at him, telling him to kill him, glorification and boasting when shooting, or rajaz poetry if he prepares that to weaken the enemy. Otherwise there is no need for it.

Chapter Seventeen: On the two ‘Id prayers and the takbirs on the days of Mina

This is Fitr and Adha. He clarifies the time for going out to them and how they are done, and clarifies the path by which one returns from them and what he does and what he says when he goes out to them. He also explains the takbirs in the days of Mina and the time in which the takbir occurs on the days of Mina and clarifies what it is recommended to do on the day of the ‘Id. He begins with their judgment.

Praying the two ‘Id prayers is an obligatory sunnah
What is meant is that both of them are confirmed sunnah's. So it is a confirmed sunnah and is an individual sunnah in respect of the one obliges to go to Jumu'a: a legally responsible free man, etc. It is not sunnah for a slave, child, madman, women or traveler. The traveler is the one who is more than three miles outside the land of Jumu'a, but it is recommended for the one who is not commanded to it to pray it. So it is desirable for the slave, woman, child and the one a residing outside the land of Jumu'a although there is an exception for the hajji traveler at Mina. They are not commanded to establish it nor is it desirable or sunnah because the standing at the Mash'ar takes the place of his praying Jumu'a. As for the people of Mina, their praying for it in a group is a blameworthy innovation. There is no harm in a man praying it for himself. It is recommended for someone who misses the 'Id prayer with the Imam to pray it alone. If a woman goes to it, she does not wear clothes meant to attract people's attention nor does she put on perfume out of fear of sedition, i.e. doing that is unlawful is the fear is probable, and it is disliked if it is uncertain. The old woman and others are equal in this.

17.2 How to do the prayer

17.2a The time of setting out
The Imam and the people should leave for the prayer early in the morning so that by the time they arrive at the prayer place the time for the prayer has come.

The time for setting out for the ‘Id prayer for the Imam and people is after sunrise so when they reach the place of prayer, it is time for the prayer. This is for the one whose house is near. As for the one whose house is far, he leaves before that so that he can catch the prayer with the Imam. This is the clarification of the time of setting out, not the time of the prayer which he mentions: when he arrives, it is the time of the prayer.

Its time is when the sun is the height of one or two Arab spears, which is 12 spans, by the medium span. This is relation to what the eye sees. In actual terms, it is when the sun traverses the distance which only Allah azza wa jall knows. It is recommended to go out for it to the place of prayer. Makka and other places are the same in that. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that the people of Makka prayed in the Masjid al-Haram, i.e. in sight of the Ka'ba. It is an act of worship lacking elsewhere. It is reported that every day 120 mercies descend on this House, 60 for those doing tawaf, 40 for those praying, and 20 for those looking at it.

It is recommended to walk when going to the ‘Id prayers rather than returning because he has finished an act of nearness. It is recommended to eat before going to the prayer on the ‘Id al-Fitr but not the ‘Id al-Adha.

17.2b No adhan or iqama

There is no adhan or iqama for the ‘Id prayers

In the well-known position there is no call for the prayer to gather based on what is found in Sahih Muslim from 'Ata' (radhi’Allahu anhu). Jabir (radhi’Allahu anhu) reported that there is no adhan on the Day of Fitr before the Imam goes out nor after he goes out and there is no iqama or call in the masjid of the prayer and nothing is done to announce the prayer, like beating a drum, for instance. When there time comes, there is no adhan or iqama or call. The Imam simply begins the prayer.

17.2c Two rak'ats recited out loud

The Imam leads the prayer in two rak’ats, reciting out loud in each of them

He leads the people by reaching the place of prayer or the masjid after the nafila when the people are gathered. He prays two rak'ats based on what is in the two Sahih collections that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) prayed it as two rak'ats. It was like that with the khalifs after them. There is no disagreement that he recites out loud.

17.2d What is recited

In both he recites the Fatiha and a sura such as Surat al-A'la (Holy Qur’an 87) or Surat ash-Shams (Holy Qur’an 91)

According to what is in the Muwatta and Sahih Muslim the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) used to recite Qaf (Holy Qur’an 87) and al-Qamar (Holy Qur’an 54) in Adha and Fitr.

17.2e The takbirs

In the first rak’at he says seven takbirs including the takbir al-ihram. In the second he says five takbirs not including the takbir for standing up from sajda

He does not raise his hands in any takbir, either in the first or second except the takbir al-Ihram in the well-known position. It is reported from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) that he recommended it in every takbir. The takbirs are connected to each other except for the amount of the takbir of those following. It is desirable for him to separate them by that amount. If the Imam says the takbir more than seven in the first or more than five in the second, the follower does not follow him, even if that is the school of the Imam. He says the takbir before recitation, even if the school of the Imam is to delay, as the literal evidence of the people of the School indicates. If the Imam forgets a takbir of the 'Id prayer, he goes back as long as he has not moved into ruku'. When he places his hands on his knees, he does not go back. If he goes back, some of them deduce that it is not invalid and others deduce that it is invalid. The reason for that is he returns from a fard to a Sunnah.

If he places his hands on his knees having missed a takbir inadvertently, he continues and prostrates before the salam. Anyone who comes after the Imam has finished the takbirs and finds him reciting, says that the takbir in the well-known position as opposed to Shaikh ibn Wahb (rahmatullahi alaihi). He said it is because he becomes someone who is making up in the judgment of the Imam. The opinion of the one with the well-known position is that he is not making up by the insignificance of the matter.

It is like that when he catches of the takbirs. He says the takbir with him for what he caught of it and then completes what remains of the Imam beginning the recitation. He does not say that takbir for what he has missed in the takbirs of the Imam. If he finds him in the ruku', he says the takbir al-ihram and owes nothing. If he catches the recitation in the second rak'at, he says five takbirs since the takbir of standing is canceled for him. When he makes up the first, he says the takbir seven times counting the takbir of standing in them since he missed the takbir al-ihram.

17.2f Tashahhud

There are two sajdas in each rak’at and the prayer is completed with the tashahhud followed the salam

After the two prostration’s comes the tashahhud, i.e. the prayer on the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) and supplication. He includes all of it. There is the salam after the tashahhud.

17.2g The khutba

The Imam then gets up onto the minbar and gives a khutba. He sits before it begins and again in the middle

After finishing the salam, the Imam goes up the minbar. So the khutba is after the prayer. The khutba of the ‘Id is not like that of Jumu'a in respect to time. This is after the prayer and the other is before the prayer. Nor in respect of beginning. This begins with takbir and that with praise and the prayer on the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam). It is like it inasmuch as they are both in Arabic and out loud: that is necessary in both. The text of the Mukhtasar states that it is recommended that the khutba be after the prayer based on what is in the Sahih that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) used to begin with the prayer before the khutba and this was the action of the Rightly-guided khalifs after him. He sits at the beginning and middle of it because they are two khutbahs within the whole khutba according to the judgments of the ‘Id and what is prescribed it in is obligatory and recommended.

17.2h After the khutba

When it is finished he leaves

The Imam then leaves without sitting down after he finishes the khutba if he wishes. He can stay where he is. It is disliked for him and those following him to do nafila before it and after it if it is done in the desert based on what is in the two Sahih collections that the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) went out on the Day of al-Adha and prayed two rak'ats without not praying before or after them. If it is performed in a masjid, it is not disliked either for him or those following to do nafila before or after it according to Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) because the hadith has described the desert.

17.2i How to return home
It is recommended for him to return by a different route from the one he came by and this applies to everyone else as well.

The Imam should return by a different route since it is affirmed that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) used to do that. This is true for people because they are the same in this. As the Imam should return by a different route, so those who follow do so since the wisdom applies to all.

17.3 On ‘Id al-Adha

If it is the ‘Id al-Adha (sacrifice) the Imam should bring his sacrificial animal to the prayer-place and slaughter it there so that everyone else can slaughter their animals after him.

When the Imam goes to the ‘Id prayer on the Day of Sacrifice, he should bring his animal to the prayer-place and slaughter it so that people will know and they can go and slaughter after him since they are not be permitted to slaughter before him. If someone slaughters before him, it is agreed that he must repeat it. If the Imam does not bring his animal to the prayer-place, they slaughter after he returns to his home and that it enough for them, even if they err and actually slaughter before him.
17.4 Dhikr on the Way to the Prayer

On both the ‘Id al-Fitr and the ‘Id al-Adha the Imam should do dhikr Allah out loud from the time he leaves his house until he arrives at the prayer-place. Everyone else does the same continuing until the arrival of the Imam when they stop.

It is recommended for the Imam or others to say the takbir when they leave the house. It is understood from his words that he does not say the takbir before he leaves. It is the well-known position. There is the position that the beginning of the time of takbir begins from sunset on the night of the ‘Id. That is for the ‘Id al-Fitr and ‘Id al-Adha. Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that he does not say the takbir for the ‘Id al-Fitr. His evidence is what ad-Daraqutni (radhi’Allahu anhu) related that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) used to say the takbir of the Day of Fitr when he (alaihi salat wa salam) left his house until he comes to prayer place. That was the action of the people of Madina as opposed to the Salaf. It is clear that the words of the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) that he says the takbir whether he leaves before or after sunrise. It is stated by Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) in al-Mabsut. Some of them transmit that that which Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) says in al-Mabsut is that the takbir is from the time of leaving the Subh prayer. Shaikh ibn 'Abdu's-Salam (rahmatullahi alaihi), who has most appropriate position, said that that especially applies to Adha to achieve resemblance with the people of the Mash'ar. This takbir is out loud according to most scholars so that he hears himself as do those near him and a little beyond that. Shaikh al-Qarafi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) went out on the Day of Fitr and Adha, raising his voice in the takbir and that continued to be the action of the Salaf. When he reaches the prayer-place, that is the end of the takbir of the Imam.

What is meant by the people doing it is that they do the same as the Imam in beginning the takbir and its description. In the end, they differ from him because they stop the takbir when he reaches its place.

17.4a When the Imam says that takbir in the khutba

Every time the Imam says the takbir during his khutba everyone else should repeat it to themselves. Otherwise they should remain silent and pay attention Silently. According to the School, a group of the Companions did that. They are silent for other than the takbir according to Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi), in the transmission of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi), because they must listen and it resembles Jumu'a.

17.5 Saying "Allahu Akbar" on the Days of Mina

17.5a Takbirs after the prayers

During the 'days of sacrifice' you should do the takbir straight after each fard prayer starting with Dhuhr on the day on the ‘Id and ending with Subh on the fourth day, this being the last of the days of Mina.

It is recommended for the people to say the takbirs after the fard prayers before the tasbih, praise and takbirs. It is evident from his words that the Imam, the followers, and the one on his own, male and female, are all equal in that. He mentions the fard rather than the nafla, and the present rather than the missed prayer. The takbirs begin at Dhuhr and end with Subh on the fourth day after the sacrifice.

17.5b Form of takbir

The form of this takbir which is done after the prayers is: 'Allahu Akbar, Allahu Akbar, Allahu Akbar.'

If you do tahlil and tahmid as well that is good. If you want to do that you say,
'Allahu Akbar Allahu Akbar la ilaha ill’Allah wa’Allahu Akbar Allahu Akbar wa lillahi'l-hamd.'

This has been related from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi). Both the first formula and the fuller version are equally acceptable.

There are two descriptions of it. One is: 'Allahu Akbar, Allahu Akbar, Allahu Akbar,' and the second is recommended and given. If you wish, you can combine them. This is related from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) via Shaikh ibn 'Abdu'l-Hakam (rahmatullahi alaihi). Shaikh ibn al-Jallab (rahmatullahi alaihi) recommended it. The first is also related from 'Ali (radhi’Allahu anhu) and Qadi ‘Iyad (rahmatullahi alaihi) stated that it is well-known. Both are permitted because it is not established that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) specified either of these two.

When the command to do dhikr when leaving for the ‘Id prayer was mentioned, what is meant by is the dhikr commanded in the words of the Almighty: "Mention Allah's name on particular days," (Holy Qur’an 22:28) and His words, "Remember Allah on the designated days" (Holy Qur’an 2:203) is appropriate to mention on these days.

17.5c "Particular days"
The 'particular days' [These are mentioned in the Holy Qur'an.] are the three days of sacrifice. The designated days' are the days of Mina, namely the three days after the ‘Id

The designated are for the stoning mentioned in the ayat. They are the second and third days of the Day of Sacrifice. The first of the day of sacrifice is particular and not designated. The fourth is designated and not particular. The two middle days are both particular and designated.

17.6 Preparing for the prayer

17.6a A ghusl

It is good to do ghusl for both the ‘Ids but it is not necessary

It is recommended to have a ghusl, in the same form as the ghusl for janaba. It is asked of every one with discrimination, even if not legally responsible nor intending to go to the prayer. It is not necessary as sunnah. The best time is after the Subh prayer. It is enough if he washes before Fajr.

17.6b Perfume and best clothes and it is recommended to use perfume and to wear your best clothes

Perfume is recommended for men whether or not they go to the prayer. If women go to the prayer, it is not permitted for them to use perfume, and there is no difference between old woman and others. There is no harm if they do not go out. It is recommended for men to wear their best clothes, which means new, even if they are black. All the evidence for that is in the sunnah. In the hadith of Ibn 'Abbas (radhi’Allahu anhu), "The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) used to bathe on the Day of Fitr and Adha and put on perfume and encouraged that, and he ordered us when we went to the place of prayer to wear the best clothes we had."

Chapter Eighteen: On the eclipse prayer

Clarification of its general description in the solar and lunar eclipses. The terms kusuf and khusuf are synonyms and both used for the sun and moon. It is said that there is a difference between them: kusuf is when the light changes and khusuf is when the light goes entirely. The moon loses all its light, but the sun is not like that, and so khusuf is used of the moon and kusuf of the sun. Their evidence is in the sunnah where the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The sun and moon are not eclipsed for the death or life of anyone. When you see that, remember Allah azza wa jall." One variant has, "then pray." The eclipse prayer is Sunnah.

18.1 The Solar Eclipse

18.1a Its judgment

The eclipse prayer is an obligatory sunnah whenever there is an eclipse of the sun

It is agreed that the Solar Eclipse prayer is a confirmed Sunnah. There is disagreement about the lunar eclipse. The two famous positions are that the lunar eclipse prayer is recommended as Shaikh al-Ujhuri (rahmatullahi alaihi) stated. The solar eclipse prayer is done in a group or singly. It is better in a group.

18.1b How it is done: first recitation

The Imam goes to the masjid and begins to lead the people in prayer without either an adhan or an iqama. He recites silently a very long piece of the Holy Qur'an such as Surat al-Baqara. Then he goes into ruku' for the same amount of time. Then he stands upright again saying Sami 'Allahu liman hamidah'

When the sun is eclipsed, wholly or partly, the Imam goes to the masjid, and when he arrives, he leads the people in prayer. There is no precondition of number in it, like Jumu'a. There is no adhan or iqama or statement, "The prayer is gathered" based on what is transmitted of the action of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam). He says the takbir to begin as in all prayers. Then he begins to recite silently the Fatiha and then a long bit of the Holy Qur'an because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did that. It is defined as being like Surat al-Baqara. The School is that it is recommended to recite al-Baqara in the first standing of the first rak'at after the Fatiha. Opposite is the School that "like" indicates that it is desirable and this sura is not particular. What it is meant is the length. Then he does ruku' for the same length of time, and then comes up. The Imam says "Allah hears whoever praises Him" and the follower says "Our Lord, and praise is Yours."

18.1c How it is done: second recitation

Then he recites another piece of the Holy Qur'an slightly shorter than the first. Then he goes into ruku' again for the same amount of time as he spent reciting. Then he once more stands upright saying, 'Sami Allahu liman hamidah'
Then, in the well-known position, he recites the Fatiha, which differs from Shaikh ibn Maslama (rahmatullahi alaihi) who says that he does not recite. The reason for that is that it is two rak'ats and the Fatiha is not repeated twice in the same rak'at. He recites less than he did in the first standing. It is recommended that it be al-'Imran. In his second ruku' he says the tashbih and does not recite or make supplication.

18.1d How it is done: two sajdas

Then he does two full sajdas

He does them with tranquillity. There are two positions about whether they are long like the ruku'. The most well-known is the first. The second is in the Mukhtasar of Shaikh ibn 'Abdu'l-Hakam (rahmatullahi alaihi). It seems probable.

18.1e How it is done: second rak'at

After this he stands up again and recites another piece of the Holy Qur'an slightly shorter than the previous one and then goes into ruku' for the same length of time. Then as before he stands upright again and recites one more slightly shorter piece of the Holy Qur'an which is followed by ruku' for the same amount of time as the recitation. He stands back upright again and then does two sajdas as before

He recites the Fatiha and then a shorter piece, and it is recommended that it be Surat an-Nisa'. Then after the third standing, he goes into ruku' in which he glorifies and does not recite or make supplication. Then he comes up and then recites the Fatiha in the well-known position and then a shorter sura than the third, and it is recommended that it be Surat al-Ma‘ida.

18.1f How it is done: tashahhud

Finally he says the tashahhud and then the salam

This is the description which the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) mentioned. Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) says it is our School and the school of the majority. Its evidence are sound explicit hadiths on this previous manner which our author described. Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that he prays two rak'ats like other nafila prayers.

18.1g Can be done at home

If you like the prayer can be done in this way in your own house
The eclipse prayer can be done at home when that does not lead to abandoning it in the group. If doing that leading to not doing in the group, then it is disliked to pray it at home. He then goes on to the lunar eclipse.

18.2 The Lunar Eclipse

18.2a No group prayer

If there is an eclipse of the moon there is no group prayer

This is in the well-known position. It is transmitted from Shaikh al-Qarafi (rahmatullahi alaihi) that the prohibition is one of the nature of the haram. As for the group, Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi) forbid it because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did not gather a group for the lunar eclipse. Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh al-Lakhmi (rahmatullahi alaihi) allow it.

18.2b How it is done

When it happens people should pray individually, reciting out loud as for any other nafila prayer at night

People pray in their own in their houses in the well-known position of the School. An opposite position is found in the report that in al-Majmu'a that Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that they pray individually in the masjid. Recitation is out loud as for other nafila, since it might be imagined that people pray in the form of the nafila without specific intention. It is possible that it has the form of the solar eclipse. We read in at-Tahqiq, "The apparent meaning of the words of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) is that it does not need a specific intention like other nafilas as opposed to the solar eclipse which needs a particular intention. What is desired is obtained by two rak'ats only although it is desirable to pray groups of two rak'ats until it is finished. It's time is the entire night. Its is not done when dawn comes.

18.3 The khutba after the prayer for the solar eclipse

18.3a No formal khutba

There is no formal khutba after the prayer for the eclipse of the sun

There is no khutba before or after the eclipse prayer because a group of the Companions transmitted the description of the Eclipse prayer and none of them mentioned that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) gave a khutba in it. As for what is related from 'A'isha (radhi’Allahu anha) that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) prayed the eclipse prayer and then went and addressed the people and praised and lauded Allah azza wa jall, it means that he spoke some words which contained the praise of Allah azza wa jall and the prayer on the Prophets (may Allah azza wa jall bless them all) and admonition as would be found in a khutba.

18.3b Informal admonition

but there is no harm in the Imam taking the opportunity to admonish and remind people

He reminds people about the calamities which happen in this world because of disobeying Allah azza wa jall. It differs from what is before it because the khutba has no meaning except this. It is not the particular form of the khutba. The Mukhtasar says that reminding is only recommended.

Chapter Nineteen: On the Rain Prayer

Clarification of the time when it is done, which is in the early morning until the sun declines. He clarifies the place where it is done, which is the desert. Its name, istisqa' linguistically means to ask for drink and in the Shari’ah it is to ask Allah azza wa jall for water because of drought which has occurred.

19.1 Its judgment

The rain prayer is a sunnah which is acted upon

The Rain prayer is a sunnah which it is confirmed should be prayed, and is not abandoned. This differs from Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi) who says it is not prescribed. The evidence for its being prescribed is what is in the two Sahih collections: that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) went out to the place of prayer and prayed for rain from Allah azza wa jall. He (alaihi salat wa salam) faced the qibla and reversed his cloak and prayed two rak'ats in which the recitation was out loud. There is no disagreement that the supplication is after changing the cloak and after facing the qibla and after the prayer.

19.2 Who performs it

One variant has the "Imam and the people". It appears to be general, but that it not the case. They are divided into those who go out for it and those who do not go out for into three groups. One group go out to it by agreement: they are the legally responsible Muslims, even if they are slaves or women who normally go out and children with understanding. One group do not go out for it by agreement: young women and menstruating women. There is a group about whom there is disagreement: they are the children who do not understand, young women who are not tempting and the people of the dhimma. The well-known position for other than the people of the dhimma is that they do not go out. The well-known position for the people of the dhimma is that they go out with the people, not before or after them. They do not mix with the people, but are to one side.

It is recommended that the Imam command the people to repent and avoid injustices. That is before they go to the place of prayer because sins are a cause for misfortunes. Allah azza wa jall says, "Whatever strikes you of an affliction is by what your hands earned." (Holy Qur’an 42:30) The reason for denying the answer, as has come in hadith was made clear by Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) when he says, "The dusty disheveled slave stretches out his hands to the heaven, 'O Lord, O Lord' while his food is haram, his clothing is haram and he is nourished by the haram, so how can he be answered like that?" He commanded them to give sadaqa and charity. It is recommended to fast thee days before the rain prayer and they go out in ragged clothes and humility with tranquillity and gravity. The well-known position is that the Imam says the takbir when they go out to it.

in the early morning as for the ‘Id prayers

It is probable that the resemblance is in the prayer-place, i.e. the Imam goes out to the prayer place as he goes out for the ‘Id, for other than the people of Makka. They pray for rain in the Masjid al-Haram as they pray in it. Then he says, "morning" to clarify the time of going out.

19.4 How it is done

19.4a Two rak'ats

He leads the people in two rak’ats

When the Imam reaches the prayer-place, he leads the people in only two rak'ats by agreement of those who say that it is prescribed. It is permitted to do nafla before and after it. Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) transmitted that that it disliked from Shaikh ibn Wahb (rahmatullahi alaihi) by analogy with the ‘Id prayer. The one who says that it is permitted distinguishes the rain prayer as being intended to seek nearness by good actions to remove punishment, which is not like the ‘Id prayer.

19.4b Recitation in which the recitation is out loud. He recites Surat al-A’la in the first rak’at and Surat ash-Shams in the second. He does two sajdas and one ruku' in each rak’at and finishes with the tashahhud and the salam.

It is agreed that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) recited out loud in them. In the first rak'at he recites the Fatiha and Al-A’la (Holy Qur’an 87) in it, and the like of that in the second with the Fatiha and ash-Shams (Holy Qur’an 91). These two suras are mentioned because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) recited them in it. There are two prostration’s in each rak'at. There is one ruku' is avoid being like the eclipse prayer. When he finishes the final prostration, he does the tashahhud and salam.

He then turns and faces the people. When everyone is quiet he stands and, leaning on a bow-shaft or staff, gives two khutbahs sitting down between them.

It is desirable while he is sitting on the earth. He does not ascend a minbar because this situation demands humility. When they are still in their places, it is recommended that he stand and begin to speak. The two khutbahs in the Rain Prayer resembles that on the two ‘Ids in that they are after the prayer and he sits in them at the beginning and second. That is what the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did.

19.6 Changing the cloak

When he finishes he faces the qibla and then turns his cloak inside out, putting what was on his right shoulder on his left shoulder and vice versa. He does not turn it upside down. Everyone else does the same except that he is standing and they remain seated.

When he finishes the khutba, he faces the qibla where he is and changes his cloak, for luck, to indicate the change of their state from hardship to ease. This is what the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did. He does not turn his cloak upside down. Shaikh Sanad (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that because that is not recorded from him nor from anyone after him. The description of turning is to put the lower edge on the top and the top on the bottom, based on what is in that of bad luck in respect for His words, "We turned the place completely upside down." (Holy Qur’an 15:74) As for changing what is on the right to the left, it is only possible by turning it inside out. Then the men but not the women do the like of that of the Imam, if they have cloaks and change their cloaks while seated. The Imam changes it while standing.
19.7 Supplication

Then, while like this, the Imam makes du'a after which he and everyone else leave

This is done while he is standing facing qibla. It is done out loud and the supplication is of medium length, neither long nor short. Part of the Holy Prophet's (alaihi salat wa salam) supplication was, "O Allah, give water to Your slaves and animals and spread your mercy and give life to your dead land." It is recommended for the one who is near to the Imam to say "Amin" after his supplication and to raise his hands with the palms towards the earth, looking at the sky. Then according to the well-known position they leave. It is said that he returns facing the people, reminding them and supplicating, and they say Amin to his supplication and then go.

There are no special takbirs in this prayer or in the eclipse prayer. There is just the takbir al-ihram and the normal takbirs for going into ruku' and for going into sujud and coming back out of it. There is no adhan or iqama for the rain prayer
There is no takbir in the khutba. Takbir is replaced with asking forgiveness. He says, "I ask the forgiveness of Allah the Immense. There is no god but Him, the Living, the Self-Subsistent, and I turn to Him." In the two khutbahs, he often says, "Ask for the forgiveness of Your Lord. He is Forgiving and will send the rain on you in torrents, support you with wealth and sons, appoint gardens for you, and make rivers flow for you."

Chapter Twenty

On what to do when someone is at the point of death and on washing the dead, shrouding them, embalming them, carrying them and burying them

20.1 Attendance at death

20.1a Turning the person towards qibla
When someone is at the point of death, it is recommended to turn them so that they face qibla and to close their eyes after they have died.

When the signs of death appear in a person and it is certain that he will die, he is turned: that is when the eyes become fixed. It is disliked to do that before. What is meant by facing qibla is to put him on his right side with his chest towards the qibla. It is said that at that point one says, "In the name of Allah and on the Sunnah of the Rasulullah and peace be upon the Messengers and praise belongs to Allah, the Lord of the Worlds. Let those who work, work for the like of this (i.e. death) The like of this is not denied." It is also recommended to tie the jaw with a bandage, bind the limbs gently, lift him from the earth, cover him with a cloth, place something heavy on his abdomen like a sword, and to recount the shahadah to him.

20.1b Saying the shahadah

The shahadah should be said in the presence of the dying person so they will be reminded of it.

This is done before he actually dies. The previous things are for the person who has died. This instruction is that someone sitting with him says so that he can hear, "La ilaha ill’Allah. Muhammadun Rasulullah." This is done when the signs of death appear. He is taught so that he will remember them in his mind and die acknowledging them in his consciousness. When the dying person says them, they are not repeated to him unless he is speaking a foreign language and then they are repeated to him so that that will be the last of his words and he will enter the Garden by what is related: "If the last words of a person are 'la ilaha ill'Allah,' he will enter the Garden." One does not say, "Say: 'la ilaha ill'Allah' because he might be in a conflict with Shaitan who says, 'Die on the din of the Jews or Christians,' and he says 'No,' and then people will have a bad opinion of him.

It is better that the body and what it is on are free of impurity. It is better that menstruating women or anyone in a state of janaba do not come near someone who is dying.

It is desirable that what is on and under the body and the body itself be pure, if that is possible. The reason is that the angels will be present with him. It is recommended that menstruating women or those in janaba do not come near the dying person because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said that the angels do not enter a house in which there is a menstruating woman or someone in janaba. It is desirable that no dogs or images or anything that angels dislike be brought near him.

Some of the 'ulama' recommend reading Surat Yasin at the bedside of the dying person although according to Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) this was not the usual practice

'Some' means Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi). It is read at his head or feet or elsewhere. Surat Yasin is read because it is related that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "There is no one who dies who has Surat Yasin read at his head but that Allah makes it easy for him." This recitation is not mentioned by Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi). He considers it disliked, and that Surat Yasin is not singled out. He considers it disliked to recite Surat Yasin or any other sura when a person is dying, after his death or at his grave. It is also disliked to instruct him after he has been placed in the grave.

Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi) says it is disliked to recite the Holy Qur'an beside a dying person and to recite it beside the dead person or at his burial. It is also disliked to burn aromatic substances.

20.1e Weeping
There is no harm in weeping when someone dies although self-control and patient endurance are better if that is possible.

There is no harm in weeping when the person is dying or after his death. Self-control in what has happened is good and better if possible. He is helped in that by looking at the reward for afflictions in ayats and hadiths which are related about that. One is them is the words of the Almighty, "But give good news to the steadfast: those who, when disaster strikes them, say, 'We belong to Allah and will return to Him.' Those are the ones who will have blessings and mercy from their Lord." (Holy Qur'an 2:155-156)

The blessings and mercy of Allah azza wa jall are not equal to any of the things connected to this world. In hadith: "Whoever says that and says with it, 'O Allah, reward me for my loss and replace it with better than it,' Allah will do that for him."

20.1f Wailing is forbidden

and crying out and wailing are forbidden

Based on the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), "The one beats his cheek and tears his garments and calls out with the call of the Jahiliyya is not one of us." In a variant of Muslim, "When the wailer does not repent before she dies, she will be raised up on the Day of Rising with trousers of pitch and a shirt of mange.

20.2 Washing the body

20.2a Number of times

There is no fixed limit to the number of times you wash a dead body. The body should be thoroughly cleaned and the number of times it is washed should be odd.

Except for the martyr in battle according to Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi), but what is desired is that the body be clear and that it be washed an odd number of times. The reply is that the limit is that which should not be exceeded or decreased, and the odd is three, five or seven. In short, the cleaning defined by the number three does not have the limitation of a particular number since it is known that the odd contains three, five, etc. It is recommended that the washing be odd except not only one time, which is not desirable. The principle of the Sunnah washing is based on what is well-known and it does not need an intention. It is also said that it is obligatory and confirmed, i.e. on society as a whole, which is preferred, and it is done as an act of worship, not for cleanliness in the well-known position. It is said that it is for cleanliness. It is clear that the result of the dispute is that when a Muslim man dies, and there is no Muslim with him but there is a Dhimmi with him, according to the statement that it is worship, the Dhimmi does not wash him because he is not one of the people of worship. According to the second one, that it is for cleanness, the Dhimmi washes him.

20.2b What is used for washing

It should be washed with water and Sidr (Lote tree leaves) and in the last washing camphor should be added to the water

Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that it means that all of the scholars say that crushed Lote leaves should be dissolved in water and then the body of the corpse rubbed with it. It is like that in every washing except the first. In it there must be clear water for the obligatory ghusl. In the last washing it is recommended to add camphor because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) commanded that if there is no camphor, then another perfume takes its place. When there is no Lote, then saltwort and the like is used instead.

20.2c Covering the private parts

During the washing the body's private parts should be kept covered
When the dead person is stripped to be washed, the private parts should be covered. What Shaikh al-Lakhmi (rahmatullahi alaihi) understands from the Mudawwana are the actual private parts in particular. The accepted position is that it is what is between the waist and the knees, as is transmitted from Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi). Shaikh al-Baji (rahmatullahi alaihi) transmitted from Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) that the chest and face are covered, fearing change which could give rise to bad opinion.

20.2d Cutting nails and hair

The nails should not be cut nor should the hair be shaved off

If it is done, it is disliked to do this and they are included with him in his shroud.

20.2e Squeezing the stomach

The stomach should be gently squeezed

It is recommended to do this before washing if it is needed. It is done gently lest any thing of it come out and soil the shroud.

20.2f Wudu'
It is good if wudu’ is done for the dead person although this is not obligatory

It is recommended and does not require an intention because he is doing it for someone else. It is not obligatory, which indicates that there are two positions in the question. It indicated the first when he says it is good, and he rejected the second by saying that it is not obligatory, even if something impure issues from him after washing. It is removed and he is not washed again nor is wudu’ done for him. Only the place is washed.

20.2g Position of the corpse

It is better if the body is turned on its side for washing although it is acceptable to wash it in a sitting position

It is better than sitting it up because it is easier to clean and kinder to the corpse. He first puts him on his left side and then washes the right side, and then turns him on the right side and washes the left side. This is recommended although sitting is allowed. Shaikh Abdu’l-Wahhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) prefers it because he more able to wash thoroughly.

20.2h It is good for a spouse to wash
It is good for a husband or wife to wash their dead partner although it does not necessarily have to be them that do it

There is no harm here if another is chosen. Either of the couple has priority in the washing of the one who has died over other relatives so that he is adjudged to be able to do it if the relatives dispute about it. The basis for it is what is mentioned about 'Ali (radhi’Allahu anhu) washing Fatima (radhi’Allahu anha) and Abu Bakr (radhi’Allahu anhu) being washed by his wife.

20.2i Who washes a woman without relatives or other women

If a woman dies on a journey and there are no other women present nor any men of mahram status then a man should do tayammum for her, wiping her face and hands

If a Muslim woman dies and there are no Muslim women or male relatives present, but there are unrelated men, a man does tayammum for her, wiping the hands only to the wrists because they are not part of 'awra and so it is permitted to look at them without lust. Shaikh az-Zurqani (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "It is permitted for a unrelated man to wipe her when she is lifeless because of the rarity of pleasure here. The one who prays only does tayammum after finishing the tayammum of the corpse because it is the time of the prayer."
20.2j Who washes such a man

Similarly if the dead person is a man and there are no other men present nor a woman of mahram status, then a woman should do tayammum for him, wiping his face and his hands and arms to the elbows. If there is a woman of mahram status present she should wash his body, keeping his 'awra covered.

When there is a woman who is a relative present, she washes him, covering the 'awra according to one of two interpretations in the Mudawwana. It is sound because his body is not forbidden for them to see. So it is permitted for her to look at a male relative except for what is between the waist and knees. Touching is analogous with looking by necessity. The other interpretation is that his entire body is veiled.

20.2k When a woman's mahram is present

If a woman has died and there is a man of mahram status present he should wash her through a cloth covering her whole body.

When there is no woman with her, a relative or in-law washes her according to what is in the Mudawwana. Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that he does not wash her, but performs tayammum. The form of washing is that water is poured on her and he does not touch her body with his hand either above or under the cloth.

20.3 Shrouding

It is recommended for the body to be shrouded in an odd number of lengths of cloth, either three, five or seven. Any waist-wrapper, shirt or turban that is put on the body is counted as one piece of cloth. The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) was shrouded in three lengths of white sahuli cloth, each layer being well wrapped round him.

This is with the exception of the martyr in battle. He is silent about what is obligatory, which is a garment which covers the entire body. It is clear from his words that seven is recommended for both men and women. It is in al-Mukhtasar and it is what is accepted. Seven is recommended especially for woman, and more than five for a man is disliked. Since he feared that that would be limited to what is used to wrap the body, he removed the possible misconception by saying that that includes garments. Then he indicates the recommendation of the odd number based on the Holy Prophet's (alaihi salat wa salam) example. "Sahuli" refers to a type of cotton which is washed or it refers to a town in Yemen.

20.3b Just a shirt and turban

There is no harm in a dead man being dressed in a shirt and a turban

No harm here means it is better to do it. There is a text in the Mukhtasar that it is recommended, i.e. each of them is recommended, not that it is one recommendation. The turban is recommended for a man, and one leaves the end of it an arm's length to put over his face. A woman has no turban. A head covering is put on her head and the end of it left to put on her face.

The best shroud is white cotton or linen. But cotton is better because it is more concealing and because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) was shrouded in it.

It is disliked to use yellow or green scent and every color except white. The place of dislike is when it is possible to have white. Otherwise it is not.

Shrouding, the perfume and preparing it is advanced before the debt - except for the pawn and bequest. However, if there is a pledge against the debt, it is permitted to the pledgee. The pledged debt is advanced over the cost of preparation.

20.3c Use of perfume
The body should be perfumed, with the perfume being put between the layers of cloth that make up the shroud and also directly on the body and the places which touch the ground in sujud

It is recommended to perfume the corpse with perfume, which is not forbidden and is customary. It is recommended to dry the body with a clean rag before it is perfumed, and it is recommended that its clothes be fumigated an odd number of times, three, five, or seven and the like. Hanut, which is perfume like musk, amber or camphor is put between the shrouds, i.e. on each layer except the top, and on the body, like the eyes, ears, nose, mouth and nostrils by spreading it on cotton and putting it on his eyes, ears, nose and orifices without putting it in, and also on the places of prostration: brow, neck, knees, hands and toes of the feet.

20.4 Martyrs, suicides and executed criminals

20.4a Martyrs

A shahid on the battlefield is not washed nor is the prayer done for him, he is buried in his clothes

A martyr is anyone who dies by weapons in battle against the unbelievers when there is a battle. Similar to being killed by actual weapons is dying because of being trampled by a horse, falling from a camel, or attacking the enemy and falling into a well or falling from a precipice. The apparent meaning of his words is that he is not prayed over if he is killed by the enemy in the land of Islam. That is the well-known position. Opposite it is that he says if he is in the land of Islam, he is washed and prayed over because his degree is less than that of the martyr who has entered enemy territory. If he is carried live from the battle and then dies, the well-known position is that he washed and prayed over, even if the fighter is wounded when he is removed, unless he is on the point of death and does not eat or drink. This is the summary of the words of some of the commentaries of Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi). But the School is that the one who is wounded is not washed whether he is removed unconscious or not, except the one who has fainted.

As he is not washed or prayed over, he is buried in his clothes with leather socks and a cap and a belt of little value and it is permitted, or a ring of little value. But not the armor and weapons: they are taken from him. He does not have anything else. If his clothes are not enough to cover him, they are increased so that he is will covered as obligatory. Similarly it is obligatory to shroud him when he is found naked. The martyr is not washed by the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), "Wrap them in their garments. The color is the color of blood and the scent is the scent of musk," meaning that with Allah azza wa jall the smell of blood is pleasing like the smell of musk. For that reason, he is not washed and the blood is not removed from him. He is not prayed over by what was said to Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi), "Do you convey that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) prayed over Hamza (radhi’Allahu anhu) and said 50 takbirs?" He replied, "No, and he (alaihi salat wa salam) did not pray over any of the martyrs." It was in the Muwatta' that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) led the people in prayer over him as individuals and did not lead anyone in the prayer. Qadi ‘Iyad (rahmatullahi alaihi) said the sound position which the majority hold is that the prayer of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) was a real prayer, not only supplication. It is said that what is meant by the prayer over him is supplication only. Shaikh al-Baji (rahmatullahi alaihi) said its reason is that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) was better than every martyr whose excellence dispenses with the prayer over him. The martyr cannot be washed since that would remove the blood which must remain because of its goodness and because it is a token of his martyrdom in the Next World.

If someone kills himself, the prayer is done for him

This is whether it is suicide or an accident. His wrong action is his. The people of virtue pray over him when it is accidental, but not when it is deliberate.
20.4c Those who have been executed

The prayer is also done for someone killed by the Imam as a hadd punishment or because they have killed someone. The Imam himself does not participate in the prayer

When someone has been killed by obligation, as for abandoning the prayer on account laziness and the highwayman, and those who have to be stoned for sodomy or adultery, or whom the Imam has killed for a hadd or in retaliation, neither the Imam nor the people of virtue pray over him. The Imam and the people of virtue do not pray over him so that that will be a deterrent to others against doing the like of what he did when they see the Imams and people of virtue refuse to pray over him.

20.5 Bringing the dead to the grave

20.5a No incense and walking in front

Incense should not be burned during funeral processions and it is better to walk in front of the bier

Incense is not used because it involves fire and the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade that. It is better for men to walk in front than to walk behind. If they ride, it is recommended for them to go behind the bier. The evidence for the first is what is related by the people of the Sunan from the hadith of Ibn 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) who said, "I saw the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) Abu Bakr (radhi’Allahu anhu) and Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) walk in front of the bier." The evidence for the second is what Abu Dawud (radhi’Allahu anhu) related that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The rider travels behind the funeral."

Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi): It should not be too slow. Women go at the very end. The bier should not be brought into the masjid.

20.5b The body is placed on its right side

The body should be placed in the grave on its right side

It is recommended that the corpse be placed on its right side facing qibla because it is the noblest of positions. The right hand is extended over his body and the head put level with earth. Earth is put behind and in front of it so that it does not move. The binding of the shroud is undone. If he cannot be put on his right side, then he is put on his back with his face towards qibla. If that is not possible, then however is possible, If his direction shifts in the burial, as when it is put not to qibla or on the left side and not too long has passed, that is remedied and he is moved. A long time means when the burial is complete.

20.5c Clay and straw placed over the corpse and slabs made of clay and straw should be laid over it

After the dead person is placed in the grave, then bricks are put over him. That is based on the transmission that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) made the grave of his son Ibrahim (radhi’Allahu anhu) and put bricks on the grave. It is recommended to plug the gaps since he (alaihi salat wa salam) commanded that about his son.

20.5d What is said

When this is done you should say, "O Allah, our companion is now with You. He has left this world behind him and is in need of what is with You. O Allah, make his speech firm when he is questioned and do not test him in his grave beyond what he can bear. Grant that he may be in the company of the Holy Prophet, Muhammad (alaihi salat wa salam)

When the corpse is in the grave or those present have buried him, and the bricks are in place then this is said.
Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that those who are next to the grave throw in handfuls of earth

20.6 Monuments

It is disliked to build anything on graves or to whitewash them

It appears that this is absolute, but that is not the case. There are details about this. In short, what is disliked is when it is in wasteland or owed so that the people of corruption cannot resort to it nor is pride intended by it and so distinction is intended by it. It is also unlawful in waqf land absolutely, like al-Qarafa. He said in at-Tahqiq, "It is obligatory for the governor to command that it be demolished." Whitewashing is also disliked because it is found in Sahih Muslim that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade that the grave be whitewashed and that it be built on or sat on.

Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi): the tumulus should not be raised more than one hand above the trench and should be shaped like a camel's back although some dislike this and say it should be flat. There should be no fence around the grave. A tombstone is permitted as a market or a piece of wood, but this must not have any writing with the name, date or death, qualities of the person, etc.

20.7 Burying an unbelieving father

A Muslim should not wash his father if he is not a Muslim nor should he put him in his grave unless he is afraid that his body will remain unburied in which case he should cover the body and then bury it.

Because washing is only done for the one over whom the prayer is said. An unbeliever is not prayed over and so there is no point in washing him. The prohibition is one of forbidding, and applies even more so to others than his father. Nor does he put him in his grave because his filial duty is removed with the death of his father. This is unless he fears that he will be left unburied. Then it is a duty to bury the body, and there is no difference between a unbeliever with whom we are at war and others. This does not only apply to the father, but the obligation is general, extending even to the stranger. He is not made to face qibla because he is not one of its people.

According to the people of knowledge the lahd-type (niche) grave is better than the Shaqq-type (a simple trench).
lahd-type grave is one in which, after you have dug the basic trench, you dig out a place for the body at the bottom of the side which faces qibla so that the body is protected by an overhang. This should be done provided that the earth is firm enough and will not crumble or cave in. This was how the grave of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) was dug.

This is based on the tradition, "The lahd is for us and the Shaqq for others" and because Allah azza wa jall chose it for His Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam). If the ground is too soft or sandy, then the Shaqq is better.

Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi): Graves should not be too deep, not more than a cubit.

Chapter Twenty-One: On the Funeral Prayer and the Supplication for the Dead

Shaikh ibn 'Arabi (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that the position of Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi) is that janaza is the bier and janaza is the dead person. Shaikh ibn al-Asma'i (rahmatullahi alaihi) said the opposite. Shaikh al-Farra' (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that they mean the same. Shaikh ibn Qutayba (rahmatullahi alaihi) said janaza is the corpse. Shaikh al-A'radi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that janaza is the bier. It is derived from janaza, when something becomes heavy, or from covering something and so it is appropriate.

The chapter also clarifies the judgment of the prayer on the dead person which is fard kifayah. He can be prayed over at any time, day or night, except sunrise and sunset: it is forbidden at those times. It is disliked in the disliked time. In the first case it is repeated as long as he has not been buried. It is not repeated in the second at all. The place of that is when change is not feared for him. Otherwise the prayer is permitted without dispute.

Every dead Muslim is prayed for who was not a martyr in battle. There is no prayer over someone who has already been prayed over already. The prayer over him is led by the one he commanded to do it. Such a person is preferred to the local authority if he is known to be good and the blessing of his supplication is hoped for unless it is know that there was enmity between him and the deceased. Then it is not permitted to designate him.

21.1 The Pillars of the Funeral Prayer
The pillars of the janaza prayer are five:

Standing. If they pray sitting, it is not allowed except on account of a valid excuse (like illness). This is according to the position that it is obligatory. The evidence for the obligation is understood from His words, "Do not ever pray over any of them who die" (Holy Qur’an 9:84) based on the understanding which is opposite the judgment of what is said: it is that the obligation of praying over the believers is not contrary to the judgment articulated, which is lack of respect of the prayer over the believers.

The ihram, i.e. the intention

The salam.

Supplication.

21.2 How to do the prayer

21.2a Four takbirs

The janaza (funeral) prayer contains four takbirs
Since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did that. That is since it was confirmed that in the last prayer that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) prayed, he said four takbirs. If he says the salam after three out of forgetfulness and then remembers soon after, he returns with only the intention, and he does not say that takbir since that would increase the number. He says that the takbir and count it as one of the four. Shaikh ibn 'Abdu's-Salam (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that. If the Imam does an extra fifth, the followers says the salam and do not wait for him. Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) related that. Shaikh ibn Harun (rahmatullahi alaihi) opposed that, saying that when the Imam stands for the fifth out of forgetfulness, they wait for him so that they say the salam with his salam. Shaikh al-Mawwaq (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that he heard Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) say that if the Imam is one of those who say the takbir five times, the followers stop after the fourth and do not follow him in the fifth. It is understood that if he is one of those who do not say five takbirs, but he says a fifth inadvertently, then the follower does not stop, but he remains still. When the Imam says the salam, the follower says his salam. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that in al-Wadiha as does Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi).

21.2b Lifting the hands for the first takbir
You lift your hands for the first takbir and there is no harm in doing so for each of the others

This is one of four statements and it is made by Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi). He said that he raises his hands in the first and can choose in the rest. If he wishes, he raises them. If he wishes, he does not raise them. The second position is that he raises them in every takbir. This is in the Mudawwana and Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) preferred it. The third, which is also in the Mudawwana, is that he raises them only in the first takbir, and raising them in the others is contrary to the first. Shaikh at-Tunisi (rahmatullahi alaihi) preferred it. The fourth is that he only raises them in the first and not others. It is more well-known than raising them in all.

It was already stated that the supplication is one of the pillars of the prayer, and so the prayer is repeated if it is omitted. There is disagreement about the supplication after the fourth. Shaikh Sahnun (rahmatullahi alaihi) affirmed it by analogy with the rest of the takbirs. The rest of the people opposed him by making an analogy with lack of recitation after the fourth rak'at because the four takbirs take the place of the four rak'ats, i.e. the social form of the four takbirs with what they contain of supplication takes the place of the four rak'ats, and as there is no recitation after the fourth rak'at, so there is no supplication after the fourth takbir. It does not mean that each takbir is in the position of a rak'at, which it observed alone or with the supplication. The probable meaning of the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) is that he can choose.

21.2c Supplication after the fourth rak'at

If you like you can make a du'a after the fourth takbir before the salam or if you like, you can say the salam directly after the takbir

A third position.

NOTE: The Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) did not speak about the intention, which is one of the pillars. It is that he intends with his heart to pray over this deceased person while remembering that it is a fard kifayah. There is no harm that he neglects the final point. It is valid as it is valid if he prays over him believing that it is praises and there is remembrance, and the reverse. That is also the case if he thinks it is someone and then it becomes evident that it is someone else because his intention was the person present before him. This is not the case when there are two or more on the bier and believes that there is only one. It is repeated by all since the one was not specific. Otherwise, it is repeated over the one who was not specified whom he intended. If he intends one particular one and then it becomes clear it is two or more, and the one he named was not of them the one, then it is repeated over all. If he intends the prayer on whoever is in bier while he believes it to be a group and then it is clear that it is one or two, it is sound because one or two are part of a group.

21.2d Where the Imam stands

The Imam stands opposite the middle of the body if the dead person is a man and opposite the shoulders if it is a woman

It is recommended that the Imam stand here, and it is the same for the one alone. These details are known in the Maliki School. Shaikh ibn Sha'ban (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that for a man and woman he stands wherever he likes.

21.2e The salam

The salam for this prayer is said once quietly both by the Imam and those following him

In the well-known position. One position has 'quietly'' and so one combines and says it quietly. This is for both the Imam and follower. This differs from what is in the Mudawwana that the Imam says the salam of the janaza so that the one next to him can hear it. The one following says the salam so that only he can hear. If the one next to him hears it, there is no harm.
21.3 Reward for the prayer and attendance

There is a great reward to be gained from doing the prayer and for being present at the burial. This reward is equivalent in size to Mount Uhud.

This is clarified in the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) in the Sahih, "Whoever follows a janaza of a Muslim in belief and expectation, and remains with it until he prays over it and leaves after it is buried returns with a reward of two qirats. Each qirat is like Uhud. Whoever prays over it and then returns before he is buried he returns with a qirat."

21.4 The first three supplications

21.4a No specific formula

There is no specific formula for the du'a to be made when doing the funeral prayer.

There is nothing specific because there are various supplications related from the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) and the Companions in that. Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) and others relate the agreement that no specific supplication is recommended. That is followed by the fact that in the Muwatta' Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) recommends the supplication of Abu Hurayra (radhi’Allahu anhu) which is: "O Allah, he is Your slave and the son of your slave and the son of your woman slave. He used to testify that there is no god but You alone with no partner and that Muhammad (alaihi salat wa salam) is Your slave and Your Messenger and You know him best. O Allah, if he is good, then increase his goodness. If he did evil, overlook his evil actions. O Allah, do not deny us his reward and not tempt us after, him."

21.4b All are possible

All the things which have come down are acceptable

Any supplication is permissible, so say what you like.

21.4c One excellent form

One good thing to say after doing the takbir is: Praise be to Allah who makes death and brings to life and praise be to Allah who brings the dead to life. To Him belong Greatness, Sovereignty, Power, Exaltedness and He has power over all things. O Allah, bless Muhammad and the family of Muhammad as You blessed and were merciful to and poured goodness on Ibrahim and the family of Ibrahim. In all the worlds, You are Praiseworthy, Glorious.
Allah, he is your slave and the son of Your slaves. You created him and provided for him. You made him die and You will bring him to life and You know best about his outward and his inward. We have come to You as intercessors on his behalf so please accept our intercession. O Allah, we seek safety for him by Your bond of protection with him. Certainly You keep Your word and promise. O Allah, protect him from the trials of the grave and from the torment of Jahannam. O Allah, forgive him, have mercy on him, pardon him and grant him well-being. Be generous to him when he arrives and open the way wide for him to come in. Wash him with water, snow and ice and cleanse him from his wrong actions as a white garment is cleansed of dirt. Give him a home better than the home he had, a family better than the family he had and a wife better than the wife he had. O Allah, if he was right-acting, increase him in right-actions and if he was wrong-doing, then overlook his wrong actions. O Allah, he has come to You and You are the Best that anyone can come to. He is in need of Your mercy and You have no need to punish him. O Allah, make his speech firm when he is questioned and do not test him in his grave beyond what he can bear. Do not deprive us of our reward for doing this on his behalf and do not test us after him.

21.5 The fourth prayer
You say this after each takbir and then after the fourth takbir you say, 'O Allah, forgive those who are alive and those who are dead, those present with us and those absent, those who are young and those who are old, those who are male and those who are female. You know everything that we do and where we will end up - and forgive our parents and those who have gone before us with iman and all the Muslims both men and women and all the Muminun both men and women, the living and the dead. O Allah whoever of us You keep alive, keep him alive in iman and whoever You take back to Yourself take him back as a Muslim. Make us glad when we meet You. Make us pleasing at the time of our death and make death pleasant for us. Make it a source of rest and happiness for us,' After this you say the salam.

21.6 If the dead person is a woman

If the dead person is a woman you say, "O Allah, she is your slave and the daughter of Your slaves" and you go on making the object of the du'a feminine rather than masculine. The only difference is that you do not say, "Give her a husband better than her husband. . ." because in the Garden she can be the wife of the man who was her husband in this world and the women of the Garden are attached only to their husbands and have no desire for anyone else. A man may have many wives in the Garden whereas women only have one husband.

NOTE: If you do not know whether the dead person was male or female, you intend the prayer over the one who is present, as when you do not know whether it is one or several. You say in your supplication, "O Allah! They are your slaves and the sons of your slaves," and use the masculine plural.

21.7 Praying over several at once

There is no harm in having one funeral prayer for several dead people.

This means it is recommended by a group of scholars as opposed to the one who said that they are not put together and that one prays over every dead person on his own. According to the statement that there are several in the same prayer, in what form are the corpses are laid out: is the best put near the Imam and others towards qibla or are they put in one row with the best of them near the Imam? The first is indicated.

21.7a The best arrangement of the bodies
If there are both men and women among the dead, the men are placed next to the Imam. If there are only men, the best of them is placed next to the Imam. If there are women and children as well, they are placed behind the men in the direction of the qibla.

What he mentioned of putting women before children is based on the position of Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi). Its opposite is well-known: it is that free adult men are near the Imam, the best and then next best, and then young free men and then hermaphrodites, then male slaves, then free women, then young girls, then female slaves.

Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi) puts male slaves ahead of hermaphrodites.

21.7b Second arrangement: placing them in a row

There is no harm in a number of bodies being placed in a row in which case the one nearest the Imam should be the best of them.

This is when they are all the same type, like all men, all women, or all children. When there are men, women and children, the men are put in the row in front of the Imam, then children in a row, then women in a row. This is in respect to the corpses. As for the Imamate, the one with the most knowledge is put first, then the best, then the oldest. Then he discussed when multiple burial is necessary.

21.7c Multiple burial

If a number of people are being buried in one grave the best should be nearest the qibla

Based on what is in the four Sunan that Shaikh Abu Dawud (rahmatullahi alaihi), Shaikh at-Tirmidhi (rahmatullahi alaihi), Shaikh an-Nasa'i (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh Ibn Majah (rahmatullahi alaihi) that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said on the day of Uhud, "Dig and make it wide and deep and good, and bury two and three in the same grave. Put the one with the most Holy Qur'an first." Shaikh at-Tirmidhi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it is sahih hasan. It is clear from the words of the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) that it is absolutely permitted to put them together in one grave in case of necessity or otherwise. That is not the case. If necessity demands it, it is permitted. Otherwise, it is disliked. The permission is based on necessity and that is dislike when it is not necessary when they are buried at the same time. If we want to bury a corpse on top of another after he has been buried, that it is forbidden because the grave holds the dead and he is not disinterred unless there is a necessity in which case it is not forbidden.
21.8 Making up a missed prayer

21.8a When someone has been buried without the prayer

If someone has been buried without the funeral prayer having been done for him and the grave has already been filled in, then the prayer should be done over his grave

According to Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi). Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that there is no prayer over him. Shaikh al-Qarafi (rahmatullahi alaihi), who is the better, said, "As for what is related that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) prayed on the grave of the poor woman, that was special for her or because he had promised her that he would pray over her. “According to the statement that there is a prayer at the grave, it is said that the prayer is said over someone who probably would not have decomposed. It is said that it is not permitted after two months. It is understood by his words that if the grave has not been filled in it, he is brought out and prayed over. Even if it has been filled in and buried, he must be brought out and prayed over as long as it is not feared that he has decomposed.

21.8b No second prayer
You do not do the funeral prayer a second time if it has already been done once

This is disliked, whether the one who wants to pray the second time is the one who prayed the first time or not.

21.8c The prayer over most of the body

The funeral prayer is done for a person as long as the majority of the body remains

Meaning two-thirds or more because the judgment of the majority is the judgment of the whole. He intends the prayer over all the dead person, what is present of him and what is absent. One does not pray over half of a body according to Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi). That is the accepted position, even if it is more than a half and less than two-thirds because it would lead to prayer on the absent. A small absence is overlooked because it is inconsequential.

There is a difference of opinion about whether you do the funeral prayer for, for example, someone's hand or foot
The example is applied to the thing itself. So he mentioned the disagreement about the hand and foot. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that one does not pray over it because its owner may be alive. Shaikh ibn Maslama (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that one prays over the hand or foot and intends the dead person by it, i.e. when it is probable that its owner is dead.

Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi): It is permissible to visit burial places and there are no limitations upon acts of remembrance.

The place where the dead are buried is legally a kind of habs (non-conveyable land). It cannot be sold or alienated or used for any other purpose. It is censurable to walk on or pass over a grave.

Graves should not be opened as long as there are any bones left. They can be opened in certain cases:

where the shrouds were stolen;

where the burial was on someone's property without his permission and the owner reclaims his property;

where articles of value were overlooked at the time of burial.
The dead should not be buried in silks, impure garments, or in green, blue, black or carthamine.

The bier should not be unusually large or silken things put on it. Lights should not follow the convoy. The name of the dead should be announced in a loud voice in the masjid or at its door. Private invitations can be sent. You do not have to stand when a convoy passes.

When a believer dies at sea, he is thrown into the sea after having been shrouded when there is no hope of making land before decomposition sets in. A Muslim may not follow an unbeliever to the grave or help to lower him in.

Chapter Twenty-two: On the Supplication done for a Dead Child, how the funeral prayer is done for them and how they are washed
This chapter deals with judgments particular to children, meaning a child who has at least cried out. He begins with the supplication which is made for him:

22.1 The first three prayers

You praise Allah tabaraka wa ta'alaa and ask for blessing on His Prophet Muhammad (alaihi salat wa salam) and then you say, "O Allah, he is your slave and the son of Your slaves. You created him and provided for him. You made him die and will bring him to life. Make him a forerunner and a stored-up treasure and a reward for his parents. Make their balances heavy through him and make their reward greater because of him and do not deprive either us or them of their reward through him and do not test either us or them after him. O Allah, give him the company of the right-acting Muminun who have gone ahead and place him under the guardianship of Ibrahim. Give him a house better than the one he had and a family better than the one he had. Save him from the trial of the grave and the torment of Jahannam."

This is said after each takbir except the fourth.

22.2 The fourth intercession
You say this after each takbir and after the fourth you say, "O Allah, forgive our forbears and predecessors and those who have gone before us. O Allah, whoever among us You make live make him live in iman and whoever You take back to Yourself take him back as a Muslim. Forgive all the Muslims both men and women and all the Muminun both men and women, the living and the dead." Then you say the salam

Just as the salam for the prayer.

22.3 Stillborn’s

22.3a No prayer

You do not do the funeral prayer for a stillborn baby

The still-born is the one who does not cry. Nor is he washed, even if he moves, urinates, sneezes or suckles for a little, but not a lot. It is the sign a life. This prohibition is one of dislike. As for the one who cries, he has all the judgments of the living, even if he dies immediately, without dispute.

Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi): it is not buried with perfumes or given a name.
22.3b Legal consequences

Such a baby does not inherit and cannot be inherited from. If a baby is prematurely stillborn, it is disliked for its body to be buried inside a house.

Inheritance is a branch of confirmation of life. So any gifts made to him before his birth are returned. He is not buried in the house because it is feared that if the house is destroyed, the bones will be disinterred.

Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi): if a stillborn child is buried in the house, that does not prevent sale of the house.

22.4 Who should do the ghusl

22.4a Women washing boys

There is no harm in women washing the body of a young boy of six or seven years old.

They do not wash them when they are old. At such an age, it is not obliged for them to cover the private parts because it is permitted for the women to look at the body.
22.4b Men do not wash girls

But men do not wash the bodies of young girls. There is a difference of opinion regarding young girls who have not reached an age when they might be desired but the former judgment is the one preferred by us.

The prohibition against men washing a girl is one of forbidding by agreement if she is one of those who might be desirable, like six or seven. They can wash her if she is still a small baby by agreement, i.e. less than three years. There is some disagreement about those who have not reached the age of desirably, Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) permits it by analogy with the women washing a young boy, but Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) forbids it. It is the position of the Mudawwana. The accepted position is that of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) because the female is generally desirable.

Chapter Twenty-Four: On Fasting
This also deals with things connected to it like the Tarawih prayer. Linguistically "Siyam" means to restrain and abandon. Whoever forgoes something is said to be fasting. Allah azza wa jall says in the story about Maryam (alaiha salam), "I have vowed a fast to the All-Merciful," (Holy Qur’an 19:26) meaning a silence, which is withholding from words. In the Shari’ah, it is to restrain the appetites of the stomach and genitals from dawn to sunset with an intention before or at dawn except in days of menstruation, lochia and the ‘Ids. Fasting is divided into the obligatory and non-obligatory.

Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi): tobacco is also avoided in the fast.

23.1 Its Ruling

Fasting the month of Ramadan is obligatory

It is obligatory by the Book, the Sunnah and consensus. Whoever denies that it is obligatory to fast Ramadan is an unbeliever by agreement. Whoever affirms its obligation and refuses to fast it is a rebel and is compelled to do it.

It is affirmed that the fast of Ramadan begins by one of two things, either by the month of Sha'ban lasting 30 days or by sighting the new moon.
23.2 Beginning the Fast

23.2a When the fast begins

You start fasting when the new moon is sighted and you stop fasting when the new moon is sighted, whether this is after thirty or twenty-nine days. If the new moon cannot be seen because of clouds you count thirty days from the beginning of the preceding month and then begin fasting. The same applies to ending the fast.

His literal words are whether the sighting is exhaustive, when a group sight it so that its impossible to accuse them of lying because their report gives information, or with two witnesses of good character only, with clouds or clear skies, meaning there is no difference between the large and small town. Similar to the two witnesses of good character is one whose report is trusted, even if a slave or a woman, when the place does not pay attention to the business of the new moon in respect of the people of the seer and others. If the place is concerned with the business of the new moon, the seeing of one does not affirm it, even for his family, and even if they believe him, but he must present his business to the ruler. It is not permitted for him to break the fast. If he breaks it, he disbelieves, even if by interpretation because the interpretation is unlikely. The fast is also broken by seeing the moon of Shawwal. If there are clouds, then you count from the beginning of the month of Sha'ban. The basis for this is what is in the two Sahih collections that he (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Fast when you see it and break the fast when you see it. If it is cloudy, then complete the number."

There are seven preconditions for the fast.

23.2b 1. The intention

You should make an intention to fast the whole month at the beginning of the month and it is not necessary to make a new intention every night for the rest of the month

He should formulate the intention with his heart the first night of Ramadan after sunset and before dawn or at dawn as an act of nearness to Allah azza wa jall by performing what is obliged of him during the day of refraining from eating, drinking and intercourse. It is not an obligation to make the intention on the rest of the days. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that the intention must be made at night, and that is stated by Imam ash-Shafi'i(rahmatullahi alaihi) and Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi), because the days of the month are individual acts of worship separate from one another. The invalidation of one does not invalidate another, and they are not impaired by what is contrary to them at night, like eating, drinking and intercourse.
So the days become like the five prayers during the day. It is obliged to give day an intention for the fast as it is obligatory to have an intention for every prayer. The evidence of the Maliki School is the words of the Almighty, "So every one of you who is present (at his home) during that month should spend it in fasting." (Holy Qur’an 2:185) This command is transferred to one fast, which is the fast of the month. The intention is made in the night based on what the authors of the Sunan reported of the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam): "Whoever does not intend the fast before dawn has no fast." Advancing it is overlooked in the fast because of the difficulty. Shaikh ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "The literal words of the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) is that it is not obliged for someone who breaks the fast, like the menstruating women, to renew the intention. That is the case according to Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) and others. There remain the sick person and traveler when they continue to fast. They are obliged to make the intention every night because it is not obligatory for them to continue. When the sick person becomes well and the traveler arrives, the intention for what remains is enough for them, like the menstruating woman who becomes pure, the child who reaches puberty in the fast, and the kafir who becomes a Muslim during the month.

The other preconditions are:
Islam.

Sanity.

Being free of menstruation and lochia.

Refraining from things that break the fast.

The ability to fast.

Adulthood.

23.2c Duration of the fast

You fast until night comes

Based on the ayat and because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said in the Sahih, "When night advances from there and the day retreats from here and the sun sets, the faster breaks the fast."

and it is Sunnah to break the fast as soon as possible

When you are certain the night has come. There is disagreement about continuing after sunset. Some say that it is unlawful as it is unlawful on the Day of the ‘Id. Some say it is permitted and he has the reward of the faster. The fiqh of the question that he has the reward of the faster is weak. The statement that it is unlawful is more likely unless his intention is that it is obliged for him. Otherwise, it is disliked when it is without necessity.

23.2d Delaying Sahur

and to delay your Sahur. If you are not sure if the time of Fajr has come or not you should not eat

Sahur means what is eaten and Sahur is the act of eating. The amount of the best delay after finishing eating and drinking there remains until Fajr the amount of time it takes to recite 50 ayats. The basis for this is the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), "My community will continue to be all right as long as they hurry to break the fast and delay the Sahur." (Imam Ahmad [RA]) If he is unsure of the time of Fajr, he should not eat or drink or have intercourse. This can mean prohibition or dislike. The well-known position is that it is a prohibition. If he is unsure about sunset, it is unlawful to eat and otherwise break the fast by agreement.

23.2e Not fasting the Day of Doubt

You do not fast the 'day of doubt', fasting on the grounds that it might be part of Ramadan
This prohibition is one of dislike according to the probable text of the Mudawwana. Shaikh ibn 'Abdu's-Salam (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "What is probable is that it is a prohibition based on what Shaikh at-Tirmidhi (rahmatullahi alaihi) related in a hasan sahih hadith: Shaikh Ammar ibn Yasir (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "Whoever fasts the Day of Doubt, has rebelled against Abu'l-Qasim (the Holy Prophet) (alaihi salat wa salam)."

We consider the Day of Doubt which is forbidden to fast to be the day when it was cloudy on the night of the 29th and vision was not established, and so the morning of that night is the Day of Doubt.

23.2f Its judgment when it is fasted

If you do this it is not counted even if it turns out to have been Ramadan

If you fast the Day of Doubt out of caution and then it is established to be Ramadan, it is not counted because the intention was not firm.

If you want to fast that day as a voluntary fast, however, you can do so i.e. this is when it is his custom to fast.

23.2g When you discover it is Ramadan in the morning

If you get up in the morning and discover, before having eaten or drunk anything, that Ramadan has begun you must fast the rest of the day but you cannot count it as one of the days of your Ramadan and you have to make up a day

If this happens, you have to make it up by the lack of the intention. Nevertheless you must avoid food and drink and anything that would invalidate the prayer for the rest of the day. It is also obligatory for him to fast if he has eaten or drunk or the like. He makes it up, but there is no kaffarah since he forgot or it was intentional by interpretation. If it is something else, then he must do kaffarah.

23.2h When someone returns from a journey or stops menstruating

If someone returns from a journey and they are not fasting or if a woman finishes menstruating during the day then in both these cases it is all right for them to eat and drink during the remainder of that day
This in the daytime. It is not recommended for them to refrain. It is the same in the case of the child who reaches maturity, the madman who recovers his senses, the sick person who starts out not fasting and then becomes well. It is the same for the one who faints and then regains consciousness, the one compelled by the necessity of hunger or thirst, and the nursing woman whose child dies in the day. It is the same for an unbeliever who becomes Muslim, although it is recommended for him to refrain which is not the case with the others. As for the one who breaks his fast by forgetfulness or on the Day of Doubt or is forced to break it, and their excuse is removed, then it is obligatory for them to refrain. When the one forced breaks his fast after the compulsion is removed, he must make it up with kaffarah unless there was a valued interpretation.

23.3 The ruling on breaking a voluntary fast

23.3a Breaking it intentionally

If you are doing a voluntary fast and break your fast intentionally, or if you start off on a journey and break your fast because of it, you must make up that day

Without compulsion or excuse, or because you set off on a journey while observing a voluntary fast and then break it because of it: it is obligatory to make it up in both cases. Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) said that there is disagreement about when he breaks it intentionally: is it recommended to fast for the rest of it or is that not recommended as Shaikh al-Ujhuri (rahmatullahi alaihi) said?

23.3b Breaking it unintentionally

If in a voluntary fast you break your fast unintentionally you do not have to make up a day but if this happens in the obligatory fast you have to make up a day

There is no disagreement that it is not obligatory to make it up if it is unintentional, but there is a disagreement about whether it is recommended and there are two positions. Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) heard that it is recommended. When the obligatory fast is unintentionally broken, it must be made up. Shaikh Zarruq (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "The literal meaning of his (alaihi salat wa salam) words is that the obligatory is in Ramadan or elsewhere."

23.4 Things which break or do not break the fast

There is no harm in using a siwak at any time during the day while you are fasting
This is stated in the Mudawwana. It means it is permissible, as Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) stated, "The siwak is permitted every day as long as nothing splits off from it. It is disliked to moisten it." Some of them said that it is permitted after midday for the one who does not have a legal requirement. As for a legal requirement like wudu', the prayer, recitation and dhikr, it is recommended. That is correct as the hadith shows in the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), "If it were not that it would be hard on my community, I would command them to use the siwak for every prayer." So this includes the person who is fasting.

When he says, "during the day while you are fasting" that alludes to the words of Imam ash-Shafi’i(rahmatullahi alaihi) and Imam Ahmad ibn Hanbal (rahmatullahi alaihi) that it is preferred before midday and disliked after it based on what is in the Sahih where the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, 'The odor of the mouth of the faster is sweeter with Allah than the scent of musk." That is because of Allah azza wa jall's pleasure with him and His praise for the faster.

23.4b Blood-letting and blood-letting is not disliked except if doing it will cause over-exhaustion

i.e. illness. In the dictionary, it means to expose oneself to death. Therefore cupping is only disliked when illness is feared because he is unsure about health and its absence. If he knows it is safe, there is no dislike.

23.4c Vomiting

If you vomit involuntarily while fasting in Ramadan you do not have to make up a day

If it is in Ramadan or another day, there is no obligation or recommendation to make it up, whether it is for a reason or simply on account of fullness, and whether the food has been altered or not. This is when he knows that none of it went back to his stomach after reaching his mouth. If he knows that some of it went back after it reached his mouth, then he must make it up when it is unintentional. Otherwise he owes kaffarah. He must also make it up if he is unsure about that. Undigested food is like vomit. It is what emerges from the mouth of the intestines when they are full. As for phlegm which reaches the end of the tongue and he swallows it deliberately, there is no making up. It is the same with spit which he collects in his month and then swallows. He does not have to make anything up.

23.4d Swallowing vomit
but if you make yourself vomit you have to make up a day

There are two statements about whether this is obligatory or recommended. Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that the first is well-known, and it is preferred. Shaikh ibn al-Jallab (rahmatullahi alaihi) preferred the second. The literal words of the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) is that there is no kaffarah for the one who makes himself vomit in Ramadan. There is some disagreement in the question about whether or not there is kaffarah. Shaikh Abdu'l-Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that he makes it up and does kaffarah. Shaikh ibn al-Majishun (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that the one who makes himself vomit intentionally without illness must make it up and do kaffarah. Shaikh Abu'l-Faraj (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that if Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) had been asked about the like of it, he would have obliged kaffarah. It is related from Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) that he just makes it up.

Know that breaking the fast in Ramadan is obligatory in certain cases and permitted in some. The first category is when a woman menstruates during the day: she must break the fast for the rest of the days.

23.5 Pregnant and nursing women
23.5a Pregnant women

If a pregnant woman is afraid on account of the child in her womb she should break the fast. She does not have to feed anyone in expiation. It has also been said that she should feed people.

If she fears for her child or herself or that she will become ill, she breaks the fast and that is obligatory. According to the well-known position, she does not feed people, but simply makes it up. It is said that she should feed as related by Shaikh ibn Wahb (rahmatullahi alaihi). What is understood from his words is that it is when she does not fear, she does not break it even if the fast exhausts her. That is not the case. If the fast exhausts her, she can choose to break it. What is derived from what Shaikh ibn 'Arafa (rahmatullahi alaihi) says is that the pregnant woman, nursing woman and sick person can break the fast when fasting if it is difficult for them, even if they do not fear illness or its increase. The healthy person cannot break the fast when it is difficult. There are two statements about whether he breaks the fast out of fear of illness. Part of the second, which is that illness permits it in some cases, is when he fears increased or continuing illness. If he fears death or great harm, then he must break it. In the fear which permits breaking the fast, the person relies on the doctor's statement, or his own personal experience, or the experience of someone with a constitution like him. Travel has its preconditions which will be discussed.

23.5b Nursing women

Similarly, if a nursing mother fears for her child and cannot find a wet nurse, or if the child will not accept to be fed by anyone else, she can break the fast but she must feed people in expiation

This is permission if she fears for her child or herself on account of fasting. In such a case she must feed people. It is also said that it is an obligation to break the fast and feed people.

23.6 The old

If an old man cannot fast, it is recommended for him to feed people

If he is unable to fast at any time, he is permitted to break the fast by the words of Allah azza wa jall, "No self is charged beyond what it can bear,"(Holy Qur’an 2:233) and "He has not placed any constraint on you in the din." (Holy Qur’an 22:78) The literal text of the Mudawwana is contrary to what he mentioned of the recommendation to feed. He says that there is no fidya. However, the Mudawwana relates that he is not obliged to feed and so that is not contrary to the recommendation.

23.7 Feeding people (Fidya)

23.7a Its amount

Feeding people in this context consists of giving away one mudd for each day which has to be made up

Feeding is done by the pregnant woman fearful for what is in her womb, the nursing mother who fear for her child, and the very old man who cannot fast is a mudd, by the Holy Prophet's (alaihi salat wa salam) mudd.

23.7b Its ruling

Someone who fails to make up missed days before the following Ramadan should also feed a poor person for each day they still owe

The ruling varies because the feeding done by an old person, as was said, is recommended. The feeding of a nursing woman is obligatory. The literal sense of his words is that making up Ramadan is at leisure, and it is what is indicated by the hadith of 'A'isha (radhi’Allahu anha) in the Muwatta'. She (radhi’Allahu anha) said, "I used to have to make up days from Ramadan and not be able to fast them until Sha'ban came because I was busy with the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam)." So it is evident that it permissible to delay it until Sha'ban, even if what was delayed becomes immediately obligatory. That shows that the obligation is wide. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it should be immediate, but that is weak. According to the first statement, he is considered to be lax in Sha'ban when he is healthy and at home, and so they must feed. When he owes 15 days, then residence and health are considered at the last half of Ramadan and feeding is obligatory if he is sound and resident. If he is ill in it or on a journey, there is no feeding. According to the second, laxity is considered in Shawwal according to what he owes of fasting based on analogy with what we said about Sha'ban. If Ramadan is 30 and he fasts a month to make it up and it is 29, then he completes the 30. It is permitted to make it up at any time in which it is permitted to fast voluntarily. It is not made up in days when it is forbidden to fast.

Children are not obliged to fast until such time as a boy has his first wet dream or a girl her first menstrual period because it is when children reach physical maturity that all the physical acts of worship become obligatory for them. Allah azza wa jall says, "When your children reach physical maturity they should seek permission (to enter)."
(Holy Qur’an 24:59)

One of the preconditions for the fast is being an adult. It is neither obligatory nor recommended for children to fast. Maturity is by ejaculation or age which is 18 in the well-known position. This is different from the prayer. It is recommended to command them to do it. Maturity is what brings the person from childhood to manhood and sense. All acts - prayer, fasting, hajj and raiding - are obligatory for them, as well as actions of the heart, like the obligation of intentions which are obligatory because the intention is one of the actions of the heart, and creeds like the belief that Allah is One, for example. Evidence that obligations become incumbent children when they reach maturity is in the words of Allah azza wa jall. Asking permission is obliged then and is connected to maturity.

23.9 Defilement’s

If someone who has not done ghusl wakes up after Fajr in a state of janaba or if the period of a woman who has been menstruating finishes before Fajr and she does not do ghusl till after Fajr, then fasting that day is valid in both these cases
This is either from intercourse or an intentional or unintentional wet-dream in an obligatory or voluntary fast, or a woman has her period stop and sees that she is pure before Fajr. If they do not have a ghusl until after dawn, even if they are able to do, their fast is still allowed and they owe nothing. The validity of the fast of the person in janaba is that it is confirmed that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) was in janaba at Fajr in Ramadan and he (alaihi salat wa salam) had a ghusl and fasted. As for the validity of the menstruating woman whom becomes pure before Fajr in Ramadan, it is agreed that that is when she is pure before Fajr with the amount in which she could wash. According to the well-known position that also applies to the amount of time in which it is not possible to wash. If she becomes pure after Fajr, her fast is not valid.

23.10a Not allowed on the ‘Id

Fasting is not permitted on the day of ‘Id al-Fitr or the day of the ‘Id al-Adha nor should anyone fast the two days after the ‘Id al-Adha unless he is doing Hajj Tamatt'a and does not have an animal to sacrifice

As it is not permitted, it is not valid since it is forbidden by the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) to fast them.
23.10b The fourth day

There should be no voluntary fasting on the fourth day either but if someone has vowed to fast or has previously broken off a consecutive fast, they should fast that day.

The fourth day after the Day of Sacrifice is not made a voluntary fast. It is fasted by someone who has fasted Shawwal and Dhu'l-Qa'da for kaffarah for a dhihar divorce or murder and then becomes ill and regains his health in the fourth night. He can fast it.

23.11 Making up the fast

23.11a Breaking the fast out of forgetfulness

If you break the fast in Ramadan out of forgetfulness you only have to make up that day.

You are obliged to continue to fast and to abstain through the rest of day of Ramadan. You are obliged to continue to fast when you break it by forgetfulness in an obligatory fast other than Ramadan. There is no making up in the well-known position. One should be careful about forgetting. When you break it intentionally you owe kaffarah as well as making up. That is why he says "only" since he said he owes no kaffarah because which differs from Shaikh ibn al-Majishun (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh Ahmad (rahmatullahi alaihi) who say that there is kaffarah if he breaks it through intercourse based on the hadith of the bedouin who came to the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) beating his chest and pulling his hair, saying, "I am destroyed! I am destroyed!" The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) asked him, "What is the reason for this?" He replied, "I had intercourse with my wife in Ramadan" He (alaihi salat wa salam) commanded him to do kaffarah. The reply to that by the Maliki masters is that the circumstances of striking himself and pulling his hair indicate that the intercourse was intentional.

23.11b Breaking the fast because of illness

The same applies if you are forced to break the fast due to illness

When the fast is too difficult, or when he fears that the illness will continue longer, or increase, or healing will be delayed, he only has to make it up without kaffarah. If it is an illness in which it is not difficult to fast or in which increased illness or delay of health is not feared, and he breaks his fast, then he must make it up and do kaffarah.

23.12 A Traveler
23.12a Length of journey

If you are on a journey for which you can shorten the prayer you are permitted to break the fast even if there is no particular need to do so, making up any days missed later, but according to us it is better to fast.

If you go on a journey at the time of the intention such that you will reach a limit where shortening the prayers begins before dawn. So the distance is four or more mail stages of a return journey, and it should not be a journey involving disobedience of Allah azza wa jall. You are permitted to break it, eat, drink and have intercourse. This is even if the journey is not necessary. There is no disagreement that he must make up the fast by the words of the Almighty, "the prescribed number should be made up from days later," (Holy Qur’an 2:184) The Malikis prefer that the one who is strong enough should fast because the Almighty says, "It is better for you if you fast."

23.12b A journey of less than the minimum

If anyone travels less than four mail stages (48 miles) and breaks the fast thinking it is permissible to do so, they do not have to do kaffarah although they must make up the day. [Anyone who breaks the fast through an interpretation does not have to do kaffarah]

Because he followed an interpretation. He is only obliged to make it up without dispute. The literal words about the one who uses interpretation not owing kaffarah are unrestricted, but there is a well-known disagreement. The interpretation must be a likely one. There is no kaffarah because he is excused by relying on a strong reason. If the interpretation is unlikely, which is when its reason is not strong, then there is kaffarah. One of the cases in which is the reason is strong is the case we mentioned about the old man, and the one who breaks the fast out of forgetfulness and then breaks it intentionally that it is permitted: he owes no kaffarah. There is also the case of the person in janaba or menstruating before dawn who only had a ghusl for that after Fajr and thought that the fast for that day was not obliged and deliberately did not fast: he has no kaffarah. There is the case of someone who has Sahur at Fajr and thinks that the fast for that day is not binding and so he breaks it after that intentionally: he owes no kaffarah. There is the one who arrives after a journey at night in Ramadan and thinks that he does not have to fast the morning of that day and that one of the preconditions of the obligation of the fast is that he come from the journey before sunset. and so he breaks it deliberately: he owes no kaffarah.
Unlikely cases are those in which the cause is weak. If he sees the moon of Ramadan and his testimony is not accepted and he thinks that the fast is not binding for him and so he breaks it - he owes kaffarah. Part of it is the person who normally has a fever every three days and so when the day he comes he breaks the fast and then the fever comes to him on that day. He is obliged to do kaffarah, and even more so if it does not come. One is the woman who normally menstruates on a particular day and so she does not fast that day and then she menstruates later in the day. One of them is the one slanders a person in Ramadan and thinks that that invalidates his fast because he ate the meat of his the flesh of his brother and so he breaks it intentionally. He must do kaffarah, and make it up.

Kaffarah only applies to people who break the fast deliberately either by eating, drinking, or sexual intercourse

If he resolves to eat and drink or have intercourse, but does not do it, he owes nothing, either making it up or kaffarah. It is same for someone who resolves to break wudu' by breaking wind, for instance, and does not do it- he does not have to do wudu'.
In the case of intercourse, one distinguishes the deliberate from the forgetful and the ignorant, i.e. the one who was ignorant of the prohibition and the one who did not rely on anything, like someone who is a new Muslim who believes that fasting does not forbid intercourse, for instance, and so does it -he owes no kaffarah.

23.13b Making up the day

The actual day when the kaffarah was incurred must also be made up on top of the kaffarah itself

Making it up is obliged as well as the kaffarah.

23.13c What kaffarah consists of:

The kaffarah on account of eating, drinking, or intercourse deliberately in Ramadan by abuse or unlikely interpretation is one of three things from which one can choose.

23.13d 1. Feeding sixty people

The kaffarah for breaking the fast consists of feeding sixty poor people with one mudd for each person using the mudd of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam). This is the preferred way of doing kaffarah according to us.

It is taken from the normal food of the one who expiates or from the dominant food of the people: there is disagreement on that. Shaikh al-Lakhmi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said: "That proceeds according to the disagreement about kaffarah," i.e. the kaffarah of the oath, and the zakat al-fitr. The preferred position is that it is the food of the people of the land. It is understood from in his words about 'sixty', as in the Mudawwana, that it is not satisfied by giving 30 poor people two mudds each. If he gives to less than sixty, he takes back from each of them what is more than a mudd if it is in his possession and completes the sixty. If that has been consumed, he cannot take it back because he is the one who gave them power over that. What is meant by the poor person here is not what is meant by it in zakat, i.e. the one who does not have anything. What is meant is the one in need of it and the poor person who does not have food for that year. There disagreement about which of the three types is best. The well-known position is that it is feeding and that is what is stated here. It is preferred by some of the people of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) because it has more benefit.

23.13e 2. Freeing a slave
However, it is also possible to carry out kaffarah by freeing a slave

The second is freeing a slave. It is a precondition that it be a believer free of defects - like blind, dumb, or mad.

23.13f 3. Fasting two months or fasting for two consecutive months

The third is to fast for two consecutive months. Kaffarah is counted by the days.

23.13g Eating while making up

Someone who breaks the fast deliberately while making up a day of Ramadan does not have to do kaffarah

This is because kaffarah is one of the special things of Ramadan, and there is no disagreement in what we mentioned according to Shaikh ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi). The disagreement is whether one or two days are made up. It is preferable that he makes it two, as Shaikh ibn 'Arafa (rahmatullahi alaihi) said.

NOTE: Making up Ramadan is valid on separate or consecutive days, but doing it consecutively is better.
23.14 Unconsciousness

23.14a When someone regains consciousness after Fajr

If someone becomes unconscious during the night and recovers consciousness after Fajr he should make up a day

Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) said he is not commanded to refrain from eating for the rest of the day. Loss of consciousness is the removal of sense by an illness which afflicts him, as stated in at-Tahqiq. That which he relied on is the commentator of Khalil. The relied-on position is that if he is unconscious for all or most of the day, he must make it up, whether he is sound at the beginning of it or not. If he is unconscious for less than half of it, and is sound in the beginning of it, it is allowed. Otherwise it is not. We said 'sound at the beginning,' meaning conscious at the time of the intention, even if it he was unconscious before it and recovers before Fajr for the amount of time in which he could do it, even he did not, according to the relied on position. This is when he made the intention in the night before it so that it is included in the intention for the month. Otherwise it is not, because there must be an intention since it is not valid without the intention. The one intoxicated by something lawful is like the unconscious person in the details mentioned, but the one who becomes intoxicated by something unlawful at night and remains drunk must make it up. If a sleeper makes the intention at the beginning of the month and then sleeps for the entire mouth, his fast is valid and he is free of responsibility.

23.14b Prayers which must be made up

He only has to make up a missed prayer if he comes to during the time it is due

If he fainted at night and wakes up after dawn. This was covered in the Chapter of Prayer. He repeats it here to point out that the fast is different from the prayer. The menstruating woman makes up the fast but no the prayer because of the difficulty of repeating it.

23.15 Other Prohibitions in the Fast

23.15a Guarding the tongue and limbs

When you are fasting you should guard your tongue and limbs

That is recommended, and some say it is obligatory, and there is no contradiction between the two positions. The one who says it is obligatory applies to refraining from the forbidden, and the one who recommends it applies it to refraining from what is not forbidden, like excessive permissive speech.

He mentions the limbs which are seven: hearing, sight, tongue, hands, feet, belly and genitals. The tongue is mentioned specifically because it results in the greatest calamities. It is said that there is not a morning but the limbs complain to the tongue, "We ask you by Allah, go straight and we will be straight. If you are crooked, we will be crooked. 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) visited Abu Bakr (radhi’Allahu anhu) and found him pulling his tongue. He said, 'What, Abu Bakr!' He (radhi’Allahu anhu) said, "Leave me. It has brought about things." People should curtail what they say in Ramadan.

23.15b Honoring the month of Ramadan and honor the month of Ramadan as Allah azza wa jall has honored it

Allah azza wa jall says "the month of Ramadan in which the Qur'an was revealed." (Holy Qur'an 2:185) It is honored by the recitation of Holy Qur'an, dhikr, fasting, praying, sadaqa, and other acts of worship. It is disliked to esteem it by decorations and delegations and the like.

23.15c Avoidance of sexual pleasure in the day
A fasting man may not have sexual intercourse during the daytime in Ramadan nor may he touch a woman or kiss her to gain pleasure.

Intercourse is forbidden by agreement. Other things are said to be haram or disliked. It is possible to say that there is no contradiction, and it is possible that the illicitness is applied when he does not know that there is security and dislike when he knows it. In short, it is disliked for the old and young, male or female, to kiss his spouse or slavegirl while he is fasting, or to touch or dally. It is the same for looking or remembering when he knows that he is safe from sperm and prostatic fluid. If he knows that he is not safe or is unsure about it, it is unlawful. It is not unlawful for him in the night unless he is doing I’tikaf or fasting for the kaffarah of a dhihar-divorce. In such a case the day and night are the same. If he does any of that while fasting and is safe, he owes nothing. If he ejaculates, he must make it up and do kaffarah.

23.15d Sexual pleasure allowed at night

None of these things, however, is haram for him during the night.

This is because the Almighty says: "Lawful to you on the night of the fast is going to your wives..." (Holy Qur’an 2:187) Night and day are the same for the one doing I’tikaf and fasting the kaffarah for dhihar.

23.15e Waking up in janaba

It does not matter if you wake up in the morning in a state of janaba because of having had sexual intercourse

Here he repeats this point to clarify that the fast is valid if you are in janaba.

23.15f Emission of madhy in Ramadan

If you do get sexual pleasure during the daytime by touching or kissing and this results in the emission of madhy (prostatic fluid) you must make up that day

Or through looking or thinking, then he must make up the day for the emission of madhy, whether it lasts or not. For the emission of madhy for any reason, there is only making up, which is obligatory. If there is no madhy, there is no making up, even if there is an erection. It is what Shaikh ibn Wahb (rahmatullahi alaihi), and Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) related from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) in al-Mudawwana. It is the preferred position.
23.15g Emission of sperm in Ramadan

If you do it deliberately and the result is the ejaculation of any (semen) you have to do the kaffarah

According to the well-known position. He is silent about looking and remembering. Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) say that if he continues to look until he ejaculates, then he must make it up and do kaffarah. If he does not continue to do it, then he must only make it up according to the well-known position. Shaikh al-Qabisi (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that if he looks once deliberately, he must make it up and do kaffarah. Shaikh al-Baji (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it is sound and gave remembering the same judgment as the glance. If he continues to remember until he ejaculates, then he must make up and do kaffarah. If he does not continue to do it, then he makes it up without kaffarah.

23.15h The reward for fasting

Anyone who fasts Ramadan with belief and with awareness of the reward for doing it is forgiven all his previous wrong actions

He believes in the reward if he fasts with the awareness that its reward has been stored up for him by Allah azza wa jall in the Next World and he does not fast in order to show off or for reputation. The wrong actions forbidden are the minor ones between him and his Lord. Major wrong actions are only expiated by repentance or Allah azza wa jall's forgiveness.

23.16 The Tarawih Prayer

23.16a The reward for praying at night

If you stand up in prayer during the night, to the extent that you able to do so, you can expect great good from it and pardon for your wrong actions

The reward for standing in prayer is not limited to all the night, but is obtained by anyone who stands for part of it according to his state without limit.

23.16b Tarawih prayers are performed with an Imam in a group

These night prayers are done with an Imam in masjids where the prayer is normally done in jama'a

It is permitted to do these prayers in the masjid in groups with an Imam. This is an exception from the dislike of praying the nafila in group which is indicated by the words of Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi), added to the dislike of gathering for nafila or in a known place since the action to gather for them continued from the time of 'Umar ibn al-Khattab (radhi'Allahu anhu). Part of his (alaihi salat wa salam) sunan is to do this and the time they are done is after 'Isha'.

23.16c They can be done at home

If you want to you can do these night prayers at home. Indeed this is considered better if your intention is strong enough for you to do them by yourself

It is considered better to do them at home on you own if you are not too lazy.

23.16d How the Salaf first did did them

The righteous people of the first community used to do these prayers in the masjid. They did twenty rak'ats followed by three rak'ats - two for shaf'i and one for witr with a salam in between

These are the Companions, peace be upon all of them. They did them in the time of 'Umar ibn al-Khattab (radhi'Allahu anhu) in the masjid with 20 rak'ats. That is preferred by a group, including, Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi), Imam ash-Shafi'i (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Imam Ahmad (rahmatullahi alaihi), and the action now does that followed by the shaf‘i and witr. Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that there is no salam between the two, and Imam ash-Shafi‘i (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that there is a choice.

23.16e The later practice of the Salaf

Later they began praying thirty-six rak‘ats not including the shaf‘i and witr. Both of these are acceptable

Then the Salaf other than the first Salaf, namely the Tabi‘un, increased it. 'Umar ibn 'Abdu'l-'Aziz (rahmatullahi alaihi) commanded them to do that since it contained benefit because they were making the recitation long which caused boredom and weariness, and so he commanded them to shorten the recitation and increase the rak‘ats. That which 'Umar ibn 'Abdu'l-'Aziz (rahmatullahi alaihi) did was preferred by Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) in the Mudawwana.

23.16f Done in groups of two rak‘ats

You say the salam after each two rak‘ats. 'A'isha (radhi‘Allahu anha), said that the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam), never did more than twelve rak‘ats followed by a single rak‘at of witr, either in Ramadan or out of it
Then he explains how the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) did them according to 'A'isha (radhi’Allahu anha) which differs from what is in the Muwatta' where she says that he did not exceed twelve at any time, Ramadan or not. It also differs from what is related from her that he prayed 15 and 17. Other things are related from his (alaihi salat wa salam) wives and they can be combined if the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) first prayed two to greet the masjid and then stood to do tahajjud with two quick rakat’s to start. When he left for the Subh prayer he prayed the two rak'ats of Fajr. So they can be added together.

1. Sahur is the meal eaten before Fajr prior to a day's fasting.

2. Thirtieth of Sha'ban if the new moon has not been seen the previous night.

Chapter Twenty-Four: On I’tikaf

This comes after fasting because it is prescribed as a result of fasting. He begins with its ruling:
24.1 Its Ruling

I’tikaf is a meritorious voluntary act. It derives from a word meaning 'to stay in one place'

It is best done in the last ten days of Ramadan since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did that. Linguistically it means devotion to a thing and sticking to it. In the Shari’ah, it means that the Muslim clings to the masjid for dhikr, the prayer, recitation of the Holy Qur'an while fasting and refraining from intercourse and things which lead to it for a day or more with an intention. This definition includes its pillars which are: Islam, discrimination and being in a masjid, and what was mentioned of dhikr, prayer, etc., and refraining from intercourse and things leading up to it. Its pillars designate that on which the reality of the thing is based. It is an act of devotion with those qualifications.

24.2 Preconditions

24.2a Fasting

You can only do itikaf if you are fasting

In the well-known position. It is not valid for someone who is not fasting, even on account of a valid excuse, as opposed to the one who says that the Itikaf of the old man who cannot fast is valid and the physically weak and that fasting is not a precondition of itikaf in the school. Another precondition is:

24.2b Consecutive and if it is consecutive and

As long as he has not vowed it separately. If he does vow that, then consecutiveness is not obliged.

24.2c In a masjid

in a masjid, as in the words of Allah azza wa jall, 'While you are doing Itikaf in masjids'

It is not valid in houses, shops and other such places. Itikaf is valid in any masjid, even if there are only three masjids in a town.

24.3 Concerning the masjid

If the town is one where there is a Jumu'a, then itikaf must be done in the jama'a masjid, unless you are fulfilling a vow to do a certain number of days in itikaf and these do not include the day of Jumu'a.
If there is a Jumu'a and he is someone who is obliged to go to Jumu'a and vows some days of which Jumu'a is one. So it must be in the Jama'a masjid in which Jumu'a is sound. It is not valid on the roof of the masjid nor in an adjoining house or washing place, nor in a storehouse since they enclose him and so resemble shops.

24.4 Its length

24.4a The best length

According to us it best to do at least ten days

In the Maliki school at least ten are recommended. Its most complete form is a month and it is disliked to do more. There is an opinion that its minimum is a day and a night and most complete is ten days and more than that is disliked, or different to what is best.

However, if someone makes a vow to do I'tikaf for one day or more, they must fulfill their vow. If the vow was just for one night, they must do I'tikaf for a day and a night
The literal meaning would be that if he vowed a day, the night is not necessary. That is not the case. The school of the Mudawwana is different. If he vows a day, a day and a night is obliged. If you said this is unclear since how can he be obliged with what is disliked because the Mudawwana makes it clear that it is disliked for less than ten days according to the position that the minimum of what is recommended is ten days, the answer is that he is speaking about what he vows. It is obliged it even if it is disliked. Shaikh al-Ujhuri (rahmatullahi alaihi) mentioned it. The well-known position is that he must do a day and a night if he vows a night. Shaikh Sahnun (rahmatullahi alaihi) says it is invalid because if someone vows I’tikaf in the night without the precondition, it is not valid.

24.5 Breaking the fast while in I’tikaf

24.5a. Deliberately

If someone in I’tikaf deliberately breaks their fast, they have to begin their I’tikaf all over again

This is by eating or drinking. There is a difference between what is deliberate or forgetful as stated in the Mudawwana. Illness and menstruation are in the same category as forgetfulness. So when he eats out of forgetfulness or becomes ill or a woman menstruates, they do not have to begin again since it is not invalidated and he makes it up after the excuse which broke the retreat no longer exists.

24.5b Intercourse in I’tikaf

and the same applies to someone who has sexual intercourse while in I’tikaf whether during the day or the night and whether it is through forgetfulness or deliberate

He adds in the Mudawwana "or kisses, has contact or touches." Shaikh ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi) says, "even if there is no pleasure." Shaikh Abu'l-Hasan (rahmatullahi alaihi) qualifies it by experiencing or intending pleasure even if he does not feel it.

24.5c Falling ill while in I’tikaf

If you fall ill in I’tikaf you can return home but you should complete your I’tikaf when you are well again

If the illness prevents the person from remaining in the masjid or fasting rather than remaining in the masjid, he must return home with the illness which prevents remaining in the masjid, and is permitted to do so there is an impediment to fasting only. According to Shaikh ar-Rajraji (rahmatullahi alaihi) he is obliged to remain in the masjid. When he is healthy he returns the masjid and resumes the I’tikaf, rather than making up.
24.5d Menstruating in I’tikaf

The same applies to a woman who starts to menstruate in I’tikaf

Or has bleeding from childbirth. She leaves and resumes it later.

24.5e Restrictions which continue to apply

The restrictions of I’tikaf continue to apply to both sick people and women who are menstruating during the time they are away from the masjid. When the woman regains her purity she should return immediately to the masjid whether this happens by night or by day

So they are not permitted to do outside the masjid what is incompatible with I’tikaf except not fasting. When the menstruating woman becomes pure and has a ghusl, or the sick person recovers, whether it be night or day, they return to the masjid immediately. If they do not return at that time, they restart according to the well-known position. If they return, that day is not counted because of the impossibility of fasting it.

24.6 Not leaving the masjid
24.6a Only to go to the lavatory

People doing I'tikaf should not leave the masjid except for normal needs

It is all that compels him to leave: urine, feces, the ghusl for Jumu'a, the 'Id, wudu', ghusl for janaba, eating and drinking provided that he does not go beyond the near place to the further place. Otherwise, his I'tikaf is invalidated. Another precondition that he does not engage in conversation with anyone. Otherwise his I'tikaf is invalidated. Then he clarifies the time in which I'tikaf begins:

24.6b When you enter the masjid

You should enter the masjid where you are intending to do your I'tikaf before sunset on the night you intend to start

This is recommended. Compare it with what is in the two Sahih collections of the hadith of 'A'isha (radhi’Allahu anha). She said, "When the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) wanted to do I'tikaf, he prayed Fajr and then entered into his I'tikaf." The answer is that he (alaihi salat wa salam) entered at the beginning of the time. He isolated himself in the place in which he intended to do I'tikaf after Subh. What meant by his place of I'tikaf is the tent
'A'isha (rahmatullahi alaihi) had set up for him, and he prayed Subh and then entered it.

24.7 What to avoid in I’tikaf

While in I’tikaf you should not visit the sick, follow funeral processions or go out to transact any business

24.7a Visiting the sick

While someone is in I’tikaf, he is forbidden to visit the sick, as long as it is not one of his parents or both of them. In such a case, he is obliged to go out to show filial devotion since it is an obligation in the Shari’ah and his I’tikaf is invalidated.

24.7b Funerals

He is not permitted to come out for the funeral prayer of both his parents. If he goes out, his I’tikaf is invalidated. He must go out to the funeral prayer for one of them since not going out is disobeying the living. That is not the case when they are both dead. His I’tikaf is invalidated. This applies to his parents, even if they are unbelievers. He does not join the funeral prayer, even if it is placed adjacent to him, and if it is the funeral or a neighbor or righteous person. But if he does visit a sick person in the masjid or prays in a funeral prayer in it, his I’tikaf is not invalidated.
24.7c Business

As for business, Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) asked, "Do his words, "does not go out to transact business" mean the usual going out because business takes in the markets and so it is prohibited to trade in the masjid or outside it, or do we say that he does not go out in the usual way and so it is permitted to trade inside the masjid? What is preferred is the first probability which coincides with what Shaikh al-Aqfahasi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said: "If he makes a contract on a sale inside the masjid, his I’tikaf is not invalidated." That is the case if the transaction is put in front of him. If he exceeds that, then his I’tikaf is invalidated unless it is through a broker and so it is prohibited without dispute. If it is without a broker and it is something slight, it is permitted without dislike. If it is a lot, it is disliked, but it does not invalidate the I’tikaf in two aspects, i.e. whether by a broker or not, as the sale is not invalid without disagreement i.e. whether it is forbidden or disliked. That is not imagined in the form of permission. He is permitted to go out for other than trade for what he cannot dispense with, even if he goes far outside, as long as he does not pass a closer place where he can buy, but with the precondition that he does not find anyone to sell to him.

24.7d No preconditions
You cannot make your I’tikaf conditional in any way

It is not permitted to stipulate a condition in it. Its literal meaning it is forbidden, as "I will do I’tikaf for ten days. If I think I should leave, then I will leave," or he says, "I will do I’tikaf for the days rather than the nights," or the reverse. It is like that if he makes a precondition that if something occurs to him which obliges him to make it up, he will have to make it up. There is no difference in that between making a precondition before beginning it or afterwards. If any of that occurs, the precondition is invalid and the I’tikaf is valid.

24.8 Lack of impediments

24.8a The Imam can do it

There is no harm in the Imam of a masjid doing I’tikaf

But it is better if he leaves it, meaning it is disliked for the Imam of the masjid. Or he indicates someone who says that the Imam of the masjid cannot do it. Shaikh ibn Waddah (rahmatullahi alaihi) related from Shaikh Sahnun (rahmatullahi alaihi) that he did not permit the person in I’tikaf to act as Imam of the obligatory or nafila prayers. It is permitted that he be the Imam of the masjid with an equal balance on each side according to what Shaikh ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi) says, or it is recommended that he be the regular Imam. It is relied upon. He reported the permission without his aim being refutation. Shaikh Abu 'Imran (rahmatullahi alaihi) reported that it is permitted. There is a text in the Mukhtasar that he is disliked it for the regular Imam. You that it is confirmed that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did I’tikaf while he (alaihi salat wa salam) was the Imam. It is not concealed from you that it weakens what is in the Mukhtasar and what is relied on is the recommendation which is in agreement with the hadith.

It is permissible for someone in I’tikaf to get married and for him to officiate at someone else’s marriage.

It is qualified in the Mudawwana that he does it while he is in place. If it is elsewhere, it is disliked if it is in the masjid and forbidden if it is outside of the masjid and then his I’tikaf is invalidated. It is also qualified by it not taking up a lot of his time. Otherwise it is disliked, whether he is the husband or the guardian. If it is said that the one in ihram is forbidden to contract a marriage, so what is the difference between him and the one in I’tikaf since they are both involved in a form of worship in which intercourse is forbidden, there are various answers, one of which is that the basic position is the permissibility of marriage for everyone. The person in ihram is removed from this by the statement of the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) that the person in ihram does not marry or give in marriage. The rest remains on its original basis which is permissibility.

24.9 Leaving I’tikaf

24.9a When he leaves outside of Ramadan

If you go into I’tikaf at the beginning of the month or in the middle of the month, when you leave from your I’tikaf you should do so after the Maghrib of its last day

This is any month outside of Ramadan. He is permitted to leave his I’tikaf after Maghrib without dispute in the school. This is outside of Ramadan.

24.9b When he leaves in Ramadan

However, if the period of your I’tikaf continues until the day of the ‘Id al-Fitr then you should spend the night before the ‘Id in the masjid and leave from it in the morning to go to the place where the ‘Id prayer is going to be held

If his I’tikaf is in Ramadan, then the end is sunset on the day of the ‘Id al-Fitr and so he is recommended to spend that night in the masjid until morning and go to the place of prayer since that is what the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did, i.e. he connects one act of worship to another.

Chapter Twenty-Five: On the zakat of money, crops, livestock and what comes out of mines; jizya and what should be taken from Dhimmî merchants and merchants who come from the Dar al-Harb

In this chapter he also mentions mines and the zakat on merchandise. Linguistically zakat means growth and increase and it is used for the increase in crops and property. In the Shari’ah it is a term used to designate the amount of money or goods taken from specific property when it reaches a specific amount at a specific time which must be spent in specific categories with specific ways. It is called zakat because the one who gives it grows by doing it with Allah azza wa jall, i.e. his rank with Him is raised by that. It is attested to by the words of the Almighty, "Take sadaqa from their wealth to purify and cleanse them” (Holy Qur’an 9:103)

25.1 Its Ruling

It is obligatory to pay zakat on money, crops and livestock

Money consists gold and silver and is mentioned in respect to the tradition. What is mentioned of gold and silver is called "specie" (‘ayn) by its honor. Crops consists of food groups used for life in general. Livestock refers to camels, cattle, and sheep and goats.

Zakat became an obligation in the second year of Hijra. The evidence for its obligatory nature is the Book, sunnah and consensus. Whoever disputes its obligatory nature is an unbeliever. If someone affirms that it is obligatory but refuses to pay it, he is beaten and it is taken from him by force and that is enough: he is not an unbeliever. Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) says he is an unbeliever, but this is unlikely. There are preconditions for the obligation and preconditions for the validity. As for the first, they are seven in general because Islam is one of the preconditions of the obligation since the unbelievers are not responsible for the rulings of the Shari’ah. The soundest position is that they are addressed to them, and so Islam is a precondition for its validity.
25.2 Its preconditions

The preconditions of the obligation are:

Islam,

Freedom,

The nisab,

Ownership,

A year for other than treasure-trove and tenths,

Lack of debt in money,

The coming of the collector to the herds if there are collectors and they can reach them.

The preconditions for its validity are four:

Intention,

Its distribution in the place of its obligation,

Paying it after it is becomes obligatory,
Paying it to a just Imam to take it and spend it if he exists or to its people, who are the eight classes indicated by the words which are indicated by the words of the Almighty: "Sadaqa are for the poor and the needy" (Holy Qur'an 9:60)

25.3 The time of the obligation

25.3a On crops

Zakat on crops must be paid on the day they are harvested

There are two statements about grains and three about fruits. The first is by Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) who says that when the palms are appraised, the grapes are good, the olives are black or near to it, the crop was begun to ripen and does not need water, then zakat is due on it. Shaikh ibn 'Abd as-Salam (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it is the well-known position. The second is by Shaikh ibn Maslama (rahmatullahi alaihi) is that it is only obliged on crops when they are harvested and only obliged on dates when they are cut. His evidence is the words of the Almighty, "Render the dues that are proper on the day that the harvest is gathered." (Holy Qur'an 6:141) This is the meaning "harvest and cutting". The third is particular to dates which is that they are only obliged by estimation, which is made by Shaikh al-Mughira (rahmatullahi alaihi). There is an order to these things: first soundness, then estimation and then cutting; and ripening is first and then harvest.

25.3b On money and livestock

Zakat on money and livestock is paid once a year

Money is other than mines and treasure-trove. Zakat is obliged on money and livestock once a year, after the end of a full year.
Shaikh Zarruq (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "The precondition of livestock after a year is that the collector comes in the well-known position if he exists and arrives. Otherwise it is obliged after the year by agreement. According to the well-known position, if it is paid before he comes, then it does not satisfy the requirement.

25.4 On farm produce

25.4a The minimum amount

No zakat is due on any amount of dates or grain less than five wasqs

Since it is sound that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "No zakat is due on grain or fruit until it reaches five wasqs."
(Sahih Muslim) Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi'Allahu anhu) said,
"See whether legumes are included with grain, raisins and olives with fruits or not. Some commentaries include it in grain and make grain include other things than fruits. There are 19 types: wheat, barley, sult-barley, rice, millet, sorghum, and Arabian wheat, and seven legumes: lentils, beans, broad beans, chick-peas, lupines, peas, grass peas, and oil seeds, which are the seeds of red radishes, sesame designated as sesame and cartham (safflower), and olives and raisins. So there are twenty types of fruits. No zakat is obliged on others like cotton seeds or rape and the like.

They mentioned two rules for the five wasqs: one is by measure and the other by weight.

25.4b What the measure of the wasq is

Five wasqs is the same as six and a fourth qafizes. (609.84 kg.) One wasq is sixty sa'as measuring by the sa'a of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam). One sa'a is four mudds Wasq linguistically is joining one thing to another. The Almighty says, "and the night and all it shrouds (wasaqa)," (Holy Qur'an 84:17) i.e. joins and gathers the darkness and the stars. It is 60 sa's by the sa' of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam). So he states that the nisab in the year is 747 mudds with the mudd of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam). Then he goes on to explain the categories which are joined together and when they form the nisab, there is zakat due, and the types which are not joined since not all of the categories are combined to reach the nisab.

25.4c The case of certain grains

Wheat, barley and sult barley are considered as one category for zakat purposes

Wheat, barley and sult barley are combined as a single category of grain as is stated in the School. They are also a single category in sales according to the well-known position and so disparity in selling one for the other is forbidden. They are combined when they are cultivated and harvested in the same year. When they are cultivated in two or more years, it is said that one considers what is grown at the same time and they are added to each another, and what is grown at one time is not added to what is grown at another time. It is said that what is considered is the crop. If he plants the second before harvesting the first, it is added to it. Otherwise it is not. The first is from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) in the book of Shaikh ibn Sahnun (rahmatullahi alaihi) and the second by Shaikh ibn Maslama (rahmatullahi alaihi).

25.4d When zakat is due on them so that if together they add up to five wasqs you have to pay zakat on them

Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi'Allahu anhu) said that he pays from each grain what is representative of it and so he pays the highest from the highest, the lowest from the lowest, and the middle from the middle. If he chooses to pay the highest grain for the lowest, that is allowed. If he pays the lowest for the highest, that is not allowed. So there is agreement regarding grains that he pays from every type what is representative of it. There is agreement regarding animals that he pays the middle. There is disagreement about dates: it is said that they are like livestock, and it is said like grains.

25.4e Pulses are combined

In the same way different kinds of pulses are added together

The Maliki School considers that pulses are considered as a single category for zakat, but not for selling. Pulses includes various types: peas, chickpeas, lentils, grass peas, broad beans, lupines, beans and sesame seeds. The commentator on the Muwatta' said that radish seeds are included with them.

25.4f Dates and raisins and this also applies to different varieties of dates and raisins

The same is for dates and raisins when they reach five wasqs.

25.4g Rice, sorghum and millet are different categories

However rice, sorghum and millet are each considered to be in a different category and are not added together when calculating zakat

Each of these are a separate category and according to the School they are not added together because they are clearly separate and their form differs. He says this is in reference to zakat to indicate the person who says that they are all one category in usury, i.e. disparity is not allowed between them. That is the position of Shaikh ibn Wahb (rahmatullahi alaihi). The well-known position differs from that.

25.4h What is done with the various types of dates

If there are various types of dates in a date-garden you use the middle quality when paying zakat.
So they are good, middle and poor. In the well-known position, the middle variety are used. If there is one type, it is taken from it, be it is good or poor. He does not have to bring the middle or the best of it. If there is both excellent and poor, he takes each from its share, even if the poor is few, because the basis is that zakat is taken from its source by the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam): "The zakat of every property is from it." The Sunnah is makes certain requirements in livestock. So the Sunnah is that it is paid from the generality of livestock because it is taken from the middle and the rest remains on its root.

You pay zakat on olives when the amount of them reaches five wasqs, paying the zakat in oil

i.e. measured in dry ones. Shaikh ibn Wahb (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that there is no zakat on them nor in anything which has oil. The sound position in the basis of the School, i.e. sound and current according to the rule of the School is that that which is not a foodstuff has no zakat paid on it. We read in at-Tahqiq, "Even it is not a comestible, it is included in it if it is sound for food." According to the statement that there is zakat, its zakat is given from its oil, not from its grain in the well-known position. There is no precondition that oil reach the nisab in weight. The precondition is the grain reaching the nisab, as was clearly stated by the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi). Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) reported the agreement on that. If it is paid from its grain, that is not allowed.]

25.4j Zakatable seeds

You also pay zakat on sesame seeds and radish seed in oil for them. If you sell this produce, it is possible to pay the zakat owed using the money you have received, if Allah azza wa jall wills.

And other things which are pressed for oil when that reaches the nisab. if the olives are sold, then it is paid from the price whether the price reaches the nisab or not. The nisab of the grain itself is only considered, not the price. One of them said that he said, "If Allah wills" because of the weakness of this position, and some say that it is because of the strength of the disagreement regarding it. That which is in the Mukhtasar and its commentary is that if olives and their like have oil, it is paid from their oil. If they have no oil, like olives of Egypt, it is paid from their price. It is like that with what is it not dried, like the fresh dates and grapes of Egypt and green broad beans. Zakat is paid from their price, even if they are sold for a lot less than that on which zakat is obliged if it is estimated to be five wasqs. If it is less than that, nothing is obliged on it, even if he sells it for many times more than what would incur zakat.
25.4.k Fruit and vegetables

You do not pay zakat on fruit and vegetables

Like apples and apricots, nor vegetables based on what is reported by Mu'adh ibn Jabal (radhi’Allahu anhu): the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "'There is a tenth ('ushr) on land watered by the sky or springs or running springs. There is half an 'ushr (5%) on land which is irrigated," i.e. that which is transported from a river or well to water crops by some device. That is about dates, wheat and grains. As for cucumbers and watermelons, they are exempt as the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) exempted them.

25.6a The nisab on gold

There is no zakat on gold if you have less than twenty dinars. If the amount reaches twenty dinars you pay one half of a dinar, in other words, one-fortieth of the total amount. Any more than that is calculated on the same basis, however small the additional amount is.

25.6b The nisab on silver
There is no zakat on silver if you have less than two hundred dirhams, which is five uqiyyas - one uqiyya being forty dirhams. This is based on seven dinars being of the same weight as ten dirhams. If you have two hundred such dirhams you pay one-fortieth, that is five dirhams. Anything more than that is calculated on the same basis.

By the legal dirham, which is the Makkan dirham. Its weight is 555 grains of middle barley corns. Each dinar weighs 72 grains. It is said that it is the dirham of measure because by the legal measures.

25.6c Gold and silver are a single category

Gold and silver and considered as one category for the purposes of zakat. So if, for example, someone has one hundred dirhams and ten dinars they should pay one-fortieth of each.

Since that is what the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did in that. It is clarified in at-Tahqiq: "It is related that Shaikh Bukayr ibn 'Abdullah ibn al-Ashajj (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, 'The Sunnah is that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) joined gold to silver and silver to gold and took zakat from them." He goes into a sub-category of that. The joining is by parts and not by value. The opposite would be to make each dinar equal to ten dirhams, even if its value is many times over, as when he has 100 dirhams and ten dinars, or 150 and 5 dinars. If he has 180 dirhams and 1 dinar equal to 20 dirhams, he does not pay anything. It is permitted to pay one of the two types for the other according to the well-known position.

25.7 On Merchandise

25.7a Only on trading merchandise

There is no zakat on goods unless they are for trading purposes

Goods comprises slaves, real estate, land, clothes, wheat, and all grains, fruits and animals when they are less than the nisab. As for private property, there is no zakat on it by agreement. As for merchandise, there is zakat on it by agreement. As for hoarding which is what is kept from the markets for a large profit, zakat is obliged on it.

25.7b Preconditions

There are preconditions for the obligation of zakat on it.
1. One of them is the intention, which is indicated by "unless they are for trading purposes." This means he only intends them for commerce, or commerce as well as private ownership, or revenue. He is careful about the lack of intention so when there is an exchange of goods which is not intended for commerce, as when it is simply for ownership or just for revenue or both, then there is no zakat.

2. The second precondition is that he keeps the goods from the markets until a time when there is a good profit.

25.7c Sale income

If you sell goods after one year or more from the day you bought them or paid zakat on their price

3. The third precondition is that he owns them by paying for them. This precludes goods possessed through inheritance, gifts or the like. There is no zakat on them except after a year from the day their price is received, even if he delays receiving it to avoid zakat.

4. The fourth is that he sells them for money, not that he sells them at all or sells them for other than money, unless selling them not for money is out of the intention to evade zakat. There is no difference in selling between it being real or metaphorical in that a person consumes the item and the merchant takes his price.
What is sold must reach the nisab because stored goods are not evaluated as opposed to the situation where there is a constant turnover. So simple selling in respect of it is enough for the existence of zakat, even if the price of what he sells is less than the nisab because he must value the rest of his goods. This precondition is taken from his words:

25.7d Length of time

then you only have to pay one year's zakat on the proceeds of the goods whether these goods were in your possession for one year or more than one year before you sold them

To exclude the one who sells it for goods. He does not pay zakat.

5. The fifth precondition is that a year passes from the day the zakat was paid on the capital or he acquires it. He is silent about the precondition, which is that the basis of those goods be money by which he bought them. If it is less than the nisab or was by barter, even private property which he then he sells and uses to buy those goods for the sake of trade. If he sells them before the end of the year, there is no zakat on them until the year has passed.

Then he moves to speaking about the merchandise which has a constant turnover, which are goods which he buys for trade and sells without waiting not wait for a favorable market or a slack market like all owners of shops with a constant turnover. This is an exception to the previous statement.

25.7e The case of constant turnover

However, if you are a merchant with a constant turnover so that you never keep money or goods in your possession for any length of time then you should assess your goods every year and pay zakat on them and on whatever cash you have in hand at that time.

He sells for current price and replaces it and does not wait for a good market to sell or a slack market to buy. Then you assess your goods of every category for what they are normally sold at that time for a price equivalent to the common sale rather than the forced sale because the forced sale is at a great reduction. Brocade and similar cloth, like fine cotton garments, delicate cloth, and real estate, are assessed in gold, and coarse garments and daily wear are assessed in silver. He begins the assessment, i.e. the tax year, according to Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) from the day he begins to trade. Shaikh al-Baji (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it is from the day the zakat of the price is taken or from the day he has profit. After assessment, zakat is paid on the merchandise provided some have been sold, even a dirham. There is no difference between selling something at the beginning or the end of the year. When he does not sell anything or has a sale a month after the year, for instance, he assesses it at that point, and transfers his year to that month and voids the extra over the year. It is like that the one who deals in money if it is with him. It is like that with the zakat of his debt when it is immediately taken.

25.7f Zakat on investments

Zakat is due on invested wealth when that wealth has been in your possession for one year

It would literally mean whether there was a nisab or not. That is the case in the well-known position. For example, he has a dinar which remains with him for 11 months. Then he buys goods with it which he sells after a month for 20. He pays zakat now, when he sells them after a month, relative or the fact that it was with him for 11 months, and it becomes the second year when it is completed.

If he enters the zakatable level in the year, he pays for the entire year.

25.7g Zakat on the offspring of livestock

Similarly zakat is due on the offspring of livestock if the mother animals have been in your possession for a year
The basis for that is the statement of 'Umar (radhi‘Allahu anhu) for them to count the lambs with their mothers but not to take them. The profit is like the lambs, and lambs include the male and female young sheep and young goats at the moment which they are born.

25.8 Debts

25.8a Debts cancel out wealth

If you have wealth on which zakat is due but you also have a debt of the same amount or one which will reduce your wealth to less than the amount on which zakat is due then you do not have to pay zakat

So if you have 20 dirhams and owe a debt in goods, for instance, or food, livestock or something else, immediate or deferred, equal to the amount or one which will reduce it below the minimum on which zakat is due (as when he has 20 dirhams and owes half a dinar) there is no zakat in both cases. The apparent meaning of the words of the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) is that the debt cancels zakat, even if it is the mahr of this wife who is in his care, and even more so if she is divorced and he owes her the mahr. It is the preferred from the two well-known positions. In the other well-known position, it is not canceled.
According to the well-known position, the debt cancels zakat, even the debt of the zakat, as opposed to the debts of vows and expiation’s which do not cancel zakat. The difference is that the debt of zakat is sought by the just Imam, and zakat is taken, even by force, which is not the case with vows and expiation’s. Then there is an exception from that generality.

25.8b If you have other assets

If, however, you have other assets on which zakat is not due such as personal effects or slaves or domestic animals or private property which could be used to pay off your debt, then you do pay zakat on your wealth

This is when someone has wealth on which zakat is due and has a debt equal to it; or one which reduces the zakatable property. If he has goods like slaves, real estate, residences, garments, grains, dates and animals less than the nisab, or even if he has grains, dates or animals on which there is zakat, he puts that against the debt he owes and pays zakat. Real estate means that which has no lintels, like open land, houses is property with a lintel like houses. If the wealth on which zakat is not obliged of his personal goods is enough to discharge the debt, it is put opposite the debt he owes with the precondition that he has had it for a year. The year of everything is according to it. This applies to things that can be sold to settle the debt.

25.8c The difference

If your assets are not sufficient to pay your debt, then you calculate the difference between the debt and your assets and subtract the difference from the wealth on which zakat is due. If there is still enough left for zakat to be due you must pay the zakat.

It is assessed according to what is left. So if he has 30 dinars and owes 20 and has goods which could be sold for ten to settle the debt and has had them for a year, ten are be taken from the 30 and put opposite the debt. What is meant is not actual taking and giving since it is permitted to delay the term of the debt. So 20 remain free of the debt and zakat is paid on them.

Then he clarifies zakat which is not canceled by debt.

25.8d Debt does not affect zakat in kind

Debt does not, however, affect the obligation to pay zakat on grain, dates or livestock.
Nor does it affect the zakat of mines or treasure. For instance, he may have some of these things and owe a debt which would absorb all he has. He still must pay zakat on it and the debt does not cancel what is due on it. The difference between that and money is that the Sunnah has come that the debt affects money. As for livestock and fruits, the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) and the khalifs after him sent assessors and agents and they estimated for the people and took the zakat of their livestock from them and did not ask whether they had a debt or not.

Similarly the debt does not cancel Zakat al-Fitr according to Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi), and it is the preferred position. According to Shaikh Abdu'l-Wahhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) it cancels it.

25.9 If one has claim to a debt

25.9a No zakat on money owed until it is received

You do not have to pay zakat on money which is owed to you until after you have received it and if the debt has been outstanding for a number of years you only pay one year's zakat on it after it is repaid

Whether it is money or goods, until he receives it, meaning the loan and unpaid sales when it is hoarded. An example of that is when he has some money and lends it to a man or buys goods with it and then sells it with a debt. It does not matter how many years pass: the zakat of its owner is due one year after it received if it is the minimum or is added to money he has and it reaches the minimum. It is evident he pays for just one year, even if he delays it to evade zakat. Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that if he leaves it to evade zakat, then he pays for the past years.

25.9b The case of goods sold

This is the same as when you own goods. You only pay zakat on them after you have sold them

These are goods stored up for trade. They are the same as the debt since their source is money. He pays zakat for one year even if they remain for many years.

25.9c Claims which are inherited

If the debt owing to you on the goods has been inherited by you, you wait for one year after receiving payment before paying the zakat due

If there is an inheritance which he does not receive for some years, or the goods which he sells are from inheritance, i.e. he inherited goods and sells them but does not receive that price for some years, or the debt is from a gift or sadaqa in the possession of the giver or a bride-price in the hand of the husband or khul' which he pays, or the fine of a tort in the hand of the perpetuator or his guardian, there is no zakat on it except after a year from when he takes it, even if he delays it out of avoidance. If the gift remains in the possession of its giver before giving and taking for two years, there is no zakat on it for previous years from either the giver or receiver according to Shaikh Sahnun (rahmatullahi alaihi) because the ownership is clear when the recipient takes it on the day of the sadaqa and that is why he had its proceeds from the day it is given.

25.10 Minors and slaves

25.10a Minors

Zakat must be paid on wealth belonging to minors whether it is in the form of money, crops or livestock

Based on what is in the Muwatta' from Shaikh Abdu'r-Rahman ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) from his father. He said, "'A'isha (radhi'Allahu anha) used to look after me and one of my brothers in her house. We were orphans. She used to pay the zakat from our property." (Al-Muwatta 17.6.13) In it 'Umar (radhi'Allahu anhu) said, "Trade with the property of orphans and then it will not be eaten away by zakat." (Al-Muwatta 17.6.12) The like of this is not stated out of opinion. The guardian of orphans does not pay zakat for them until the matter has been presented to the Imam or Qadi. The gist of the fiqh of the question is that what is considered is the school of the trustee because disposal depends on him and not on the school of the father of the children since he is dead and the property has moved on from him, nor the school of the child because he is not responsible for it. So the trustee does not pay its zakat if his school is that it is canceled for the child. Zakat is also paid on the property of the insane.

25.10b Zakat al-Fitr of Minors

Zakat al-fitr must also be paid on their behalf

25.10c Slaves

Slaves, including those who are partially but not completely freed, do not have to pay zakat on any of these categories.

Slaves of any category do not pay zakat. That applies to all the categories and to zakat al-Fitr.

25.10d After slaves are free
If they have been completely freed they do not pay zakat on any wealth in their possession until a whole year has passed from the day when they were freed.

It is a precondition that they own it for a year: cash or livestock.

25.11 Property for personal use

25.11a No zakat on personal property

No zakat is payable on slaves, servants, horses, your house nor on any private property or goods which are for your own personal use nor on jewelry which in regular use

There is no zakat on such property as indicated by the hadith in the two Sahih collections where the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "There is no zakat owed by the Muslim on his slaves or horses." It is not due on jewelry which is worn by women even if it belongs to a man. From this it might be assumed that jewelry which is rented must have zakat paid on it. The evident text of the Mudawwana is that there is no zakat, and that is the accepted position. As for jewelry for the purpose of trade, there is zakat on it by consensus whether it belongs to a man or a woman, and its zakat is a year from the time when it is intended to trade in it. It is weighed every year and if it reaches the minimum, or he has gold and silver which will complete the nisab.
25.11b Inheriting that on which zakat has been paid

If you inherit or are given any goods or take any produce, on which zakat has already been paid, from your land and then sell any of these things, no zakat is due on the proceeds until a year has elapsed.

The literal meaning of 'selling' is whether it is sold for money or on credit, and its literal meaning is also whether or not he leaves it to avoid zakat. 'Produce' is what is normally produced since its judgment is the same when it comes from land which is not his, as when he rents land and grows crops in it. So he pays zakat on it when the crop is produced, and it is like that if he did not pay zakat on it on.

25.12a The zakat on mines

Zakat is due on gold or silver extracted from mines as soon as the weight of gold amounts to twenty dinars or the weight of silver to five uqiyyas. One-fortieth must be paid on the day it is extracted.
By his literal words, this would apply to nuggets found without mining or with little work. The famous well-known is that there is a fifth on mines and that fifth is paid to the Imam if he is just. Otherwise it is distributed to the poor Muslims. There is no zakat on mined things other than gold and silver - like lead, copper, iron, and arsenic. This zakat is due when it reaches the minimum weight. One-fortieth is due on that, not a fifth by the generality of the statement of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), "And there is no zakat on what is less than 5 awqiyyas." This implies that when there is five awqiyyas, there is zakat on it, and that includes ore. It is due the day it is extracted and the year is not a precondition for it. Shaikh al-Aqfahasi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) means the year is not a precondition and he means after it is extracted because the obligation is only connected to it after it is extracted. It is one of two statements. The famous one is how Shaikh al-Aqfashasi (rahmatullahi alaihi) applied the Risala as meaning after extraction. So the obligation is connected to its mining and not its extraction.

25.12b Further payment of zakat

After this zakat is due on all gold and silver continuously extracted from the same deposit, however small the amount until such time as that deposit has been worked dry. If work is begun on another deposit, no zakat is due until the amount extracted reaches the amount on which zakat is due

This continuity is probably in obtaining and or work or in both together, and so there are three possibilities, and he prefers the first. When he begins a new work, then there is no zakat until the nisab is reached as was the first case.

25.13a Who pays jizya

Jizya is taken from the men of the people of dhimma status provided that they are both free and adult. It is not taken from their women, their children, or their slaves

Shaikh ibn Rushd (rahmatullahi alaihi) defines it thus: what is taken from the people of disbelief in repayment for their security and sparing their lives while they remain unbelievers. It is derived from jaza' (repayment) which is exchange, because they receive security in exchange for the money they pay. We offer them security and they offer money. It is not taken from three categories: women, children and slaves because Allah azza wa jall has obliged it on those who can fight, and generally that is men rather than women and children.
25.13b Its Preconditions

The author (rahmatullahi alaihi) implies that there are four preconditions for paying jizya: male, adulthood, freedom and disbelief. There is also a precondition that he mix socially with the people of his deen. Jizya is not taken from someone alone in a monastery or hermitage. It is a precondition that the unbeliever remain an unbeliever. It is not taken from the apostate because he is not confirmed in his disbelief. Sanity and the ability to pay it are two preconditions. It is not taken from the madman nor from the pauper who has nothing.

25.13c Magians and Christian Arabs

It is taken from Magians and from Christian Arabs

Shaikh Abdu'l-Wahhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) said it applies to both Arabs and non-Arabs. He means universality by that to refute the one who opposes that.

25.13d Its amount

For people who use gold the jizya is four dinars and for people who use silver it is forty dirhams
This applies to people conquered by force who are people of the unbelievers whose lands have taken by force. It is like that for the people of truce who are unbelievers who protected their land by making peace in exchange for something which they paid of their property. If something particular is determined from them, it is taken, be it little or a lot.

25.13e Its reduction

It can be made less for people who are poor

It can be lessened for the poor according to what the Imam relates. If someone does not have the ability to pay something, it is canceled for him. Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it is not taken from the poor and Shaikh al-Lakhmi (rahmatullahi alaihi) recommended that.

25.13f Impost on trading goods

Those among them who are engaged in long-distance trading should pay one tenth of what they receive when they sell their goods even if they come and go several times in on year

Meaning the people of dhimma, men or women, free or slaves, or children. It is from a place where jizya is not paid to one where jizya is paid. Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) said it is a tenth of the sale price. Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) said it is a tenth of what they bring, like the harbis. According to the position of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi), if they want to return before they buy or sell, it is not due from them. It is the evident meaning of the words here. According to the position of Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi), it is obliged on them. The source of the dispute is whether what is taken from them is connected to benefit or to arrival in the region. It is understood from the words that the tenth is not taken from them when they trade in their land, and that is the case. Then he continues about a tenth of the price which is taken even if they come and go several times in the year. Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Imam ash-Shafi'i (rahmatullahi alaihi) say that it is only taken from them once a year. We have what 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) did. The use and judgment are repeated when the cause is repeated.

25.13g Food for Makka or Madina

If they are carrying food destined specifically for Makka or Madina only one-twentieth of what they sell it for should be taken
If the people of the dhimma carry food, meaning wheat and oil, or it is said that it means all food products. As for things other than food, like goods, the full tenth is taken from their price.

25.13h Harbi traders paying a tenth

A tenth is also levied from traders who come from Dar al-Harb (the land of war - beyond the frontiers of Islam)

This is on what they bring whether they sell or not, and whether they sell in one land or all of the lands of Islam. It is the position of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi). His position was given about the people of dhimma that it is not taken from them until there is a sale. There is a difference between them is that the people of harb obtain security while they are in the land of Islam, and all lands of Islam are like one land. As for the people of dhimma, it is taken from them by their benefit and they are not forbidden our lands. So when their benefit is repeated, taking from them is repeated. The apparent meaning of the words of the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) is that the tenth is not decreased, even if the Imam thinks that should be done. That is that position of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi). In short, if it before alighting, an agreement can be made with them for more than a tenth. If it is after they camp, only a tenth is taken from them. Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "It is taken from them according to the opinion of the ruler." There may be stipulation for more than that when a safe conduct has been previously agreed.

25.13i When other terms have been agreed unless they have agreed to terms demanding more than that

It is permitted to take the greater amount which is stipulated. Shaikh ibn Naji (rahatullahi alaihi) said: they cannot sell wine to a Muslim by agreement. The well-known position is that they are able to sell it to others. There is the text of the words of Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi'Allahu anhu), "When they bring wine and pigs and there are people of dhimma who buy that from them, they are left, and the tenth is taken from them after selling. If there is no one there to buy that from them, they return with it and are not allowed to import it.

25.14 Treasure-trove

If someone comes upon treasure (rikaz) that was buried in the time of the Jahiliyya (before Islam)
Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) added in al-Wadiha that it is (rikaz) in particular. Kanz is applied to what was buried in the Jahiliyya and buried in Islam. There is disagreement about whether it is particular to gold and silver or general, including other things like pearls, copper and lead. There are two positions reported by Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi). The author of the Mukhtasar confines himself to the second, and says that it is applied to treasure-trove. If he doubts whether it is jahili or not, then the signs are studied. If there are none, that was mostly done by them. Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) said it is known to be part of the school which Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) preferred it. Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) reported that it is particular to gold and silver and its judgment is obliged on it.

25.14b What is paid on it

he must pay the fifth

The apparent meaning would be even if it is less than the minimum, and this is the case in the well-known position because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "There is a fifth on treasure" and that is general to a lot and a little. It is also clear that Islam and freedom are not preconditions. It also appears that there is a fifth in it, even if it is found by a lot of expense or work in extracting it. There is zakat on it according to what is in the Mudawwana and Muwatta'.

It also appears that it is absolutely belongs to the one who finds it. Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) affirmed that, but that is not always the case. If it is found in the wilds of the land of Islam, it belongs to its finder. If he finds in it in someone's property, then it is his by agreement. This is the judgment of treasure.

As for what the sea throws up to the shore, like amber, pearls and other jewelry which he finds, they belong to the one who finds them and there is no fifth. Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) said unless prior protected ownership is proven by a Muslim or Dhimmî. There are two statements: Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) heard that someone who discards his goods out of fear of drowning takes them from the one who appropriated them. It is like that what he leaves due to constriction and is unable to take. There are two positions.

Chapter Twenty Six: On the Zakat of Livestock
26.1. Its judgment

Zakat on camels, cows, sheep and goats is obligatory

Zakat is obliged on what was mentioned. That is stated by Malikis since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "There is no zakat owed by a Muslim on his horses or slaves." The apparent words of the author is that zakat is obliged on livestock absolutely, foddered or work animals. It is the School. According to Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Imam ash-Shafi’i(rahmatullahi alaihi), there is no zakat on work animals since he said, "There is zakat on grazing sheep." He begins with the obligation of zakat on camels to follow the hadith since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did that in the letter on zakat written for Amr ibn Hazm (radhi’Allahu anhu). There are 11 obligations in its zakat, four of which are taken from a different species, sheep, and seven which are taken from camels.

26.2 On Camels

26.2a Five to nine camels

There is no zakat on less than five camels but on five to nine camels you must give either a sheep or a goat which is in its second year depending on which of the two animals is most commonly kept by the people of the area
When it reaches this number, one owes a sheep which has been alive for one year and begun the next. There is no difference between the male and female sheep or goat. The judgment is based on what is common. If it is sheep, it is taken from sheep. If it is goats, it is taken from them. If the owner of the property gives a camel instead of the obliged sheep, it is permissible because it is of the same type of property and is worth more than is what is obliged of him. The limit for a single sheep is nine. So the shortfall (waqs) is four, which is the smallest waqs.

26.2b Ten to twenty-five

You must give two sheep or goats for ten to fourteen camels and three sheep or goats for fifteen to nineteen camels. For twenty to twenty-five camels you must give four sheep or goats

The shortfall in each of these categories are four.

26.2c Twenty-five to thirty-five

For twenty-five to thirty-five camels you must give a female camel in its second year (bint makhad) or if there is not one available a male camel in its third year (ibn labun)
It appears that it has completed two years, and elsewhere it states that it has begun the second year. It is called bint makhad because its mother has given birth because the camel is pregnant for a year and cares for the young for a year. If there are none available or it is damaged, then it is necessary to take a male which has completed the second year and begun the third. If there is neither, the collector charges him for a bint makhad, whether he likes it or not, and then makes the judgment of the absence of both of them like that of their existence. Then he comes with a ibn labun at that point, it is up to the collector to do what he thinks best. If he thinks it right, he takes it. Otherwise he obliges him the bint makhad.

26.2d Thirty-six to forty-five

For thirty-six to forty-five camels you must give a female camel aged between two and five years (bint labun)

The shortfall in this is ten. What is meant is not having lived three full years, but what has two full years and begun the third. The shortfall at the end is nine.

26.2e Forty-six to sixty
For forty-six to sixty camels you must give a female camel in its fourth year capable of carrying loads and bearing children (hiqqa)

If he pays it with two bint labuns, that does not satisfy it, even if they are equal in their value to its value as opposed to the view Imam ash-Shafi‘i(rahmatullahi alaihi). What is meant is what has completed its third year and begun its fourth. The shortfall in this obligation is 14.

26.2f Sixty-one to seventy-five

For sixty-one to seventy-five camels you must give a female camel in its fifth year (jadh'a)

Then after this the obligation changes. What is meant is one which has completed its fourth year and begun the fifth. It is the last of the categories taken for paying the zakat of camels. The shortfall is fourteen.

26.2g Seventy-six to ninety

For seventy-six to ninety camels you must give two female camels in their third year (bint labun)

The shortfall is fourteen.
26.2h Ninety-one to 120

For ninety-one to one hundred and twenty camels you must give two hiqqas

The shortfall is twenty-nine.

26.2i More than 120

For any more than this you give one hiqqa for every fifty camels and one bint labun for every forty

For more than one hundred twenty, the obligation is this.

26.3 Zakat on cattle

26.3a The nisab

There is no zakat on less than thirty cattle

Its nisab is thirty. Forty and more are subject.

26.3b Thirty to forty

If there are thirty you must give one in its third year (tabi')
Thirty to forty have a calf in its third year, which is called that because it follows its mother. It is would appear from the words that it is a precondition that it be male, but that is not the case. The well-known position is that it is not a precondition. It must have completed two years.

26.3c Forty

This applies up to forty. If there are forty you must give a cow in its fourth year (musinna or thaniyya) - only females are acceptable.

When the number reaches forty, the obligation changes. One owes a cow in the fourth year, and it is only taken in females. If there is no four year old cow, its owner is compelled to bring it unless he gives better than it, which is a five year cow. The musinna has full four years according to Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh Abdu'l-Wahhab (rahmatullahi alaihi).

26.3d Third nisab: More than forty

If there are more than that you must give a musinna for every forty and a tabi' for every thirty.
If there are five more than forty, there is nothing on it. If it reaches fifty, there is nothing on the ten in our view. When it reaches sixty, there are two tabi' on them. If it reaches seventy, there is a tabi' and a musinna. If it reaches eighty, there are two musinna. What is more goes according to its rule.

26.4 Zakat on sheep and goats

26.4a Nisab and up to one hundred twenty

There is no zakat on sheep and goats until their number reaches forty. If you pass forty you must give one in its fifth year (jadh'a) or one in its fourth year (thaniyya). This applies up to one hundred and twenty animals.

Neither male or female is specified. Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi'Allahu anhu) said that it was clarified in the nisab of camels.

26.4b Second nisab: one hundred twenty to two hundred

If you have between one hundred and twenty and two hundred sheep and/or goats you must give two

So the shortfall is eighty. Then he indicates the second obligation and its shortfall here is seventy-nine.
26.4c Third nisab: two hundred to three hundred

For two hundred and one to three hundred you must give three and for every additional hundred you give one animal.

He said in al-Jallab (rahmatullahi alaihi), in what is more than three hundred, there is a sheep for every one hundred. For three hundred ninety-nine there are three sheep and for four hundred there are four sheep and for five hundred there are five sheep and so forth.

26.5 Computation of zakat on animals

26.5a No zakat on shortfalls

Zakat is not required on any number of animals between the figures mentioned and this ruling applies to all the types of animals mentioned above.

Then he explains the judgment of the shortfall between the obligations, saying that there is no zakat on the shortfalls. The shortfall is what falls short of the nisab. It is a technical term for all the types of livestock.
26.5b Sheep and goats are one category

Sheep and goats are considered as one category for zakat purposes.

This is by consensus. That is what he said in at-Tahqiq because the name of the species includes both of them in the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam). So there is a sheep for every forty goats.

26.5c Cattle and buffaloes are one category

as are cattle and buffaloes

This is by agreement because the generic name includes them all, as the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "There is a tabi' in every thirty.

26.5d Bactrian and dromedary camels are one category and also Bactrian and dromedary camels

These are the camels of the people of Khurassan since camel is used for both of them in the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam).
26.6 The zakat of joint owners

26.6a How it is paid

The owners of herds which are mixed together pay zakat jointly and settle between themselves the share each must pay

This is according to the number of animals. That partnership on which it is obliged has the following preconditions: it is taken from the two owners as it is taken from one owner in amount, age, and category as was mentioned. If each of three has forty sheep, then one sheep is obliged, each owing a third. The example of the second is that when each has thirty six camels and then a jadh'a is obliged and each owes a half. The third is that one has eighty sheep and the other forty goats, and one sheep is obliged, two thirds from one and one-third from the other.

The benefit of partnership can be lightening as when each has forty sheep. On their own, they would each owe one sheep, and together they owe only one sheep. It could make it heavier as when each has one hundred twenty sheep and each of them would only owe one sheep, but they owe three sheep when they are together. Or it may have no benefit, as when each has one hundred sheep and each alone would owe one, and it is the same together. A precondition for the two owners being like one is that each of them has a nisab.

26.6c Settlement is according to the state of herd

When the zakat of the year is due, animals which were mixed together are not to be separated nor those which were separate to be mixed out of fear of paying the zakat

That is when the end of the year approaches. Shaikh ibn Shash (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that that is when joining or separating would reduce the zakat.

26.6d If the zakat is less because of mixing

If the zakat paid is less because the two herds were separated or mixed, the herds should be restored to their prior condition

When it is done to avoid more zakat. As when two men each have a hundred, and so they separate at the end of the year and two sheep are obliged. The obligation on them is three. It is the same for joining: three men each has forty and they join at the end of the year so that one sheep is obliged on them: the obligation on them is three sheep.
26.6b Those who do not have to pay

There is no zakat due from someone whose share does not reach the number subject to zakat

Because of the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), "There is no zakat on less than five camels." They must be liable for zakat (and so they are not slaves or unbelievers) and the animals have the same stud, shepherd, resting place at night, pasturage, watering-place and milking place, and the partnership is by friendship, not avoidance of zakat.

26.7 Prohibited forms of payment

26.7a Baby animals

A baby sheep or goat is not taken to pay zakat. However, it is counted in numbering the owner's flock. Baby calves or camels are not taken, but they are counted in numbering the herd. Similarly, exempt from being taken as zakat are young Billy goats, thin old females, pregnant females, a ram used for stud, a sheep or goat fattened for slaughter, a female nursing its young, nor the best of a man's property

Zakat is not taken from the best or worst of a man's property. One is to protect the rights of the wealthy and the other to protect the rights of poor. If the owner gives the best cheerfully, it is permitted. If he gives the worst, it is not acceptable. If all the property is good or bad, he is obliged the middle. If he refuses, he is forced to pay it.

26.7b Not taking cash or goods in lieu

For zakat on animals, one may not collect goods or the price of the animal in place of the animal. If the collector forces the owner into giving the price of the animal or something else, that satisfies it, Allah willing Something else would be like grains. Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) states that paying the price voluntarily does not satisfy it. But it is taken by force, then it satisfies it in the well-known position.

26.7c Debts do not cancel this duty

A debt does not cancel one's obligation to pay zakat on grain, fruit or animals

It was mentioned earlier.

SUPPLEMENT about a number of important questions:
1. He must pay it with the intention of paying zakat. If he pays it without the intention of paying zakat, it does not satisfy it unless he is forced, and then the intention of the forcer is enough.

2. It is not transferred from the place in which it is obliged unless there is no one there to pay it to. Then it is transferred to the closest place to it.

3. It is paid at the time when is obliged. If it is delayed, it is allowed but he commits something unlawful.

4. He pays it in its eight categories which Allah azza wa jall mentioned when He says, "Collected sadaqa is for: the poor, the destitute, those who collect it, bringing people's hearts together, freeing slaves, those in debt, spending in the way of Allah, and travelers." (Holy Qur'an 9:60)

Chapter Twenty-Seven: On the Zakat al-Fitr

27.1 Its ruling
The zakat al-Fitr is an obligatory Sunnah which the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) made compulsory for all Muslims, whether old or young, male or female, free or slave

It is a confirmed Sunnah. It seems that is obligatory in the School. There is disagreement about the words "the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) made it compulsory". It is said that it means he stipulated it and so it is Sunnah, and that does not contradict his words, "On all, whether old or young." The Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) uses the terms for what is less than obligatory. The Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Zakat al-Fitr after Ramadan obligatory for the Muslims - slave or free, male or female, young or old, being a sa' of dates or a sa' of barley." It is said that it means that he made it compulsory. That what the author of Mukhtasar thinks.

27.2 Its amount

27.2a Its measure

Its amount is one sa'a measuring by the sa'a of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam)
It is four mudds by the mudd of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam). A sa'a is a measure of volume equivalent to 4 mudds. A mudd is the amount contained by a man's cupped hands

27.2b What it is paid in

It should be paid in kind using the staple food of the people of the region, which might be wheat or barley or sult barley or dates or dried cheese or raisins or millet or sorghum or rice. It is also said that if the staple food of the people is al-'alas, which is a small grain similar to wheat, that the zakat al-fitr can be paid with that

The land where the zakat is paid, whether their food is like his food or better or worse. If his food is better than their food and he pays the zakat in it, that is allowed. If it is less valuable than their food, and he pays it with it out of avarice, then the apparent words of Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) mean that it does not satisfy the requirement by agreement.

If he pays it from other than these nine types, it is not allowed in the well-known position. This is when some or all of them exist as foods. If they do not exist, all or some, and other things are used as food, they satisfy the requirement.

27.3 Who pays the zakat of children and slaves
The zakat al-fitr of a slave is paid by his master and that of a young child, who has no personal wealth, by his father. A man has to pay the zakat of every Muslim for whose maintenance he is responsible, and he should also pay for his mukatab (partially freed slave) because even if he is not responsible for his maintenance, the mukatab is nevertheless still his slave.

The father pays for the child who has no wealth. It is understood from this that he does not pay for an adult. It is not absolute: if he is male, adult and wealthy, he does not pay for him. If he becomes adult within the time it is due, he prays for him. He pays for the female, even if she is adult, until she marries. What is understood by "no personal wealth" is that if he has wealth, he does not pay for him. That is the case. It is paid by Muslims, but not unbelievers.

27.4 When it is paid

It is recommended to pay the zakat al-fitr at daybreak on the day of the ‘Id al-Fitr.

In Muslim it reports that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) used to command that the zakat al-fitr be paid before people went out to the place of prayer. This is the time of recommendation and not the time of obligation. There are two well-known statements about that. One is that it becomes obligatory at sunset of the last of the day of Ramadan and ends at the rising of dawn on the day of the ‘Id. It is permitted that it be paid a day or two before the day of fitr. It is not canceled when its time passes because it is a right of the poor for which liability remains. He does not sin as long as the day of Fitr still remains. If he delays it when he is able to pay it, he sins. He gives to a free poor Muslim. He does not give it to an unbeliever, nor to a wealthy man.

27.5 Other things about ‘Id al-Fitr

27.5a Breaking the fast before the prayer

On the morning of the ‘Id al-Fitr, it is recommended to break your fast before leaving for the prayer-place, whereas on the morning of the ‘Id al-Ad-ha it is recommended not to do so.

Break it with anything, but it is best that it be broken with dates, an odd number, based on what the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did. It is not recommended to break it on the morning of ‘Id al-Adha. Then it is recommended to refrain until you return from the prayer so that you can eat from the sacrifice since that it what the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did.
27.5b Varying the route

On both ‘Ids, however, it is recommended to go to the prayer by one route and return from it by another

Chapter Twenty Eight: On Hajj and 'Umra

28.1 The obligation of the Hajj

28.1a The meaning of hajj

Each word has a linguistic and technical meaning. Linguistically, hajj means to aim for something once or to do something time after time or a simple intention. This usage is like the words of the Almighty, "And when We made the House a place to return to, a sanctuary for mankind." (Holy Qur’an 2:125) Its technical usage designates an act of worship which contains ihram, standing, tawaf, sa'y and other things.

Linguistically 'umra means to visit. Linguistically it designates an act of worship which has ihram, standing, tawaf, sa'y which begins like the hajj.
28.1b The word Bakka

Going on hajj to the Sacred House of Allah azza wa jall, situated in Bakka

"Bakka" is used to honor it.

28.1c Preconditions of its obligation is an obligation for every free adult Muslim, who is able to find a way to do it, once during his lifetime

1. Ability

It is obligatory when five preconditions are meant. He indicates one of them: who is 'able to find a way to it', i.e. to the House of Allah azza wa jall.

2. Islam

Islam is a precondition for the obligation. That is what Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) and the author of the Mukhtasar say. It is a precondition for its validity. According to the first, disbelief is a barrier to its obligation, and according to the second, to its validity.
3. Freedom

The third precondition is freedom.

4. Adulthood

The fourth is adulthood. The precondition of adulthood is not confined to the hajj.

5. Sanity

The final precondition remains, which is sanity. The hajj is not obliged for someone who is insane.

Hajj is obligatory for the one who is legally responsible and meets the preconditions. If someone who is not legally responsible makes the hajj, his hajj is valid but the obligatory hajj is not achieved for him.

Its obligation is indicated by the Book, Sunnah and consensus. Whoever denies that it is obligatory is an unbeliever. If anyone affirms its obligatory nature but refuses to do it, will be called to reckoning by Allah azza wa jall. Hajj is obligatory on the one who meets the preconditions once in his lifetime by consensus.

28.1d The meaning of "way"
What is meant by "way" is a safe route, sufficient provisions to reach Makka, sufficient strength to be able to get to Makka and a good state of health

This expression covers four things:
1. It must be a safe route. If he fears for himself, it is agreed that the obligation is canceled. If he fears for some of his property and injury, it is canceled for him. If he would not be injured, it is canceled for him by one statement.

2. Provisions. Apparently he only considers what will enable him to reach it. That is what Shaikh al-Lakhmi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said. He qualified that by saying, "Unless he knows that if he remains there, he will die and he fears for himself. Then he considers what is adequate for the return journey to the nearest place he can stay in it and sell to buy provisions and other things.

3. Physical ability. The third is the strength to arrive on foot or riding. When the blind person finds someone to guide him and there is no enormous difficulty, then it is obliged for him.

4. Health. Some say it is a part of strength and some say it is a fourth precondition. Hajj is not obligatory for the sick person, even if he can find something to ride.
The hajj has obligations, Sunnah’s and excellent parts. The Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) did not clarify them. He described the hajj in the actual order in which it is performed. We will, insha’Allah, point the various parts. One of the obligations is ihram.

28.2 Ihram

28.2a Its miqats

You should go into 'ihram' at the appropriate miqat

It has two miqats: one in time and one in place.

1. The Miqat of time

The miqat of time was mentioned by the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi): that is the months of Shawwal, Dhu'l-Qi'da, and all of Dhu'l-Hijja in the famous position. It is said it is only the first ten days of Dhu'l-Hijja. Disagreement arises when the Tawaf al-Ifada is delayed. In the famous position, sacrifice is not obliged for him unless it is delayed to Muharram. In the other position, it is when it is knowingly delayed to the 11th. The defined time is the time of the hajj, including entering ihram and ending it, not only ihram only. If he goes into ihram before Shawwal, that is disliked.
2. The Miqat of place

If he goes into ihram before that, it is disliked. It is recommended not to delay going into ihram because hastening to obey is better. It varies according to the different states of those going into ihram. The miqat of the Makkan is Makka. It is recommended for him to go into ihram from inside the masjid. His miqat for 'umra and for qiran is coming out of ihram because every ihram must combine being both in and out of ihram. The miqat of someone from outside Makka varies and it is one of five places with the differences of fiqh, about whether he goes into ihram for hajj or 'umra.

28.2b Physical miqats

The miqat for the people of Syria, Egypt and North Africa is Juhfa, but if they come via Madina, it is better for them to go into ihram at the miqat of the people of Madina which is Dhu'l-Hulayfa. The miqat of the people of Iraq is Dhat Irq and that of the people of Yaman, Yalamlam. The people of Najd go into ihram at Qarn. If any of these go via Madina they too should go into ihram at Dhu'l-Hulayfa since they will NOT be passing their own miqat again.

Juhfa is a town about seven stages from Madina and three or five from Makka. If people of these regions come via Madina, they adopt the miqat of the Madinans. Dhu'l-Hulayfa is about six miles from Madina. It is the furthest of the miqats from Madina. There is about ten stages from Makka. Iraq also includes places further on like Iran. Dhat 'Irq is a ruined town two stages from Makka. Yalamlam is a mountain of Tihama two stages from Makka. Qarn is a small mountain apart from the mountains opposite Makka and two stages from it. Those who make hajj by sea from the Egypt and the like go into ihram when they are opposite Juhfa.

28.2c How to go into ihram

When going into ihram you should do so straight after praying, whether that prayer is fard or nafla. You start by saying, "Labbayk Allahumma Labbayk, Labbayk la sharika lak inna'l-hamda wa ni'mata laka wa'l-mulk, la sharika lak." (At Your service, O Allah, at Your service. At Your service, none can be associated with You, at Your service. All praise and blessing is due to You as is the Kingdom. None can be associated with You.)

It is Sunnah to say this. In short, the talbiyya is obligation in itself. So if you were to omit it, you are obliged to sacrifice. It is Sunnah that it accompany going in ihram. "Labbayk " means an answer after command, The answer is in response the words of the Almighty, "Am I not your Lord?" They said, "Yes" (bala). It also refers to the fact that when Nabi Ibrahim (alaihi salam) asked permission for people to make hajj and he called out, "O people!
Allah has a House so make hajj," they answered him from the east and the west of the earth and from the wombs of the women and the loins of the men. Some people prefer to stop at "mulk" and start a new sentence with "la sharik".

28.2d The intention

You say this and make the intention to do Hajj or 'umra according to what you are intending to do

Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi'Allahu anhu) said according to the position of Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) ihram begins by the intention and the word, i.e. the talbiya. He considers the talbiya a precondition for its validity and so it has the same position as the takbir al-Ihram in the prayer. Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that the reality of ihram is to enter with the intention into one of the two practices with the word connected to it, like the talbiya, or an action connected to it, like turning to the road. Ihram does not begin simply by the intention. There must be the word, like the talbiyya, or an action, like turning to the road. One of the special qualities of the talbiyya is not that it is a precondition for the validity of ihram as Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) stated. It revolves around the existence of one of two - word or deed. It is recommended to confine oneself to the talbiyya mentioned because it was the talbiyya of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam).
28.2e Performing a ghusl

Then you should have a ghusl

Even if a woman is menstruating or bleeding after childbirth since it is Sunnah. This is based on what Shaikh at-Tirmidhi (rahmatullahi alaihi) reported: the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) stripped for ihram and performed a ghusl before he assumed ihram. There is no sacrifice for omitting it either deliberately or out of forgetfulness. That is also the case with the rest of the ghusls of the hajj. The evidence that it is Sunnah for the woman in menstruation or bleeding is what comes in the Muwatta' that Asma' (radhi‘Allahu anha) gave birth and when Abu Bakr (radhi‘Allahu anhu) mentioned that to the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) he said, "Tell her to perform a ghusl and then enter ihram." It is recommended for the one who wants to assume ihram for hajj or 'umra to clip his nails, shave his private parts and trim his beard, but he does not shave his head since dishevelment is desirable.

28.2f Removing stitched clothing and remove any clothes containing stitching before actually entering the state of ihram

It is Sunnah for men to remove any stitched garments and to wear a wrapper, cloak and sandals.

28.2g A ghusl when entering Makka

It is also recommended to have a ghusl when you enter Makka

This is for the one in ihram, who is not menstruating or in lochia. It is best that it be at Dhu Tuwa since that is what the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did.

28.2h Continuing the talbiya

You should continue to recite the talbiya (as mentioned above) after all prayers, at the summit of every rise and every time you rejoin your traveling companions

The muhriim does the talbiya after the obligatory and nafila prayers, and at every high place and in the valleys. His 'traveling companions' are those he camps and travels with. He also says it when he wakes up from sleep. The one saying the talbiya does not return the greeting until he finishes. He is recommended to raise his voice in the talbiya to a medium level. The woman should only be able to hear herself. It is not disliked for a woman in menstruation or lochia to say the talbiya.
28.2i Not being excessive in the talbiya

However, you should not go to excess in it

This is not recommended or obligatory. Indeed, it is disliked by Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi). This means doing it a lot constantly so that he does not cease that. When he does not cease, he is not silent so that he misses the ceremony.

28.3 Entering Makka

28.3a Stopping the talbiya and restarting it

When you enter Makka you stop reciting the talbiya until after you have completed your tawaf and sa'y. Then you start doing it again until midday on the Day of 'Arafa, if you have got to the place of prayer on 'Arafa.

It is related that he stops it at the Jamra al-'Aqaba. Shaikh al-Lakhmi (rahmatullahi alaihi) inclined to what is in Sahih Muslim that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) continued to do the talbiya until he stoned the Jamra al-'Aqaba.

28.3b Where to enter Makka
It is recommended to enter Makka through the pass of Kada' in Upper Makka and to leave it by Kuda, but it does not matter if you do not do this

This is because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did that and the Companions after him (alaihi salat wa salam) did so as well. It is recommended to enter it in the day since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did that. If someone enters before sunrise, he does not do tawaf. If he does tawaf, he does not pray until sunrise. Nafila prayers are lawful. When a woman arrives in the day, she is recommended to delay tawaf until night. When someone leaves, it is recommended that he go by Kuda, which is the bottom of Makka. There is no sin if he does not do this, because he has not omitted something obligatory.

28.3c The first thing done after entering Makka

Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that all those entering Makka should first of all go straight to the Masjid al-Haram, which it is recommended to enter by the door of Bani Shayba

And no where else unless it is unavoidable - like tying up one's mount and having a little food. Delay is bad manners. This is now known as the Door of Peace. That is because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did that. After someone enters, he should do tawaf by making the intention and make for the Black Stone.

28.4 The Tawaf

28.4a Greeting the Black Stone

You should greet the Black Stone by kissing it, if possible, or if you cannot then by touching it and putting your hand to your mouth without kissing it

If he cannot touch it with his hand, he touches it with his stick and then places it to his mouth without kissing it. A stick is not adequate when the hand is possible and nor the hand when kissing is possible. This kissing is a sunnah at the beginning of the tawaf and recommended in the rest of it. The evidence for kissing is in the two Sahih collections that 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) kissed it and said, "I know that you are a merely a stone which can bestow neither harm nor benefit. If it had not been that I had seen the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) kiss you, I would not have kissed you."

28.4b The Tawaf of Arrival

Then you do tawaf keeping the House on your left, going round it seven times
After kissing the Black Stone, you perform Tawaf of Arrival. It is obligatory for every one who assumes ihram, whether he is one of the people of Makka or elsewhere. When he goes into ihram from the Haram, he does not do the Tawaf of arrival since he is not arriving.

Tawaf, whether it is a pillar, obligation or desirable practice, has obligatory parts, sunan and recommended parts.

28.4c The Obligatory parts of Tawaf

It has six obligatory parts, the first ones being the preconditions for the prayer:

1. Purity from ritual impurity and uncleanness, and covering the private parts. If he breaks wudu' while performing it, he purifies himself and begins again, based on the famous position. Speech is permitted in it since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Tawaf of the House is prayer although Allah has allowed speech in it, so one should only speak good."

2. Tawaf is done inside the masjid.

3. He puts the House on his left. If he puts it on his right, his tawaf is not valid and he must repeat it. He should take care when he begins the tawaf and stand a little before the corner so that the Stone is on his right of where he stands. That is what Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) said. If he does not completely encompass the Stone, he has not completed the first circuit. He should take note of that: the ignorant often err in that. His tawaf is outside the House, and the one who kisses the Black Stone must only walk after he had stood upright as before. He is not permitted to kiss it and then walk with bowed head or his hand so that he does not achieve some of the tawaf. All his body would not be outside the House because part of his body is on the buttress, which is part of the House and thus his tawaf would not be valid.

4. Seven circuits. He begins from the Stone and ends at the Black Stone. If he begins from the Yemeni corner, he ends with it and must sacrifice.

5. Continuity. If he forgets a circuit and then remembers soon after and has not broken wudu', he returns to it, as he would to the prayer. If it is a long time, then the tawaf is invalid by analogy with the prayer.

6. Praying two rak'ats after it.

28.4d Its sunan
Three times at a fast pace between walking and running and four times at a normal walking pace

Its sunan are four:

1. One is the fast pace three times, which is going faster than walking but not running. It is Sunnah for the man and not the woman, even if he is ill. He owes no sacrifice for omitting it, even if he able to do it. Then four circuits are done walking. The evidence for all of this is that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did it.

2. Supplication, which is not defined.

3. Kissing the Black Stone at the beginning of the tawaf as was said.

4. Kissing the Yemeni Corner in the first circuit.

28.4e Recommended parts

Every time you pass the Black Stone, you greet it in the way we have already mentioned and say 'Allahu Akbar'. You do not kiss the Yamani corner but you greet it by touching it with your hand which you then raise to your mouth without missing it
Its recommended parts are four:

1. Kissing the Black Stone in the beginning of every circuit except the first if you are able to do so. Otherwise you place your hand on it and then on your mouth without kissing it. You do this while saying the takbir.

2. Kissing the Yemeni corner at the beginning of every circuit other than the first.

3. Going close to the House for men rather women.

4. Supplication at the Multazam after finishing the tawaf. The Multazam is between the Yemeni corner and the door. He hugs it and makes intense supplication.

28.4f Two rak'ats at the end

When you have finished your tawaf you pray two rak'ats at the Maqam Ibrahim. Then if you are able to you greet the Black Stone once more

His words include an obligation and two recommended parts. The obligation is to do two rak'ats after tawaf. The two recommendations are doing it at the Maqam and connecting them to tawaf. It would mean that there is no sacrifice at all on account of not connecting them: but that is not the case. There is a sacrifice in some instances. Nor is the recommendation absolute: it is recommended for some and obligatory for some in which case there is a sacrifice as a consequence of omitting it.

So someone who does not do two rak'ats until he is far away or has returned home must absolutely perform them. If they are part of an obligatory tawaf he owes a sacrifice. If they are from another tawaf, then no sacrifice is obliged for that. If he has not gone far or returned to his land and has not broken his purity, then he only performs two rak'ats. If his purification is broken deliberately, he does the tawaf and two rak'ats, even if they are not obligatory and repeats the tawaf, the two rak'ats, and sa'y. In other than that he repeats it. Does he repeat the tawaf or not? The apparent meaning is to prefer the second, and he does not kiss the Yemeni corner. After Kissing the Black Stone it is recommended to go to Zamzam and drink from it.

28.5 Sa'y at Safa and Marwa

28.5a Beginning sa'y

and then go off to Safa where you stand and make du'a Shaikh al-Aqfahasi (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) said that it is recommended to leave by the door of Safa since it is closest to Safa. Shaikh Zarruq (rahmatullahi alaihi) transmitted from Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) went out by it.

28.5b Going to Marwa

From there you walk to Marwa going faster across the bottom of the valley. When you reach Marwa you stand for a time making du'a and then walk back to Safa. You do this seven times, standing four times on Safa and four times on Marwa

He should walk quickly in the bottom of the valley, particularly when going to Marwa: this is the Sunnah for men rather than women. The valley is what is between the two green markers which are on the wall of the Masjid al-Haram to the left going to Marwa. The first of them is at the corner of the masjid under the minaret and the second is opposite Ribat al-'Abbas. The supplication made on Marwa and Safa is not specified. Stopping there is Sunnah.

This sa'y is one of the pillars of the hajj and 'umra which is necessary and no sacrifice or anything else can compensate for its omission. Its obligatory nature is indicated by the Book and Sunnah. It has preconditions, sunan and recommended parts.

Its preconditions are four:

1. The proper order, which is that sa'y is done after tawaf. If he begins with sa'y, he returns and does sa'y.

2. Continuity, If he sits for a long time and becomes like someone who stops, he must begin the sa'y again. If it is a short stop, it does not impair it. If he is afflicted by incontinence he does wudu' and builds on what he has done. Speech in it is less than speech in tawaf, i.e. he should only speak softly.

3. Completing the number: seven. If anyone omits a circuit of hajj or 'umra, whether the hajj or 'umra are sound or unsound, he should return for that from his land. If anyone omits a cubit of the sa'y, that is not adequate.

4. It should be preceded it by a sound tawaf. It is not a precondition that it be an obligatory one. Any tawaf is enough according to Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) and that is what Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi) understood from the Mudawwana, but is preferred, Shaikh Zarruq (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that the famous position is that it is a precondition that it is obligatory like the Tawaf al-Ifada and Tawaf of Arrival.
Then after he finishes the sa'y the time of Standing is near.

28.6 At Mina

On the Day of Tarwiya (8th Dhul Hijja) you go to Mina where you pray Dhuhr, 'Asr, Maghrib, 'Isha' and Subh

It is called Mina because Nabi Ibrahim (alaihi salam) wished (tamanna) in that the command to sacrifice his son would be taken from him. It is said that it is because the blood is shed (amna) there. It is six miles from Makka. It is recommended to go out to it so that when you reach it, the time of prayer will be near. It is recommended to spend the night there. The basis for this is that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did it. Imam Ahmad (rahmatullahi alaihi) related that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) prayed five prayers at Mina: Dhuhr and Subh and what is between them. If someone fails to spend the night there, that is disliked, but he does not owe a sacrifice for it.

28.7 At 'Arafat

and then you go to 'Arafat

28.7a Its time
When you have prayed Subh on the ninth day at Mina, it is recommended not to leave it until after sunrise. Then you go to 'Arafat, which is the place of standing. When you reach 'Arafat, it is recommended that the camp at Namira, which is at the end of the Haram and the beginning of the non-Haram.

28.7b Leading up to the Standing

During this time you continue to recite the talbiya ceasing when the sun has passed its zenith on the Day of 'Arafat and you have reached the place of prayer there. You should have a ghusl before going off to do the prayer on 'Arafat

From the time you leave from sunrise you continue talbiya. The place of prayer is the masjid of Namira. You should perform a ghusl after midday before going out. You do not rub thoroughly in the ghusl, but only pass the hands over. This is the last of three ghusls of hajj. It is for standing, not for prayer, and the woman who is menstruating or in lochia should do it as well.

28.7c Joining Dhuhr and 'Asr

where you join Dhuhr and 'Asr with the Imam
They are joined and shortened. He adds in the Mudawwana, with two adhans and two iqamas and recitation is silent, not aloud, even if it coincides with Jumu'a because he is praying Dhuhr and not Jumu'a. If someone misses joining with the Imam, he joins the prayers wherever he is. Shortening at 'Arafa is for the Sunnah.

28.7d The standing

Then you accompany him to the standing place at 'Arafat and stay there with him till the sun has set

This shows that the Standing of 'Arafa is not its prayer place. It is valid to stand in every part of it although it is recommended to stand at the large boulders lying at the base of the Mount of Mercy, the mountain in the middle of 'Arafat. That because it is where the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) stood. The standing begins after midday.

He stands with him until sunset according to what Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) and others said and others which would not include any part of the night. The School is that it must include a part of the night. Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "The minimum obligation in the pillar of standing is to be present part of the night in a part of 'Arafa wherever he wishes except for the bottom of 'Uruna. In short, the fiqh is that standing at 'Arafa after midday is obligatory which can be remedied by sacrifice. The standing part of the pillar is a part of the night after sunset. What is considered as standing is the most perfect meaning. If he passes through 'Arafat at night and does not stand, that is adequate with two conditions: he knows that this place is 'Arafa and that he intends to be present at 'Arafa. This does not include the one who passes not knowing that this place is 'Arafa. It is recommended to stay there mounted since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did that. It is recommended to glorify and praise Allah azza wa jall, say the shahadah and the prayer on Sayyidina Muhammad (alaihi salat wa salam), and make supplication. It is recommended to not fast so as to be strong in worship.

28.8 At Muzdalifa

28.8a Going to Muzdalifa

Then when he moves off to go to Muzdalifa you go after him, praying Maghrib, 'Isha and Subh with him at Muzdalifa

After sunset on the day of 'Arafa when the night is well advanced, you set out with the Imam for Muzdalifa. If you go before him after sunset, then you abandon the best course. When you arrive there, the first concern is to perform the prayer shortly after stopping. You pray the prayers with the Imam at Muzdalifa joined and shortened, except for the people of Muzdalifa. The School is that this joining is Sunnah. When dawn comes, it is recommended for him to pray Subh with the Imam at the beginning of the time. So it is recommended to spend the night at Muzdalifa, as is stated in the Mukhtasar. Dismounting is obligatory. It is not enough to make the camel kneel: you must dismount. Whoever fails to dismount without excuse until dawn owes a sacrifice. Whoever omits it for an excuse owes nothing.

28.8b Standing at Mash'ar al-Haram

After that you stand there with him at the Mash'ar al-Haram

It is recommended in the well-known school to stop with him facing the House. Mash'ar is a mountain at Muzdalifa. It is called that because in the Jahiliyya they used to mark their sacrifices there. This is the day of Sacrifice. He prays Subh or stops at Muzdalifa until the sun has risen.

28.9 Back to Mina

28.9a Crossing Muhassir

and shortly after sunrise, you go to Mina hurrying your mount across the Valley of Muhassir
Its apparent meaning, as the Mukhtasar, is that it is permitted to continue standing at the Mash'ar until the whitening of the sun. In the Mudawwana, no one stays at the Mash'ar until sunrise or whitening, but moves on before that. The Sahih indicates the first. It says that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) "came to the Mash'ar al-Haram, faced qibla and praised Allah azza wa jall, proclaimed Him great, unified Him and prayed to Him. He (alaihi salat wa salam) remained standing until it was very bright." The one riding is recommended to make his mount hurry. Muhassir is a valley between Muzdalifa and Mina. The path is between them. If he is walking, he walks quickly. A woman does not hurry. This hurrying is an act of devotion.

28.9b Stoning the Jamrat al-'Aqaba

When you get to Mina you stone the Jamrat al-'Aqaba using seven small pebbles de} you begin to stone them first when you reach Mina in whatever state you are, riding or otherwise. It is the end of Mina on the Makkan side. It is called Jamra from the name of what is thrown at it: stones. Stoning is done from dawn to sunset on the Day of Sacrifice and the time of making it up covers all of the days of sacrifice. Indeed, the night after every day is for making up for that day. There is no disagreement that sacrifice is obliged for missing it. Missing it occurs at sunset of the fourth of the days of Mina. They disagree about its obligation whether the hajj is invalidated by missing any of the jamras.

Stoning has preconditions for its validity. One of the preconditions of validity is that he puts the stone between his thumb and forefinger. It is said that he holds it with his thumb and middle finger. They are thrown one after the other. Less than that is not adequate, even if he throws seven pebbles at once reckoning each of them to be one of the stones he throws. Mud is not acceptable nor are minerals like iron. There is disagreement about the size of what is thrown. That which most Shaikhs (rahmatullahi alaihi) say is that it is like a date stone. The very small, like gravel is not enough.

28.9c What is said during the stoning and saying "Allahu Akbar" with each pebble as you throw it

This is recommended. If he does not say that takbir, the stoning is enough, and he continues to throw the pebbles. It is disliked for him to take a stone and break it and to make pebbles. It is desirable to pick them up from the earth and that they be pure. The stoning should be from the bottom of the valley, Stoning the Jamra al-'Aqaba makes everything lawful except women and hunting. It is called the lesser coming out of ihram. The Tawaf al-
Ifada makes everything lawful for him, even women and hunting. It is called the greater coming out of ihram.

28.9d Sacrifice

Then, if you have a sacrificial animal with you, you make sacrifice

He stands with it at 'Arafa and Mina. All are places for sacrifice except what is beyond the Jamra al-'Aqaba and the Imam does not wait there since the ‘Id prayer is not there.

28.9e Shaving the head

Then you shave your head

After the sacrifice. Or you can shorten it if a man's hair is not matted or plaited. If it is matted or plaited, then it is shaven. Shaving is only obliged in those two cases. The entire head must be shaved. Doing part of it is like not doing it. If someone has something wrong with his head so that he cannot shave, he sacrifices. As for the woman, the Sunnah for her is to shorten her hair.

28.10 Back to Makka
After that you go the House and do Tawaf al-Ifada going round seven times and finishing with the prayer

It is the last of the four pillars of hajj which is not mended by sacrifice and by it all that was forbidden becomes allowed, even women and hunting. Taken from his words is that it is better to go to do it soon on the Day of Sacrifice. That is indeed the case. But if you delay it past the days of tashriq, sacrifice is not obliged. Sacrifice is obliged if you leave it until Dhu'l-Hijja is over in the famous position. A counter statement is that if he delays it to the 11th, then he is obliged to sacrifice. The explanation of "going around" is that he does not hurry in this tawaf or do sa'y because he did sa'y after the Tawaf of Arrival. This in respect of the one who is not pressed for time. As for the one who was pressed for time so that it was not feasible for him to do the Tawaf of Arrival, it is desirable that he trots in the Tawaf of Ifada

28.11a Staying for three days

You then stay for three days at Mina
Three days and nights if he is not in a hurry. If he omits most of the nights, he is obliged to sacrifice. Shortening of the prayer is not prescribed.

28.11b Stoning the jamras

On each day after the sun has passed the zenith, you first stone the jamra nearest Mina using seven small pebbles and saying, 'Allahu Akbar' with each pebble thrown. You then stone the other two jamras with the same number of pebbles again saying "Allahu Akbar" as you throw each one. After stoning the first two jamras you stand and make du'a but after stoning the jamra al-'Aqaba you do not stand but move straight off.

On these three days. He does the middle one second and finishes with the third, which is the Jamra al-'Aqaba, using seven stones each time. Shaikh al-Aqfahasi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that "after the zenith" means before the prayer. If he stones before the zenith, it is not enough and he repeats it after midday, as when he stones the Jamra al-'Aqaba before Fajr.

28.11c Leaving for Makka

When you have finished stoning on the third day, making four days including the 'Id, you leave for Makka.
Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) said that he does not stay at Mina after stoning on the third day. It is recommended to stop at Muhassab and pray Dhuhr, 'Asr, Maghrib and 'Isha' there and to enter Makka at night since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did that as the Companions after him. If he prays Dhuhr before it, he owes nothing, and if he does not stop, he does not have to sacrifice anything.

28.11d The completion of the hajj

and your hajj is complete

If he means by complete the sunan, obligations and excellent parts, there still remains the Tawaf of Farewell. If he means the obligations, they are complete before that. He must mean its obligations and sunan and so he did not consider the Tawaf of Farewell because it is not particular to the hajj. It is done by whoever leaves Makka after the hajj or any other reason.

28.11e Hurrying up departure from Mina

If you want, you can speed up your departure by staying only two days at Mina, leaving after finishing stoning on the second day
This is when the sun has not set on the second day. When it sets, there is no hurrying because the night obliges camping there for the stoning of the day. If the sun has set, it is as he is obliged to do the third day.

28.12 Leaving Makka

When you are about to leave Makka you do the Tawaf of Farewell and the two rak'ats after it and then leave

This tawaf is recommended and sacrifice is owed for omitting it. When he finishes it, he prays two rak'ats. Shaikh ibn Farhun (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that the Tawaf of Farewell has two rak'ats and if he omits them until he is far away or arrives home, he prays them then and owes nothing. If he is near and still in a state of purity, he returns to them. If he has broken wudu', he purifies himself and begins the tawaf again and then prays them.

28.13 'Umra

For 'umra you do the same as we said at the beginning of this chapter up until when you have completed the sa'y between Safa and Marwa. You then shave your head and your 'umra is complete
This shows that its pillars are three: ihram, tawaf and sa'y. It has two miqats: time and place. The time is all time, and the place is outside the Haram, whether he is foreign or resident in Makka. It would appear from his words then that 'umra is not complete until he shaves his head. That is not the case because Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that his 'umra is compete by tawaf and sa'y. Shaving is one of the preconditions of perfection, not one of validity, and so that is no contradiction in its being mandatory. What he meant by the end of the 'umra is its perfection and so there is no contradiction.

28.14 Cutting the hair

28.14a For men

For both hajj and 'umra it is better to shave your head but shortening the hair is acceptable in which case the hair should be shortened all over the head

This is not absolute: shortening is preferable in the tamattu' hajj so that the dishevelment remains for hajj. Shaikh Zarruq (rahmatullahi alaihi) stated that. The practice of shaving is only complete by shaving the entire head since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did that. Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that the Sunnah in shortening for men is to cut close to the roots. The minimum is to cut off something from all the hair. It is not enough cut some of all the hair, even the amount of a finger. If he shortens only some, he misses the Sunnah.

28.14b For women

The Sunnah for women is to shorten the hair

It is disliked for her to shave and it is said that it is haram because it is mutilation. She shortens her hair. The basis for that is what Abu Dawud (rahmatullahi alaihi) related that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Women do not have to shave. Women shorten their hair."

28.15 Requirements of Ihram

28.15a Killing harmful animals

There is no harm in someone in ihram killing a rat, snake, scorpion or such like nor in killing a dangerous dog or any other dangerous animal such as a jackal or a lion

It is permitted to kill these categories. Similar to rats are creatures which chew clothes, like weasels. Snakes and vipers includes hornets. A dangerous dog is one which will attack. Dangerous animals include hyenas and tigers.
28.15b Killing harmful birds

You can also kill crows and kites if you fear they will harm you but not any other birds. You can kill birds whose harm is feared, like crows and kites.

These two types are killed, even if they do not initiate harm, large or small. Other birds, harmful or not, are not killed. That is one of two statements which Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) reported. What is preferred of the two is to kill them if they cause harm.

28.15c Avoiding women

When doing hajj or 'umra you should avoid women

This is an obligation. Avoiding women means avoiding enjoyment of them by intercourse or anything else. That is obligatory since it absolutely invalidates the hajj, whether it is genital or anal, human or not, intentional, out of forgetfulness of ignorance, with ejaculation or not, whether it obliges the hadd or mahr or not, with an adult or not. It is clear from what they say, as in al-Ahjuri, even if ghusl is not obliged.

The second Sunnah that he assumes ihram for making up hajj. That does not spare him the missed one and its ihram. The second is ineffectual which has no place while he is in a false ihram and his ihram is not for making it up. He is obliged to complete it when he has done the Standing in the year in which he corrupted it. If he does not catch it, then he is commanded to come out of it by doing 'umra He is not permitted to remain in ihram by agreement because it is continuing the corrupted while he is able to be free of it.

As for actions which precede intercourse, like the kiss and the embrace, they are unlawful. If he kisses or embraces and has ejaculated, it is invalidated. Otherwise he should sacrifice a camel. As for the look and the thought, they do not entail invalidation by the emission of sperm because of them unless both of them were for pleasure and continued. As for its emission by simply looking or the thought, there is only sacrifice for it. These are the judgments for the emission of sperm. It obliges a sacrifice absolutely whether it emerges after constantly looking, thought, kiss or touch or not.

28.15d Avoiding perfume

perfume

He must avoid perfume in hajj or 'umra like rose or jasmine, for which there is no fidyat, or feminine perfume, which is what has a substance which stays on the body and clothes, like musk, and saffron. There is fidya for it, even if it is quickly removed.

28.15e Avoiding stitched clothing

stitched clothing

There is no disagreement that they are unlawful for men but not women. What is meant is all that surrounds the body or part of it. It is also unlawful for him to wear turbans, trousers and burnooses.

28.15f Avoiding hunting

hunting

He must also avoid hunting in land, whether the reason for hunting is to eat meat like the antelope, and wild ass or not, like monkeys without difference between them being tame or wild, owned or permitted. There is no exception for that except what is transmitted in the hadith: the kite and crow, rate, scorpion, and dangerous dogs.

28.15g Killing insects

killing insects
He does not kill lice or remove them from his body.

28.15h Removing hair from the body and removing any hair from your body

Like clipping the mustache which resembles removing hair. If he removes any of his hair, he owes a handful of grain.

28.15i Not covering the head

When you are in ihram, you should not cover your head nor should you shave it except in a case of necessity

It is forbidden for the one in ihram to cover his head and face with any covering, be it like mud, let alone a turban. As for other things which cover the body, it is forbidden to cover with something specific which is stitched. The head is not shaved by the words of the Almighty, "But do not shave your heads until the sacrificial animal has reached the place of sacrifice. If any of you are ill or have a head injury, there is an expiation" (Holy Qur’an 2:196) which means: shaving to remove harm, and so the fidya is fasting, sadaqa, or practices: He indicates this:

28.15j Its expiation
If you do you must make expiation by fasting three days or feeding six destitute people with two mudds each, using the mudd of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) or sacrificing a sheep. This sacrifice does not have to be carried out in any particular place.

This could even be three days at Mina. He must perform an act of devotion. It could be a sheep or something else. He only mentioned sheep because fidya is done the best meat. It must be slaughtered. It is not enough to give it without sacrificing it, as some of them said. The lack of particular place is qualified to when the animal was not garlanded or marked. If it was garlanded or marked, then he only sacrifices it at Mina.

28.15k What women wear

Women may wear khuffs and ordinary clothing while they are in ihram but in all other respects they must avoid the same things as men.

They can absolutely wear leather socks, even if she has sandals. They wear stitched clothes in ihram. Outside of this, they avoid the same things: intercourse and foreplay, hunting, killing animals, removing hair. There is no way she can avoid covering her head.
28.15l A woman's ihram

A woman's ihram consists in her not covering her face and hands

She shows her face and hands, and it is forbidden for her to cover them with anything, even mud. She cannot wear a veil. If she does any of this, she must do fidya.

28.15m A man's ihram

and man's ihram in his not covering his face and head

A man must show his face and head while in ihram, night and day. If he covers any of that and benefits, that is forbidden for him and he does fidya whether it is out of forgetfulness, knowingly or out of ignorance. If he removes it immediately, he owes nothing. He is permitted to use a pillow and shield himself from the sun or wind with his hand. The hand is not considered a covering unless it is touching the head and for a long time. In such case he must do fidya as it says the 'Utibiyya. He is permitted to carry his baggage and other things on his head as necessary, like a bundle of firewood which he carries to sell. If he carries it for someone else or for trade, there is fidya. He is permitted to seek the shade of the buildings and tents.
28.15n Wearing leather socks

A man may not wear khuffs while he is in ihram unless he has not got any thronged sandals in which case he should cut his khuffs down to below the ankles

As is reported in the hadith. Then he proceeds to clarify which type of hajj is best:

28.16 Ifrad is best

According to us doing Hajj by itself is better than doing ('umra then hajj separately in the same season) or (hajj and 'umra together)

Ifrad is best based on what is in the two Sahih collections that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did ifrad in the Farewell Hajj and that continued to be the action of the khalifs. Abu Bakr (radhi’Allahu anhu) did ifrad in 2 AH, 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) in 10 AH and Uthman (rahmatullahi alaihi) in 12. It has not been reported that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did qiran or tamattu'. The Imam said that some of the Companions commanded qiran and some tamattu'. Ifrad does not need to be mended by sacrifice as opposed to qiran and tamattu'. They need that.
28.16a Someone not from Makka not doing ifrad

If someone who is not from Makka does qiran or tamattu'

It is understood that the people of Makka do not have to sacrifice. What is meant by them are those who are present there or at Dhu Tuwa at the time the practices are performed. There are two conditions for the sacrifice of the one doing qiran: that he does not live in Makka or Dhu Tuwa and that he makes hajj in the same year. If he misses the hajj, he comes out of 'umra and owes no sacrifice. If he omits the first and does not come out of ihram for 'umra and remains in ihram, it is not canceled for him. Then he clarifies the place of the sacrifice.

28.16b The sacrifice to mend it at Mina

He must sacrifice an animal at Mina

At Mina in the day after Fajr. It is not enough to do it as night. The basis in all that is that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did it. There are preconditions for the validity of the sacrifice:

28.16c Preconditions for the validity of the sacrifice which he had with him at 'Arafa

1. Whoever is obliged to sacrifice must have the animals at 'Arafa at night. Shaikh ibn Harun (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "As for the precondition of standing at night, I do not know of any dispute about it because all who stipulate standing at 'Arafa at night, like Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi), make its judgment that of its owner in what makes the standing acceptable.

2. The sacrifice must be during the days of Mina: the Day of Sacrifice and the two days after it. The fourth day is not included.

3. If the sacrifice is in the hajj, the sacrifice was driven under the ihram of the hajj, whether it was obliged by something lacking, or in the 'umra, or voluntary to repay hunting.

When all these preconditions exist, is it not permitted to sacrifice at Makka or anywhere else: the sacrifice at Mina is obligatory. If he lacks some of the preconditions, it is permitted for him.

28.16d Sacrifice at Marwa

If he did not have it at 'Arafa he should sacrifice it in Makka at Marwa, having brought it there from outside the Haram
If he missed it in the days of Mina, even if he stood at 'Arafa, then he is obliged to sacrifice in Makka or the houses near it. He is not allowed to sacrifice at Dhu Tuwa and other places outside Makka, even if they are connected to the houses of Makka. That is only when he has brought the sacrifice from outside the Haram by any aspect because every sacrifice must combine Haram and non-Haram. The sacrifice can be sheep, cattle or camels, but camels are best. Only sound animals are allowed in all like the sacrifices and sacrifice of these three is specified for the one doing tamattu' and qiran when he can do so.

28.16e Fasting three days on the hajj

If you do not have a sacrificial animal you should fast three days during the hajj, that being between the time you go into ihram and the Day of 'Arafa

He only mentions the tamattu' and not the qiran. The three days during the hajj can be from the time of ihram to the day of 'Arafa. So if the imperfection which obliges sacrifice is before standing at 'Arafa, it is included in the time of fasting for three days, which is from ihram to 'Arafa because he can fast. He is like the one who exceeds the miqat and does tammatu' and qiran and omits the Tawaf of Arrival. We said, 'before the standing' is if the imperfection occurs after standing, like not stopping in Muzdalifa, or not stoning or shaving, or delaying the three until the days of tashriq are over. Then he fasts them with the seven days when he wishes.

28.16f Fasting the days of Mina

If you do not manage to do that you fast the days of Mina. Then when you return to your own country you fast seven more days

If he misses the three days in the hajj, he fasts them at Mina without incurring any sin if he delays the fast until then for an excuse. After fasting the three, whether in the hajj or at Mina, he fasts the seven when he returns from Mina to Makka, whether he stays at Makka or not. If he delays it, he fasts whenever he wishes, and it is recommended that the three be consecutive, but it is not obligatory. The same applies to the ten. It is recommended in the well-known position.

28.17 Tamattu'

28.17a How it is done

To do tamattu', you go into ihram for 'umra only during the months of hajj, then come out of ihram, then go back into it again for hajj that same year without having traveled back to your country or to anywhere else a similar distance away

It is not a precondition that they are both in the months of hajj. If he goes into ihram in Ramadan and then completes it in Shawwal, he does tamattu' even if a pillar falls into the months of hajj. If only shaving remains for him and it happens in the months of hajj, he is not doing tamattu'. Then he performs hajj in this year because if they were not both in the same year, there is no tamattu'. He is also not doing tamattu' if he returns to his land after his 'umra in the months of hajj before going into ihram for hajj. So tamattu' is true in any form when he finishes 'umra in the months of hajj and goes into ihram for hajj before he returns to his land.

28.17b Coming out of 'umra and going into ihram for hajj

If this is the case you are permitted to go back into ihram from Makka if that is where you are but to do you must go outside the haram territory

When he comes out of 'umra, he goes into ihram in Makka. In this case it is recommended that he do it from the door of the masjid. He does not go into ihram from Makka because one of the preconditions of 'umra is that he combine being in and out of ihram.
28.18 Qiran

To do qiran you go into ihram for hajj and 'umra together, making the intention to do 'umra first. If you decide to do Hajj as well as 'umra before you have done the tawaf and its following two rak'ats you are considered as doing qiran.

He begins with 'umra. It appears from his words that he does not make it consecutive in tawaf. The well-known position is that it is permitted. It is valid after he completes it and before praying the rak'ats, but it is disliked. If he prays the rak'ats, he misses consecutiveness. Whoever does it consecutively (arfada) after sa'y is not doing qiran by agreement.

28.19 Particulars on tamattu' and qiran

28.19a People of Makka doing tamattu' or qiran

The people of Makka do not have to sacrifice if they are doing tamattu' or qiran.

It is agreed that they do not have to sacrifice in tamattu' or qiran according to the well-known position.

28.19b When it is not tamattu'
If you come out of ihram after an 'umra before the months of hajj and then stay on for hajj during the same year, you are not considered as doing tamattu'

If he delays the shaving until the months of hajj.

28.20 Atonement for hunting in ihram

28.20a Expiation

If you kill any game while in ihram you have to make expiation for it by sacrificing a domestic animal equivalent to the one you killed

Whether its flesh is eaten or not. The Lawgiver said whether the killer in ihram is doing hajj or 'umra, or is in the Haram, even if he is not a muhrim, whether he is free or slave, male or female, young or old, and the killing is deliberate or accidental, or by forgetfulness direct or causal. This sacrifice is an obligation. The likeness is in form and value, or close to it. So the one who kills an elephant owes a Khurassan camel with two humps. The one who kills a wild ox or wild ass or gazelle owes a domestic cow. The one who kills an ostrich owes a camel because it is close in value and form. The one who kills a hyena, fox, or one of the doves of Makka outside the Haram must pay its price in food when it is killed. The least of what is allowed in repayment for hunting is a lamb or kid because Allah azza wa jall called it a sacrifice and so it must meet the preconditions of a sacrifice.

28.20b Who assesses it

This should be ascertained by two trustworthy fuqaha' from among the Muslims

If he pays it before their judgment on it, he repeats it, even if the evaluated thing is not eaten. The precondition of being trustworthy is being free and adult. There must be the expression "judgment": fatwa is not enough. One of the preconditions of their judgment is that base their judgment on the judgment of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) and the Companions. A judgment which has no prior judgment is rejected and not carried out; and no one repays without a judgment. If he repays it without a judgment, he repeats it, even if it agrees with the judgment passed. An exception to are the doves of Makka and the Haram for which there is a sheep.

28.20c Where the sacrifice is done

If the animals to be killed was with you on 'Arafa the sacrifice should be made at Mina. Otherwise it should be made in Makka, the animal concerned having been brought in from outside the Haram territory

The place where it is slaughtered, i.e. the repayment of game if it is part of what is slaughtered and sacrificed. He or his representative do it at Mina. Otherwise it is done in Makka.

28.20d The choice

You have the choice of doing this or of making kaffarah by feeding destitute people, in which case you work out the value of the animal killed in terms of food and give that amount away as sadaqa. Or alternatively you can fast one day for each mudd, fasting a whole day for any incomplete mudd

Someone who kills game has a choice between two things. He can do kaffarah, which is feeding from the predominant food of the place where the game was killed, whatever it is. If it has no value there, one considers its price in the nearest place to it, and he gives it as sadaqa to them. When he feeds, each poor person receives a mudd. If he gives its price or goods, that is not enough.

The second possibility is to fast. There is a day per mudd because he cannot make it partial, and so it can only be mended by a complete day.
28.21 Going home

28.21a The ruling of 'umra

'Umra is a confirmed Sunnah to be done at least once in a lifetime

It has two miqats: place, which are those of the hajj, and time, which is the entire year. It has three pillars: ihram, tawaf and sa'y. Shaving is not one of its pillars. The description of ihram for it is recommended to have a ghusl and what is permitted to dress and what is forbidden of scent, etc., is like the hajj. It is disliked to repeat it in the same year in the well-known position.

28.21b Final du'a

When you leave Makka after hajj or 'umra, it is recommended to say: "Ayibuna, ta-ibuna, 'abidana lilrabbina, hamiduna, sadaqa'llahu wa'dahu wa nasara 'abdahu wa hazama'l-Ahzaba wahdah. (Returning, repentant, worshipping, praising our Lord. Allah had been true to His promise and given victory to His slave and defeated the clans by Himself.)"
Chapter 29: On sacrifices, (animals sacrificed for the birth of a child), and drinks

29.1 Animals for feast day and hajj sacrifices

29.1a The ruling of the ‘Id sacrifice

Sacrificing an animal for the ‘Id is a Sunnah which is obligatory for all who are able to do so Adhiya refers to animals which are brought to be sacrificed on the Day of al-Adha and afterwards. It is called that because of the day when they are sacrificed at Duha and it is called the ‘Id al-Adha because the prayer in it is at that time. It is a confirmed Sunnah in the well-known position for the one who is able, if he is free, Muslim, adult or child, male or female, resident or traveling, not on hajj, because the Sunnah is for him to sacrifice for himself and those relatives whose maintenance he is responsible for, like parents and poor children. By "being able" he avoids the one who is poor. Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that the one who is able is the one who would be injured in his property, i.e. the one who is not able to find its price in that year.

Partnership is permitted in the reward for it rather than in its price.

29.1b The minimum

The least which is acceptable for it in the case of sheep is a jadha, which is a one year old ram, although some have said eight months and some ten months old. In the case of goats it should be a thaniyya, which means a male in its second year and likewise only thaniyya animals are acceptable in the case of cattle and camels. A thaniyya in respect to cattle is a male in its fourth year and in respect to camels it is a six year old male

This is the well-known position.

29.1c The most perfect animal

Rams which have not been castrated are better for sacrifice than those which have been, but castrated rams are better than ewes. Ewes are better than either male or female goats. Male goats which have not been castrated are better than camels and cattle for ‘Id sacrifices
This has to do with being more perfect. So there are twelve grades, the highest is a uncastrated ram and the least is a female camel and cow.

29.1d The order in animals

As regards 'hadys' (animals to be sacrificed as part of the hajj) camels are best and then cattle and then sheep and then goats

This is the famous position because what is desired of hadys is to have a lot of meat for the poor, and what is desired of the dahiya is good meat, i.e. for bringing to the family, Shaikh Bahram (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "The evidence for us in the two places is that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) used to often make his hadys camels and his dahiya was two rams, as is reported in the Sahih.

29.1e Unacceptable animals

In none of these circumstances is it acceptable to sacrifice a one-eyed animal or a sick animal or a markedly lame animal or an emaciated animal

However, an animal with some whiteness in the eye which does not entail blindness is permitted. Of course, a totally blind animal is not permitted. A clearly ill animal is not allowed, but one with a slight illness is permitted. Clear illness involves not eating normally or eating a lot. Also excluded are animals having a lot mange and which have lost its teeth, except for a single tooth.

29.1f Other unacceptable animals

In fact you should avoid using for sacrifice any animal which has something wrong with it. You should also avoid any split-eared animal unless the split is only slight. The same applies to an animal whose ear has been cut off or one with a broken horn. If it is bleeding it is not acceptable for sacrifice. However, if it is not bleeding, it is acceptable

This is if it is a lot, a little is overlooked. He includes split-eared animals, and other forms of mangling the ears. There is disagreement about the extent of cutting. That which is the predominant position is that a third of the ear is slight, and a third of the tail is a lot because the tail is meat and sinew while the ear is not. This is about the tail of the sheep which is a fat tail. As for like the ox, camel and sheep in some lands which have no meat on the tail, that which would prevent its acceptability is what decrease beauty. Bleeding refers to a wound which does not heal.

29.2 Time of Sacrifice
29.2a After the Imam

It is good to sacrifice your animal yourself after the Imam has made his sacrifice on the morning of the Day of Sacrifice. If you slaughter your animal before the Imam you must repeat your sacrifice.

That is recommended if it is possible to imitate the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam). If you cannot do that for some reason, then you delegates Muslim, and it is recommended that he be one of the people of virtue and excellence. Anyone who does not pray is disliked, but it is said that it is permitted in the well-known position. It is not allowed to delegate an unbeliever of any description.

The time of sacrifice begins from the time the Imam sacrifices on the Day of Sacrifice, the 10th of Dhu'l-Hijja. He should sacrifice in the morning, which is the time of the nafla. If anyone sacrifices before the Day of Sacrifice or after Fajr on the Day of Sacrifice and before sunrise, that is not permitted and he must repeat the sacrifice. This is based on the words of the Almighty, "Do not advance yourselves in front of Allah and of His Messenger." (Holy Qur'an 49:1) Shaikh al- Hasan al-Basri (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "It was sent down about people who sacrificed before the Imam." This is about the one who has an Imam.
29.2b When there is no Imam

If there is no Imam with you, you should make sure you do not do it before the time the Imam nearest to you would do so. The sacrifice must not be done at night

They sacrifice at the proper time. If their error becomes evident to them, it is allowed in the well-known position. One considers the Imam of the prayer. It is not done at night on the second or third day. This is because Allah azza wa jall says, "Mention Allah's Name on particular days." (Holy Qur'an 22:28) It is allowed to sacrifice in forenoon in the second or third day after dawn and before sunrise, but then he has abandoned what is recommended as opposed to the one who sacrifices in the first day after dawn and before sunrise which is not acceptable.

29.2c The three days of sacrifice

There are three 'days of sacrifice' and you can make your sacrifice any time up until Maghrib on the last of these days but the best time to make your sacrifice is on the first day

According to Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi), following a group of the Companions. It is the Day of Sacrifice and the two days after it. The end of the time is sunset on the third day. The best time follows what was done by the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) and the right-guided khalifs (may Allah azza wa jall bless them all).

29.2d On the second day

If you do not manage to make your sacrifice before midday on the first day some of the people of knowledge say that it is better to wait until the morning of the second day.

This is Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi). Shaikh Bahram (rahmatullahi alaihi) transmitted it from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi). Shaikh Bahram (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that they is no disagreement that what is done before midday from the beginning of the day is better than what is after it. There is disagreement about whether what is after midday of it is better than before midday of the second day. That is the apparent meaning of what the Mukhtasar says. It is the school of the Risala. The reliable position is that all of the first day is better than what is after it.

29.2e None of the animal can be sold

No part of an animal sacrificed for the ‘Id may be sold; neither its skin nor anything else
This is a prohibition. This also applies to an 'Aqiqa. He refutes the one who says that its skin can be sold.

29.3 Ritual of Sacrifice

29.3a Facing qibla

The animal you are intending to sacrifice should be made to face the qibla

This is in all sacrifices. If it is not done for some excuse or forgetfulness, it is agreed that it can be eaten.

29.3b What is said and when you slaughter it you should say, "Bismillahi, Allahu Akbar." (In the name of Allah. Allah is greater.)

He says both. That is the action of the people. The takbir is Sunnah, i.e. recommended. The basmala is taken from his (alaihi salat wa salam) words afterwards, and it is the position in the Mudawwana. It is obligatory when remembered and one is able to say it. It is omitted in case of lack of ability and forgetfulness. If he confines himself to it, that is sufficient by the words of Allah, "Eat from that over which the name of Allah has been mentioned."
(Holy Qur’an 6:118) Nothing is a precondition but the name of Allah azza wa jall.

29.3c What is said on ‘Id sacrifices

If, when sacrificing for the ‘Id you add "Rabbana taqabbal minnâa (Our Lord, accept this from us), there is no harm in that

This means it is recommended. It is also said that it is permission.

29.3d If the basmala is forgotten

If you forget to say 'Bismillah' when sacrificing an animal for the ‘Id or at any other time you are permitted to eat it. However, if the Bismillah is left out deliberately the animal cannot be eaten

According to the position of the Mudawwana, it is obligatory when remembered.

29.3e When hunting

The same thing applies to sending hunting animals out after game
Or shooting an arrow and the like used for hunting. It is eaten. If the basmala is deliberately omitted, it is not eaten by the words of Allah, "Do not eat from that over which the name of Allah has not been mentioned." (Holy Qur’an 6:121) The Almighty said, "Eat from what they bring you and mention the name of Allah over it." (Holy Qur’an 5:4)

29.4 Use of animals for various types of sacrifice

29.4a Not sold, but eaten from and given away

It is not permissible to sell the meat, skin, fat, innards, or any other part of an animal that has been sacrificed either for the ‘Id or for a new-born child or as part of the Hajj, but you are allowed to eat from such an animal and it is recommended to give some away as sadaqa although it is not obligatory to do this

This includes horn, wool and hair. It is possible that the excellence is specific or that it refers to combining eating and sadaqa, which is the literal meaning by the words of the Almighty, "Eat from them and feed those who are poor and in need." (Holy Qur’an 22:28) and His words, "feed both those who ask and those who are too shy to ask" (Holy Qur’an 22:32) whether he asks or not. Giving it all as sadaqa is disliked. There is no definition to how much is eaten or given away. Most forbid feeding the unbeliever from it absolutely, whether a Kitabi or Magian.

29.4b Not eating from an animal slaughtered for expiation

You may not, however, eat from an animal you have sacrificed in expiation for breaking one of conditions of ihram nor for one sacrificed on account of having killed while in ihram nor from one sacrificed as part of a vow you have made to feed the poor nor from 'hadys' intended as voluntary sacrifices which for some reason become defective before reaching the place of sacrifice. In any other instances you can eat from your sacrifice if you want.

The hadis are not eaten as opposed to the dhahiya. The place of sacrifice is Mina if he had the animal at 'Arafa and it is within the days of sacrifice, and at Makka if he did not stop there or if the days of sacrifice have passed. It is haram to eat from the these categories after they reach their place because Allah azza wa jall called the fidya and repayment kaffarah, and a man does not eat from his kaffarah. He excludes himself in the third case and gives it to the poor. He is permitted to eat it before the place because he can still replace it. He is permitted to eat from voluntary hadis when they are defective after reaching the place. He is permitted to eat the hadis of qiran and tamattu' and the hadi of invalidation, and every hadi obliged for missing one of the marks of hajj.
absolutely before reaching the place and after it by the lack of suspicion before it reaches the place because he can replace it, and after it the business is clear.

29.5 Slaughtering

29.5a Severing the throat and carotid arteries

The correct method of slaughtering is to sever the throat and the carotid arteries and nothing short of that is acceptable

All of the throat. The throat and arteries must all be cut: this is the position of Shaikh Sahnun (rahmatullahi alaihi) and is well-known. It is said that it is enough to cut the arteries completely and half the throat. The literal words of the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) mean that it is not a precondition to cut the gullet. Qadi 'Iyad (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that the gullet is the path of food and drink.

29.5b A single stroke

If you take your hand away after severing only part of that and then resume and compete the cutting, the animal cannot be eaten
It is apparent that it is whether it is a long or short gap, but there is disagreement about when he returns the blade quickly. Shaikh Sahnun (rahmatullahi alaihi) said it is unlawful. Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it is eaten because all that is asked is that it be immediate and a small disparity is over looked. That is the reliable position. The fiqh of the question is that if he lifts his hand after killing it and returns afterwards, it is not eaten, even if he lifted his hand by necessity. If he lifts his hand before finishing any of the killing, it is eaten, even if he returns afterwards because the second is a separate slaughter.

29.5c Cutting off the head

If you cut the head right off you have committed a wrong action, but the animal can be eaten

Whether it is deliberate, by forgetfulness or an overly sharp knife.

29.5d When the animal is slaughtered from the back of the neck

You cannot eat an animal which has been slaughtered from the back of the neck

It has not be slaughtered in the prescribed manner and its death arose out by cutting the spine. If it is killed by such slaughtering, it is not eaten, even if the throat is cut and the knife is hard on the arteries because of the lack of sharpness in the knife and it cuts the arteries from inside. It is not eaten according to the Maliki School.

29.5e Methods of slaughter

Cattle should be slaughtered with a knife but if their throats are pierced with a spear they can still be eaten.

Two forms are permitted in cattle because they have the place of sacrifice and the place of slaughter. The place of sacrifice is the upper breast. It is not a precondition in nahr slaughter that any of the throat and arteries be cut because the place of the upper breast is the place where the implement reaches the heart and the animal dies quickly.

29.5f Camels

Camels should be pierced in the throat with a spear and if they are slaughtered with a knife they may not be eaten although there is a difference of opinion about this.

It is recommended that camels be slaughtered while they are standing. There is disagreement about eating them if they are slaughtered with a knife. The position that they are not eaten if they are slaughtered like this is found in the Mudawwana. Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) takes it as a prohibition and Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) thinks it is well-known. It is what is preferred. Others consider it disliked. The dispute is about when such a slaughter is unnecessary. If it is necessary, as when a camel falls into a hole and its upper chest cannot be reached and it is slaughtered, then it can be eaten by agreement.

29.5g Sheep and goats

Sheep and goats should be slaughtered with a knife and if their throats are pierced with a spear they should not be eaten although there is a difference of opinion about this also

This is when it is not due to necessity. The well-known position is that it is forbidden. If it is due to necessity, as when it falls into a hole and slaughtered, there is agreement that it is eaten.

29.5h The fetus

The slaughter of a mother includes what is in the womb provided that the fetus is fully formed and its hair has grown
This is part of livestock. If it is slaughtered and there is dead fetus in it, it can be eaten with preconditions. It should be fully developed. This does not mean that all its limbs are perfect. It can be even if missing a leg.

29.6 Forbidden foods and animal by-products

29.6a Various forms of death

An animal which has been strangled by a rope or suchlike or one that has been beaten with a stick or some other object or one that has fallen from a height or one that has been gored or one that has been attacked by a wild beast may not be slaughtered and eaten if the animal is going to die from the wounds it has received

"Suchlike" includes the spear and the stone. This is because such animals are carrion. If it is hoped that the animal will live, there is no dispute about sacrificing it. If there is no hope of life, Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) said via Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) that it is not sacrificed and not eaten. It is the position of the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi). The school of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi), which is transmitted from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi), is that it is sacrificed and eaten. It is the preferred position.
29.6b Carrion in dire need

There is no harm in eating carrion (mayta) if you are in dire need

From any living thing except human. If someone in ihram finds both game and carrion, he eats the carrion. If he finds carrion and pig, he eats the carrion. If he only finds pig, he eats it. It is recommended to him to slaughter it and its slaughter is by wounding. Shaikh at-Tata'i (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "The evident position is that he does not need to slaughter it because slaughter does not benefit that which forbidden to eat.

29.6c How long carrion can be eaten

you can eat from it until you are satisfied and take provision from it so long as you throw it away when the need for it no longer exists

This is when he fear lack of food in the future. It is permissible for the person compelled to eat carrion when he does not find any other food. If he is forced to take food belonging to other people, it is said that he confines himself to what is necessary for life without filling himself and taking provision, as Shaikh al-Mawwaq (rahmatullahi alaihi) stated. It is said that he eats his fill and does not take provision, as Shaikh al-Huttab (rahmatullahi alaihi) said. As he is permitted to eat carrion in necessity, he is also allowed to drink all that will repel thirst, like impure water and other impure liquids, like impure rose water except for wine. It s not lawful except to take a swallow. It is of no use in quenching thirst. Indeed, it increases thirst.

29.6d Skins of carrion

There is no harm in using the skin of a carrion animal if it has been tanned but you cannot pray on it nor can it be sold

By tanning its smell and moisture is removed. It is understood that it is a precondition that it is not used before it is tanned. It appears from his words that the tanning is used for the skins of all carrion as Shaikh Sahnun (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh ibn 'Abdu'l-Hakam (rahmatullahi alaihi) said. It is well-known that tanning is not used for pigskin. It is also apparent from his words that its purity is general to aquatic and other animals, and that it is the case with Shaikh Sahnun (rahmatullahi alaihi) and others. The well-known position is that its purity is confined to dry animals. Water alone is what clarifies aquatic animals. However the prayer is not performed on that in the well-known position. It is not sold according to one of two transmissions which is well-known in the School.
29.6e Skins of wild animals

There is no harm in doing the prayer on skins of wild animals or selling them if they have been killed correctly

This means it is permissible. This refers to every animal whose flesh is disliked and so it includes elephants, wolves, foxes, and hyenas provided that they are slaughtered. They can also be sold.

29.6f Wool and hair of carrion

You can use wool of a carrion animal or its hair or any other thing which could be taken from the animal when alive, but according to us it is better for it to be washed first

After shearing and it refers for general use in selling, praying on it, giving it as sadaqa and other things. If it is sold, the fact that it is from carrion should be made clear. It is clear that his words, "and its hair" includes the bristles of pigs. That is the case according to Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi), Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) and others. It is said that the hair of pigs and dogs are excluded and others say that all of pigs are impure except the hair. The Malikis recommend that wool and other things be washed if you are not certain that they are pure. If you are certain that something is pure, it is not recommended to wash it. If you are certain it is impure, it is obligatory to wash it.

29.6g Feathers, horns, teeth, hooves, tusks

You cannot use feathers from birds which are carrion or the horns, hooves and teeth of carrion animals. It is disliked to use elephant tusks although there is a difference of opinion about this.

This would appear to contradict his words "or what is taken from them when alive." He removes the specification by his words, "or pain them." It is clear that it is prohibition because life makes it allowed.

The dislike of the use of elephant tusks is found in the Mudawwana. But there is disagreement about it as about horn and antlers. There are four positions, and the well-known of them is that all of it is impure based. Shaikh ibn Wahb (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it is pure. What is confirmed is that elephant tusks are impure since it is carrion. The position of the Mudawwana is to dislike oils found in the tusks of elephants, combing with it, and trading in it because it is carrion. As for the tusks of elephants slaughtered, even as a camel, that is disliked, and the dislike is for encourage restraint.
29.6h Liquids in which a mouse dies

Any ghee, oil or liquid honey in which a mouse has died should be thrown away and not eaten although there is no harm in using such oil for lighting purposes provided it is not in a masjid, in which case it should be carefully avoided.

It is not sold. Similar to a mouse is any breathing creature. Liquids are thrown away and not eaten. However, it can be used for light in places like houses and shops. It is not used in masjids because it is impure and the masjid lamps are not lit by it since they are free from impurities.

29.6i If the substance is solid

If the substance is solid, then the mouse should be thrown away along with what is around it and the rest may be eaten, although Shaikh Sahnun (rahmatullahi alaihi) said this was the case only if it had not stayed in it a long time, otherwise all of it should be thrown away.

He can sell it although he must make that clear. There is no set amount which is thrown away. That is according to predominant opinion. If it is in it a long time, then the impurity may have spread throughout it.
29.6j Food of the People of the Book

There is no harm in the food of the people of the Book and their slaughtered animals

He means it is permissible. Allah azza wa jall says, "And the food of those given the Book is lawful to you." Most commentators say that what is meant is all slaughtered food is lawful, what is lawful of that and what is unlawful, like when the slaughtered animal has a bad lung. There must be permission to eat if the Kitabi is one of those who does not consider carrion lawful. If he considers it lawful, Shaikh al-Bakri (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that if is slaughtered in your presence and then it is permitted to eat it. If he is absent from it, it is not permitted.

29.6k Fat of animals slaughtered by Jews

However, it is disliked to eat the fat from animals slaughtered by Jews although it is not actually haram

i.e. what is forbidden them by their Shari’ah, like the fat of cows and sheep like the fine fat which covers the intestines. If it is said that the fat which are the Jews are forbidden by our Shari’ah is not unlawful, the answer is that it is a slaughtered part and what is slaughtered is lawful for him and he did not slaughter for other than what is lawful for him. Because it is prohibited for him it is disliked for us to eat it.

29.6 Animals slaughtered by Magians

It is not permissible to eat animals slaughtered by Magians although any of their food that does not involve slaughtering is not haram

This refers to idolater in general, whether an idolater slaughters for himself or for a Muslim unless he commands him to sacrifice and tells him, "Say, 'In the name of Allah' over it'. That can be eaten without disagreement.

Similarly one does not eat the sacrifice of the drunk or mad person, even if they carry out the slaughter, because of the absence of their intellect. Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "It is valid when done by the discriminating child, and the woman without necessity in the soundest position." It is permitted to eat unslaughtered food by agreement if he is certain of its purity. If he is certain of its impurity, it is unlawful to eat it. If he doubts it, he considers it impure.

29.7 Hunting

29.7a Hunting for sport is disliked
Hunting for mere pleasure is disliked but any other kind of hunting is permissible.

Hunting is obligatory if he can only provide for his family by it.

29.7b Prey killed by a trained dog or falcon

Any prey killed by your trained dog or falcon can be eaten if you sent it after it

It is not particular these two, but applies to all animals which can be trained to hunt and obey. It is not a precondition that falcons be restrained unless the prey is a bird. It is enough that it obey when released. It is not a precondition that it accept confinement after being released. It is a precondition for hunting animal that he actually train it, even if it is an animal which does not normally accept training, like a lion or tiger. It is a precondition that the prey be seen or in a confined space like a cave or thicket which he knows about or which has no other exit. Otherwise it is not eaten. It must be something whose flesh is eaten, even if it different than he thinks as when he thinks it is a rabbit and releases his dog and it is a gazelle. It is a precondition that the hunter make an intention and say the tasmiya when releasing the animal. If he neglects it intentionally, the game is not eaten but not if he forgot and he is Muslim. This is for land hunting. As for fishing, it is permitted for everyone who is sane. It is not valid from a mad person or drunk.

29.7c Prey killed out of sight

The same applies if your hunting animal kills any prey out of sight before you are able to slaughter it. If you reached the prey before it has been killed it can only be eaten if you slaughter it.

It must be slaughtered. If he does not neglect it, it is eaten, even if he does not carry out its killing since there must be bloodletting, even on the ear when the skin is thick.

29.7d Killing game with a spear or arrow

You can eat anything you kill with a spear or arrow but if you get the chance to slaughter it you should do so.

All that has a point, even if not iron, whether it is killed outright or dies of its wound. You can eat it because of your intention and basmala when you shot. It is desirable to slaughter it if you find it still alive.

29.7e Game that runs off
You can still eat an animal even if it runs off, provided you are sure that it is your arrow that has killed it as long as you reach it before nightfall. Some say that this refers only to prey that has been killed by trained hunting animals. If your arrow is found piercing a vital organ you can eat the animal.

It says in the Mudawwana that if the night passes and he finds it dead, he does not eat it, whether that is through a dog, falcon or arrow.

29.7f Domestic animals killed like game

You cannot eat a domestic animal which has been killed in the way game is killed.

This is clear, even if it is a stray and has joined wild animals. It is the same if the wild animal becomes tame. It is only eaten by sacrifice.

29.8 The 'Aqīqa

29.8a The 'Aqīqa is recommended

Sacrificing an animal for the birth of a child ('Aqīqa) is a recommended Sunnah. It should be done on the seventh day after the birth of the child, using a sheep similar in age and characteristics to what has been previously mentioned concerning sacrifices for the ‘Id. The day on which the child is born is not counted as one of the seven days. The animal should be sacrificed in the morning.

The word derives from the hair of the head of child because it is slaughtered when the hair is cut. It is also said that it is because its veins are cut. It is recommended, not stressed. The basis for its legality is what Imam Ahmad (rahmatullahi alaihi) related with an excellent isnad: the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Every child is in pawn for his 'Aqiqa." It is done for a boy or a girl provided the child lives to the seventh day. It should be a sheep or a goat without any defects which would prevent its sacrifice. The day he is born is not counted, unless he is born at Fajr, in which case it is counted. It should be done in the morning and it is disliked to do it from midday to sunset, and it is not allowed to be done at night or before sunrise.

29.8b The child is not smeared with blood

The child should not be smeared with any of the animal's blood.
To avoid the custom of the Jahiliyya which was to rub the head with the blood for luck so that he might be courageous and blood-shedding.

29.8c What is done with the meat

It can be eaten and given away as sadaqa and its bones can be broken

i.e. it is recommended for the people of his house and neighbors to eat from it. Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "Feeding people is the same as is done in sacrifices and there is no specific amount which is given to people. He eats what he wishes and gives as sadaqa what he wishes, although sadaqa is more fitting since it is said that there is no 'Aqiqa until all or some of it is given as sadaqa." The aim of the 'Aqiqa is sadaqa and sadaqa can be raw or cooked. It is recommended to break its bones as opposed to the Jahiliyya when they did not break its bones out of fear that it would affect the child.

29.8d Shaving the baby's head

If the baby's head is shaved and the weight of hair in gold or silver given away as sadaqa that is a good practice
Male or female. This is based on a hadith of 'Ali (radhi’Allahu anhu) in Shaikh at-Tirmidhi where the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) did an 'Aqiqa for al-Hasan (radhi’Allahu anhu) with a ram and said, "Fatima, shave his head and give sadaqa in silver according to the weight of the hair." It was weighed and it was a dirham or part of one. The fact that it is "good" means that it is recommended. It is recommended that it he be named on the seventh day if there is an 'Aqiqa, and if there is no 'Aqiqa, the child is named before that. It is recommended that something sweet go first to the stomach of the child because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did that for 'Abdullah ibn Abi Talha (radhi’Allahu anhu) using a date.

29.8e Rubbing the head with other than blood

If, instead of being rubbed with blood as was the custom before Islam, the baby's head is rubbed with a lotion consisting of perfume mixed with rose water, there is no harm in this

Based on what is related by Abu Dawud (rahmatullahi alaihi) from Burayda (radhi’Allahu anhu) the Companion. He said, "In the Jahiliyya when one of us had a son, he would sacrifice a sheep and rub the head with its blood. When Allah azza wa jall brought Islam, we used to sacrifice a sheep and shave his head and rub it with saffron."
29.9 Circumcision

29.9a Male circumcision

Circumcision is a confirmed Sunnah for males

It is mandatory. It is disliked to be circumcised on the day of birth or the seventh day because it is the practice of the Jews. Circumcision should be performed before the time when he is commanded to pray – from seven years to ten. There is disagreement about whether or not to circumcise an adult who becomes Muslim and fears for himself. Shaikh Sahnun (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that circumcision is obliged for him, saying, "If it is mandatory to cut off the hands of thieves, is it left for fear of himself?" Someone who foregoes circumcision without excuse is not allowed to be Imam or to give testimony.

29.9b Female circumcision and female circumcision (khifad) is praiseworthy (makruma)

To remove what the woman has of excess. It is recommended according to Shaikh at-Tata'i (rahmatullahi alaihi). It is worthy because it brightens the complexion and makes intercourse pleasurable.

Chapter 30: On Jihad

30.1 Its meaning

Linguistically jihad is derived from jahd, which, according to al-Misbah, is effort in what someone does, or juhd which is ability. It is a technical term for the Muslim fighting the unbelievers who have no treaty with the intention of elevating the word of Allah azza wa jall or presenting Islam.

Jihad has obligations which must be met. They are:

Obeying the ruler and so when he recommends going in a particular direction to fight, it is binding to go there.

Ghulul (misappropriation) must be abandoned: it means to take from the booty before it is divided.
He must honor a safe-conduct pledge, and so when an unbeliever is granted safe-conduct, he must abide by it and he is not permitted after that to deem it lawful to kill him.

One must not flee when the odds are two to one: which means standing firm in the fray.

Jihad has two categories; individual obligation and general obligation. When it becomes a specific duty to do it and it cannot be opposed, whether if the person is one of those who are responsible for the obligation of jihad or not, like the slave and child who cannot fight and women, as when the enemy arrives suddenly in the place and only these people are available, then it is an individual obligation for them.

30.2 How and when it is obligatory

30.2a An obligation

Jihad is an obligation which can be taken on by some of the people on behalf of others

By the words of the Almighty: "Those believers who stay behind – other than those forced by necessity – are not the same as those who do jihad in the way of Allah." (Holy Qur’an 4:95) Allah azza wa jall has promised both good, i.e. the best reward which is the Garden. There is mutawatir Sunnah that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) sent some people rather than others.

30.2b Inviting people to Islam first

And it is preferable, according to us, that the enemy are not fought until they have been invited to the din of Allah azza wa jall except if they attack first.

The Malikis prefer that each group be called upon to abandon their disbelief and be called to the shahadah whose contents are not prescribed. He calls to the general message of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) for three days in succession unless they attack first. Then the call is not recommended. Indeed, it becomes obligatory to fight them.

30.2c Offering a choice between Islam and jizya

They can either accept Islam or pay the jizya (tax on non-Muslims); if not they are to be fought.

His apparent words mean that they are given a choice between the two at the same time. If they accept one, they are left. Otherwise they are fought. Al-Jawhar describes the call as Islam being offered to them. If they answer, they are left. If they refuse, then jizya is offered to them, If they refuse, they are fought. All of that is when there is a delay and there is time. If they attack before the call, preventing our call, they are fought because then the call is unlawful.

30.2d Where jizya is acceptable

Jizya is only acceptable in places where they are subject to our law. If they are a long way from our jurisdiction jizya can only be accepted from them if they move to our territory. If they do not do this they are to be fought

Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) said that this precondition is about the people of force. As for the people of truce, it is not a precondition for them. Jizya is accepted from them where they are because they restrained themselves until they paid peace for themselves and their lands.

30.2e Fleeing from the enemy not allowed

Fleeing from the enemy is a major wrong action when their number is twice that of the Muslims or less

This is when the unbelievers are twice that of the Muslims in strength or stronger, or the business is not known. It is the well-known position when they are considered weak according to the number, not the force, as opposed to Shaikh ibn al-Majishun (rahmatullahi alaihi). He says that they must be established as more than twice the number if they are superior to the unbelievers in weapons and stronger in strength and resolve. The prohibition against flight is when he flees and does not intend to return. If he does that as a trick or to join another group so that the enemy sees the retreat and follows him and he returns or he rejoins the amir or the group of the Muslims to help them, then it is not unlawful.

30.2f When flight is allowed

If there are more than that there is no wrong in doing so

If there are more than twice the number of Muslims, there is no harm in flight. Such it would appear, even if the Muslims number as many as 12,000, which is in an-Nawadir from Shaikh Sahnun (rahmatullahi alaihi). Shaikh ibn Rushd (rahmatullahi alaihi) related from a group of the people of knowledge and he thinks that when the Muslims reach 12,000, they are not permitted to flee, even if the unbelievers are more than twice their number.

30.2g Fighting under any commander

The enemy are to be fought whether the commander of the Muslims is right-acting or not
It is obligatory for those for whom jihad is obligatory to fight the enemy. The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Allah azza wa jall will support his din by the impious man." Perhaps if he does not fight with him, there might be harm for the Muslims.

30.2h Killing prisoners

There is no harm in killing an enemy prisoner but you may not kill anyone after a pledge of security has been given, nor may you break a treaty

When there is benefit in killing him. After security is given by the Imam or someone else in the well-known position, contrary to the one who says that security given by other than the Imam is dependent on the view of the Imam. The basis of the well-known position is the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) about a banner being set up for the treacherous on the Day of Rising, when it will be said, "This is the betrayal of so-and-so." It means that he will be known as treacherous on the Day of Rising so that the people there will censure him. Nor is a treaty to be broken.

30.2i Not killing women and children

Nor may you kill women and children
Since that prohibition is sound from the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam). Similarly jizya is not imposed on them. The Imam can give them choice between three: enslavement, freedom and ransom.

30.2j Monks and priests and women who fight

Killing monks and priests should be avoided unless they are involved in the fighting. Similarly, women who fight can also be killed

The prohibition against killing monks is not by virtue of their monasticism, because they are further from Allah azza wa jall because of the strength of their disbelief. They are left since the people of their din leave them and so they are like women. Priests (rabbis) are left unless they actually fight. It is said that this refers to women and children as well. Women can be killed if they are involved in the actual fighting. Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi'Allahu anhu) limits this to the state of fighting. When fighting is over, women are not killed. The predominant opinion is that when women fight with weapons, they can be killed during the fighting or afterwards, even if they did not fight anyone. According to the Mukhtasar, monks and nuns retain their freedom, and it is forbidden either to kill them or to reduce them to slavery.
30.2k pledge of security

A pledge of security given by the least of the Muslims is binding on the rest of them

This security is granted to specific people, i.e. specific unbelievers. The people of a region or town are not granted security except by the ruler. If someone else makes such a contract, the ruler can break it if he wishes. We read in al-Jawahir, "The precondition of the security is that there is no harm in it for the Muslims. If someone grants security to a spy or scout or one who contains harm, it is not binding."

30.2l Women and children giving security

This also applies when women do this, and also children provided they are able to understand what is involved. It is also said that this is only acceptable if the man in charge says it is acceptable i.e. if the child knows that it is unlawful to violate security, then he is obliged to observe it.

30.3 Booty

30.3a The fifth
When the Muslims gain booty by having fought and won it, their leader takes one fifth and divides the remaining four-fifths between those doing the fighting. It is better for this dividing up to take place where the battle was fought.

He divides the fifth as he thinks best. He can put it in the treasury or spend it on the welfare of the Muslims by buying weapons or other things beneficial for the Muslims. If he likes, he can give it to the family of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) or others or give part of it to them and the rest to others. This is when they take booty other than land: horses, linen, slaves, money and grain. Land is not divided in fifths or allotted. It is entailed and its land-tax is spent on the best interests of the Muslims. After the fifth is taken, the rest of the booty is divided in that place where the fighting took place since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did that because it is a punishment for the enemy.

30.3b Which booty is divided

Only booty that has been fought for using horses and camels or taken after combat is to be divided up in this way.
As for what is taken without combat or force, like that which is taken from the one who people have left when they hear that the Muslim army has advanced against them, there is no fifth nor division. It is at the discretion of the Imam as he can dispose of the fifth of the booty wherever he wishes.

30.3c Use of food or fodder

If part of the spoils consist of food or fodder, there is no harm in any who need it taking some before the division takes place.

This means it is permitted with or without the permission of the leader. What is meant by food is what can be eaten: meat or other things. The basis for what he said is found in the Sahih in the words of Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi'Allahu anhu), "We used to get honey and grapes in our raids and we ate them and did not present them to the commander. The four-fifths of the booty is divided between the army according to the preconditions in the Shari'ah.

30.4 Distribution of shares

30.4a Those actively involved in jihad
A share of the booty is only given to those who take part in the fighting or who are prevented from doing so by being occupied with the jihad in some other way.

An active presence is meant, whether fighting or being present to face the enemy. When the rows are formed and fighting has not begun, there is no share for someone who dies then, but there is a share for the one who dies after the fighting stops. Also those who are prevented by things like scouting or bringing equipment or the like receive a share. There is a share for the one who gets lost from the army in enemy territory.

30.4b If someone is ill

Anyone who falls sick is given a share as is any horse that falls sick.

If he becomes ill after or during the fighting, i.e. he is present healthy at the beginning of it and then becomes ill and continues to fight while ill. If he becomes ill before being present at the fighting, whether his illness began in enemy territory or Muslim territory, he has no share. If the horse goes lame after fighting or during it, it has a share. Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) said, "It has no precondition, and that is the same if it becomes ill by for some other reason."
30.4c The share of the horse

A horse gets two shares

This is the horse and not the camel, mule and ass which have no share. It is limited to one since he spends more for its provision and has no share.

30.4d The share of the rider and a rider gets one share

There is allowance of what is not ridden. The rider is said to the rider of camels. As for the rider of horses, he is called a horseman. The basis in what is mentioned is that it is sound that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) gave the horse two shares and the rider one share.

30.4e Slaves, women and children

Slaves do not get a share nor do women nor do children, unless the children are really able to fight, have been given permission by the Imam, and do actually participate in the fighting in which they are given a share.
Freedom is a precondition to receive it, and so the slave, whether he fights or not, does not get a share. He must be male, so the woman does not get a share, whether she fights or not. He must be an adult, so the child does not get a share except with three preconditions: that child who has not reached puberty is able to fight, has the permission of the Imam and actual participated. Shaikh Bahram (rahmatullahi alaihi) transmits from the Mudawwana that it is explicitly stated as well-known that he has no share, whether he fights or not. The literal meaning of the hadith indicates lack of shares. The hadith quoted by Shaikh ibn Wahb (rahmatullahi alaihi) related that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did not give a share to slaves, women or children.

30.4f Servants

A hired servant is not given a share unless he actually fights

He must go out with the intention of jihad, especially the one whose uses are owned, like the hired servant, and like the general hireling in the lack of the share. Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) makes a distinction about those who actual fight.

Three preconditions remain: sanity, Islam, and health. The madman has no share by agreement. The Dhimmi has no share by disagreement if he does not fight or does fight in the well-known position.

30.4g When the enemy becomes Muslim and has Muslim property in his possession

If anyone from the enemy becomes a Muslim and has in his possession property previously belonging to the Muslims, that property remains in his possession. If anyone buys any of it from him it becomes theirs and the original owner can only get it back by paying the correct price for it.

Shaikh ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi) said it is clear from his words that if he becomes Muslim with free Muslims in his possession, they are taken from him, and it is the well-known position. According to him he is not recompensed for this. If a Muslim buys something in the abode of war, be it the property of Muslims or that of the dhimmis, it belongs to him, and the owner can only get it back by paying the price which he paid for it if it is lawful to own. If it is something unlawful to own like wine and pigs, its owner takes it without buying it.

30.4h Rights of the original owner
If property of this kind is divided up as part of the booty, the original owner of a particular piece of property has the first right to it provided he pays the correct price for it.

This is if he finds it with someone who bought it from the booty. If he finds in the share of someone or who is ignorant of the price, he only takes it for the price connected the right of the other to it.

30.4i Claiming it before division

If the division has not yet been made he can reclaim his property without having to pay anything for it.

He means when the Muslim or the Dhimmi finds his goods in the booty before the division has taken place and has clear evidence of ownership, he takes it without paying anything, but only after taking a legal oath that he did not sell it, give it away, nor was it removed from his property by legal means. Thus it is still be his property.

30.4j No one receives more than his basic share

No one is permitted to receive more than their allotted share unless it is given by the leader at his discretion from the fifth apportioned to him and this cannot be done before the basic division is made.
This is based on what Shaikh ibn Wahb (rahmatullahi alaihi) related about the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) allotting extra from the fifth at the Battle of Hunayn. This extra is only allotted after the division. On this basis, allotting it before the division is only conceivable by a promise. For instance he says, "Whoever has killed someone has whatever is taken from the corpse." These words can imply prohibition or dislike, i.e. the Imam or general of the army is prohibited from saying this before having power over the enemy because that might lead to the invalidation of their intentions because some of them expose themselves to death for the sake of the goods of this world, and then he would fight for the reward. After the fighting, that does not need to be guarded against.

30.4k Arms, clothing and personal effects of the enemy

The arms, clothing and personal effects of enemy soldiers killed in the battle is treated as part of the fifth that can be given away at the leader's discretion

The Imam only gives them from the fifth according to his discretion. Pickings are what are found with the dead person: clothes, weapons and similar equipment rather the dead idolaters have of bracelets and crowns. It is like that with money. These things are not part of pickings in the well-known school, i.e. as opposed to Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) who includes the bracelets, crowns and money in the pickings.

30.5 Forts (Ribat)

30.5a Their excellence

Guarding a frontier post is an action of great excellence, which increases in virtue

Linguistically ribat means to reside, and in the Shari’ah it means to reside at the frontiers in order to defend them. It includes money and other things, the Dhimmi and the Muslim. Guarding other things is a consequence of guarding the frontiers. The frontier is the place where there is a possible defensive weakness.

It is related that ribat is better than jihad based on what is in the Sahih where the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Ribat one day in the way of Allah azza wa jall is better than this world and what is in it." It is better because the bliss of the Next World remains and does not run out, and also because ribat is in order to preserve the blood of the Muslims, and preserving their blood is better than shedding the blood of the idolaters.

30.5b The amount of danger according to the amount of danger experienced by the people manning that post and the amount of caution they have to take

This excellence varies. It according to the number of the enemy, fear and caution. Fear increases caution.

30.6 Raids

30.6a Permission of parents

You cannot go on jihad without the permission of your parents

If they are both Muslims according to Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) and with Shaikh Sahnun (rahmatullahi alaihi) in general whether they are Muslims or unbelievers.

30.6b A surprise attack

unless the enemy makes a surprise attack, raining your town, in which case it is obligatory for you to put up a defense. In such case parents' permission is not required.

If there is a sudden attack on the people of a certain town, then the people of the town have to defend it. It is obligatory for the one with a father or without, slave or free. In this slaves have shares because they are called on to perform jihad because when we denied them a share, it was because it was not their responsibility. It is now is their responsibility as mentioned in at-Tahqiq. He mentioned that it is obligatory for those near them to help them. The author (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that he does not ask for his parents' permission in such a case, since it has become an individual obligation like hajj, the prayer and individual seeking knowledge because he is obliged to obey them in abandoning permissible and supererogatory things, not specific obligations.

Chapter 31: On Oaths and Vows

This deals with what is permitted in oaths and vows and what is not permitted or binding. It means with kaffarah (expiation) of the oath and swearing. The yamin (oath, right hand) is real in the limb and metaphorical in other contexts. It is said that the yamin is the limb and the oath is called yamin because when they made oaths, one of them strike the other persons right hand with his right hand. So it was called an oath.

31.1 The form of an oath
31.1a Oaths are by Allah azza wa jall

Anyone who swears an oath should do so by Allah azza wa jall

He should swear by the name of Allah azza wa jall, not by the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) or anything else which is esteemed in the Shari’ah or one of His attributes, like Oneness, timelessness and existence.

31.1b Not making an oath

or keep quiet

He should keep quiet unless he makes a proper oath since he is not swearing by Allah azza wa jall. He is forbidden to swear by other than Allah azza wa jall since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Allah azza wa jall forbade you to swear by your fathers. Whoever takes an oath, should swear by Allah azza wa jall or be silent." So he commands the silence for what is other than oath by Allah azza wa jall.

31.1c Oaths involving divorce or emancipation
Anyone who swears an oath to divorce a wife or free a slave is to be punished for doing so although he still has to hold to his oath

This is when he is adult and has knowledge and deliberately makes such an oath. That impairs his testimony, It is clear from his words that he is punished, whether he breaks the oath or not. According to Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) the punishment is not defined but is up to what the ruler thinks best: beating, cursing, or the like, which can vary with different people. In addition to punishing someone who makes such an oath, he is obliged to carry out the oath he made about divorce or freeing when he breaks the oath. If he unsure whether he broke it or suspects it or thinks it probable, he has broken it in the well-known position. If he doubts whether he said, "You are divorced" or not or is unsure about whether he made an oath and broke it or did not make an oath and did not break it, he does nothing.

31.1d "If Allah wills" is not said in the oath

No one should make an oath containing the safety clause, if Allah wills

This is not done.
31.1e No kaffarah for oaths in which Allah is not mentioned

There is no kaffarah (expiation) except for an oath made using the name Allah or one of His other names or attributes

Kaffarah is pointless otherwise. It is also done if he uses a name, like the Almighty or the Creator, or one of His essential Attributes, like knowledge, power, will, hearing, seeing, and speech and life. As for actions like provision, an oath is not made by them. The literal meaning of his words is that "Allah willing" has no force when connected to divorce, as when he says, "If I enter the house, you are divorced, Allah willing." Shaikh ibn al-Majishun (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that if he means an action, like entering the house, it has force. The position of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) is that it does not apply, even if he means the action. When he enters the house, then the divorce occurs. It is that which is believed by Shaikh Khalil (rahmatullahi alaihi), and is the well-known position.

31.1f Saying it at the same time as the oath

If someone does use a safety clause he does not have to do kaffarah as long as he intends the provision and says
'Insha'Allah' at the same time as he makes his oath. If this is not the case such a provision bears no weight.

When he swears by Allah azza wa jall or one of His attributes, he does not have to do kaffarah with three preconditions.

He must have meant the provision, i.e. intended to dissolve the oath without any difference in the aim is that it was before the oath, during it or after he finishes, then it applies as Shaikh at-Tata’i (rahmatullahi alaihi) states. If he does it without intention, as out of forgetfulness or for blessing, it does not dissolve the oath.

He must say "Allah willing"; the intention alone is not enough.

It must be connected to the oath before it. So if he is silent more than enough necessary for a breath or sneezes. If he is forced to stop, there is no harm.

31.2 Kinds of oaths

There are four kinds of oaths which can be sworn by Allah azza wa jall.

31.2a Oaths for which there is kaffarah
You do kaffarah for two of these; namely, if you swear by Allah azza wa jall, "If I do such-and-such a thing, I will do such-and-such a thing", or if you swear by Allah azza wa jall, "I will do such-and-such a thing"

One of the two is that the oath in the promise to perform a good deed. The first is when he swears that he will do something or not do something, and then if he fails to do, he has broken it.

31.2b Oaths for which there is no kaffarah

The two kinds you do not do kaffarah for are firstly when you make an oath about something, thinking at the time it is true and later realizing that it isn't. In this case you do not do kaffarah, nor is there any wrong action involved

The first category is when you think that it is true. This does not mean that you think it is probable. What is meant is feeling certain, not it being unequivocal according to the evidence, but then later the opposite becomes clear. This is what he believes to be true. Belief is strong assumption. If it is not strong, then there in lack of clarity or even doubt. He owes no kaffarah and there is no sin involved since Allah azza wa jall says, "Allah will not take you to task for inadvertent statements in your oaths, but He will take you to task for oaths you make intentionally." (5:89) We read in the Mudawwana, "There is no inadvertency except in the oath by Allah azza wa jall or a vow which cannot be avoided, ' i.e. the unclear vow, as when he says, "If I do this, then I have a vow" and the inadvertent has no effect in divorce, setting free or an unclear vow.

31.2c Oaths for which there is no kaffarah

The other kind is if you swear an oath about something knowing it to be untrue or having doubt about it. In this case there is a wrong action involved but no kaffarah

A doubtful oath is one, for instance, where you swear that you met someone the previous day but you did not meet him or are unsure about it. Doubt is weak supposition. So he swears to a lie or is unsure, and so he definitely sins, even if what he swears is true. But there is no kaffarah if it is connected to the past. If it is connected to the present or future, there is kaffarah. It is like that when the inadvertent oath is connected to the future. If it is connected to the past, there is no kaffarah.

31.2d Repentance in any case

You must, however, do tauba to Allah azza wa jall, on account of it
Because it is one of the major wrong actions and you should draw near to Him with what you can do of freeing slaves, sadaqa and fasting.

31.3 Kaffarah

Kaffarah for oaths consists of

There are four types of expiation. There is choice between three forms feeding, clothing or freeing, and fourth follows the lack of ability to do either of the three: it is fasting. The best of the them is feeding which is why he began with it.

31.3a Types

31.3a1 Feeding

feeding ten needy people, who are Muslim and free, giving one mudd to each measuring by the mudd of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), but according to us it is better to increase that by a third or a half

From this is clear that feeding has five preconditions

Number (ten) and so it is not allowed to give it to more or less, nor to one several times. When he gives five people two mudds each, he gives to five and completes it with another five people. He can give a larger amount provided that it remains in the possession of the poor and he does not destroy it. The time of paying it must be made clear that it is kaffarah. If he feeds twenty people half a mudd, that is not allowed.

That they are poor, If he gives it to rich people knowingly, that is not allowed.
That they are Muslims. If he gives it to the poor of the dhimmis, it is not allowed, as is the case with zakat.

That they are free. If he gives it to a slave, that is not allowed.
That what is given of the mudd to each poor person is by the mudd of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) and it not allowed with anything else.

Two things can take the place of the mudd: two ratls of bread with seasonings of oil or yogurt, or meat. As for feeding them lunch and dinner, or two lunches or two dinners, and to have lunch or supper, that is not enough, even if it reaches a mudd. We think it better to increase give more than a mudd.

You add a third or a half according to what the prevailing standard of living is and whether the price of staples at the time is high or low. However if you only give one mudd regardless of these considerations, you have fulfilled the obligation.

This is based on the medium standard of life and the type of grain usually eaten, no matter what the price. Any a mudd in any land and in every time without adding to it satisfies it because it is the obligation.

31.3a2 Clothing

If you give clothing you should give a man a robe and a woman a robe and a head-covering

If he chooses clothing, then he clothes ten poor people. There is no difference between the child and the adult in giving the clothing and support. It is not a precondition that the clothing be from the middle of its people because Allah made that a precondition in food but not clothing.

31.3a3 Freeing

Kaffarah can also be done by freeing a believing slave

They stipulate preconditions in it. One is that the slave is a believer, and so an unbeliever is not adequate. The second is that the slave is free of faults which would impair him, like blindness, senility. As for that which does impair, it is allowed. The third is that it is someone who has firm ownership after buying, and not a conditional purchase. The fourth is he has full ownership, and is not shared, The fifth is that there is no contract to purchase freedom.

31.3a4 Fasting

but if you cannot do this or feed people, then you should fast three consecutive days although if you do them separately, you have still fulfilled the obligation

If all three are impossible, then there is fourth course which he indicates. It is recommended to fast for three consecutive days because it is hurrying to discharge responsibility. If the three are separate, then it is still correct, but there must be an intention made each night.

31.3b When kaffarah is obliged

You can do kaffarah either before or after failing to fulfill a vow, although doing it afterwards is preferable according to us

This appears to be generally applicable, whether the oath is for an act of piety or on account of failing to do something, like kaffarah for the fast or something else, but it is preferable to expiate it afterwards.

31.4 Vows

31.4a Which vows must be fulfilled

Anyone who makes a vow involving obedience to Allah azza wa jall must fulfill it whereas anyone who makes a vow involving disobedience to Allah azza wa jall must not fulfill it and no reparation is necessary

Linguistically Nadhr means making something binding, and in the Shari’ah it is to oblige oneself to do something which is an act which brings one near Allah azza wa jall. There are two categories: a vow involving obedience which must fulfilled, and a vow involving disobedience which must not be fulfilled. When it is not obligatory to fulfill it, according to Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi) there is kaffarah for it, but that is not the position of the majority, as he stated here.

31.4b Vows made respecting other people's property

Anyone who makes a vow to give sadaqa with someone else's money or to free a slave belonging to someone else is not under obligation to fulfill it
He owes no sadaqa or freeing in that which has no precondition. If it is connected to a precondition, then he must do it when the precondition exists according to the famous position, like, "I would free so-and-so if I owned him."

31.4c Fulfilling the vow

Anyone who makes a vow that if he does a particular thing, he will do a specific good action, such as praying or fasting or going on hajj or 'umra, or giving away something specific as sadaqa, must do what he said he was going to do even if he fails to fulfill his vow straight away.

Whether it is obligatory or forbidden, and so he binds himself to do what he vowed what he stipulated. This is when he mentions a specific thing with his tongue or in his heart and it is a pious action. The unlawful and permissible are excluded and so a vow which does not involve a good action would not be binding. So in the case of sadaqa, he may name an amount or simply make an intention connected to worship and ability. That is then binding. He must carry it out, even if he did not intend an amount. If it is prayer, then it is the least of that to which the name prayer applies, which is two rak'ats. In the case of fasting, when it is not specified, it is the minimum which can be fasting is applied, which is a day. If he says, "If I speak to so-and-so, then I must walk to Makka," then it is obliged for him to walk on hajj or 'umra. As for sadaqa, if he does not name anything, he must give a third of his property. If he names, then the literal meaning of his words is binding, even if it is all his property. Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi'Allahu anhu) said. "If he mentions his house and it is all that he has, then he must do that.

31.4d When the vow is not accompanied by an oath

This is the case even if his vow is not backed up by an oath

It is binding.

31.4e An unspecified vow

If anyone makes a vow without specifying a particular good action to be done if he fails to fulfill it, and then does fail to fulfill it, should atone for it by doing the kaffarah for oaths

If he does not name anything specific in his vow so that it can be achieved, as when he says, "By Allah, I have made a vow" without saying whether it is prayer, fasting, hajj or the like, he owes kaffarah for an oath in the School.

31.5 Oaths and vows to do wrong
31.5a There is no reparation for a vow to do a wrong action

Anyone who makes a vow to do a wrong action such as killing someone or drinking wine or something similar, or to do something which is neither a good action nor a wrong action, does not have to make any reparation for failing to fulfill it, but should seek forgiveness from Allah azza wa jall

Or something permissible or disliked. He does not have to do kaffarah.

31.5b Kaffarah for such oaths

If anyone swears by Allah azza wa jall to do a wrong action he should do the kaffarah for oaths and not do the thing he swore to do. However, if he is so bold as to do the thing he swore to do he has committed the wrong action but does not have to do the kaffarah for breaking his oath

If he swears by the name of Allah azza wa jall or one of His attributes, then he should do kaffarah. If he does not action without concern for its consequences, then he does not have to perform kaffarah.
31.6 Kaffarah for various oaths and vows

31.6a When there is a double kaffarah

Anyone who says in his oath "By the pact of Allah and His covenant" and then fails to fulfill it has to do a double kaffarah

Because the covenant is an oath and the pact is an oath. If he combines them, he swears two oaths. What he mentions differs from the famous position which is found in at-Tawdih that the kaffarah is not repeated when the oath-taker intended to stress the oath or it was unintentional.

31.6b A single kaffarah

However, anyone who emphasizes his oath about one specific thing by repeating it only would have to do a single kaffarah

Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) said when the oath is repeated on the same thing, it is not a new oath, if the aim is repetition, i.e. there is not another kaffarah. Shaikh ibn 'Abdu'l-Salam (rahmatullahi alaihi) said he means that when he swears to someone by one of the Names or Attributes of Allah and then repeats the oath by that specific Name or Attribute connected to that specific thing. If he intends a second oath to stress the first or does not have an intention, he does not have to do the kaffarah again. If he intended multiple kaffarah, then it is agreed that it is multiple. If he intends to formulate and is not alluding to a multiple kaffarah, then the famous position is that it is not multiple. It is understood that it as about one thing. If, for instance, he repeats it about two things, he owes the kaffarah of an oath for each, as when he says, "By Allah, I will not speak to so-and-so, and by Allah, I will not eat from this food, and by Allah,
I will not wear this garment."

31.6c Oaths for which there is no kaffarah

Anyone who says, "I am a mushrik," or that he is a Jew or a Christian if he does such-and-such, does not have to make any reparation and nothing is binding on him except that he must seek Allah azza wa jall’s forgiveness

I seek refuge with Allah - or any similar sort of expression. He owes no kaffarah because it was not by any of the Names of Allah or His Attributes and so does not entail a binding oath. He must only repent and no shahadah is demanded of him. Of course, asking forgiveness is an act of devotion to Allah azza wa jall, like emancipation, sadaqa and fasting.

31.6d No kaffarah for making something lawful unlawful and anyone who makes something haram for himself which Allah azza wa jall has made halal does not have to do kaffarah

In the form of food or drink. He owes no kaffarah but must ask forgiveness for that sin because it is Allah azza wa jall who makes things lawful and unlawful and he has criticized Allah by doing that by the words of the Almighty, "Say: 'What do you think about the things Allah has sent down to you as provision which you have then designated as lawful and unlawful?' Say: 'Has Allah given you authority to do this or are you inventing lies against Allah?'" (Holy Qur’an 10:59) There are two exceptions to that.

31.6e An exception: divorce

except in the case of his wife who then does become haram for him until after she has been through another marriage

This is when someone says that his wife is haram for him. This is because making her haram amounts to a treble divorce and so she is not lawful for him until she has been through another marriage which has been consummated. If it has not been consummated, then a treble divorce must have occurred in it unless he intended the minimum. The second case is when he makes his slavegirl unlawful and intends to free her. By that she becomes unlawful to him.

31.6f A vow to give away all of one's property

If you make an oath or vow to give your wealth away as sadaqa or as a free gift [to the House of Allah] giving away a third is sufficient to fulfill the oath

Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) said that if that that is the case in an oath or vow and also when he does not name something specific. If he names it, it is binding on him, even if it is all of his property. This is also the case when he gives it to a specific person like Zayd or the Banu Zayd: all of that is binding when he makes the oath unless he would be reduced and then he is left what a bankrupt is left.

31.6g A vow to sacrifice one's son

If you make an oath to sacrifice your son, then if you remember what happened with Prophet Ibrahim (alaihi salam) you should sacrifice an animal which should be slaughtered in Makka and the minimal sacrifice for this is a sheep. If, however, the example of Prophet Ibrahim (alaihi salam) does not enter your thoughts there is no need for you to make any reparation
As when you say, "If I do not do such-and-such, I will sacrifice my son," and then recall the story of the Prophet Ibrahim (alaihi salam) and his son, then you sacrifice an animal, a camel, cow or sheep, in Makka or at Mina if you stop at 'Arafat. It is said to be recommended or obligatory, which is the more likely. The minimum is a sheep which is disliked if a larger animal is possible. It can be male or female. If you do not remember the story at all, then there is no sacrifice or kaffarah, but you should ask Allah azza wa jall's forgiveness.

31.7 An oath to walk to Makka

31.7a Such an oath is binding

If you make an oath to walk to Makka and fail to do so it is still binding on you to walk from the place where you made the oath and it is up to you whether you go for hajj or 'umra

As when you say, "If I do a certain thing, I will walk to Makka." If you do that thing, then you must walk from the land in which you made the oath, not from the place in which you resides, unless you specified a place. You have a choice about whether it is in hajj or 'umra when you did not intend either. That is the famous position: there is a choice when there is no intention. The end of achieving the oath in 'umra is after finishing sa'y. In the hajj it is after finishing the Tawaf al-Ifada.

31.7b When riding becomes impossible

If it becomes impossible for you to walk at any point you should ride. But if you later become able to walk you should walk that part of the journey where you rode. If you are certain you will not be able to fulfill the oath you stay where you are and make a sacrifice. What 'Ata' (rahmatullahi alaihi) said about this is that you should not go over any part of your journey a second time and that you can sacrifice instead.

This oath is dependent on ability. If you become able to walk, then you ride and later you can return and walk. If you know that he cannot, you make a sacrifice - preferably a camel, or a cow, or a sheep. If you do not know what you walked and what you rode, you walk the whole way. If you know that you will not be able to walk, you sacrifice and do not have to return again. 'Ata' ibn Abi Rabah (rahmatullahi alaihi), one of the mujtahids, said that you do not have to return again and the sacrifice takes care of it. This is part of the disagreement in the Maliki School in which there is choice.
31.7c When someone who has not performed hajj makes this vow

If you have not yet gone on hajj [and it was not part of your intention when you made the oath to walk to Makka to do so] you must do an 'umra first and when you have finished your tawaf and sa'y and shorten your hair, you may then go into ihram from Makka for the fard of hajj as a mutamatti'. In any other case you should shave your head but in this instance it is recommended to merely shorten the hair in order to retain an unkempt appearance during the hajj.

If you not have not yet performed hajj when you make an oath to walk to Makka, then it is mandatory that the walking be in 'umra, based on what the Mukhtasar states, when there is no intention. When you have an intention, you walk as you intended. It is recommended that after the tawaf, sa'y and shortening your hair, you then assume ihram from the masjid according to the Mudawwana or at its door according to Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi). Then you make the intention for the hajj of Islam, and you add 'umra to hajj if it is in the months of hajj. He should shorten only shorten and not shave his hair in this case.

31.7d An oath to walk to Madina or Jerusalem
If you make an oath to walk to Madina or to Jerusalem it is all right to ride to them if your original intention was to do the prayer in either of the two masjids. If you meant something else you do not have to fulfill you oath at all. You can walk to them in the well-known position. Shaikh ibn Wahb (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that you must walk to them while Shaikh al-Lakhmi (rahmatullahi alaihi), Shaikh al-Maziri (rahmatullahi alaihi) and others recommended that because it is an act of piety which should be fulfilled. You are obliged to go to them only if you intend an obligatory prayer - although some say a voluntary prayer and retreat in their masjids. If you do not intend to pray, you owe nothing because walking itself is not worship.

31.7e An oath to walk to any other masjid

If you make an oath to pray in any masjid other than one of these three, you should not go either walking or riding, but you should do that prayer in the place where you are.

Whether it is near or far based on what is reported in Muslim where the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Animals are only saddled for three masjids: my masjid, the Masjid al-Haram, and the Masjid al-Aqsa."

31.8 A vow to man the frontier
If you make an oath to man a post in any place on the frontiers of Islam you have to do it

Even if he is one of the people of Makka and Madina. That vow should be fulfilled because manning the frontier is an act of devotion to Allah azza wa jall and if you vow an act of devotion, you must fulfill your vow.

Chapter 32: On marriage, divorce, remarriage, 'Dhihar'-repudiation, vows of celibacy within marriage, mutual cursing (li'an), 'Khul'- 'divorce, and suckling

These are eight things. The first, marriage, is the root and rest are consequences. Each has a linguistic meaning and usage which we will mention in its proper place. Marriage (nikah) linguistically means intercourse and is used as a metaphor for the contract. In technical usage, it is actual for the contract and metaphorical for intercourse. It is used in custom to mean intercourse as the Almighty says, "Until she marries a husband other than him," (Holy Qur’an 2:230) and so it is known from this that nakaha is used for intercourse between any man and woman. Marriage in the sense of intercourse is only permitted in the Shari’ah by one of two matters: the contract of marriage or ownership by the words of the Almighty, "those who guard their private parts – except from their wives or those they own as slaves, in which case they are not blameworthy." (Holy Qur’an 23:5-6)

Marriage has four pillars: the wali, the place, the form and the obligatory dower.

32.1 Obligatory elements for the validity of marriage

32.1a A guardian

Marriage is not valid without a guardian [wali]

There is no marriage contract except with a guardian. As Shaikh ibn 'Arafa (rahmatullahi alaihi) says, the guardian is either her owner (in the case of a slave), or her father or male relative, or an agent or guardian, or the authority (the ruler) or someone who is Muslim.

Preconditions for that are being Muslim, free, adult, sane and male. Integrity is not a precondition for the validity of the contract.
in the famous position, but part of its perfection, nor is common sense. So the fool can make a contract for his daughter with the permissible of his guardian according to Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi). This is a precondition of validity and the contract is not valid without a guardian by the statement of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), "A woman does not give herself or another woman in marriage. The woman who gives herself in marriage is guilty of fornication." [as Daraqutni (radhi’Allahu anhu) who said that it is sahih and hasan.] If it occurs without a guardian, then the marriage is null and void both before and after consummation, even if she gives birth to several children. There are two transmission about whether the nullification is a divorce or not.

32.1b A dowry

The dowry is a precondition for the validity of consummation because of the words of the Almighty "Give women their dowry as an outright gift." (Holy Qur’an 4:4)

32.1c Two witnesses

and two legally acceptable witnesses
Having two witnesses is also a precondition for the validity of consummation, not for the contract. It is a precondition that the two witnesses of the marriage be reputable, based on what Shaikh ibn Hibban (rahmatullahi alaihi) transmitted in his Sahih: the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "There is no marriage except with a wali and two legally acceptable witnesses." Marriage without those preconditions is invalid according to the hadith. If there are no legally acceptable witnesses, then there should be a lot of witnesses, like 30 or 40.

One of the preconditions of the validity of the contract is the form of the contract from the wali and husband or agent. The guardian must use an expression which would entail permanent transfer like "I have given to you in marriage". The husband must use an expression which entails acceptance, like "I have accepted." The order is not a precondition, but is recommended. If the husband speaks first and then the guardian speaks after him, the contract is sound as long as the two responses are immediate; a slight difference does not impair the contract as opposed to a major difference. This would be, for instance, if a man who is ill were to say, "If I die from this illness, I have given my daughter in marriage to so-and-so," and then dies a month later, and the husband accepts the contract after his death. The marriage is not valid.
NOTE: A marriage is contracted by the acceptance and answer, even if it was intended a joke on both sides because marriage is a serious matter.

32.1d Witnesses must be present at the contract

If these two are not present to witness the actual making of the contract, it is not permissible for the couple to consummate their marriage until the witnessing has taken place i.e. the guardian and husband. In one text, it has the singular, meaning the husband. If it is consummated without witnessing, the marriage is invalidated with a final divorce and they receive the hadd-punishment if they did not make it known and do not have the excuse of ignorance and admit intercourse. If they make it known, there is no hadd, especially they have a feast, drums and one witness.

32.1e Minimum amount of dowry

The smallest acceptable amount for a dowry is a quarter of a dinar

That by which the contract becomes valid. The dinar is of pure gold and in silver it is three dirhams of pure silver. It can be an equivalent value in goods. There is no maximum because the Almighty says "Give one of them a qintar." (Holy Qur’an 4:20)

32.2 The authority of the guardian

32.2a A father arranging the marriage of a virgin daughter

A father can arrange the marriage of his virgin daughter without her permission even if she is beyond the age of puberty. It is up to him whether he consults her or not.

To whomever he wants for the dowry he wishes, even for less than a suitable dowry. He can give her choice, and it states in al-Jawahir and elsewhere that it is recommended that he ask her permission.

32.2b Someone other than the father arranging the marriage of a virgin

However, if anyone other than the father is arranging the marriage of a virgin, such as a guardian appointed in the father's will or anyone else, he cannot give her in marriage unless she is beyond the age of puberty and has given her consent. In this case her silence is taken as consent.
It says in the Mudawwana that an orphan is not given in marriage by her guardian until she comes of age and gives permission. Shaikh ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "unless there is a will from the father to marry her to a certain person and then he acts in loco parentis. There is a text in the Mukhtasar which states that the guardian as the same position as the father in compulsion to marriage with two preconditions. One is that he the husband is specified and the other is that the father commands that. The Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) states after this, "The girl is not married unless her father commanded that she be married." What he mentioned about other relatives than the guardian, like the grandfather and brother, is known in the School.

32.2c A woman who has been married before

A woman who has already been married cannot be given in marriage, by her father or anyone else unless she herself agrees to it and gives verbal consent

When she is adult, sane and free and has not lost her virginity through injury or fornication, be she sensible or foolish, by her father or anyone else. It is limited to the adult instead of the child who loses her virginity before becoming an adult. Her marriage is not dependent on her consent. "Sane" excludes the mad woman.
Her father can compel her, even if she has children. The judge can also compel the adult mad women if she has no father.

What is mentioned about asking her permission is by word, as Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi), Imam ash-Shafi’i (rahmatullahi alaihi), and Sahih Muslim transmitted, "The widow is more entitled to herself than her guardian, and the virgin is asked for consent for herself, and her consent is her silence." What is meant by the widow is the non-virgin. The difference between the two is the shyness which is found more fully in the virgin rather than the non-virgin. It is reported from Shaikh ibn al-Qassar (rahmatullahi alaihi) that modesty has ten parts: nine in women and one in men. When a woman marries, a third of it goes. When she gives birth, two-thirds is gone, and if she fornicates, it is all gone.

32.2d The necessity of the consent of the guardian

A woman can only be married if she has the consent of her guardian or someone suitably qualified from among her people, such as one of her male relations, or the governor or her agent since a guardian is a precondition for the validity of the contract - there is no disagreement about that with us - or with the permission of someone qualified, which means those who possess the preconditions of guardianship which are: being male, free, sane, adult, not in ihram, and not a unbeliever for a Muslim woman. The ruler acts in default of such a person.

32.2e Lowly women

There is a difference of opinion regarding lowly women (daniyya) as to whether they can have a guardian that is not related to them or not

This is the woman who has neither beauty, money nor position. When she has beauty, money or position, she is noble. Position is like lineage and descent, or a noble father.

A guardian who is not related is a Muslim, i.e. he is not a guardian nor one qualified from her family nor a client nor a ruler when there is a particular guardian. Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that she is permitted to appoint him even when there is a relative. Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that that is not permitted unless there is no relative. So the two Shaikhs agree on the validity but differ about when this can be done. Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that it is valid although disliked, which is the reliable position, while Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it is not.

32.2f Order of precedence in matrimonial guardians
A woman's son has more right to be her marriage guardian than her father and her father has more right than her brother. After this the nearer the relationship the greater the right

The son is a closer relative because he is the most entitled of her relatives after her father. The father is more entitled than the brother (full or half) because the brother is not as close as the father and the father will debar him from inheritance.

32.2g The marriage is valid when the more distant acts as guardian

However, if the more distant relative acts as guardian the marriage is nevertheless still valid

Even when a nearer relative exists, like the brother. The marriage is valid because the order between them is only about suitability. Differing from it is only disliked provided the marriage is with an equal. If the husband is not an equal, then it is obliged for the closer relative to reject the marriage, even if the woman is pleased with it. If he does not reject it, it is presented to the ruler, i.e. it is obligatory to reject it and she is not permitted to consent. It is invalid.

32.2h A guardian appointed in a will
A guardian appointed in a will can arrange the marriage of a male child under his guardianship

i.e. he can compel him to marry, like the father, when that has benefit, like marrying him to a rich or noble woman.

32.2i The limitations of such a guardian

but he cannot arrange the marriage of a female child unless the father has given him specific instructions to do so

And if he has specified the husband, when he says "Marry her to so-and-so." According to the Mukhtasar, it is enough that he commands her to compel her to marry that he can marry her to whomever he wishes.

32.2j Agnate relatives

Male relatives on the maternal side are not considered suitable as marriage guardians who should rather come from the paternal side

To act in giving in marriage, whether they are heirs like the brothers by the mother or not, like the maternal uncle. The guardians come from the paternal side, the stronger being advanced first. So the full brother comes before the half brother by the father. Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi'Allahu anhu) said, "It is clear from his words that the guardian is only one of the paternal relatives, and there is a contradiction when he says 'someone suitably qualified from among her people, or the governor.' The reply is that the what is meant here about the relative being only from the paternal relatives does not preclude the one who is not a paternal relative being a protector or ruler, and so it is relative.

32.3 Competition between suitors

No one should propose marriage to a woman if another proposal has already been accepted, nor should anyone try to outbid his brother, if an agreement has already been reached.

According to what Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "The expression means a prohibition." This is to propose when there is an outstanding proposal and to bid when there is an outstanding bid provided an agreement has been reached between the couple of the parties to the bid. In respect of marriage, this means that the couple incline to one another so that only the offer and its acceptance remain. In the sale it is a precondition that the money be weighed, for instance, and the goods free of faults. If he sees a fault, he can return it.
32.4 Forbidden types of Marriage

32.4a The Shighar marriage

A 'Shighar' marriage - which is when there is a direct exchange of daughters without any dowry - is not permitted.

There are three types of forbidden marriage. Shighar is to exchange one woman for another. The basis for its prohibition is found in the Muwatta' and two Sahih collections where the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade the Shighar. It is derived from lifting, as when a dog lifts its leg to urinate or when a person lifts their leg for copulation. It is also used from a land is devoid of people. It is used for exchanging women without a dowry. The pure Shighar is that a man gives his daughter in marriage to a man provided that he marries his daughter to him with no exchange of dowry. The woman whose marriage is consummated receives an appropriate dowry and the unconsummated has nothing.

32.4b Marriage without a dowry

neither is marriage without a dowry
If they stipulate that it be dropped. If that happens, then it well-known that it is nullified before consummation, and she receives nothing. There are two positions about whether its nullification amounts to a divorce. After consummation she receives a suitable dower and the child is connected to him and there is no hadd-punishment because of the dispute.

32.4c Temporary marriage

nor is temporary marriage - which is marriage for a specified, limited period

By consensus. This is found in Khalil, the Mudawwana and elsewhere, whether it is a short or long term such that the person will not live that long. Shaikh ibn Rushd (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it is marriage with a dowry, guardian and witnesses which is unsound by setting a term, and its judgment is that it is always invalid without a divorce. If anyone marries a woman in a temporary marriage but does not enjoy her, it is permitted for his father and son to marry her. There is no hadd for them, and the child is attached to the father and she observes full ‘Idda. She receives no dowry if it was voided before consummation. If it is after that, she receives the dowry appropriate to her whether or not a dower was stipulated for her.

32.4d Marriage during the idda
Marriage during the ‘Idda period is also forbidden

This means forming a contract while she is in her ‘Idda, whether that it for the death of a spouse or divorce, irrevocable or revocable, based on the words of the Almighty, "until the book reaches its term." The consensus on that if anyone forms a contract with a woman during ‘Idda, it is nullified without divorce because it is agreed to be unsound. If it is consummated, they are punished as are the witnesses if they are aware of that. She received the named dowry and children are connected but the couple do inherit from one another if one dies before it is nullified because the contract was unsound and she is always forbidden to him. When there is only a contract which it is nullified, she is not forever forbidden and he can marry her after the ‘Idda is he wishes.

32.4e Marriage contracts containing uncertainty

as is any marriage involving uncertainty (gharar) in either the terms of the contract or the amount of the dowry or any marriage in which the dowry includes anything whose sale is forbidden

Like marriage by choice, or where the dowry consists of an runaway slave or runaway camel, or if the dowry is unlawful, like wine and pigs. If anyone of that occurs, then it is invalid before consummation and she has no dowry. It is established after it with the dowry of a woman like her.

32.4f When there is a defect in the marriage

Any marriage which is invalid because of some defect in the dowry should be dissolved before the consummation takes place. However, if the marriage is consummated, it is considered valid and the man should then pay the dowry appropriate to the circumstances of the woman he has married.

Like a marriage for what cannot be lawfully owned, like wine, or is permitted but not valid to sell, like a runaway slave. It should be dissolved by divorce with no dowry. If she has taken it, she returns it. If it is consummated, and only discovered afterwards, she receives a suitable dowry for someone of her deen and lineage.

32.4g Defective marriage contracts after consummation

If it is the contract that is defective but the marriage is not dissolved until after it has been consummated, the specified dowry must be paid and any marriage bars (muharim) that would have applied if the marriage had been valid, still apply.
This is like a marriage without a guardian which is invalid before and after consummation. If it is voided before consummation, there is no dowry. But if it has been, a specified dowry is paid or a suitable dowry. When an invalid marriage is nullified, the bars to marriage formed by it are still binding, just as would have been the case in a valid marriage. If the marriage is nullified before consummation, these bars do not occur unless some of the preliminaries to intercourse have taken place, like kissing and embracing.

32.4h Fake marriage does not permit remarriage

Nor does such a marriage make it possible for a man to remarry a woman whom he has previously divorced with a triple divorce

i.e. through an unsound marriage after it is agreed that it is unsound, even if intercourse occurs several times. As for a marriage whose validity is disputed and she is divorced after confirmed intercourse, then she is lawful based on the evidence of whether there is intercourse or not. It achieves imposing bars against intercourse without making marriage lawful to be careful on either side.

32.4i It does not entail being muhsan
Nor do the two parties involved attain 'muhsan' status

Because one of the preconditions of becoming lawful and muhsan is the validity of the contract. The correct position is that the couple do not achieve muhsan status through an invalid marriage as we read in at-Tahqiq.

32.5 Forbidden degrees

32.5a Unlawful through blood relationship

Allah azza wa jall has made it haram to marry seven categories of women through blood relationship and seven through suckling and marriage relationship. He says, may He be exalted, "Haram for you are your mothers and your daughters and your sisters and your father's sisters and your mother's sisters and your brother's daughters and your sister's daughters." These are the ones who are haram through blood relationship

32.5b Unlawful through suckling or marriage relationship

Those who are haram through suckling or marriage relationship are, as Allah azza wa jall says: "Your mothers who have sucked you and your sisters through suckling
This applies whether the nurse is a virgin or non-virgin, even if not yet of puberty, and even if it is a hermaphrodite, alive or dead, when there is milk in the breasts. The suckling can be once or several times. Mothers and sisters are the only two mentioned in the Holy Qur'an: one is the root and one the branch to indicate that it encompasses all.

32.5c Wives' mothers

Every woman who has a connection by birth to the wife, however high, whether he made a contract with her when he was adult or young. The majority of the people of knowledge say that it is general whether or not the marriage was consummated. A marriage contract with the daughter makes her mother unlawful. Other people like 'Ali (radhi’Allahu anhu) and ibn 'Abbas (radhi’Allahu anhu) say that "those you have gone into" is a precondition for this and the step-daughter. According to their school, when a man marries a woman and divorces her before consummation, he can marry her mother.

32.5d Step-daughters your step-daughters living in your households, if you have consummated your marriage with their mothers - if you have not consummated it there is no harm in marrying them

Stepdaughters are the wife's daughter. No consensus about that is understood except what is related from 'Ali (radhi’Allahu anhu) that she is not unlawful when she is in the household. There is disagreement about consummation. Imam ash-Shafi'i (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that it is intercourse while Shaikh al-Baydawi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it means to go behind a curtain with them which is a well-known allusion to intercourse. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it means enjoyment with touching, kissing, even if nothing happens from that.

32.5e Son's wives

the wives of your sons who are born from your loins

However lows whether the marriage was consummated or not. This applies to milk sons as well by agreement, based on what the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said: "Suckling makes unlawful what lineage makes unlawful."

32.5f Two sisters at the same time or being married to two sisters at the same time except if it has already happened

Whether by marriage or ownership of if one is by marriage and the other is a slavegirl. An exception is made regarding what has already happened. If it happened before, and has been removed by Islam, Allah azza wa jall excuses it. Islam eliminates it but there is no punishment for it.

32.5g Father's ex-wives

And Allah azza wa jall also says, "Do not marry any of the women whom your fathers married

Whether the marriage has been consummated or not. It is by the contract that she becomes unlawful to the son. It is the same with the ex-wife of the grandfather.

32.5h Milk causes marriage barriers

And the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) made suckling the same as blood regarding the categories of relationship which are haram for marriage
This is in the two Sahih collections. What birth makes unlawful, suckling makes unlawful. The ayat which indicates the prohibition of being married at the same time relatives other than two sisters and the Sunnah adds further categories. Here he indicates here a prohibition made by the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam):

32.5i Being married to a woman and her aunt

And he also made it haram for a woman to marry a man who is married to any aunt of hers

It is transmitted in the Muwatta' and the two Sahih collections. The precise rule is that it applies to every two women between whom there is kinship and suckling which prevents them being married together, and so it is unlawful to be married to them both at the same time. If he is married to both of them, both marriages are always null and void, even if he has consummated the marriage, without divorce or dowry for the one whose marriage has not been consummated. If the first woman knows, then the second marriage is void and the first marriage is confirmed and the marriage of the one who claims she is the second is nullified, but it is by divorce. If the first knows of the second and the husband does not claim knowledge about which marriage was first, both marriages are void.
32.5j The contract entails marriage barriers

When a man has married a woman, the existence of the contract even without the marriage having been consummated, makes that bride haram for his father and grandfathers and his sons

This bar is not based on intercourse.

In the same way, the bride's mother and grandmothers become haram for him

This explains the "mothers of your wives". By a contract with the daughter, the mother becomes unlawful, whether the marriage is consummated or not.

32.5k The case of the ex-wife's daughters

However, her daughters are not haram unless either he has had sexual intercourse with her or has experienced physical pleasure from contact with her, as a result of having married her or owned her as a slavegirl or the same thing having happened as a result of a doubtful marriage or ownership
Even by looking at other than her face or hands. In the case of the doubtful marriage, such a contract does not make the daughter unlawful. Consummation, intercourse or enjoyment of her makes her unlawful. Looking at her face or hands, even with pleasure, does not. Enjoyment by sound marriage is evident. A case of doubt, for instance, would be when the marriage is a fifth one, or she is in ‘Idda without him knowing and he enjoys her, or he had intercourse with a woman thinking that she is his wife and so all the branches of each of those women mentioned are unlawful for him.

32.5 The effect of fornication

Zina [fornication or adultery] does not make partners haram who would normally be halal

Even if this is multiple, it does not create the bar either in the root or the branch. It is lawful for him to marry her mother or daughter as long as it is not his own daughter, who is unlawful to him. That is the position of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) in the Muwatta'. His evident words in the Mudawwana are different which says: if he fornicates with the mother of his wife or her daughter he should divorce her. Most Shaikhs say that this divorce is mandatory. So what is in the Mudawwana and the Muwatta' differ. Most Shaikhs prefer the Muwatta' and it is relied on because all the companions of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) agree on it except Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi). Some prefer what is in the Mudawwana since Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) mentioned that Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that he had retracted what was in the Muwatta' and said that it was unlawful.

32.6 Intercourse with non-Muslim women

32.6a Women who are not People of the Book

Allah azza wa jall has made it haram to have sexual intercourse with a kafir woman, not from the People of the Book, either through marriage or ownership

This is for the Muslim. This is based on the words of Allah azza wa jall, "Do not marry idolatrous women until they believe." (Holy Qur'an 2:221) Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that this includes the Magians and Sabaeans who are the people who deviated from Judaism and Christianity and worshipped the angels. It includes idolaters who actually worship idols and others who worship other things like the sun and the moon.

32.6b Women of the People of the Book

It is halal to have sexual intercourse with women of the People of the Book if you own them as slaves or are married to any of their free women, but it is not halal for either a free man or a slave to have sexual intercourse with slave girls from among the people of the Book through marriage to them

This is based on the ayat of Allah azza wa jall, "or what your right hands own." We read in adh-Dhakira that because the People of the Book have been honored by the Book and addressed by the Almighty Lord, their women and food are permitted. Others lack this honor by their deprival. It is reported from 'Abdullah ibn 'Umar ibn al-Khattab (alaihi salat wa salam) that it is not permitted to marry a free Kitabi woman by evidence of the ayat of Sura al-Baqara. He says, "There is no shirk greater than her statement that her Lord is 'Isa (alaihi salam)."

32.7 Marriage to slaves and stepmother's children

A woman cannot marry her slave, nor her son's slave and a man cannot marry his slavegirl nor his son's slavegirl. He can, however, marry his father's slavegirl and his mother's slavegirl

A man is permitted to marry his stepmother's daughter from a previous marriage.
This is clear when he had the daughter before the marriage and was weaned. When he married her while she was nursing or the father has divorced her and then she married a man and had a girl, can the daughter of the first husband marry this girl or not. There are three positions in that. The most likely of them is the prohibition and dislike out of caution. Then he mentioned the reverse of this question.

And a woman can marry her stepmother's son from a previous marriage

By other than her father. This is when her father marries her after the child is weaned. If he marries her while she is nursing, he is her step-brother by nursing.

32.8 Number and condition of wives

Both free men and slaves are permitted to marry four free women whether Muslims or from the People of the Book. Slaves can marry four Muslim slave girls and free men can also do this but only if they are afraid of committing zina and do not have the means to marry free women

32.9 A man's duties towards his wives

32.9a Equal treatment
A man should treat his wives equally

A man should be equitable with his wives, whether they are free or Muslim slaves or Kitabis. This obligation is indicated by the Book, Sunnah and consensus. As for the Book, it is the words of the Almighty, "But if you are afraid of not treating them equally, then only one," (Holy Qur'an 4:3) i.e. choosing one is a command of Allah Almighty to confine oneself to one if you fear injustice. This indicates that justice is obligatory. As for the Sunnah, the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "If someone has two wives and is not fair between them, he will come on the Day of Rising with one side lower than the other. The four Sunan relate it and the Community agree that it is obligatory. Whoever is not fair between his wives disobeys Allah and His Messenger (alaihi salat wa salam). He is not permitted to be Imam nor is his testimony accepted. The preferred position that he confines fairness to the spending the night. As for clothing and maintenance, that is according to the state of each of them: the noble is suitably provided for and the lowly is suitably provided for. There is no obligation in intercourse, but it is forbidden for him to hold back from one in order to be keen towards the other. The division is a day and night or two days if the wives agree.

32.9b Maintenance and Housing
He is responsible for their maintenance and housing to the extent that his means allow

The husband, free or slave must maintain and provide for his wife, free or slave, Muslim or Kitabi. The literal sense is that it is only according to his situation. The well-known position is that her situation is also observed and so his like spends for her like in both his hardship and ease. It is the same with clothing. He permitted to give the price to pay for what he owes. He does not have to eat with her. There is agreement that she can divorce him if he is unable to support her after some delay in the well-known position. An opposite position is that he can be divorced without delay which was mentioned by Shaikh Bahram (rahmatullahi alaihi). His divorce is not an irrevocable one, even if the judge impose it, but it is not valid for him to take her back unless he finds some wealth which will enable him to be able to support her.

32.9c Rights towards slave girls

A man's slave girls and or a slave by whom a man has had a child (umm Walad) are not allotted nights in the same way as his wives are

32.9d When he becomes liable for support
A man is not liable for maintenance until his marriage has been consummated, or he has been called on to consummate his marriage, given that it is with someone with whom sexual intercourse is possible.

Whether she is an orphan or otherwise, free or slave, simply by the contract in the well-known position. Maintenance is obliged by two things. One is consummation which means they are alone together whether there is intercourse or not, and whether or not she is someone with whom it is possible to have intercourse since she may have a physical impediment, and the husband is adult and they are not supervised. The second thing is when he is invited to consummate it and the husband is adult and they are not ill.

32.10 Marriage by proxy (tafwid)

32.10a Definition

Marriage by proxy is acceptable. This is when the husband and the guardian make a contract without mentioning a dowry.

Without dispute. It is related in the singular, i.e. the husband can make it. The words of the author are true in two forms because when they do not mention the dowry, either they are explicit in that by proxy as when he says, "I marry you to my ward by proxy " or like "I have married you to my ward" without mentioning the dowry. In both cases the marriage is valid. If they make an explicit precondition that there is no dowry, then it is not permitted and it is invalid before consummation.

32.10b A dowry must be fixed in which case the marriage cannot be consummated until the amount of the dowry has been fixed

Appropriate to her status on the day of the contract because it obliges inheritance and other fixed rights of marriage and entitles him to consummation, not by the contract nor by death. If one of them dies, they inherit from one another. There is no dowry except by stipulation. Some of them say it is affirmed by death, but that it is weak.

32.10c Acceptance of the dowry

If the stipulated dowry is appropriate to the status of the woman in question she must accept it. However if it is less than her due the choice is hers. If she does not want to accept it, the couple are separated
When the dowry is appropriate to her in the School, she must accept it. If it is less than the suitable dowry, as when he stipulates 50 dinars when a suitable dowry is 100, then she can choose. If she is satisfied and is sane and a non-virgin, she can make it binding as long as it is not less than a quarter of a dinar. If she is not pleased with it, then they are separated with a final divorce because it is before consummation.

32.10d When the dowry is suitable

If she is satisfied with it, or if the husband makes the amount to what is appropriate, then the marriage is binding on her.

By adding more to what was stipulated when it did not reach a suitable dowry, and he allots her a proper amount after allotting less, then it is binding.

32.11 Effects of Change of Religion

32.11a If one of them leaves Islam

If either one of a married couple leaves Islam, their marriage is invalidated and they automatically become divorced.
This is by a statement of disbelief or entering another religion. It becomes immediately invalid and there is a final divorce in the famous position, i.e. it is invalid by divorce. If the apostate becomes Muslim, then the marriage remains and there is no need for a contract nor taking back because the tie still exists. If he is killed while an apostate, the spouse does not inherit. If someone who is not an adult apostasies, they agree that he is only killed after becoming adult and being asked to repent. Because one takes note of his apostasy, his slaughtered animal is not eaten and the prayer is not said over him.

32.11b Another opinion

although another opinion is that the marriage is invalidated but no actual divorce takes place

Another position is that the marriage is invalid without divorce, which is transmitted from ibn Abi Uways (radhi’Allahu anhu) and Ibn al-Majishun (radhi’Allahu anhu). They are compelled to abrogate it by the words of the Almighty," Do not hold to the bond of the unbelievers," (Holy Qur’an 60:10) i.e. there should be not bond or marital connection between them.

32.11c When a couple become Muslim
If a non-Muslim couple both become Muslim their marriage remains valid

This is whether they are Kitabis or others if they become Muslim before or after consummation, whether the marriage was with a guardian and dowry or not. The marriage is valid as long as there is no impediment, like lineage or milk. If there is such an impediment then the marriage is invalid.

32.11d When only one person in a couple become Muslim

If one of the couple becomes a Muslim, the marriage is automatically invalidated, but no actual divorce takes place

This invalidation is without divorce in the famous position. They describe this question in its various forms. One of them is that the husband is married to a Magian or the like who is not one of the People of the Book and he becomes Muslim and she does not soon after, i.e. within a month. If the time is not long between the two of them becoming Muslim, like a month, the marriage is confirmed whether it has been consummated or not.

32.11e When the wife becomes Muslim
If the woman becomes a Muslim, her previous husband has the first claim on her if he becomes a Muslim during her ‘Idda period.

If she is a Kitabi or otherwise when the marriage has been consummated. This is true even if he divorces her in the ‘Idda, as the divorce of the unbeliever is not considered. If he becomes Muslim after the end of the ‘Idda, the marriage is not confirmed for her because his Islam is like the revocable divorce and there is not taking back after the end of the ‘Idda. If she becomes Muslim before her husband and the marriage has not been consummated, then their situation is clear.

32.11f When the man becomes Muslim

If the man becomes a Muslim and the woman is one of the People of the Book, their marriage remains valid.

If he becomes Muslim before her and she is one of the People of the Book, the marriage is confirmed as long as there is no impediment to its continuance like lineage or suckling or if he married her in ‘Idda, whether his Islam was before consummation or not.

32.11g If the woman is a Magian
If the woman is a fire-worshipper (Magian) and becomes a Muslim straight after her husband, they remain married. If there is a delay in her accepting Islam, separation takes place.

If he becomes Muslim immediately as long as there is no impediment. If she delays, they are separated. What the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) says differs to what is in the Mukhtasar, which is that if she becomes Muslims after her husband without it being a long time between their becoming Muslim, the marriage is confirmed. "Near" is defined as a month and the like.

32.11h Someone with more than four wives

If an idolater who has more than four wives becomes a Muslim he must select four of them and separate from the rest.

Four of those he is permitted to marry in Islam before or after consummation, whether he had a multiple contract or several contracts with them, whether they are first or last, whether they become Muslim with him or he becomes Muslim and they are Kitabis. Choice is explicit. After the choice he is separated from the others without divorce. The point of the dispute is that if he becomes Muslim with ten wives he chooses four and separates from the rest.
32.12 Various impediments

32.12a Divorce by Li'an

If someone divorces his wife by a curse (li'an) he can never marry her again.

He adds in the Muwatta', "If he denies himself, he is flogged with the hadd and the child connected to him, but he cannot take her back."

32.12b Marriage during ‘Idda

The same applies to a man who marries a woman during her ‘Idda period and consummates the marriage during it.

No matter what kind of ‘Idda it is. We limit the ‘Idda to being for a revocable divorce because if he marries a finally divorced woman, and she is unlawful to the husband, it is abrogated and there is a hadd but she is not forever unlawful to him.

32.12c Marriage of slaves

It is not permitted for a slave or a slavegirl to marry unless their master gives permission.
32.12d Women not making a marriage contract

It is not permitted for a woman, or a slave, or a non-Muslim to draw up a woman's marriage contract

Being male, free and Muslim are preconditions for the validity of the contract since the women is not permitted to undertake the contract for herself let alone another woman. The unbeliever has no authority over a Muslim woman although he does over an unbelieving woman and can marry her to a Muslim or unbeliever.

32.12e Marriage to make re-marriage possible

It is not permitted for a man to marry a woman in order to make it halal for her to remarry a man who has previously divorced her by a triple divorce

This is when the motive for marriage to make re-marriage lawful, or he has that intention along with the intention of keeping her if he likes her. What is considered is the intention at the time of the contract. If that intention occurs at the time of consummation here is no harm. This is based on the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), "Shall I tell you about the borrowed Billy-goat"?" They said, "Yes, Rasulullah." He (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "That is one who makes a woman lawful." Then he (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Allah has cursed the one who makes a woman lawful and the one for whom he makes her lawful." (ad-Daraqutni) He likens him to an animal and then he (alaihi salat wa salam) said that Allah cursed the two men for what they did in making her lawful for her ex-husband.

and if such a marriage did take place it would not make a remarriage of this kind valid

That is because this type of marriage is void before and after consummation. Some of them make a distinction between a final divorce with consummation and a suitable dowry. If the first marries her with this marriage, it is invalid without divorce and the husband, guardian, witnesses and wife are punished for carrying a marriage designed to make re-marriage lawful.

32.12f Ihram precludes marriage

A man in a state of ihram can neither get married himself nor draw up a marriage contract for someone else

Whether it is hajj or 'umra. This is because it is valid that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The person in ihram does not marry or give in marriage nor propose." If there is marriage or giving in marriage, it is always invalid before consummation and so she receives nothing. If it is abrogated after it, she has the dowry because every woman with a consummated marriage receives dowry.

32.13 Sickness

32.13a Serious illness precludes marriage, but the dowry is paid from the third

It is not permitted for a man with a very serious illness to get married but if he does get married and consummates the marriage, then his bride's dowry is the first thing to be paid from the third of his wealth he is permitted to leave as he wills

Or for a sick woman which may prove fatal. That is because he is restricted in respect of his property and it is connected to all who has a lien on it absolutely. It is clear that the marriage of a seriously ill person is not allowed, even if he needs a woman to look after him. It is like that in one of the two famous positions. The other position is that it is permissible on account of need. The marriage is void before and after consummation.

The preferred position is that it is nullified by divorce because there is disagreement on it. If it is not consummated, she has nothing. Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi'Allahu anhu) said that the woman whose marriage is consummated receives a suitable dowry. It is the position of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi). Shaikh ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it is clear that she has the stipulated dowry, even if it is more than the dowry of a woman like her, from the capital, little or great.

32.13b Such a wife does not receive a fixed share

She does not receive the fixed share of his estate which would normally go to a wife

This comes from the prohibition by the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) against bringing in a new heir or removing one, and to act other contrary to its aim.

32.13c Divorce when ill

If such a man divorces a wife, that divorce is binding on him, but, if he dies from his illness, his wife still inherits from him

It is divorce because he is sane and responsible, whether the divorce is final or revocable. She does not inherit from him if the divorce is treble. She inherits from him if its revocable as long as the ‘Idda is not over. If he recovers from his illness and falls ill again, she does not inherit from him because the restriction was removed by health.
This chapter is continued in the next page which deals with divorce, 'Dhihar'-repudiation, (ila') vows of celibacy within marriage, mutual cursing (li'an), 'Khul'-divorce, and suckling.

(Continuation of Chapter 32)

Divorce, 'Dhihar'-repudiation, vows of celibacy within marriage (ila'), mutual cursing (li'an), 'Khul'-divorce, and suckling

The discussion on divorce begins. Linguistically it means releasing, from your words, "I released the camel," and it is a technical term for undoing the bond of marriage. It has four pillars:

Husband

Wife

Intention. If someone speaks of divorce without intention it does not occur, i.e. if someone wants to speak about something else and his tongue becomes tied and he utters divorce, that has no effect. It is the same when someone is forced to divorce: unless he uses a double-entendre with full knowledge.
The form, which is divided into the explicit, which has the expression "divorce" and it does not require an intention, and into allusion, which can be explicit or probable. If it is probable, then his claim about his intention and number is accepted. When, for instance, he says, "Go" or "Leave," and says that he did not intend divorce by that. He swears to that and owes nothing. If he says, "I intended divorce by that," it is binding. If he intended one or more divorce, he acts by that. If he did not intend a number, three is obliged.

The Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) divided divorce into two categories: innovated and Sunnah.

32.14 Divorce

32.14a Result of divorce

If anyone divorces his wife by a triple divorce she is no longer halal for him either by right of ownership or marriage until she has married another husband

Free or slave, Muslim or Kitabi, consummated or not. This is based on the Qur'anic ayat. What is meant by marriage by the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) and in the ayat is intercourse which is indicated by the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) in the hadith about the wife of Rifa'a (radhi’Allahu anhu), "Not until you taste his sweetness and he tastes yours."

A precondition for the husband is that he is a Muslim. If he had been a Muslim married to a Jew or Christian and he divorces his wife three times and then she then marries a Jew or a Christian who then divorces her, she is not lawful for the Muslim to marry.

He must be an adult and maturity in intercourse is considered. If the contract is made before maturity and there is no consummation until he is an adult, then it is lawful. Intercourse during menstruation or 'Idda is not considered, nor is the intercourse of the one who makes lawful without mutual aversion in it and that there be a customary being alone together which is confirmed by two women.

The seclusion must be confirmed, Otherwise, she is not lawful. Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "even if the second confirms the intercourse because they are suspected of doing this to allow re-marriage to the one who divorced her. " Intercourse with an unconscious woman or madwoman is not considered.

32.14b Triple divorce is an innovation
It is an innovation (bid'a) to divorce a wife by a triple divorce said on one occasion but if it happens it is nevertheless binding

The command is contrary to that even though it did occur in the time of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam). Part of that is that he (alaihi salat wa salam) heard that a man had divorced his wife with three divorces together. He (alaihi salat wa salam) got up in anger and then said, "Do you play with the Book of Allah azza wa jall while I am among you?" However it is binding when it is done all at once.

32.14c Sunnah divorce

A Sunnah divorce is acceptable, which is when a man divorces his wife by one pronouncement made while she is pure, having not had sexual intercourse with her since she became pure and does not make a second pronouncement until her ‘Idda period is over

A divorce allowed by the Sunnah which is permitted is described. This has four rules.

If one of them is missing it is not Sunnah.

32.14d When he can take her back
He can go back to her provided that she has not begun her third menstrual period since the pronouncement of divorce (assuming she has menstrual periods and is a free woman). If the wife is a slavegirl who has menstrual periods, he can go back to her provided she has not yet begun her second period.

He can take her back because the marital ties continue between them except for intercourse. Taking her back is with the intention and the statement, like "I take her back," "I keep her," or things which take the place of word like intercourse and foreplay, but there must be an intention with the intercourse. Intercourse without the intention is not taking back.

32.14e If the wife does not menstruate

If the wife has not yet begun to have menstrual periods or has ceased to have them, he can divorce her at any time he wants and the same applies to a woman who is pregnant.

Various ages are given for the menopause. About "any time," Shaikh at-Tata'i (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "It can even be after intercourse with her because such a divorce is in months which would not entail lengthening the ‘Idda. It is the same with the wife with whom the marriage has not been consummated, even during the time of her menstruation, since the reason for the prohibition is to avoid prolonging ‘Idda.

32.14f If the wife is pregnant

A man can go back to his pregnant wife up until the time she gives birth, in the same way that he can go back to a wife who is having periods before the end of her ‘Idda.

He can take her back when the child is partially born. If it is completely born, then the ‘Idda is over and he cannot take her back. The ‘Idda ends by the miscarriage of a piece of flesh or a clot. If the matter is unclear, and it is not known whether it was the fetus or congealed blood, one considers the hot liquid. The ‘Idda of a woman with constant bleeding is a year: nine months are considered as freeing her and three are the ‘Idda. So the ‘Idda is actually three months. The ‘Idda of the post-menopausal woman is three months. There is no difference in the ‘Idda of months between the free woman and slave.

They disagree about whether "period" in the ayat means purity, as with us and Imam ash-Shafi‘i (rahmatullahi alaihi) or menstruation with Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi).

32.14g Divorce during menstruation
It is forbidden for a man to divorce his wife while she is menstruating but if he does do so it is valid, but he is compelled to take her back if her ‘Idda period has not finished i.e. she is not pregnant. If he does, it is binding because Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi‘Allahu anhu) divorced his wife while she was menstruating and as 'Umar (radhi‘Allahu anhu) asked the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) about that and he (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Tell him to take her back and then keep her until she is pure and then menstruates and then is pure. Then if he wishes he can keep her, or if he wishes he can divorce her before touching her. That is the ‘Idda which Allah azza wa jall has commanded for the divorce of women." The ruler commands him to take her back. If he refuses, he threatens him with prison. If he refuses, he is imprisoned. If he refuses he is beaten.

Mukhtasar: The same applies if he divorces her during lochia.

32.14h An unconsummated marriage

If a man has not yet consummated his marriage he can divorce his wife at any time

He is permitted to do this in the famous position since she has no ‘Idda, but Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) forbids it in menstruation because he considers the reason behind the ruling to be an act of worship.

32.14i Results of pronouncing divorce

One pronouncement of divorce ends the marriage and three makes her haram for him until she has been married to someone else

Without consummation because she has no ‘Idda. It is final. Three in one statement or what is like it is like the final or by repeating the expression one after another.

32.14j The statement, "You are divorced"

If a man says, "You are divorced," to his wife that is considered one pronouncement unless he intended more than that

It is a clear explicit statement, and counts, even if it is a joke. If he uses an indirect term ("You are free"), divorce is only obliged by intention because it is an allusion. If he intends more, it is binding.

32.15 Khul' Divorce
Khul' is a type of divorce which precludes any possibility of remarriage, even though it is not technically called a divorce, and it takes place when the husband accepts something from his wife in return for her release.

"It is a divorce" refutes the one who says that it is invalidation. Accordingly to the first, if he divorced her before, the khul' is two divorces and is she is only lawful after another marriage. According to the second, he can take her back before she married. The words "no possibility of remarriage" indicates the position of someone who thinks it is revocable and not final. He said, "not technically a divorce" indicates the one who says the khul' is not divorce even though it is called divorce.

32.16 Formulas of divorce

If anyone says to his wife, "You are divorced once and for all," it is as if he had pronounced the triple divorce, regardless of whether the marriage has been consummated or not.

Similarly, if anyone says, "You are no longer my responsibility," or "You are on your own," or "You are haram for me," or "Your rein is on your hump" (i.e. you can go wherever you like) that is also considered as a triple divorce if the marriage has been consummated. If the marriage has not been consummated the husband is asked to specify what he intended

One takes note of custom in all this.

32.17 Rights of divorced women

32.17a Dowry in unconsummated marriages

When a woman who has been previously married is divorced before the marriage has been consummated she receives half her dowry unless she chooses of her own free will to forgo it. If she is a virgin the decision is left to her father and in the case of a slavegirl it is left to her master

Which has been named for her by the words of the Almighty "If you divorce them before you have touched them but have already allotted them a dowry, they should have half the amount you allotted, unless they forgo it," meaning non-virgin sane women, "or the one in charge of the marriage contract forgoes it.,"(Holy Qur’an 2:237) which is the father in his virgin daughter and the master in his slavegirl. This applies when the divorce is final or revocable, and she is free or a Kitabi or a Muslim slave, consummated or not.

32.17b A gift from the husband to the divorced wife
When a man divorces his wife it is recommended for him to give her something by way of consolation although this is not obligatory

A gift according to his situation, wealthy or not. He is not compelled to do it, but it is recommended.

31.17c When the gift is not needed

If the marriage has not been consummated but the dowry has been paid, nothing need be given by way of consolation

She has no gift because she takes half of the dowry while her goods remain. It is understood that this is when she has no allotment, she has a gift, as we said.

31.17d In a khul' divorce

The same thing applies when a woman asks or a khul' divorce

Because she paid some of her property to separate from her husband, disliked or not.

32.18 Right of widows in a tafwid marriage
32.18a In an unconsummated tafwid marriage

If a man dies without having either paid over the dowry or consummated his marriage, his wife receives her share of his estate but does not receive any dowry

This is agreed because us the contract of marriage if sound, it makes inheritance between them sound. But she has no dowry in the famous position. What is understood is that it is the same if he has allotted her a dowry.

32.18b In a consummated tafwid marriage

If the marriage has been consummated she should receive a dowry appropriate for someone of her status if no particular amount has been agreed beforehand

When he has not allotted her any dowry. She also inherits. This is because her goods are sold and so she has a suitable dowry. This is when she is sane and it permitted to agree to less than a suitable dowry.

32.19 Physical grounds for annulment

32.19a Physical grounds in respect of the bride
The marriage contract can be annulled if a bride is found to be mad or suffering from leprosy or a disease of the vagina. If the man consummates his marriage to such a woman in ignorance he must pay her dowry and then claim it back from her father. The same applies if it was the bride's brother who acted as her marriage guardian.

These are faults. A disease of the vagina is a blockage which prevents intercourse. There are various forms of this. It includes constant vaginal bleeds which prevent full intercourse. A bad smell from the vagina is another cause. If the marriage is consummated, then he pays her dowry and seeks it from the father.

32.19b A consequence of this

If the marriage guardian is not one of her close relatives, the man does not have to pay any previously agreed dowry, but instead the bride receives only a quarter of a dinar (i.e. the minimum possible dowry).

If he is a cousin, and does not know about the fault and the marriage is consummated, he owes nothing. If he knows about the fault, then he is liable for it like the relative. He does not have any comeback against the distant relative, but the woman only has a quarter of a dinar.

32.19c Impotence

An impotent man is allowed one year and if he is still not capable of having intercourse the marriage can be dissolved if the wife so wishes

If he has not had intercourse because the impediment preceded and followed the contract. If he has had intercourse, and then that impediment occurs and he manages intercourse there is no divorce. If he claims intercourse and she denies it, his statement is taken when he swears to it. If he refuses, she swears and her word is taken. This is if she wishes a final divorce because every divorce made by the qadi is final except in the case of someone who is unable to provide for his wife.

32.20 A missing husband

32.20a Period of Waiting

If a man disappears his wife should wait four years from the day she brings the matter to the notice of the appropriate authority
This is when he is missing in the land of Islam, and has no known place in a place of famine or wildness when he has a wife and she refers her business to the ruler to investigate his news for him. If he is free, then the period is four years. If he is a slave, it is two years. The time begins from when the case is presented to the authorities.

32.20b The ‘Idda after the waiting period

When this period of time has elapsed she should observe the same ‘Idda period as a woman whose husband has died. Then she may remarry if she wishes to

And she must observe mourning according to the famous position. After that she can marry and does not require the permission of the ruler to marry.

32.20c His inheritance

The wealth of such a man is not distributed as inheritance until such a time has passed that he could no longer be reasonably supposed to be alive

Generally this is the age of eighty. The author (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh al-Qabisi (rahmatullahi alaihi) choose it. Shaikh Abdu'l-Wahhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) chose seventy.
32.21 During the ‘Idda period

A woman may not be asked for in marriage during her ‘Idda period although there is no harm in an indirect suggestion being made provided it is done in an acceptable way.

No matter the reason for the ‘Idda. This means it is haram. When she is in ‘Idda not from divorce, it is not haram since it is not three. It is also unlawful to promise marriage from one of two sides so that she is certain of it. It is permissible to allude it so that an intention is known.

32.22 Newly-wed

A man who marries a virgin can spend seven consecutive nights with her, overriding the rights of any other wives for that period. If the woman has previously been married the period is three nights.

Young or old, Muslim, Kitabi or slave. After this period the division begins.

32.23 Forbidden degrees among slave girls
If a man has two slave girls who are sisters he may not have sexual intercourse with both of them. If, having had sexual intercourse with one of them, he desires to have sexual intercourse with the other, he must separate himself from the first, making her haram for himself, by either selling her or making an arrangement with her to buy her freedom [kitaba] or by setting her free or by any other means by which she would become haram for him.

Or any other forms of sexual pleasure. If he owns both, he has intercourse with one but refrains from other. If he wants to have intercourse with the other, he must made the first unlawful for himself, either after the istibra' by selling her. If the sale is not final, like the sell with an option, the first woman is not unlawful to him until the end of the days of the option. Other possibilities are kitaba.

32.23a Consequences of intercourse

If a man has had sexual intercourse with one of his slave girls, her mother and daughters become haram for him and she also becomes haram for his father and sons as is the case in marriage.

This is based on analogy.
32.24 Divorce by a slave, minor or wife

A slave can divorce without getting his master's permission. A child, however, cannot divorce.

32.24a Divorce by a wife

A woman whose husband has given her the authority to divorce or the option to do so as long as the two are in the same meeting.

In the meeting she must clearly state her choice. The woman with authority may have authority for one or more divorce.

32.24b Sort of right of divorce

The husband may deny the right of other than a single divorce. If she has the option, it can only be a triple divorce and he does not have the night to deny it.

Except for the option. This cannot be denied whether the marriage is consummated or not.

32.25 Ila': The Oath of Abstinence
32.25a Definition of the ila'

A man who swears not to have intercourse for more than four months is considered to have pronounced an ila'

This is whether the woman is Muslim, Kitabi or slave, intending harm by that. The period begins from the date of the oath, if it is explicit, or from the day of stopping, and the judgment is that it is an oath which applies to less than the term, like the "I will not have intercourse with you until Zayd comes," and if it four months or less, it is not an ila'.

32.25b When the ila' becomes effective

The divorce is only implemented after the end of the ila': which is four months if the man is free and two months if he is a slave. Then the ruler gives him an ultimatum. If he resumes marital relations, then the ila' is canceled

This is the famous position that there is no divorce until the end of the term of ila'. It is the famous position that the ruler gives him an ultimatum to resume relations or divorce. If he resumes, then the judgment of the 'ila' is removed by the words of the Almighty, "If they resume Allah is Ever-Forgiving, Merciful," (Holy Qur'an 2:226) and resumption is achieved by the glans disappearing into the vagina. If he does not resume, then the ruler commands him to divorce. If he refuses, then the divorce is forced on him by the ruler.

32.26 The Dhihar Divorce

32.26a Expiation of the Dhihar

If someone pronounces a dhihar (a statement that sex with her is tantamount to incest) then he may not have intercourse with her until he expiates that by freeing a believing slave free of faults who is not partially owned by others or in the process of obtaining freedom. If he cannot do that, then he must fast two consecutive months. If he is unable to do that, he should feed sixty poor people two mudds each Free or slave Muslim. He cannot have intercourse with her or kiss or touch her or look at her hair until he expiates for it. The months are lunar months which are counted by the moon. If he breaks it, he starts anew because it must be continuous. If he cannot do that, then he feeds free Muslims. The slave is not fed for expiation unless his master gives permission.

32.26b No intercourse until he done expiation
He may not have intercourse with her night or day until the end of the expiation. If does so, he must repent to Allah azza wa jall

However he does not have any other expiation.

If he has intercourse after doing part of the expiation by feeding or fasting, he starts it over again

32.26c Slaves freed in expiation

There is no harm in freeing a one-eyed slave in the dhihar or a bastard. A child is sufficient, but we think it better to free someone who fasts and prays

Or any other slave. The Malikis think it better, as opposed to a nursing child. He should support the freed child until he is able to earn.

32.27 The Li'an divorce

32.27a Definition of li'an

The li'an divorce between a couple is when the man denies paternity provided that he claims that he has been apart from her since her last menstrual period or by actually witnessing adultery, like a kohl stick in its case

The li'an is an allowance made by the Book and Sunnah. There is no disagreement about it among the Imams. It takes place between a couple, even if their marriage is void, consummatted or not, or rather they are iniquitous as Shaikh ibn al-Mawwaz (rahmatullahi alaihi) states. If someone marries a relative or his sister unknowingly and she becomes pregnant and he denies the child, they curse each other because it appeared to be a marriage. If she refuses, she receives the hadd. If he refuses, he receives the hadd for slander and the child is connected to him. It is a precondition that the husband be a legally responsible Muslim who can have intercourse. For the wife, there is a precondition that she be one who can become pregnant. Neither Islam nor freedom are preconditions. There can be a li'an from a Kitabi or slavegirl.

She must have menstruated, even once. A similar case is when he claims that he has not had intercourse with her after she had given birth previously this denied pregnancy. There must be a period between the two pregnancies which would make them separate: that is six months or more. Or it is actually witnessing adultery. A precondition for the li'an in denying paternity is immediacy. If he sees it and is silent and then takes a stand after that, there is no li'an. A precondition for the li'an is actual and not having intercourse with her afterwards. If there is a delay there is no li'an for adultery.

32.27b Li'an in slander

There is disagreement about whether li'an in the case of slander is allowed

Without the claim of seeing intercourse or denying paternity in two famous positions, One is that he enacts the li'an and the other is that he receives the hadd and cannot enact the li'an.

Four rulings are connected to the li'an. He indicates one of them:

32.27c Li'an precludes pre-marriage

If they divorce by li'an, they can never remarry

The other three judgments is that there is no hadd punishment, paternity is denied and the marriage is ended. The separation between them occurs when the li'an is finished. It does not require the judgment of a judge. It is abrogation, not divorce in the famous position.

32.27d How the husband carries out the li'an
The husband begins the li'an by testifying four times by Allah azza wa jall and then the fifth time he curses himself

In the li'an. To deny paternity, he says, "I testify by Allah that this child is not mine" four times. Shaikh al-Mawwaz (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it is what is in the Mudawwana. It is the well-known position that he says, "I testify by Allah that she has committed adultery." If saw her, he says, "I testify by Allah that I saw her commit adultery." The fifth time he says that the curse of Allah is on him if he is one of the liars.

32.27e How the woman carries it out

Then she does the same four times, and the fifth invokes Allah's anger, as Allah azza wa jall has mentioned [in the Holy Qur'an 24:6-9]

She denies the husband's oath, and when he states that he denies paternity and testifies by Allah azza wa jall that she committed adultery, she rejects that and says four times, "I testify by Allah that I have not committed fornication." When he says that he saw her and swears by Allah that he saw her fornicate, she refutes that and say four times, "He did not see me fornicate." The fifth time she invokes the anger of Allah azza wa jall on her if he is telling the truth.
The li'an must take place in the presence of a group of people, with a minimum of four and be in the highest place in the land. It only takes place in the masjid. It is recommended that it be after the 'Asr prayer and it is recommended to alarm them both, particularly at the fifth oath and to tell them. "This fifth oath will oblige the punishment for you."

32.27f If the wife refuses to testify

If the wife refuses to testify, she is stoned if she is free and muhsana by intercourse with her husband or another husband. Otherwise, she receives a hundred lashes

This is after the husband's curse. There is half the punishment for a Dhimmi.

32.27g If the husband refuses to testify

If the husband refuses to testify, he is flogged eighty lashes for slander and the child is considered to be his

32.28 Khul'

A woman may ransom herself from her husband by her dower or a sum more or less unless it is due to some injury to her. If there was an injury to her, she may reclaim what she gave him and the khul' is still binding. The khul' is a divorce which cannot be retracted except by a new marriage contracted of her own accord.

She can do this if she is adult and sane and he is adult and sane. If he is a child or mad, she cannot do that. If it is due to an injury, like not paying maintenance nor making her do inappropriate work and the harm is established by evidence, and the woman has already obtained a khul' and then says it was only due to harm and presents the evidence for that, then the husband must return the payment to her and the khul' is a final divorce. They cannot marry again unless she has married again.

32.39 Divorce of Slaves

A woman freed from slavery who married to a slave can choose between remaining married to him or separating from him. If someone buys his wife, then his marriage is void.

A slave is allowed only two divorces and the ‘Idda of a slavegirl consists of two menstrual periods. The expiation’s of the slave are the same as the free man except for the differences in the hudud punishments and divorce.
32.30 Kinship established by wet-nursing

32.30a This applies up to the age of two

Any milk which reaches the stomach of a nursing child in the first two years, even one suck, makes marriage unlawful

This is in accordance with the words of Allah azza wa jall, "and your mothers who nursed you." (Holy Qur'an 4:23) It is applies, even if only on one occasion.

There are certain preconditions necessary to cause the legal consequences of suckling.

32.30b After the age of two

Nursing after the age of two years does not cause these prohibitions, unless it is close to it, like a month or so, or some say two months

After the age of two years, even if a lot of milk reaches his stomach, it does not create marriage barriers. This is based on the words of Allah azza wa jall, "Mothers shall suckle their children for two full years," (Holy Qur'an 2:233) and His words, "his carrying and weaning is 30 months." (Holy Qur'an 46:15) So He informs us about the minimum period of pregnancy and full period of nursing. A little over two years does not matter. Shaikh ibn 'Abdu'l-Hakam (rahmatullahi alaihi) says a month and Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) two months.

32.30c When the child is weaned before the age of two

If the child is weaned before the age of two so that it eats food without milk, any nursing which happens after that does not create these prohibitions

This is according to what is in Shaikh at-Tirmidhi (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh an-Nasa'i (rahmatullahi alaihi) report that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Nursing does not create prohibitions except what splits the intestines," and that is before weaning. If a child eats food rather than milk, his intestines are opened.

32.30d Milk being poured into the mouth or nose

Nursing by pouring milk into the mouth or nose creates the same prohibitions

Even if it is not definite that it reached the stomach. That is what Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) reports from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi). Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that if it reaches the stomach, it creates prohibition but otherwise not.

32.30e Milk sisters

If a woman nurses a boy, her daughters and her husband's daughters, whether born before or after the boy, are his sisters. However the boy's brother may marry them.

Chapter 33: 'Idda, Istibra' and Maintenance

'Idda designates a woman waiting for a specific time determined by the Shari’ah to see if she is pregnant. It is also a form of worship in itself. It is obligatory by the words of the Almighty, "until the book reaches its term" and because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said to Shaikh al-Furay'a (rahmatullahi alaihi), "Wait in your house until the book reaches its term." There are three types: menstrual periods, lunar months and pregnancy. Periods apply to the divorced woman who menstruates, free or slave.
33.1 ‘Idda for divorced women

33.1a Its length

The ‘Idda for a free woman is three periods, whether she is Muslim or kitabi. For a slave or partial slave, it is two periods. It does not matter whether the husband is free or a slave. A 'period' means the periods of purity between two menstruation’s

The ayat is general and this is not disputed. ‘Idda has to do with the woman, not the husband. Divorce has to do with the men. A period is the period of purity. Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi) says it is menstrual periods.

33.1b If the woman is not menstruating

If the woman is not menstruating or has ceased menstruation, then it is three months for a free woman, free or slave

So she cannot be pregnant. It is three months. This is agreed. It is the same for the slavegirl in the famous position. This is calculated by the moon. When she is divorced during the month, the month in which is which is divorced is completed from the fourth month. The day of divorce is not counted.
33.1c A woman with constant bleeding

The ‘Idda for a divorced woman with constant bleeding is one year, slave or free

That is nine months and third months.

33.1d ‘Idda for pregnant women

The ‘Idda for a pregnant woman who is widowed or divorced is when she gives birth, whether free or slave or kitabi

This is in the famous position in divorce and is agreed, even if it is a minute after the divorce or death. This applies to all by the words of the Almighty, "The term of those who are pregnant is when they lay down their burdens." (Holy Qur’an 65:5) It is makes the general particular in "those of you who die and leave wives, they should wait by themselves for fourth months and ten days." (Holy Qur’an 2:234) The limitation of it is clarification. If she gives birth to twins, she is not lawful until she gives birth to the second.

33.1e No ‘Idda if the marriage has not been consummated
A divorced woman whose marriage has not been consummated has no ‘Idda

33.2 ‘Idda for widows

The ‘Idda for a free woman who is widowed is four months and ten nights, whether a child or adult, consummated or not, Muslim or kitabi. For a slave girl who is partially free it is two months and five days, except in the case of an older woman whose period is delayed. Then she waits until the doubt is removed. As for the one who does not menstruate because of youth or old age and her marriage was consummated, she cannot marry until three months after the death of the husband.

This is a woman who is not pregnant, whether with false menstruation or not. It is the same whatever the age of the husband. Removal of doubt is by menstruation or the completion of nine months.

33.3 Mourning

Mourning for the woman in ‘Idda because of being widowed is that she not use any adornment in the form of jewelry, kohl or other things, and she avoids all dyed colors except black. She avoids all perfume. She does not use henna or perfumed oil nor comb perfumed substances into her hair. Mourning should be observed by the slave and free woman, child and adult. There is disagreement about a Kitabi. A divorced woman does not have to observe mourning

Ihdad is mourning. She avoids bracelets and similar things, and kohl, which would appear to be even if it was out of necessity, which it the position of Shaikh ibn 'Abdu'l-Hakam (rahmatullahi alaihi). In the Mudawwana, "She does not use kohl except for necessity." She removes dishevelment from her self. She does not enter the bath-house except by necessity and does not rub her body with depilatories. Black can be worn as the garment of sorrow. If it is an adornment among some people, she should avoid it. She avoids perfume and adornment because that invites marriage. Henna is adornment. Mourning is observed by all ages because in Abu Dawud the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The woman whose husband dies does not wear saffron or red garments, or jewelry or use henna." There is disagreement about a Kitabi with two famous positions about whether it is obligatory.

33.4 The 'Idda for a Jewish or Christian woman and umm Walad
A free Kitabi woman should be compelled to observe the 'Idda for a Muslim husband who has died or divorced her. The 'Idda of a umm Walad after the death of her master is one menstrual period. It is the same when he frees her. If she does not menstruate, it is three months.

Whether it is a single or final divorce because mourning is prescribed to protect lineage. The man has died and has no one to protect his lineage and so mourning becomes a barrier to defend the dead. The Kitabi is compelled whether the marriage has been consummated or not, even if she is a child or he is one.

33.5 Istibra'

Istibra' is observed in the case of a slavegirl who changes ownership. It is one menstruation. Ownership changes by selling, giving away, capture, or any other way. If the woman menstruates after being in the possession of the new master before he has bought her, then she does not have to observe an istibra' if she has not gone out. The istibra' for a child when she is sold is three months as it is for a woman who no longer menstruates. There is no istibra' for a woman who has never had intercourse.
If someone buys a pregnant woman from another person or gains possession of her without a sale, should not go near her or enjoy her in any manner until she gives birth.

Omitted explanation!

33.7 Lodging and maintenance of divorced wives

33.7a Right to lodging and maintenance

A divorced woman whose marriage has been consummated has the right to lodging, but not maintenance unless she was divorced by less than three divorces or is pregnant. If pregnant, she has a right to maintenance whether it is one or three divorces.

This is distinct from khul'. Any woman whose marriage has been consummated has the right to maintenance.

33.7b The position of a woman separated by a khul'

A woman with a khul' divorce has not right to maintenance unless she is pregnant.

Any woman divorced by a final divorce is not entitled to maintenance unless she is pregnant.
33.7c A woman divorced by li'an

The woman divorce by a li'an has no maintenance, even if she is pregnant

Because the husband has denied paternity.

33.7d Widows

In the ‘Idda period on account of being widowed, she has no right to maintenance but to lodging if the house belonged to the deceased or he rented it

If the marriage was consummated.

33.8 Confinement in ‘Idda

When she is divorced or widowed, she should not leave her house until her ‘Idda is over unless the owner of the house evicts her and will not accept a normal rent. Then she leaves and stays in the place to which she moves until the end of the ‘Idda

She is not moved from her house unless it is a case of necessity. She is permitted to go out to see to her needs: what this refers to is moving house. She must spend the night in her house. She does not leave for hajj during this time.

33.9 Nursing and custody of children

33.9a Nursing the child

The woman should nurse her child in the marriage unless someone of her status should not do so. A divorced woman can nurse the child for the father and she can take a fee for nursing if she wishes.

If she is married or has been divorced by a revocable divorce. In such a case she receives no fee. "A divorced woman" refers to a woman who is finally divorced or who has finished her ‘Idda. The right of nursing is a right in her favor, not one against her based on what is reported by Abu Dawud (rahmatullahi alaihi) that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said to a woman whose husband had divorced her and wanted to take her child from her, "You are more entitled to the child than he is as long as you do not re-marry."

33.9b Custody
After a divorce, the woman has custody of a boy until he reaches puberty and a girl until she marries and the marriage consummated.

This is the right of the mother, be she free or slave, Muslim, or Kitabi, sensible or foolish according to Shaikh ibn 'Arafa (rahmatullahi alaihi). This right also pertains if she is widowed. The girl's maintenance is owed by the father until her marriage is consummated.

33.9c Order of custody

After that if the mother dies or remarries, custody goes to the grandmother and then the maternal aunt. If there are no female relatives of the mother, then it goes to one of the sisters and paternal uncles. If there are none, then the agnate relatives

Custody goes first to the mother's mother and then the father's mother.

33.10 Recipients of Maintenance

33.10a The wife
A man is only responsible for the maintenance of his wife, whether she is rich or poor

A wealthy man is obliged to provide food, condiments, clothes and a dwelling once he has consummated the marriage or has been invited to do so while the woman is capable of intercourse. It does not matter whether she is wealthy or poor, Muslim or Kitabi, free or slave. A divorce can be imposed on him if he is unable to provide for him unless she knew of his inability in advance.

33.10b His poor parents and his poor parents

Who are free, whether they are Muslims or unbelievers and he acknowledges their poverty. If he denies that they are poor, they must prove but are not required to make an oath. Making them take an oath would involve disrespect.

33.10c His children: sons and to his young children who have no wealth. He is responsible for sons until they reach puberty if they have no crippling disability

This is free children, even if they are unbelievers. This means a disability which would prevent them from earning, as when they are insane or blind. Then the father is required to continue to support them.

33.10d His daughters and for girls until they marry and their marriages are consummated

Or the husband, who is adult, has been invited to consummate the marriage. When her husband divorces her or dies, her father is not responsible for her maintenance if she is adult. If she is not adult, it reverts to him.

33.10e He is not responsible for other relatives

These are the only relatives whose maintenance he is responsible for

He is not responsible for grandparents or grandchildren.

33.10f Providing the wife with servants

If he is wealthy enough, he should provide his wife with servants
This is an obligation when his wife is not someone who usually serves herself.

33.11 Burial

33.11a Burying slaves

He must also maintain his slaves and shroud them if they die.

The obligation is from the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) in the Sahih, "The best sadaqa is that given by the wealthy. The upper hand is better than the lower hand. Begin with your immediate dependents. The woman says, 'Either you feed me or release me, the slave says, 'Feed me and use me,' and the child says, 'Feed me until you let me go."

33.11b Shrouding the wife

Here is disagreement about shrouding the wife, Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it is done using her own money, and Shaikh Abdu'l-Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that it comes from the husband's money. Shaikh Sahnun (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that if she is wealthy her money is used, and if she is poor, it is done from her husband's money

If she is wealthy her money is used and the husband is not obliged to pay it because shrouding is part of maintenance which ends with death. Otherwise the tie of marriage obliges that he do it since he can wash her and she her private parts and they inherit from one another.

Chapter 34: Sales

This includes hire, partnership and all sale transactions, like cash sales and selling a debt, sound and invalid sales, the definition of the sale and transfer of goods.

There are three essential elements of the sale:

1. The seller and the buyer, both of whom must possess discrimination and so a sale of a child or mad person is not valid, and possess legal responsibility, which is a precondition for the sale being binding. Islam is a precondition for buying a Holy Qur'an or a Muslim slave.
2. The second is the price, which must be pure, consist of something which has a use, be something which can be handed over, known by both parties and something whose sale is not forbidden.

3. The third element is the form of the transaction which is the offer and acceptance, or that which indicates acceptance like customary behavior in such matters.

The author (rahmatullahi alaihi) begins the chapter with the words of Allah azza wa jall:

34.1 Exchange of money

"Allah has allowed trade and made usury unlawful." (Holy Qur’an 2:274)

34.1a. Legal status of usury

The Sunnah and consensus make it unlawful. If someone states that usury is lawful, there is no disagreement that he is an unbeliever.

34.1b. Usury in extending the terms of a debt
The usury practiced in the Jahiliyya in debts was that when they were due, they were either paid or delayed in exchange for a payment of usury.

In exchange for a delay, an increase was paid.

34.1c. Usury in exchange

Besides usury in exchange for delay, usury also consists of selling silver for silver, hand to hand, in unequal amounts. The same applies in the case of gold for gold. Silver for silver and gold for gold are not permitted except like for like, hand to hand. Gold for silver is usury except hand to hand.

The basis for the prohibition is that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Do not sell gold for gold, except like for like." The same applies to silver. "Hand to hand" means that the transaction is immediate.

34.2 Exchanges involving foodstuffs

34.2a. Immediacy in the exchange of stored foodstuffs
The same applies to food grains, beans and similar foods or condiments which can be stored. It is not permitted to exchange one category of them for the same category except hand to hand like for like. It is not permitted for there to be a delay in this.

This includes barley, millet, rice and all such grains. This would also apply to such condiments as vinegar and honey. The fact that a delay is not permissible is stressed when he says, "hand to hand" which means it must be immediate and direct. One considers likeness in terms of legal weighing or measurement. If no criterion has been transmitted from the Lawgiver about something, then one uses whatever the customary criterion is.

34.2b. Delay not allowed in foodstuffs

It is not permitted to exchange food for food with a delay, whether in the same category or different categories, and whether that can be stored or not.

This includes fruits like pomegranates and melons because a delay would entail usury.

34.2c. Exchange of perishables
There is nothing wrong with exchanging fruits and vegetables which cannot be stored in unequal amounts, even if they are of the same kind, provided it is hand to hand.

Fruits which cannot be stored are like apricots and apples. Disparity is permitted in them, even if they are stored in rare cases in certain climates. This is like the case with pears, in which there can be disparity in the well-known position.

It is not permitted to have a disparity in the same category of dried fruits and other condiments, food and drink which can be stored, except for water. There is nothing strong in exchanging different categories of other grains and fruit and foods in equal amounts from hand to hand. It is not permitted to have a disparity in the same category except in the case of fresh fruits and vegetables.

If the items are usually storable, like walnuts and almonds, then disparity is not permitted. This is a weak position in the School. The well-known position is that disparity is permitted in them.

Disparity is forbidden in food drink and condiments, food like honey and vinegar. Disparity is permitted in water, but it is not permitted to sell it for food on credit according to the well-known position.
The allowance for disparity in fruit and vegetables is based on the sound hadith in which the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said "When the categories are different, then sell however you wish."

His final statement includes storable and unstorable, and this contradicts what he said before about storable fruits, but we already stated that the well-known position is that disparity is allowed in them. The difference between the permission for fresh fruit and vegetables and its prohibition in the case of foodstuffs is that foodstuffs include that which can be stored and which is a major source of nourishment. Even if fruits and vegetables are stored at times, they are not a major food source.

Then he goes on to discuss those categories in which major disparity is not permitted.

34.2d. Categories of foods in which there can be no disparity

Wheat, barley and sult-barley comprise one category in respect of lawfulness and or unlawfulness. All sorts of raisins comprise one category. All sorts of dates comprise one category. Beans have different categories in regard to sales. The position of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) varies regarding this, but his position about them being one category for zakat purposes does not vary.

Sult is huskless barley. There can be no disparity in the exchange of raisins or dates although they have different varieties. Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that they have different categories while Shaikh ibn Wahb (rahmatullahi alaihi) states that they are the same category. For zakat purposes, the Mudawwana states that they are a single category.

34.2e. Meat

The meat of the quadrupeds and wild animals is considered to one category, the meat of all types of fowl is one category, and the flesh of all water creatures is one category. Fat falls into the category of the flesh from which it is extracted.

Quadrupeds are: camels, cattle, sheep and goats. Wild animals include gazelles and wildebeests. The category of fowls includes both wild birds and domestic ones. The flesh of an animal cannot be sold for its fat except like for like, hand to hand. The same applies to fish oil for fish: it can only be like for like, hand to hand.

34.2f. Animal products
Yogurt, cheese and butter are classified according to the category of the animals from which they are taken.

This is one of the unclear areas of the Risala as to whether they can be sold one for the other. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) and his people do not permit that. Shaikh al-Jazuli (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that what is meant is that the types of milk are one category, cheese is one category and butter is one category, and they are to sold like for like without disparity.

34.3 Selling goods not yet in one's possession

34.3a. Foods which cannot be sold before possession

Someone who buys food is not permitted to sell it before he takes possession of it, provided that the purchase was by weight, volume or number rather than unmeasured. That is the case for every food, condiment or drink except water.

It is confirmed that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade that. This general prohibition is then restricted to the categories mentioned. "Unmeasured" [jiuzaf] refers a sale without measure, weight or number. In such an (unmeasured) sale it is permitted to re-sell the goods before taking possession of them according to the well-known position because ownership is achieved by the contract. Therefore if it is destroyed before he takes possession of it, it is the buyer's liability. Water is excepted because it is not a food.

34.3b. Medicines and non-oil crops

Medicines and crops which are not pressed for oil are not among the foods which it is forbidden to sell before taking possession of them or which cannot be exchanged for unequal amounts of the same category.

Like honey which is compounded with other drugs and made into a medicine. Crops which are not pressed normally are like onion seeds, chard and white radish seeds, but not seeds like sesame and olives which are pressed for oil. It also includes things like onions, garlic, coriander, cumin, fennel and pepper. It is permitted to sell them before receiving them and disparity in amounts is also permitted.

34.3c. Selling borrowed food before taking possession of it

There is nothing wrong with selling borrowed food before taking possession of it.

It is permitted for the one who borrows to sell it before he has full possession of the loan, provided it is a cash sale. That is not permitted in a credit sale because if the borrower were to sell it on credit, that would invalid since it would be selling a debt for a debt.

34.3d. Partnership, cost resale and revocation of sales are permitted

There is nothing wrong with partnership in buying, in cost resale, or in revocation of a sale before taking possession, in the case of food which is measured.

There is nothing wrong with partnership in measured food stuffs before taking possession. That is when someone has a partner in some of it. There is nothing wrong in cost resale [tawliya], which is when he sells the commodity to someone for the same price he paid for it. There is nothing wrong in revocation, which is when the buyer withdraws from the seller or vice versa.

34.4 Transactions which entail risk

34.4a. Contracts which entail risk are not permitted

Every sales contract, hire or lease which contains danger or risk in respect of the price, the item purchased or the term at which payment is due is not permitted. It is not permitted to sell something uncertain or to sell something unknown or to sell to an unknown term.

Danger is when it is not certain that the commodity exists, as when someone says, "Sell me your horse in exchange for my profits tomorrow." Risk is when one is certain something exists but there are doubts about its soundness, as in selling fruits before they are ripe.

An example of what is forbidden when there is risk in the price is when someone buys goods in exchange for his stray camel. In regard to the purchased item it is like when someone buys a runaway slave. Risk in the term is when someone buys goods against the arrival of Zayd when he does not know when he will actually come.

34.5 Selling goods with hidden defects

34.5a. Deceit is not permitted

In selling, it is not permitted to conceal faults or to adulterate things, nor to overrate or mislead, nor to conceal defects. It is not permitted to mix the bad with the good, nor to conceal something about the goods which, if known, would make the buyer dislike it or which would reduce the price if were known.

Concealment [tadlis] is to know that there is a fault in the goods, but to conceal that from the buyer. Adulteration is to add something which is not part of the thing, like adding water to honey. Overrating is deceit by lying about the price as when someone says, "I bought it for twenty dinars and I will give you it to you for less!" Misleading is to gull with words as when the seller tells him, "Buy it from me and I will give you a reduction! "Nor is it permitted to mix poor wheat with good wheat.

It is not permitted to conceal defects which would put off the buyer, such as selling cloth which has been previously used as a shroud or by a leper. Something which would reduce the price is, for instance, if a new garment is impure or has been washed.

34.5b. Defects in slaves

If someone buys a slave and finds a defect in him, he can keep him without any compensation, or return him and get his money back, unless the slave has acquired a new corrupting defect while in his possession. If this is the case, the new owner may claim back the amount of the original defect from the price he paid, or he can return the slave and pay the depreciation caused by the new defect.
If he returns a slave because of a defect and has put him to work to earn revenue while he was with him, he keeps the revenue.

The same principle applies to buying slaves. The buyer has a choice between keeping the slave and returning him. If he keeps the slave, he receives nothing for the fault. He is allowed to return the slave because there might have been concealment [tadlis] in the sale. This principle applies to faults which can be concealed, not a fault it is impossible to conceal since it is evident, like blindness, or something which is necessarily hidden, like a nut which is found to be empty when opened. In such a case, there is nothing the buyer can say.

If the slave has acquired a new defect while in the possession of the buyer, it must be one which would seriously decrease his value.

If the buyer had the slave to work for him, he keeps the revenue from that work up until the time the deal is nullified, and he is not obliged to hand over any of that, since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Income is with responsibility." One of them said that the meaning of that is the as long as the goods are the responsibility of the buyer, he is entitled to the revenue. When the sale is nullified, then the seller is entitled to the revenue.
34.6 Selling merchandise on trial, a slave with a guarantee or a slave girl in seclusion

34.6a. Selling on trial [khiyar]

A sale with an option to cancel is permitted when the two parties stipulate a short period in which the buyer can test the goods or in which to seek advice. Immediate payment is not permitted in such a sale.

One or both parties can make this stipulation. It is permitted because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The buyer and seller have the option to withdraw as long as they have not parted." Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) transmitted that in the Muwatta' and stated that it was permitted. They can stipulate a short period which ends when the goods have been tested or until advice sought has been sought. The advice can be about the cheapness or dearness of the price, or about undertaking the purchase or sale. Testing can be about ascertaining the condition of the goods. That varies according to different goods. The option in the case of a riding animal is about three days. For slaves, it is about five days or a week in which to test his condition and work. There is about a month for a house.

34.6c. Slave with indemnification ('uhda)
Nor is immediate payment permitted in the case of a slave with a three day guarantee. [Holy Qur’an 34:14]

This is selling a slave provided that the seller has responsibility for any faults that come to light in the course of three days after the contract.

34.6d. A slavegirl in seclusion [muwada’a]

Nor is there immediate payment in the case of a slavegirl placed in seclusion to ascertain whether she is pregnant. The responsibility and maintenance in that period are that of the seller.

Payment is also not made immediately when a slavegirl in seclusion is sold. It is when a valuable slavegirl or one with whom the seller has had intercourse is put in the keeping of a trustworthy man or woman until it is clear whether or not she is pregnant.

Payment in these three cases is suspended when cash is stipulated because sometimes it will become a sale and sometimes it is a loan, and so it is unclear whether the payment is an advance or a price.
The seller is responsible for the goods in these cases, and for maintenance of the slavegirl, as long as it is not evident that the buyer is lying. In such a case, he must take an oath, even he is not suspected.

34.6e. When slavegirls are secluded

A slave girl is usually only secluded to see whether she is pregnant is when she is purchased to take to bed or when the seller states that he has had intercourse with her, even if she is ugly. The buyer cannot absolve the seller from the responsibility for the pregnancy unless it is clear and obvious. Absolving the seller of responsibility in things about the slave about which the seller has no knowledge is allowed.

This seclusion is an obligation for two types of slavegirl to ascertain if the woman is pregnant. One is when the buyer wants her to sleep with, even if the seller does not admit to intercourse with her since the most likely case is that intercourse might have occurred, and so the most likely is given the standing of the definite out of caution in sexual matters. The second case is a slavegirl with whom he had has intercourse in case she might be pregnant.
If the slavegirl is valuable and the buyer has not had intercourse with her, and he says that he is not responsible for any pregnancy, the sale is invalid. If she is clearly pregnant, then he may stipulate that he is not responsible for her pregnancy. He limits it to "valuable" rather than ugly. It is absolutely permitted to stipulate that he is not responsible for the pregnancy of an ugly slavegirl, whether that is clear or not.

One may absolve himself in the case of slaves, but not other things. That is the well-known position. The permissibility of that is limited to two things. One is that the seller does not know about it. If he knows that there is a fault and disclaims responsibility for it, that does not help him. The second is that he has remained a long time with it. If, for instance, he buys a slave and then sells him soon afterwards, stipulating his lack of liability, that is of no use.

34.6f. A mother may not be separated from her child

A mother and her child are not separated in a sale until the child has grown his second set of teeth.

It is not permitted to separate them. This applies to children by lineage and applies whether they, the mother and child, are Muslims or unbelievers, or one is Muslim and the other an unbeliever since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) made a general statement about that: "If someone separates a mother from her child, Allah azza wa jall will separate him from those he loves on the Day of Rising." [Shaikh at-Tirmidhi, hasan]. It is limited to the mother by lineage, not the mother by suckling. It is permitted to separate them if the relationship is only one of suckling. It does not include other relatives besides the mother, like the father. It is permitted to sell them separately.

The prohibition against separation has a point at which it ends. The second teeth refers to when the milk teeth fall out. Then it is permitted to sell them separately because the child is independent from his mother in eating, drinking, and sleeping.

34.7 Responsibility in an invalid sale

34.7a. Basic rule of responsibility for the goods

In an invalid sale, the seller remains responsible for the goods. But if the buyer has taken possession of them, he is responsible for them from the time he has them in his possession.

An invalid sale would be like one conducted during the adhan for Jumu'a. The seller remains responsible because it is still his property and ownership has not been transferred to the buyer. If the buyer has taken possession of them, he is responsible because he has not taken them as a trust, but as a sort of quasi-ownership. That is the reason given by Shaikh Abdu'l-Wahhab (rahmatullahi alaihi). Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) stated there is some confusion in his reasoning, since it is obvious, as stated before, that there is no transfer in an invalid sale while there must be a transfer according to his argument. It is possible that he means that his taking possession is quasi-ownership is based on his claim. When he takes possession, thinking that he is taking ownership and then causes damage, he is responsible, even if ownership has not been transferred to him in reality. That is why he is liable. That applies from the moment he takes possession of the goods, not from the moment he makes the contract. If the contract had been sound, he would have been responsible from the moment the contract was concluded.

34.7b. Consequences of buyer responsibility

So if the market price changes or the commodity is altered, then the buyer must pay its price on the day he bought it and does not return it. If, however, it is something sold by measure or weight, he must return its equivalent. Real estate is unaffected by market changes.

The market price can rise or fall. If the commodity is altered and it is possible to assess its value, the buyer must pay that amount, whatever it is, even it is more than the original price, not the price on day of the judgment, and then he does not have to return the goods if they still exist. If it is something replaceable, which can be weighed, measured or counted, then he returns the equivalent. If it is impossible to return the like, then he must pay the price. An example of this is fresh dates when their time has passed. Then the price is assessed on the day he is unable to pay.

Real estate is not affected because usually land is bought for private use, and so a change in the price is not investigated, which is not the case with other things.

34.8 Free loans [salaf]

i.e. not a loan meant as an investment

34.8a Illegal transactions in loans

It is not permitted to make a loan in exchange for some benefit [for the lender]. It is not permitted to combine a sale and a loan in a single transaction. The same applies if the loan is combined with hire or rental.

That is because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade that. That is like when someone has some poor quality wheat and lends it to someone who takes it from him in exchange for repaying it with good wheat.
An example of the form of combining a sale and a loan is when two goods are sold for two dinars with a month's credit and then one of them is bought for a dinar in cash. So it is as if the seller has taken one item and a dinar in cash and at the end of the term, he takes two dinars: one in exchange for the goods, which is a sale, and the second in exchange for the dinar in cash, which is a loan.

Nor is permitted to couple a loan with hire or rent as a precondition for making the loan, because hire or rent are a form of sale and not a special quality in themselves. It is not permitted to make a loan a precondition of marriage, partnership, the qirad loan, musaqa or money changing.

To sum up, no contract entailing compensation can be combined with a loan.

34.8b. What can be lent

A loan is permitted in everything except slave girls or silver ore.

A loan [salaf] means giving something with the intention of pleasing Allah azza wa jall so that the borrower can use it and then return its equivalent. It is permitted, i.e. recommended, in items which will be useful for the borrower and relieve his difficulties. It can also become obligatory or forbidden in certain cases. It is allowed in everything which it is lawful to own, even if it is not valid to sell it, and thus includes the tanned skin of carrion and the meat of sacrifices.

Slavegirls are an exception to this because that would lead to lending sexual favors, although a loan of a slavegirl can be made to a woman or to a child who is of an age where he cannot have intercourse. That is permitted as stated by Shaikh al-Lakhmi (rahmatullahi alaihi) and others.

34.9 Surrendering borrowed or sold property

34.9a. No reductions or increases allowed for a change in the collection date

A reduction in the debt is not permitted in order to hasten its collection nor can it be delayed in exchange for an increase in the amount due.

This is according to the well-known position. The fuqaha' call this case "putting down and expediting". Its form is that one man owes a debt to another which is due at a certain time, like a hundred dirhams with a month's credit. The one owed the debt tells him, "Give me the fifty now and I will reduce it by fifty for you." This is forbidden because whoever moves up a thing before it is obliged becomes a borrower. So it is as if the payer is lending the one owed the money fifty dirhams in exchange for his responsibility when the 100 are due. So it is a loan in exchange for an increase. If that occurs, what he took from him is returned to him. When the term comes, the lender takes all that he was first due, which is 100.

The same applies to delaying the debt in exchange for an increase, as happened in the Jahiliyya because that is borrowing for an increase. When the time for repayment comes, the person who owes the debt says, "Give me a delay and I will give you more than you are owed."

34.9b. Not granting an increase in return for earlier possession

Goods are not collected sooner in exchange for increase in them when there is a sale involved.

That is part of getting rid of responsibility for the goods. An example of a case in which you are given an increase is when you buying a hundred garments of known description from a man and he tells you, "Take your garments," and you reply, "I will leave them with you. I have no need of them now." He says, "Take them away and I will give you five more." That five is in return for canceling his responsibility for them.
34.9c. Returning borrowed goods before they are due

There is no harm in returning a loan early with an increase which is only in the quality.

There are two preconditions here. One is that the goods are part of a loan and the second is that the increase is only in the quality. For instance, if the borrowed garment is one of poor quality, he says, "I will give you better than it if I return it early.

34.9d. Returning a loan with an increase

There is disagreement about when someone repays a trade loan [qard] with an additional amount at the time of repayment when there was no stipulation, promise or custom to do so. Ashhab allowed that, but Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) disliked it and did not allow it.

"At the time of repayment due (lit. meeting of settlement)" is the moment in which it is paid, whether that is before or after the agreed term. A stipulation about this would be, for example, when the lender says, "I will not lend to you unless you give me more than I lent you." A custom refers to the borrower who normally gives more when he repays. The reason for allowing it is that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The best of people is the one who is the best in payment, and the best of you is the one who is the best repayment," as Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) said. The literal words of the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) would mean that Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) allowed it absolutely, whether a little or a lot of increase. What Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) actually allowed is a small increase like a dinar in a hundred and one ardib in a hundred. It is possible that Shaikh Ashhab's (rahmatullahi alaihi) position applies both to a little and a lot. Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) disliked doing that with a prohibitive dislike in the well-known position.

34.9e. Payment before the loan is due

If someone owes dinars or dirhams as the result of a sale or a loan which has a set term, he can pay them before they are due. He can also hand over goods or food from a loan early, but not when it is because of a sale.

That is because the term is his right. If he forgoes his right, then the lender must accept it and is compelled to do so. This is the same for a loan or a debt. He cannot be compelled to accept it in the case of in a sale or an advance because they both have a right in that case. A seller is not compelled to accept early payment, even if it is only a day or two.

34.10. Risky things which may not be sold
34.10a. Not selling fruits or grain before they are ripe

It is not permitted to sell fruits or grain whose ripeness has not appeared, but it is permitted to sell them when the ripeness of some of them has appeared, even if that is on one palm tree among many.

This refers to fruit on trees, like dates and grapes while they are still green, or grain which has not developed, like wheat and broad beans. It is not permitted because there is no legal use in the sale before ripeness appears. The appearance of the ripeness of dates is when they turn red or yellow. Its appearance in crops like grapes is when sweetness appears. The appearance in grain is that it is dry. Any contract formed before that is void.

It is permitted to sell fruits when some of them are ripe, even one palm tree as long it is not a bakura, which is a tree which ripens well before the others so that the goodness of the others does not immediately follow it. It is not permitted to sell a garden on the basis of the soundness of the fruit of such a tree, but the fruits of that tree on its own can be sold.

34.10b. Not selling things which one does not have
It is not permitted to sell fish which are still in rivers or pools, nor can one sell a fetus still in its mother's womb, nor the fetus of what is in the wombs of other animals. It is not permitted to sell the offspring of unborn camels nor to sell the sperm of male camels nor to sell a runaway slave or stray camel.

The prohibition about fish is based on what Imam Ahmad (rahmatullahi alaihi) transmitted about the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) forbidding buying fish still in water, i.e. due to uncertainty, and the uncertainty in it has two aspects. One is the lack of the ability to hand the fish over, and the fish might be little or large.

It is also not permitted to sell a fetus, human or animal, because of the uncertainty since one does not know whether it will be born alive or dead, fully formed or not fully formed, male or female.

It is not permitted to sell the offspring of unborn camels, and that is because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade such a sale, which is called habal al-habala. Ibn Wahb explained it as the offspring of a camel's offspring. It cannot be concealed that this entails great uncertainty. If it is forbidden to sell what is in the womb, how can one sell the future offspring of what is in the womb!
It is not permitted to sell the sperm of camels since it is confirmed that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade selling the stud uses of a camel. Shaikh ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "If that is limited to a number of times or a period of time, then it is permitted. Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) related that it is disliked because of its prohibition.

A runaway slave is not to be sold while he is on the run because of the forbidden uncertainty. If he is resident or it is clear that he is no longer on the run, then it is permitted, i.e. when a time is stipulated as, for example, when he says, "The end of his being on the run is four days." Or it can be limited by place, as he says, "His being on the run will end at Alexandria." The same ruling applies to stray camels because of the uncertainly about the ability to get hold of them.

34.11 Dogs

34.11a It is not permitted to sell dogs

Selling dogs is forbidden. There is disagreement about whether one can sell those dogs which are permitted to be kept.

The prohibition derives from what is reported in Muslim where the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade the proceeds from the sale of dogs, money earned through prostitution and the earnings of a soothsayer. The disagreement is about dogs which are used as guard dogs and for hunting. There are two well-positions about whether that is permitted or prohibited.

34.11b. Liability for killing dogs

If someone kills such a dog, he is liable for its price.

If someone kills a dog it is permitted to keep, he must pay the price according to the position that it is permitted to sell it. As for dogs not permitted to be kept, there is no price for such a dog.

34.12 Muzabana exchange

A sale of something which entails dealing with something whose weight, measure or number is unknown.

34.12a. It is not permitted to sell meat for a live animal

It is not permitted to sell meat for a live animal of the same species.

That is because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade that and because it is selling something known for something unknown, which is one meaning of muzabana. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) considers the prohibition to be specific to meat in exchange for a live animal of the same type, as the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) indicates here. The species in this case means the linguistic category for the type and the class, like selling beef, for instance, for sheep. In the Mukhtasar, the prohibition is limited to meat which has not been cooked. Otherwise it is permitted, as it is permitted to sell it for other than its species, like selling mutton for birds.

34.12b. Combining two sales in the same contract not permitted

It is not permitted to have two sales in the same contract. That is when someone can buys goods for either five in cash or ten on credit, and the sale becomes binding after one of the two prices is paid.

It is confirmed that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade that. There are two forms of that. One is when someone buys the same goods for two prices. The Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) indicated that here, which is either paying five in cash or ten on credit and the sale becomes binding once one price is paid. He used the price to designate the sale as the price is one of the essential elements of the sale. The second form is to sell two different commodities for one price, like a garment and a sheep, as a requirement of the sale. The precondition for its being forbidden is because that becomes binding for one or both parties and because of the uncertainty entailed since the seller does not know the price he was paid nor the seller what he paid. If it is not binding, then it is permitted.

34.12c. Not selling dried fruits for fresh ones

It is not permitted to sell dried dates for fresh ones, nor raisins for grapes, whether for disparate amounts or equal amounts, nor any type of fresh fruit for the dried fruit of the same type. This is muzabana which is forbidden.

This cannot be done, either in similar or disparate amounts, since it is confirmed that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) was asked about selling dried dates for fresh ones and he asked, "Do dried dates reduce in size when they are dried?" "Yes," they replied. He (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Then no." Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "They are not sold." Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that there is no harm in that.

It is also not permitted to sell raisins for grapes in disparate or equal amounts because there can be no equivalence in them, because when dried, the fresh may be more than the dried, or less or the same. This is uncertainty and lack of knowledge of actual equivalence, and is tantamount to actual disparity. Disparity is not permitted because they are the same category. This applies to any sort of fresh fruit in exchange for dried. This would include grains and any fruits which differ when they fresh from how they are when dried. He excludes different types because disparity is permitted when the two are different types.

Muzabana is forbidden, which here is selling something known for something unknown of the same type. We consider muzabana to be confined to things susceptible to usury, even if the hadith which explains it uses something which is susceptible to usury.

34.12d. Not selling undetermined quantity for a determined quantity

One does not sell an undetermined amount for a measured amount of the same commodity, nor an undetermined amount for an undetermined amount of the same category unless the difference between the two is clear and it is something in which disparity in the same category is permitted.

This is like selling a heap of wheat whose measure is unknown for a heap of wheat whose measure is unknown since it is muzabana when it is the same category. When the two categories are different, that is permitted provided it is obvious, i.e. the two categories are clearly different, be it selling an unknown for a known or vice versa, whether or not the difference is evident.
When it is clear that there is difference between the measured quantity and the unmeasured, or the unmeasured and the unmeasured, it is permitted to sell them if they are a category in which disparity is permitted. This cannot be done with something which is storable and a stable food, nor with gold or silver.

34.13 Selling Absent Goods

34.13a. Absent goods can be sold based on their description

There is nothing wrong with selling an absent article based on its description. Pre-payment is not to be stipulated unless its location is close or it is something safe from change, like a house, land or a tree. Pre-payment can be made for these.

This is according to Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) and his people, with certain preconditions. One is that the item is described. Shaikh ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that the apparent meaning of his words is that if it is sold without a description and it not been seen, then it is not allowed. If it is, he has an option to cancel when he sees it. That is what is stated in the chapter on uncertainty in the Mudawwana.

The second precondition is that someone other than the seller describes it because the seller is not reliable in his description since he intends to augment its description so that the goods will sell. The precondition for its being described by other than the seller is when there is prepayment, even voluntarily. Otherwise, the description of the seller is accepted as probable.

The third precondition is that the goods are not very far away. This is a precondition if the sale is definite. If there is an option to cancel, it is permitted because there is no harm to the buyer.

The fourth is that pre-payment is not stipulated. It is forbidden because it is not possible to hand over the goods so that he pays the price but does not receive the goods and thus it becomes a loan.

34.13b. Exceptions to forbidding prepayment

He makes two exceptions to forbidding obliging pre-payment. One is when the absent goods are near to the place, whether it is animals, commodities or immovable property, like a day or two. The second exception is when the sale concerns one of the categories mentioned. It is something which is safe from sudden change, unlike the situation with animals. It is not permitted to make a precondition for prepayment of categories subject to change when they are located far away.

34.14 Slaves sold with an indemnification
34.14a. Indemnification ['uhda] is permitted in slaves

A guarantee is permitted in selling a slave when that is stipulated or it is the local custom. In the three day guarantee the seller is completely responsible for defects in that slave, and in a year's guarantee, he is only responsible for insanity or either type of leprosy.

An ‘uhda is a contract in which responsibility for the goods remains that of the seller after the contract for a certain period. It is permitted in the case of slaves but not animals because a slave has the ability to conceal his defects, which is not the case with other commodities, and he may be concealing a defect which the buyer will dislike, and its concealment may be due to harm or dislike in the seller. The period of indemnification is set when it is stipulated in the contract or when the ruler obliges people to do that. If none of this exists, then it is not set.

For three days the seller is responsible for everything, even death, drowning, burning or suicide. If the buyer finds an illness within the three days, he can return the slave without evidence. If that occurs after three days, he must produce evidence that the slave had that illness when he purchased him. The buyer is responsible for the feeding and clothing of the slave in this period and any revenue he earns in that period belongs to the buyer.
In the year's guarantee, the seller is only liable for three things. One is insanity, which is by jinn possession or nature, not due to a blow or rapture. He is not returned since it is possible to cure that by treatment which differs from the first two cases. The other two things are the two forms of leprosy [whitening and that which involves mutilation]. The contract is specific to these diseases. That is because their causes can exist while they only manifest themselves at certain times of the year, as is the custom of Allah azza wa jall in the effect of that cause in that season. So the four seasons must be passed through, which is a full year, to show that he is clear of these defects.

34.15 Sale with advance payment [salam]

34.15a Advance payment is permitted

There is nothing wrong in advance payment [salam] for goods, slaves, animals, food and condiments, provided the goods have a known description and there is a set term of delivery. The price is to be paid immediately, or with a short delay of something like two or three days, if that is stipulated in the contract.

This is also called salaf, and it is a term used to designate a type of sale in which what is purchased is not collected immediately.
Its reality is that the price is advanced and delivery of the goods purchased delayed. The Book, Sunnah and consensus indicate that it is allowed. The evidence in the Book is the words of Allah azza wa jall, "Allah has permitted trade." (Holy Qur'an 2:274) As for the Sunnah, it is reported in the two Sahih Collections that Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) said, 'When anyone pays in advance for something, it must be for a specified measure and specified weight for a specified term." The Community agree that it is permitted.

It is allowed in the commodities he mentioned provided the goods for which the advance is paid have a known category, amount and quality as he indicated. If the purchase is food, then its type must be specified, either wheat, barley, or millet, or if it is fruit, it is specified, whether raisins or dates. The amount is specified by whatever is the custom in measure, weight, number or length or whatever. The description must be specific. If it is food, he mentions what describes it. If it is an animal, then the species is mentioned, its color, and whether it is male or female.

Two things are considered about the term. It is must be known and it is a length of time in which market prices can change. Its minimum is half a month. It is not valid to give an advance for immediately delivery according to what is common in the school.

34.15b. Preconditions of the payment
He indicates preconditions of the payment, and that he must pay the entire price because when he pays some and delays some, it is invalid because it is a debt for a debt. There can be a short delay of a day or two if it is not stipulated that he pay cash when the contract is made. It is permitted for the advance to be paid after two or three days. That is still considered immediate payment, and he mentions this specifically. His words would mean that if it is longer than that, such a precondition is not allowed.

34.15c. Delivery of the goods paid for in advance

We prefer for the delivery of the goods paid for by advance to be fifteen days, or for it to be collected from another town, even if that is two or three days distant. According to more than one scholar, it is permitted to pay three days in advance and collect it in the same town in which the advance was paid. Others dislike that.

That is because the market generally changes in such a period. It is clear that it is about that. That is like when he says, "We prefer for the length of the advance to be up to fifteen days." The school of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) is the term of the advance is that in which something like it will change its price in markets without that being specifically defined. The subject of the disagreement is when the price of the advance is paid when the goods for which the advance is paid are in the same town. If each of them are in different towns, the term mentioned is not a precondition, as he indicated.

If the goods are in another town other than where the advance is paid, the distance between the two is the term for the advance, because usually there is a difference of prices in different places. It does not matter if it is only half a day.

Some scholars, including Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi), allow the advance in the same town, while others, like Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi), dislike it.

34.15d. An advance cannot be with the same type of goods

It is not permitted for the payment to consist of the same type of goods as that for which the advance payment is made. No advance is made of the same type or similar type of goods unless he lends him something to be repaid with something of the same quality and quantity, and the borrower enjoys the benefit.

This is when the goods for which the advance is made are more than the payment, like one qintar of iron for two qintars because the object of an advance is to bring about a benefit. The same holds when it is less, like two garments for one garment of the same type because it is a liability in exchange for a wage. When the payment for the advance is similar to the goods in description and amount, it is permitted, as he states here, like donkeys for asses, or linen slaves for cotton slave because their uses are close.

An exception to the prohibition against advancing a thing of the same type is a loan which is repaid with its like. The borrower enjoys the use, but it is not permitted for the lender to be the one who benefits.

34.16. Exchange of debts

34.16a. It is not permitted to sell a debt for a debt.

It is not permitted to sell a debt for a debt.

It is related that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade selling an outstanding debt for an outstanding debt. The people of language say that that means a delayed payment for a delayed payment, meaning a debt in exchange for a debt. According to the fuqaha', it denotes three things: selling a debt for a debt, contracting a debt in exchange for a debt, and abrogating one debt by another debt. So the expression, "selling a debt for a debt" has two applications which includes three forms.

34.16b. A forbidden aspect
One form of that is to stipulate delay of payment for the salam sale until the goods are delivered, or to delay payment more than three days after the contract.

Payment of the salam cannot be set for more than three days after the contract. It is part of "a debt for a debt" because it prolongs the responsibilities of both.

34.16c. Not canceling one debt by another debt

Nor is it permitted to cancel one debt by another debt. That is when someone owes you something and you cancel it by allowing him to pay you something else at a latter date.

An example of this is that he owes you ten dinars on a year's credit. Then cancel it for ten garments, for instance. If the cancellation is at the term or shorter than it, there are two positions. One is that is permitted, which appears to be most logical. It is also said that it is forbidden, and that is the better known position.

34.17 Sale of goods one does not have
It is not permitted to sell something which you do not have if it is stipulated that you must deliver it immediately.

If it is clear that if he wants immediate delivery. This is when he sells something for which he is responsible and does not have and so he must go to the market and buy it and then hand it over to the buyer. This entails risk and uncertainty, because he may or may not find it, and if he does find it, he will buy it for more than the price for which he sold and must make up the price himself, and is forbidden foolishness, or he buys it for less and consumes the rest falsely, which is not permitted.

34.18 Reversal of sale on time

When you sell some goods to be paid for later, you may not buy them back by paying in cash less than you sold it for or by taking a shorter term to pay for it than the term given to the original buyer, nor can you pay more for it or take a longer term to pay for it than the original term. It is permitted to buy it at the original date, and that is fair exchange [muqassa].

The sale in the first example is when he sells a garment for ten dirhams for a month and then buys it for five in cash. The example of the second is that he sells it to him for one hundred for a month and then buys it for fifty for fifteen days. Both cases are forbidden because they entail a loan in exchange for an increase because he pays a little in order to take more than it.

Another case is when you sell goods for a price on credit. You cannot then buy them back for more than the price, as when a man sells goods for one hundred for a month and then buys them for one hundred fifty for two months because that entails a debt for a debt. If you sell goods for a price on credit and then buy them for a price on credit for the same term, that is permitted whether the price is more or less or the same, because there is no reason to be on guard. Fair exchange is when you see goods for one hundred for a month and then buy it for one hundred on credit. This is responsibility for one hundred. So at the end there is one hundred for one hundred.

34.19 Buying in undetermined amounts [juzaf]

34.19a It is permitted to buy in unmeasured amounts

There is nothing wrong in buying undetermined amounts of things which can be measured or weighed, except for dinars and dirhams which are minted. It is, however, permitted in the case of pieces of gold and silver.

"Undetermined" means not weighed, measured or counted. "Nothing wrong" means it is permitted. In the Sahih we read that the Companions, may Allah azza wa jall be pleased with all them, sold fruits in undetermined amounts. It is, however, forbidden to sell minted dinars and dirhams in undetermined amounts because that is part of what contains risk and gambling. It is permitted with pieces of gold and silver unless they are used for currency. When they are used as currency, then it is not permitted to do that.

34.19b. Things which can be easily counted are not sold uncounted

It is not permitted to buy slaves and garments in undetermined amounts, nor other things which can be counted without difficulty.

This would also be like two gardens. It is easy to count small numbers.

34.20. Right to the accessories of items sold

34.20a. Pollinated palms and crops

If someone sells date palms after they have been pollinated, the fruit belongs to the seller unless the buyer stipulates that is part of the sale. It is the same with other types of fruit. Pollinating [ibar] is using the male blossoms to pollinate the female, but in respect of crops, it means when they spout from the soil.

This is when all or most trees have been pollinated. The fruit still belongs to the seller unless it is part of the contract. This is a general principle which applies to all sorts of fruit, like grapes and olives. Pollination of palms means to put pollen on the fruit from the male palm tree. In other than palms, like peaches and figs, it is when the fruits begin to grow so that they can be seen. The well-known position about crops is that it is when they start to emerge. So if someone buys sowed land in which has not yet appeared, he obtains the seeds in it.

34.20b. A slave's possessions

If someone sells a slave who owns some property, that property belongs to the seller, unless the buyer stipulates otherwise.

He stipulates it for the slave, not for himself. If he stipulates it for himself, that it is forbidden if the price was gold or silver, and the property is gold or silver.

34.21 Examining items

34.21a Buying items unseen but described
There is nothing wrong in buying what is bags with a known description on rosters.

This is permitted. Even though the basis is forbidden, it is permitted because of the difficulty and hardship entailed for the seller in untying the bags which may sully what is in itself and be a great burden if the buyer is not satisfied. So the description takes the place of actual seeing. What is meant by rosters is a written description. If he finds the contents to be what is on the roster, then the sale is binding and the buyer has no option to cancel. If he finds that the contents are different, he has an option to make the sale binding or cancel it.

34.21b. What one cannot buy without seeing it

It is not permitted, however, to buy cloth which is not unfolded nor described nor to buy if it is a dark night when the buyer and seller cannot see it or know what is in it. The same holds for buying an animal on a dark night.

Literally it would mean that if it is described, it is permitted. The well-known position is that it is not permitted because there is no hardship involved in bringing it out and unfolding it. His words might also give rise to the impression that if it is a moonlit night, it permitted. According to the Mudawwana it is absolutely not permitted, whether it is a dark or moonlit night.

Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) also says that about selling flock animals. Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) makes a distinction about that whose meat is eaten, which can be sold since it possible to test it at night by touching it with the hand to clarify the aim of it being fat or lean.

34.22 Bidding

34.22a. No bidding when a sale is about to be concluded

No one should bid against his brother's bid when the two parties are satisfied and near to closing a deal, but he can do so at the beginning of the bidding.

A sale is finalized verbally, even if the two parties have not physically separated.

It is forbidden when the buyer and seller are close to agreement and only the finalization remains. Shaikh at-Tata'i (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that bidding in sales to seeking to increase the price.

We believe that sales are concluded by a verbal agreement, or what indicates it, like a gesture or handing over, even if they have not separated. The hadith says that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The buyer and seller have the option as long as they have not separated." Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) takes the separation to be by words.

Then he begins to discuss transactions which resemble sales.

34.23. Hiring services by time, piece-work and renting

34.23a. Hiring services is permitted

Hiring services [ijara] is permitted when the two parties set the length of time and the payment.

In a hadith, we read that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "I will be the antagonist of three people on the Day of Rising: a man who makes a covenant in My name and then betrays it, a man who sells a free man and then consumes the money he gets for him, and a man who hires an employee and gets full work from him and then does not pay him his wages." This hadith is in the two Sahih Collections. The apparent meaning of the words is that there must be a term set for every employment, but that is not the case when the types of employment do not need a term. It is work whose end is when it is finished, like sewing and weaving. Naming the payment is necessary, as Shaikh ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi) said. When it is not named, that is not allowed unless it is something common which does not vary, and then it is permitted.

34.23b. Piece-work jobs

No term is fixed in a contract to recover a runaway slave or a lost camel, or to dig a well, to sell a garment or similar things. He receives nothing until the work is complete.

It is not set because that would increase the uncertainty about wage since the term pay pass before the work is complete and so his work will be for nothing, or he make take what he is not entitled to if the work is complete before the end of the term. A piece-work job can consist of many things, like the cases mentioned here.

Something similar is stated in the Mukhtasar. Shaikh Bahram (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "It may be something in which the contractor only obtains a useful benefit when the work is complete. How will he obtain that benefit if the work is not complete? He must receive an amount which he benefits by. An example of that if when he looks for a runaway slave in one area and does not find him there, there is some benefit for the contractor because he knows that he is not that area." It is understood from the words of the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) and the Mukhtasar that when the work is not complete, he gets nothing, and that is the case. That is the case since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "There is a camel load for the one who brings it."

34.23c Someone hired to sell something by the end of a term

If someone is hired to sell something by the end of a term and he still has not sold it at the end of the time, he is entitled to his full wage. If he sells it after half the term, he only receives half the wage.

This is when he is hired to sell a specific item. The reason for this is that when the hire is connected to uses, each of part of it is in return for a part of the uses. If it is said that it was already stated that no term can be put on a job whereas here he mentions the end of the term and so this is a contradiction, the answer is that it is not a contradiction because before he was speaking about piece-work and here it is hire, which is not allowed without a term as Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi'Allahu anhu) stated.

34.23d Renting [kira']

Renting is like selling as far what is lawful or unlawful is concerned. If someone rents a particular riding animal to go to a certain place and the animal dies, the rest of the hire is canceled. It is the same when an employee dies, or when a house is rented but collapses before the end of the term.

Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi'Allahu anhu) said that renting [kira'] is used for that which is without intelligence and hiring (ijara) is for that with intelligence. It resembles sales in respect of having a known term and known rent, and in being forbidden without a known term and the like. The difference between hire and rent begins with his description of renting a riding animal. It indicates that renting is used for selling the use of an animal which has no understanding. He calls an employee ajir, because he has intelligence.

Renting the use of an animal is like when he says, "Rent me this animal," which he points at it, "so that I can use it for travel to a certain place." If the animal then dies, or is confiscated or claimed, the rent is canceled and he pays for the distance he has traveled, without consideration for the first rent because it might be cheap or expensive.

If an employee is hired for a particular job for a known period to work in a house or tend sheep, the same ruling as that of the animal applies. The rest of the hire is canceled. The same applies when all or part of a house collapses or there is great harm in it or its burns or is claimed before the end of the rent, whether the rent is monthly or yearly. It is canceled and he pays for the time he lived there.

34.23e Teachers and doctors

There is nothing wrong in a teacher teaching the Holy Qur'an being paid when the student has mastered it and for a doctor to be employed provides he cures the patient.

It is permitted to employ someone to teach the Holy Qur'an to children until they master it, i.e. memorize it, all or part. There is also no harm in hiring a doctor who is paid when he cures the patient.

34.23f The death of a renter does not end the rental

The rental of an animal or house does not end with the death of the renter nor does the hire of a shepherd end by the death of the sheep. The sheep should be replaced with a similar flock.

That is because the item rented remains and the heirs can rent it for its like or less. In the case a shepherd, if he is not given a new flock, he is paid the full wage.
34.23g. When a rented animal dies

If someone rents out an animal with a guarantee and then the animal dies, he should provide another. If the rider dies, the rental is not canceled and his heirs must hire another rider.

An example is when he says, "Rent me an animal I can use to get to such-and-such a place." If the animal dies, the one who rented it to him must replace it because the uses are his responsibility and not connected to this particular animal. If the rider dies, i.e. when someone rents an animal and pays for it and then dies, the rent is not canceled. His heirs rent the animal for someone who is like him in ability and condition.

34.23h Destruction of implements

If someone rents a household implement or something else, he is not liable for it if it is destroyed or lost while in his possession. His word is believed about that until it can be proven that he is lying.

"Implement" [ma’un] is a general term for utensils in the house, like pots, platters, axes, and sieves. "Something else" would be like a garment or riding animal. If he says it is destroyed, the one who rented is believed unless there is evidence to the contrary and then he is liable. This is like when he says, "It was destroyed at the beginning of the month," and then it is seen with him after that. It is understood by "in his possession" that if he removes it from his possession and it was destroyed by someone else, he is liable since he rented it to someone not trustworthy or someone heavier or more injurious than him.

34.23i Artisans' responsibility

Artisans are responsible for things they lose, whether they are working for a wage or not.

Artisans are those who set themselves up to work for their livelihood, like tailors. They are responsible for the value of things they lose, assessed on the day they took possession of those things, and receive no wage for the work they did on them, i.e. because they are responsible for the value of the item before any work done on it. It states in the Mawwaziyya, "The owner cannot say, 'I will pay the wage and take its value after the work.'" Shaikh ibn Rushd (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "Unless the artisan confirms that he lost it after the work was done."

34.23j Bath house owners

The owner of a public bath house is not liable [for belongings lost by clients].
Shaikh ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that his words mean that he is renting out and is not a guard for the clothing. Abdullah ibn Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) stated the opposite of this. He (radhi’Allahu anhu) said that the owner of a bath house is a guard of the belongings, whether he guards them for a fee or without a fee. This is where they are stolen or destroyed by the command of Allah azza wa jall. As for when he says, "A man came and asked for them and I thought that he was their owner and so I gave them to him," then he is liable. The same applies when he says, "I saw the one who took them and I thought that he was their owner." Shaikh ibn al-Musayyab (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "The owner of the bath house is responsible, and that is what Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi) said.

34.23k Ship owners

The owner of a ship is not liable [for lost cargo or damage]. A ship owner is not paid his hire until he delivers his cargo.

He is not liable for the ship floundering because of wind or waves. He does not receive his hire until he delivers the cargo because the fee for the ship is one that of hire. If the aim is not achieved, the fare is not deserved. It is said that he is paid a fare according to how far the ship traveled. That seems likely because it is more appropriate to connect the rent of the ship to hire than to connect it to piece-work because the end is known and the wage is known and so he is paid according to the distance traveled.

34.24 Partnership of labor and capital

34.24a. Partnership of labor

There is nothing wrong in a having partnership in physical labor when the partners work in the same place with the same work, or do work that is similar.

It is the permission of each of the two partners to work together. The evidence for that is in the Sahih from Zuhra ibn Ma'bad (radhi’Allahu anhu). He (radhi’Allahu anhu) used to go out to the market with his grandfather to buy food. Abdullah ibn Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) and ibn az-Zubayr (radhi’Allahu anhu) would meet him and say to him, "Be our partner. The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) prayed for you to have blessing," so he (radhi’Allahu anhu) would be their partner. Often he would get a camel's load as profit and sent it home.

They work in the same place with the same work. This is the position of the Mudawwana. Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) explains it as being well-known. The 'Utbiyya allows it to be in several places when the work they do is the same. The author of the Mukhtasar says that it well-known. The same sort of work is like two tailors. "Close" means that the work of one of them depends on the work of the other, as when one prepares the spinning to be woven and the other does the weaving. When the work is different and not similar, like a tailor and blacksmith, partnership is not permitted because of the uncertainty since the work of this one rather than that one may be sold and he will take what he is not entitled to from his companion.

34.24b. Partnership of capital

A partnership in pooled capital is permitted provided the profit is shared between according to the size of the investment of each of them. The work of each is also in proportion to percentage of the profit stipulated for him. It is not permitted to share the profit equally if their investments differ.

Capital partnership is in dinars and dirhams invested by both sides by consensus, and by food with the same description and category according to Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) while Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) forbade that, i.e. forbade that with the same description, category and amount, let alone different ones.
When it is said that it is permitted, the profit shared between them and the work is in proportion to the size of the investment. For instance, if one of them pays 100 and the other 200, the profit and loss is divided into thirds between them.

34.25 Investment loans [qard]

34.25a. Investment loans [qirad] are made with money

An investment loan [qirad] is permitted with dirhams and dinars, and it is also allowed with unminted gold and silver.

There are certain preconditions for a qirad. One is that it be in gold or silver, whether that is done by number or weight.

34.25b. Investment loans are not made in merchandise

A qirad made in goods is not permitted. In such a case, the borrower is like an employee who sells them. If he then trades with the price, this then becomes an investment loan.

An investment loan cannot be in any weighed or measured things because the basic root of the qirad is uncertainty because the... wage is unknown since the agent does not know whether or not he will have a profit. Its amount is according to the profit. The investor does not know whether there is a profit or not and whether or not he will get his capital back. That is uncertainty because of these aspects. However the Lawgiver allowed it out of necessity since the people needed to transact trade with it. That amount of it which the Lawgiver permitted is what is permitted. It consists of minted cash or what has the same ruling in the form of pieces of gold and silver.

If this actually happens, then the agent becomes an employee. When he trades with the price, that is a qirad. It says in the Mukhtasar that his wage is the like of what he would get for selling the goods. As for his work in the qirad after that, he has the profit from such a qirad, if there is a profit. Otherwise he has nothing.

Then he explained the matters over which the agent has control rather than the investor.

34.25c Expenses

The agent has a right to clothing and food if he travels with a considerable amount of capital. He is only entitled to clothing for a long trip.
This is mandatory. What is meant are his expenses for a return journey, with two conditions. One is the journey, and it must be one by which he intends to make the investment grow. If he travels with it to visit his family or to go on hajj, he is not entitled to any expenses. The other is that the capital is considerable. The journey can be short or long in respect of food. There is no clothing entitlement for a short journey when the money is a lot and not just a little. A short journey is the distance of up to ten days and the definition of a lot of property is fifty dinars or more.

34.25d Division of profits

The profit is not divided until the capital is in cash.

It means that it converted to gold or silver. A example of that is when he sells some goods and still has some which is the capital. If he is told to then divide that which is cash, that is not permitted because the remaining goods may be destroyed.

34.26 Leasing an orchard or plantation [musāqa]

34.26a. A musāqa is permitted

Leasing an orchard or plantation of trees is permitted, provided that the two parties agree on the shares.
It means that someone hands over his grapevines or date palms, for instance, to someone who attends to whatever they require of irrigation and work on the basis that the crop which Allahazza wa jall grants is divided in half between them or for a known portion of the fruit, like a third or a fourth. Its ruling is that it is permitted according to what is in the two Sahih Collections which states that Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) employed the people of Khaybar for half of what it produced of fruits or crops. It is an exception to arable sharecropping, which is renting out land for what is produces, selling fruits and hiring them before they are good and before they exist, which is part of hire for something unknown.

It has certain preconditions. There must be two parties, and they must be capable of hire. The expression saqa [whose root is irrigation] is used, and it is not contracted for mutual trade and the like. It made on immovable property [i.e. the trees] and it would appear that it is not permitted in anything else. This is not the case. It is valid for in the case of crops like sugar cane, onions and cucumbers with certain conditions. One is that the owner of the crops is unable to attend to them. The second is that he fears the crop will die due to lack of irrigation. The third is that it has appeared from the ground. The fourth is that its ripeness has not yet appeared because then it would be permitted to sell it and so there is no need for musaqa. Part it is that he does it for known portion, whether a lot like two-thirds, or a little, like a fourth.
They must agree on the division of the shares. If he does it for certain number of sa’s or wasqs, that is not permitted.

34.26b The labor is done by the lessee

All the work is done by the lessee. No other work can be stipulated for him other than that entailed by the musaqa [irrigation] and nor is he required to start any work in the orchard unless it is of no consequence, like mending a fence and repairing a reservoir, without that involving actually initiating the work.

The work consists of tending to what the fruits require in the form of irrigation, pollination, fertilization, pruning, and repairing tools in the form of buckets, spades, and so forth. The owner cannot stipulate other work, like buying a garment for him and similar jobs which have nothing to do with the fruit. He cannot stipulate initiating any new work unless it is inconsequential, like mending an existing fence of the garden or mending the reservoir. It is not permitted to stipulate that he build it from scratch because that will remain after the fruit.

34.26c Tasks which can be stipulated
Pollination of the trees is done by the lessee as well as cleaning the places where the water settles among the trees, mending the place where the water falls from the bucket, cleaning the water source and similar tasks.

Pollination is buying what is used for fertilization and attaching it to the trees. That is the school. Cleaning the water source is to remove dirt or leaves from it. Similar tasks include pruning and drying.

34.26d Work animals may not be removed

The musaqa does not permit the expulsion of animals in the orchard. If some of them die, then the owner must replace them. The lessee must maintain the animals and the employees.

The Mudawwana states that the owner of the garden cannot grant the musaqa contract and then stipulate the removal of any of the slaves or animals from the garden. Shaikh Bahram (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "This is a prohibition, not simple dislike." If animals in the garden die, the owner must replace them, even if the worker has not stipulated that because the contract is based on work on that which is the responsibility of the owner of the garden in respect to those animals on which the contract occurred when they are in the garden. If the owner stipulates that the agent has to replace them, that is not allowed. The agent must fodder the animals and clothe and feed the employees according to the well-known position because he owes the work and all the burdens connected to it.

34.26e Cultivating un-planted parts of the orchard

The lessee should cultivate the unplanted area if it is slight, but there is no harm in leaving that up to the lessee, and this is the most lawful course. If there is a lot of unplanted land, it is not permitted to include it in the musaqa contract of the orchard. It can only be included if is it is a third or less of the orchard.

Un-planted land is land which is free of trees. A third or less is a slight amount. The owner can cancel that. If it is a lot, he is not part of the musaqa of the palm trees.

So a small area of unplanted land can be part of the musaqa with the above preconditions. If it is not mentioned or stipulated in the contract, it is the responsibility of the agent. The contract is void if the owner stipulates that it is his if the agent irrigates it, as the contract is void is it includes a lot of unplanted land or it is stipulated that it belongs to the agent [in the case of palm trees]. It belongs to the owner. As far as a lot or a little is concerned, it is in respect of all the fruits, not in respect to the share of the agent alone.

34.27 A farming partnership

34.27a Sharecropping is permitted

It is permitted to have a sharecropping partnership if both parties share in the cultivation and the profit is shared between them, whether one owns the land and the other does the work, or the work and rent are shared between them, or they both own the land.

Some call it muzara’a. The Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) mentioned eight cases in this topic: four are permitted, three are mentioned in order and the fourth delayed, and four are forbidden, one of which is understood and three are stated.

As for the three which are permitted, he mentioned the first here, which is when one owns the land and the other does the work. That is when there is equality with the rent of the land in value, or close to it, as when the value of the land is 19 and the work 20 or the reverse. If they are far apart, it is not permitted.

The second is when the work and rent are shared between them.
The third is when they both own the land.

Then he moves to the forbidden three cases which are mentioned:

34.27b Forbidden forms of sharecropping

If one provides the seeds and the other owns the land, with the profit to be shared between them, that is not permitted, whether one or both do the work.

One case is when one of them provides the seed and the other the land and the work. Another case is when one of them provides the seed and the work and the other the land. The third case is when one provides the land and the seed and they both do the work.

Then he indicates the fourth of the permitted cases and says:

34.27c Another permitted form

If they both rent the land and the seed comes from one and the work from the other, it is permitted if the values of the two undertakings are close.

Or it is jointly owned, or it belongs to one and the other pays him the rent for half. This is when the cost of the seeds and the work are close. If they are not close then it is not permitted. That is the fourth forbidden case.

34.27d. Rental of land with uncertain irrigation

No payment is made on renting land whose irrigation is uncertain until it is watered.

This is like land watered by rain and land with a small spring. If irrigation is secure, like land watered by a river near a large sea, and like land watered by rain in the east, then when the contract of rental is made, it can be paid, even if it is for a long time, like 30 years.

34.28 Liability for damage to crops sold and not yet claimed

34.28a The effect of damage to crops

If anyone buys fruit still on the trees, and then a third or more of it is destroyed by cold, locusts, frost or something else, the cost of that is deducted from the price the buyer pays. If it is less than a third, then the buyer bears the loss.

He buys the fruit after it appears but before it is fully ripe. Other things which can damage the crop are like wind, snow, armies and thieves. It is related by Shaikh ibn Wahb (rahmatullahi alaihi) that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "When a man buys fruits and then blight befalls it and a third of the fruit is lost, the liability is obliged for the owner." This is when the cause is other than lack of water. When it is due to lack of water, then there is no limit. It is reduced, be it a little or a lot, whether they are watered from spring or by rain because irrigation is the responsibility of the seller, and is part of the discharge of his responsibility.

34.28b When there is no reduction

There is no crop damage in a crop or what is bought after the fruit has been dried.

That is because it is only sold after it is dry. The delay until after it has been dried is neglect on the part of the buyer.

34.28c Damage to vegetables

There is a reduction in crop damage to vegetables, even if it is little. It is also said that there is only a reduction if a third is damaged.
This is like onions and chard because the damage is usually due to lack of water.

34.29 Gift of fruit which can be dried ['ariyya]

34.29a The 'ariyya

If someone gives a man an 'ariyya [a grant] of the fruit of palm trees from his garden, there is no harm in him buying them when they are ripe in exchange for dry dates, based on estimation of their measure.

This is when he gives someone – whether a man, woman or child – the fruits as an 'ariyya, which is granting him the crop which is still on those trees. It is not valid if it is a simple gift. When they are ripe, the giver can buy them by estimating their measure. The form of that is that it is said, "How much is on this palm tree of wasqs?" It is said, "It is five or more." Then it is asked, "How much will that be reduced when they are dried?" and the reply is a wasq or more. If something like five wasqs or less remain after that, it is allowed, and if it is than that, it is not permitted in exchange for dried dates of the same type.

34.29b When they are cut
He given that when they are cut, if it is five wasqs or less. It is not permitted to buy more than five wasqs except with money or merchandise.

This is not meant that it is not a precondition that it is immediate. They either agree to full payment when they are cut or are silent on it. A precondition of immediate payment might entail harm. As for immediate payment without it is being stipulated, there is no harm. The limitation of five or less only applies to one who granted the ‘ariyya. He can buy them with cash or goods.

Chapter 35. Bequests and Freeing Slaves

[Tadbir, Kitaba, Emancipation, the umm walad and wala']

There are six topics in this chapter, each of which has a reality, a ruling and other matters.

The first concerns bequests [wasaya]. In the usage of the fuqaha' it is a contract which creates entitlements to the third of his estate which a person can dispose of and which become binding when he dies. They disagree about whether that is obligatory or recommended. Most scholars think that it is mandatory, as is expressed here.

35.1 Bequests

35.1a The right to make a bequest

It is imperative for someone who has property to prepare a will.

It should be witnessed. If it is not witnessed, it is invalid, even if it is found in his writing unless he says, "Carry out the document you find in my handwriting." Then it is carried out.

35.1b No bequest to a heir

There can be no bequest in favor of an heir.

He either means the fact that it is not sound or that it is simply prohibited, The position of the School is that it is not valid, even if it is less than a third. If the other heirs do allow, it is made a gift from him.

35.1c Bequests are from the disposable third
Bequests are made from the disposable third. Anything which exceeds that is rejected unless the heirs allow it.

That which the person who makes a will can dispose of is a third, or it means that the one making the will cannot dispose of more than a third. If it is more than a third, even a small amount, it is only allowed by the permission of the heirs when they are sane and adult.

The third is calculated on the day of death, not the day when the will is read, according to what Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) states. Shaikh ibn 'Abdu's-Salam (rahmatullahi alaihi) counters him by saying that it is contrary to the school. "What the School considers in the bequest is that it is taken from the third on the day the bequests are carried out, not the day of death, so that if the third covers all the bequests on the day he dies and then a blight befalls the property and destroys some of it so that the third does not cover them, then the ruling on the day of the division is that of someone who has willed away more than a third. I do not know of any disagreement about that in the school."

35.1d Emancipation takes priority

In the disposable third, one begins with freeing a particular slave.
He deals with the order with which one deals with bequests. The first is the emancipation of a particular slave, whether he owns that slave or someone else owns him, as when he says, "Buy the slave of so-and-so and free him." We mentioned that this is first in the bequests, but when there is a bequest about unpaid zakat or kaffarah, that takes precedence over emancipation.

35.1e The order of precedence

Next is priority freeing a mudabbar when the tadbir declaration was made when the master was healthy. This precedes emancipation or any other bequests made when he was ill, including unpaid zakat.

A bequest to pay zakat is taken from the third before other bequests, but a tadbir made when the master was healthy takes precedence over it.

If he did not mention unpaid zakat in the will, it is not paid from the third.

35.1f When there is not enough in the third to cover all bequests

If the third is not enough for then the people of shares who have no precedence receive proportional shares of the rest.
This is the same principle as 'awl [adjustment] in shares of inheritance. For instance, take the case when the deceased willed one man half of his property and another a quarter. You compare the position of the half and the fourth and see what is between them and you find that the common factor is a quarter. You take the half and fourth and combine them and so they are three and you know the third is divided into three shares between them, one share for the one with a fourth and two for the one with a half. This is when the heirs do not allow the bequests. If they allow them, then the one with the bequest takes the half and the other a fourth, and the rest is taken by the heirs.

35.1g Revoking a bequest

A man may revoke his bequest of emancipation or other things.

Even if he is a fool and whether he is healthy or ill. The same applies to women and children, He can retract a bequest whether he is healthy or ill, as it states in Tahqiq al-Mabani from Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh Bahram (rahmatullahi alaihi). He can retract it, even if he testified in his will that he would not retract it. That is the 'amal in this.
35.2 Tadbir: an undertaking to free a slave at the master's death or a certain date

35.2a. Definition of tadbir

A tadbir is contracted when a man says to his slave, "You are mudabbar" or "You are free afterwards," [i.e. after my death]

Taken the departure (idbar or dabr) of life. The root means what is behind something. Tadbir is recommended. One of its preconditions is the form with which it is made, like saying, "You are free after my death" or "You are free on the day I die." The slave must be of age to be considered responsible and sane. It is not sound to grant it to a mad person or a child even if he has discrimination.

35.2b Status of a mudabbar slave

Then he is not permitted to sell such slave, but he is still entitled to his work and, as long as the master is not ill, he can confiscate the slave's possessions. If it is a slavegirl, he can have intercourse with her.
If he sells such a slave, the sale is invalid and the slave remains a mudabbar as long as the sale is not connected to emancipation. If it is connected to emancipation and the buyer emancipates him, he is free and he has his wala', i.e. if he sets him free while the master is alive. If the sale is carried out with emancipation, the one who set free has the wala'. If he is freed after the death of the one of the one gave him the tadbir, it is not carried out because the wala' is connected to the one who granted the tadbir.

The master is entitled to his work until he dies because he is his master. If the master is ill and may die, he cannot confiscate the slave's property because that is removing his property for someone else.

He can have intercourse with a slavegirl because the basic principle is that she is allowed. If she becomes pregnant, she becomes a umm walad who is freed from his main estate [rather than from the disposable third] after his death.

35.2c A slavegirl due to be freed at a certain time

He cannot have intercourse with a slavegirl who will be set free a certain date nor can he sell her. He can demand her work and can confiscate her possessions as long as the term for her emancipation is not near.
This is like when he says, "Serve me for a year and then you are free" because the term may come before his death and so she will be free. If he has intercourse with her she may become pregnant and then would only be free after his death [as a umm walad]. Such a relationship in this case resembles a mu’ta marriage [a temporary marriage because it has a term at which it ends]. If a slavegirl has a term fixed for her, he must not have intercourse with her, or give her away or give her as charity because she has one of the contracts of emancipation.

The Hashiyat al-’Adawi notes that if he does have intercourse with her, he is disciplined for that, but is not subject to a hadd punishment.

She can work for him since she is still his property until the end of the term. He can confiscate her possessions which she has, for instance as a gift from him, but this is restricted to when the term of emancipation is not near. There is no definition of near.

The Hashiyat al-’Adawi notes that there is a second position about "near" and that it is about a month.

35.2d The freeing of a mudabbar is from the disposable third
When the master dies, the emancipation of the mudabbar comes out of the disposable third, while a slave promised freedom at a certain date comes from the total estate.

Priority in the disposable third of the estate is given to a slave given a tadbir when the deceased was healthy. Then comes the slave given a tadbir when he was ill. If someone has been set a date at which he will be free, he is different to the mudabbar and is set free from the capital of the estate.

35.3 Kitaba: the agreement to free a slave on payment by agreed installments

35.3a. The kitaba agreement

A slave with a kitaba [mukatib] remains a slave as long as he still owes anything. The kitaba agreement is permitted when made with the agreement of the slave and master for an amount to be paid in installments, however many or few they are.

No matter how little is outstanding of the payments, the mukatib is still a slave since it is confirmed that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The mukatib remains a slave as long as a single dirham of his kitaba is outstanding."
Kitaba is the emancipation of a slave in return for money paid in installments. There is no disagreement that it is permitted. The Book indicates its legality: "If any slaves you own desire to make a contract to free themselves, write it for them if you know of good in them." (Holy Qur’an 24:33) The precondition is that the payment be done in installments. Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) reported from the Mudawanna, "It is not immediate and the installments are stipulated, like x amount every month or every year based on their mutual agreement."

In al-Jawahir Abu Bakr (radhi’Allahu anhu) said, "Our scholars say that an immediately paid kitaba is permitted. It is analogous to a sale in which both immediacy and deferral are accepted."

35.3b When the slave defaults

If he is unable to pay, he reverts to a full slave and the master can keep what he has already received. The slave can only be deemed insolvent by the sultan after failing to pay if he refuses to acknowledge his insolvency.

None of him is free. The master keeps what he paid because he is his slave. If the slave acknowledges his inability to pay, he automatically reverts to full slave status.
35.4 Children and the property of slaves

35.4a Status of the children of women slaves

If a woman has a kitaba or tadbir agreement, or a date is set for her emancipation, or she is pledged as security, any child she bears shares her status.

Her children have her status whether the child is conceived in marriage or by fornication. If the father is the master, the child is free without dispute if the master is free. If the father is a slave, it is slave like her in all her rulings of emancipation, work, sales and the like.

35.4b Status of children of a umm walad by other than the master

The children of an umm walad fathered by other than her master have the same status as her.

This about any children she has after she becomes a umm walad. There is no disagreement about that in the School. As for children she had before she became umm walad, they remain slaves.

35.4c The possessions of slaves
A slave's property belongs to him his unless the master confiscates it. If the master frees him or grants him a kitaba and does not exclude the slave's property, then he cannot confiscate it.

Shaikh ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it appears from what he says that he actually owns it, and so there are two secondary rulings from his words. One is that he is permitted to have intercourse with his slavegirl since he owns her. The second is that a slave is obliged to pay zakat on the property in his possession. The well-known position, however, is that a slave does not pay zakat.

The Hashiyya of al-‘Adawi points that his ownership of property is not, in fact, complete.

It is agreed about anything he earns property after the contract of kitaba. According to the School, it applies to what he earned before the contract.

35.4d A slavegirl with a kitaba

The master cannot have intercourse with a slavegirl who has a kitaba contract.
That is because her person and property are protected. If he does have intercourse with her, the hadd is not imposed on him in the well-known position. He is punished unless he is excused due to ignorance or error and he does not owe any bride-price. If she is a virgin or he forces her, he owes the amount of her depreciation. It states in al-Jawahir, "If she becomes pregnant, she can choose between insolvency and become an umm walad or continue with the rest of her kitaba. If she chooses insolvency, she becomes a umm walad. If she chooses to pay the rest of her kitaba, she is the mother of a child and a mukatiba [which means that the master is responsible for her maintenance while she is pregnant]. When she pays the installments, she is free. Otherwise she is free when the master dies.

35.4e Children of a slave with a kitaba

Any children born to a man or woman slave with a kitaba contract after they have concluded a kitaba have the status and they are free when the parents are free.

35.5 Freeing a group by kitaba

It is permitted for a group to have a kitaba but they only free when the entire sum is paid.
This is a single contract when they belong to the same master. They pay according to their ability to pay on the day of the contract of the kitaba was made.

35.6 Restrictions on a mukatib

A slave with a kitaba cannot free his own slaves or waste his property until he is free. He cannot marry nor undertake a long journey without his master's permission.

He can not get rid of his property without recompense for it, as through gifts and sadaqa, if that considerable. The reason for that is that it would be injurious to his master and it might lead to his inability to pay. He cannot undertake a long journey in which his installments will become due before he returns. Shaikh al-Aqfashi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that the permission of his master refers to both marriage and travel. He can do it with his master's permission.

35.7 Children of a deceased mukatib

35.7a The status of the children of a mukatib when he dies
If the slave with a kitaba dies leaving a child, he takes his place and pays from his estate whatever is still unpaid which becomes immediately due. His children inherit any remaining property.

His children who are part of the contract take his place, but that is not paid in installments. It is due immediately and is paid from his estate if he left enough to cover the installments or more, because his responsibility ends at death, like all deferred debts.

35.7b If there is not enough to cover it

If there is not enough to settle the amount, the children should trade with what there is and pay it off in installments if they are adults. If they are children, and the estate is not enough to cover the installments until they come of age and can trade, they revert to being full slaves.

Adult children continue to pay the installments if they have the ability to work and can be trusted with the money. Otherwise the money is put with a trustee who pays on their behalf. If they are minors and there is enough to cover the installments until they come of age, they are not made full slaves, but the money is lodged with a trustee who pays the master his installments.

35.7c If the mukatib has no children
If he does not have any children in his kitaba, his master inherits from him.

And there is not enough to cover the debt, the master is the heir by virtue of him being a slave, not by the wala', since he dies a slave.

35.8 Umm Walads

A umm walad is a slavegirl who has borne her master a child.

35.8a When a man has a child by his slavegirl

If a man has child by a slavegirl, he can enjoy her while he is alive and then she is set free from the main estate when he dies.

He is permitted to enjoy her by the words of Allah, "Or those they own as slaves, in which case they are not blameworthy." (Holy Qur’an 23:6) The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) had such a relationship with Maria the Copt. When the man dies, his umm walad is set free first, without any requiring any legal ruling and cannot be enslaved on account of his debts, whether they existed before or after her pregnancy.
35.8b Her status

He is not permitted to sell her or demand her work or demand revenue from her. He may, however, demand that from her child by another man.

If he does sell her, the sale is void, even if the buyer frees her or takes her as a umm walad or she dies. The buyer is given the price back. The same applies to gifts, pledges and the like. He can not oblige a lot of work from her, but can oblige minor work like grinding flour and fetching water. He cannot make her work for someone else, but he can do that with her other children.

35.8c Her children's status

Such a child has the same status as his mother regarding emancipation and is free when she is free.

This refers to her children by other than the master. This is when the master dies when she is alive. If she dies before him, her children are not free until the master dies.

35.8d Miscarriages
Any miscarriage known to be a child makes her an umm walad.

No matter whether it is a lump or clot, and even clotted blood, according to the well-known position.

This has two preconditions. The first is that the master admits to having had intercourse with her, and the second is that, in the absence of the child, two women testify to the birth or miscarriage.

35.8e Denial of paternity

He cannot claim coitus interruptus in order to deny paternity of the child if he admits to having had intercourse with her. If he claims that he has observed istibra' and not had intercourse with her afterwards, the paternity of her child born after that is not attributed to him.

Coitus interruptus is withdrawal before ejaculation. It does not remove the paternity because even a small amount of semen can result in conception.
If he has observed istibra', which is remaining apart from her for at least one menstrual period or more, then in the famous position the child is not attributed to him. He is not obliged to take an oath in that [about having observed istibra'].

35.9 Obstacle of a slave's debts

It is not permitted for someone whose property is covered by debts to set a slave free.

Freeing slaves is one of the greatest devotional acts one can do to draw near to Allah. It is confirmed that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "If someone frees a believing slave, Allah azza wa jall will save a limb of his from the Fire for every limb of his." In one version, "a limb of his from the fire for every limb of his, even his genitals for his genitals." Freeing a man is better.

Emancipation has three pillars.

1. The first is the person frees, who must be adult and sane with no legal restrictions on his dealings and not having debts that take up all his property. An emancipation done by a child, madman or one legal restricted from financial dealings is not permitted. Nor is it permitted if his debts cover all his property, whether those debts are immediate or deferred because then he would be disposing of someone else's property.
2. The second is the slave, who can be a full slave or one with some degree of freedom, like a mudabbar.

3. The third is the form which indicates removal of ownership as, "You are free."

35.10 Freeing part of a slave

35.10a Someone who frees part of a slave frees all of him

If someone frees part of his slave, he is made to free all of him.

As when he frees a fourth, third or half. He is judged to have freed all of him not just part of him, when the slave set free is Muslim sane, sensible with no debts and when the slave has one master.

35.10b If there is more than one master

If someone else has a share in the slave, the share of his partner is estimated on the day the emancipation is settled, and the slave is free. If he does not have the money to pay the partner, the portion of the partner in the slave remains.

The one who set free his part must pay the partner the price which is assessed on the day of the judgment of emancipation if there is judgment in it. Then the emancipation depends on the ruling issued for it, not by the simple freeing of part of the slave. If the person is wealthy, he pays the share of the partner on the day of the judgment. If he is not wealthy on the day of the judgment, then the slave remains a slave unless his remaining master frees him. If he has enough to pay for part of the share of the partner, it is estimated according to what he has.

35.11 Freeing because of mutilation

If someone mutilates his slave clearly, such as cutting off a limb and the like, the slave is set free.

Like a foot, hand or like a testicle. Then the master is obliged to free him, even if that was intended to increase the price since he tortured him by doing that. Similar to cutting off a limb is gouging out an eye or the branding his face or elsewhere with fire. He is freed from his estate. It appears from his words that he is freed automatically on account of the mutilation, and Ashhab says that. Ibn al-Qasim says that he is only freed by a ruling.
Shaikh al-'Adawi (rahmatullahi alaihi): There is disagreement about whether the master is punished by beating and imprisonment or whether the punishment is the enforced emancipation of the slave.

35.12 Freeing because of kinship

If someone obtains ownership of his parents, his children or grandchildren, grandfather or grandmother, or uterine, paternal or full brother, that slave is freed automatically.

This applies to relationship by blood or by suckling. All he mentioned is automatic and does not require a ruling in the well-known position provided that he does not have debts which would take up the price. If he has debts which would take up the price, he cannot free him by that and nor sell nor can remain the owner of such a relative. Rather he is sold for him to cover the debt.

35.13 Freeing which is a consequence

If someone frees a pregnant woman, her unborn child is free with her.
Whether the child is by marriage or fornication. The child is free because every child who comes by marriage or fornication without ownership follows the mother in freedom or slavedom.

35.14 Freeing because of a legal obligation

In freeing slave to discharge an obligation, one may not free a slave who is the process of being freed, like one with a _tadbir_ or a _kitaba_ or something similar, nor one who is blind, or has had a hand or the like amputated, or a non-Muslim, a child, or someone who is subject to enforced guardianship.

This is on account of obligations like the _kaffarah_ for killing [and that for _dhihar_ divorce or for breaking the fast of Ramadan].

Categories who cannot be freed for this also include an umm walad, someone with a date at which they will be free or someone who is partially free, because it is muddled with the contract of liberation. [Only full slaves fulfill the obligation.]

Furthermore in satisfying the obligation, one cannot free amputees since that decreases the value of the slave by the defect. It cannot be a non-Muslim because Allah azza wa jall says, "a believing slave". It cannot be a child because he is not one of the people of responsibility. Nor can someone debarred from dealing with his own finances, who is a fool who spends his money improperly.

35.16 Wala' [Clientage]

This gives the one who has this has what is tantamount to an agnate relationship to the former slave, i.e. as if he were related to him via the father.

35.16a The one who receives the wala'

The wala' belongs to the one who sets a slave free. It is not permitted to sell it or give it away.

The person who removes ownership by liberating a slave becomes his mawla if the one who is freed the slave is a Muslim. If the one who freed is an unbeliever and he frees a Muslim, he has no wala' relationship to his freed Muslim. The wala' then goes to the community of Muslims. If the person then becomes Muslim, the wala' does not revert to him. The basis for this principle is found in the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), "The wala' belongs to one who sets free." It cannot be disposed of because of what Shaikh ibn Hibban (rahmatullahi alaihi) and others related that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said,
"The wala' is flesh like the flesh of lineage. It is not sold or given away."

35.16b Freeing on behalf of someone

If someone frees a slave on behalf of another man, that man still has the wala'.

If the man who ordered the emancipation is free. If he is slave, then his master has the wala'.

35.16c The one who receives a shahadah

If someone becomes Muslim at someone's hand, the wala does not go to him, but to the Muslims as a whole.

When an unbeliever says the shahadah with someone, that person does not receive the wala of that person [because the wala only belongs to the person who emancipates.

35.16d Women receiving the wala'

When a woman sets a slave free, she has the wala of that person as well as the wala of the person's children and any slaves that person frees. In the case of someone she has not set free, she does not inherit the \textit{wala} from her father, son, husband or anyone else.

She has the \textit{wala} of their children and freed slaves because she is the initial emancipator and that is attributed ultimately to her. The \textit{wala} is inherited via the agnatic male line and not the female.

\textbf{35.16e Inheritance of a slave with no \textit{wala}}

The estate left by a slave without a \textit{wali} [\textit{sa'iba}] goes to the Muslim community.

This is the \textit{sa'iba}. Such a status comes about when someone tells his slave, "You are free as a \textit{musib}" or "\textit{sa'iba}", by which he means emancipated. This expression is disliked because it was used in the \textit{Jahiliyya} for livestock as Allah azza wa jall says about them, "\textit{Allah did not institute any such thing as bahira or sa'iba}" (Holy Qur'an 5:105)

\textbf{35.16f Inheritance of \textit{wala}}

The \textit{wala} is inherited by the closest agnatic heir of the dead person. If he has two sons, they share the \textit{wala} between them. If one of them dies, leaving sons, the \textit{wala} goes to his brother rather than his sons. If one of them dies leaving one son, and the other dies leaving two sons, the wala' is shared between all three.

Although the term "inheritance" is used here, properly speaking the wala' is not inherited, but there is inheritance on account of it. Shaikh al-'Adawi (rahmatullahi alaihi): Wala', like lineage, is only established by two witnesses.

Chapter 36: Property Rights

Pre-emption (shuf'a), gifts, sadaqa, hubus, pledges, the 'ariyya, deposits, lost items, and misappropriation

This chapter deals with nine topics.

36.1 Pre-emption in property (shuf'a)

36.1a The right of pre-emption
Pre-emption is allowed in something which is jointly owned.

Shuf'a is derived from shaf' [even], the opposite of odd, because the pre-emptor [shafî'] adds the share which he takes to his share and so his share becomes two shares. Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) defined it as the partner taking his share from his partner by an enforced purchase.

Then he moves to the relationship of the neighbor. Our position that is he has no pre-emption. What is taken by force can be a voluntary sale. It is an allowance which is allowed to avert harm to the partner. Jabir (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) judged that there was pre-emption in all undemarcated property. When there were clear boundaries and roads were clear, then there was no pre-emption." (al-Bukhari & others) There are two rulings based on this hadith: the obligation of pre-emption is for the partner rather than the neighbor because the ruling in the hadith is that there is no pre-emption after demarcation, and so a neighbor cannot pre-empt his neighbor. The second is that the obligation concerns real estate rather than goods.

He indicates by mentioning joint ownership. He means that the right concerns land and buildings and trees attached to it. Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that the wisdom in affirmation of pre-emption is the removal of harm to the partner and it is particular to real estate because harm occurs most frequently in it. They agree that there is no pre-emption in animals, clothes, utensils and all moveables. A precondition for pre-emption is that it is something in which division is feasible, thus excluding things which do not accept it without being rendered unsound, like a bath-house.

36.1b When there is no right to pre-emption

There is no pre-emption in what has been divided, nor is there pre-emption in respect of a neighbor, a road, the courtyard of a house whose rooms have been divided, a male palm tree or a well when the palm trees or the land has been divided. There is only pre-emption in land and the buildings and trees on it.

Pre-emption was prescribed either to avoid harm in the division or harm to a partner. That does not exist in demarcated property which is why there is no pre-emption in it. Three of the Imams agree that the neighbor has no pre-emption while Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi) disagrees and affirms pre-emption for the neighbor, but in his view the partner takes precedence over the neighbor. There is no pre-emption in a private road shared between partners in a house or a garden. As for public roads, it is not permitted to sell them. As for a yard when the house is divided, there is no pre-emption, but if the estate is not divided and then is sold and one of the partners has his share of the estate and the road, then there is agreement that there is pre-emption in both the estate and the road.

There is no pre-emption in a male palm or a well. If pre-emption had been permitted in that, the partner would take all the male palm trees and the buyer would have none because pre-emption in that in which the partners share is only the male palm. If land is divided and the well remains, there is no pre-emption.

To sum up, pre-emption applies to jointed owned property and the right is canceled in three ways.

One is when it is abandoned by explicit words, as 'I give up my pre-emption.'

The second is what indicates that it is abandoned like seeing the buyer building and planting and still remaining silent. The third is indicated next.]

36.1c When pre-emption lapses

There is no pre-emption for someone present after a year has passed. If he was absent he still has his right, even if it has been a long time.
i.e. present in the land where the sale occurs. If he is present for a year and is silent about seeking pre-emption for two months, that cancels his right. The one who was absent and far away still has the right since he was absent before the possibility of pre-emption arose, whether or not he knew about the sale. There is no definition of near or far (because circumstances vary).

36.1d Forcing a decision

A buyer must guarantee the one with the right of pre-emption. A possible pre-emptor may be forced to exercise his right or forgo it.

The buyer is responsible for any damage to the property. Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that if someone is entitled to take it from the pre-emptor, he takes it without giving him anything and the pre-emptor must reimburse the buyer what he paid and the buyer returns the price to the seller. [This is when there has been more than one transaction.]

The buyer can summon the pre-emptor and demand that he abandon his right or pay the price for which he bought it if it has a like or its equivalent if it was something with value [i.e. if was paid for in livestock or goods, for instance]. If he does one of the two, there is no discussion. Otherwise the case is presented to the judge. If he asks for delay so that he can choose or bring the price, he is given a delay of three days.

36.1e Pre-emption cannot be transferred

Pre-emption may not be given away or sold. The right is divided between partners according to their shares.

It is not permitted for the pre-emptor to give or sell his right of pre-emption. That form of that would be that Zayd who can pre-empt says to 'Amr, who has no right, "I have given you my right to pre-empt with Khalid," or "Buy it from me for such-and-such." Pre-emption is a right granted to a partner for the sake of removing harm from him by entering into a partnership with someone he does not know.

36.2 Gifts [hiba], sadaqa, and hubus [waqf]

36.2a Gifts and sadaqa

Gifts and sadaqa only differ in two things. One is that gifts can be taken back while sadaqa is not taken back. When a father gives his son something, he can take it back from him, but that is not the case if he gives him sadaqa.
The second difference is that it is permitted for a gift can revert to the ownership of the giver by a sale, gift, sadaqa or some other method. That is not the case with sadaqa. It is disliked for it to revert to the ownership of the giver by the means we mentioned about the gift.

Its status is that it is recommended as indicated by the Book, Sunnah and consensus. In the Book, Allah azza wa jall says, "Allah commands to justice and doing good,," (Holy Qur’an 16:90) and "Who, despite their love for it, give away their wealth." (Holy Qur’an 2:176) In the hadith, "If anyone gives in sadaqa as much as a date from honest earnings - and Allah azza wa jall only accepts what is good - Allah azza wa jall will accept it in His right hand and will then increase it in size for the giver, just like one of you might rear a foal, until it is the size of a mountain." Shaikh ibn Rushd (rahmatullahi alaihi) and others related that consensus on it.

Hashiyat al-'Adawi: There are four essential elements [arkan] in gifts.

1. The giver, who must not be someone legally debarred from dealing with financial matters.

2. A gift given by such a person is not valid

3. The recipient, who must be someone who can own something.
4. The gift, which must be something whose ownership can be transferred.

5. The form of the giving.

36.2b It is dependent on possession

A gift, sadaqa or hubus is only complete by actual possession of it. If the giver dies before it is collected, then it becomes part of inheritance, unless that gift was made during his final illness. Then it is paid out of the disposable third as long as it is for other than an heir.

If the giver dies before the gift is taken, it reverts to the estate and is inherited and the gift is void. If he makes the gift in his final illness, however, it is paid out as a bequest unless it is for a heir because it is not lawful to make a bequest to an heir and so it is void. But if the other heirs allow it, it is carried out.

36.3 Gifts and sadaqa

36.3a Gifts to close relatives

A gift to a close relative or poor person is like sadaqa and cannot be taken back.
A close relative is one with whom marriage is not permitted and such a gift is for the purposes of maintaining ties of kinship. The prohibition against taking back gifts or sadaqa to a poor person is because they were given away for the reward and seeking the face of Allah azza wa jall.

36.3b Gifts to one's son

When someone gives sadaqa to his son, he cannot take it back. He may, however, take back something he gave to a minor child or adult as long as he has not used it to get married or given it as a loan and nothing has happened to the gift.

If the gift was not for the sake of ties of kinship or his poverty or out of the desire for the reward of the Next World, but was for himself. There is no difference between a male or female child, rich or poor. Something happening to a gift would be like if he was given iron and has made it made into a tool.

36.3c A mother's gifts

A mother may take back a gift as long as the father is alive. When the father is dead, she cannot take it back.
Whether the child is a minor or adult as long as the father is alive, even if he was mad at the time of the gift, unless, by the gift, she intended to maintain ties of kinship, or the reward of the Next World or because of his poverty. Then she cannot take it back.

36.3d. Gifts to orphans

One may not take back a gift to an orphan. An orphan is someone who has lost his father.

If he has no father at the time of the gift, she cannot take it back because he is an orphan and thus it becomes like sadaqa. No matter what the age a person is, if his father is dead, he is called an orphan in the case of humans. In the case of animals, lack of mother makes an orphan, and in the case of birds, both parents.

36.3e Retaining possession of the gift

A father is permitted to retain possession what he gives to his minor son when he does not live in that (if it is a house) or wear it if it is garment. He can only do that if the gift is a specific article. He cannot do that if the son is an adult.

This is permitted even until he is bankrupt or dies. If the gift is a house and he continues to live in it or most of it or to wear a garment he gave him until there is an impediment, the gift is nullified. If he lives in a small part and rents most of it out, it is not nullified. This is when the gift is described and specified, like a particular house. He cannot say, "I have given you one of the houses." The father cannot keep that gift if the child is adult and sensible. If the son is a fool, he can keep possession of it.

36.3f Not taking back sadaqa

A man should not take back his sadaqa or nor can he recover it except by inheritance. There is no harm in drinking the milk of an animal he gave as sadaqa. He does not buy back anything he gave away as sadaqa.

He does not take back sadaqa at all once it is received, either by buying it or any other method, and here is no exception to that except by inheritance, and then he owns it because he had no part in returning it and is not suspect. He can drink the milk of something like a cow or goat and there is nothing wrong in that because he has not altered the value of he gift. He does not buy back his sadaqa from the person he gave it to nor from anyone else. This prohibition is one of dislike, which is the School.

36.3g Gifts with expectation of a recompense
If someone is given a gift for which the giver expects recompense, he should either repay it with something of equal value or return the gift. If he no longer has it, then he must give back its value when he sees that the giver wanted recompense for what he gave him.

This is when the man gives something of his property to another so that he will reward him for it. It is a contract of recompense for unknown goods. It is permitted. Shaikh al-Baji (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "The gift for a recompense is not an act of nearness, but it is a sort of mutual recompense. The one given either recompenses the value of the gift or returns it if the gift is still available. If it is no longer with him, he repays the price or the gift if he thinks that the giver wanted that according to the circumstances.

36.3h Not giving all one's property to one child

It is disliked for someone to give all his property to one of his children. Giving part of his property is allowed. There is nothing wrong in giving all his property to the poor for Allah azza wa jall.

This is a dislike of one of avoidance in the well-known position. He should not give most of it to one of them either, but what he does is carried out unless his other children rise and forbid him to do that. They can force its return [when they fear that they will have to support him]. The basis is the hadith of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) "Fear Allah and be equitable to your children." A small amount is permitted. He can give all his property to the poor as long as his children do not forbid it. That is limited to when he is not ill. If he is ill, he can only dispose of a third.

36.3i If the gift has not been collected

If someone who is given something does not take possession of it until the donor is ill or bankrupt, he cannot then take it. If the recipient dies, his heirs can take it if the giver is still in good health.

An illness here is one in which it is feared that he may die. As well as applying to gifts, this principle also applies to sadaqa and hubus.

36.4 Hubus [waqf]

A hubus is granting the usufruct of something, either in perpetuity or for a specific period after which it then reverts to private property.
The Four Imams allow it but disagree about whether it requires the ruling of a judge or is carried out in the same manner as bequests. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi), Imam ash-Shafi'i (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Imam Ahmad (rahmatullahi alaihi) say that it is sound without these two methods and is binding, Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that it requires one of these two.

It is recommended because it is one of the best things which one can use to draw near to Allah azza wa jall. The basis for its permissibility is that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) created a hubus as did 'Umar ibn al-Khattab (radhi’Allahu anhu), 'Uthman (radhi’Allahu anhu), 'Ali (radhi’Allahu anhu), Talha (radhi’Allahu anhu) and az-Zubayr (radhi’Allahu anhu) and other Companions for houses and gardens.

There are four basic elements (arkan) in the hubus.

1. The founder and his suitability for establish a waqf.

2. The verbal form of founding the waqf, or whatever the custom for that is.

3. The object or place which comprises the waqf.

4. The purpose or beneficiaries of the waqf.
36.4a A house in hubus

When someone makes a house a hubus, it is used for the purpose to which he put it if it taken before he dies.

The precondition is that the endower is entitled to dispose of his property of disposable by being one of the people who can dispose of his property and make gifts. He can make a waqf of a house, an animal and goods. [In the case of food, it has to be something which lasts for a long time, like wheat.] The precondition is that it is owned by the person who endows it, in itself or its use, and no one has a claim connected to it, and it is not something which it is not permitted to sell, like the skin of sacrifices and hunting dogs. It is used for the specific purpose for which it was endowed.

Hashiyya: A waqf in money is questionable. There is a position that it is permitted because it lasts and can be replaced. The other position is that it is not permitted because its use lies in its consumption and a waqf must consist of something which will continue to exist. Lack of permission here can mean dislike or prohibition.

If he designates a house as a waqf but does not specify the reason, it is used according to the common usage’s of the people of that land.
If its use is specified and taken, it is put to that use. If it is not taken before he dies or becomes bankrupt, the waqf is nullified. If it is not specific, like a mosque, it does not require a specific taking possession. When people are allowed to do the prayer, then waqf is valid.

36.4b Waqf for a minor son

If it is a hubus in favor of his minor son, he may hold it for him until he comes of age. He should rent it out for him and not live it in himself. If he continues to live in it until he dies, then the hubus is nullified.

The end of possession is when the child comes of age provided that he knows that he is sensible. If the father continues to live in it until he dies or becomes bankrupt, then the waqf is nullified. This is when the son is free, not a slave.

36.4c When the original beneficiaries die out

If the beneficiaries of the hubus come to an end, the nearest of people to the founder on the day it reverts becomes the beneficiary.
This is whether the founder is dead or alive. This is like when the founder has a full brother and a half brother by the father. The full brother dies, leaving a son and then the beneficiaries of the waqf come to an end. It reverts to the half brother rather than the son of the full brother. One considers who is the closest on the day it reverts, not he day it was founded because it may be that the relative who was distant on the day it was endowed will become near when the waqf reverts.

36.5 Life Grants [umra]

36.5a Granting use for a person's lifetime

If someone gives a man the use of a house for his lifetime, it reverts to the owner when the person dies. It is the same if he gave the use to the children of the person and they die out. This is not the case with the hubus.

If the owner has died, it reverts to his heirs. The reality of umra in custom is that people of Shari’ah define it as the gift of the usufruct of a certain property for the lifetime of the donee or for his lifetime and that of his descendants, not the gift of a ruqba (which is the property for his lifetime). It does not have to be specific for the life of the donee. If it is limited to the life of the donee, it is also called umra. This differs from the hubus which does not revert to the ownership of the owner when the beneficiaries die. A hubus remains a waqf for the closest relative of the beneficiaries. There is a difference because the waqf is ownership of the property and the 'umra is ownership of the use.

36.5b Death of donee and granter at the same time

If the one who granted the use dies on the same day, the property goes to his heirs on the day he dies.

Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) said that it is possible that it means the day of making the 'umra, and then it is the ownership of the property rather than the usufruct. It can refer to the death of the giver and then it is ownership of property and usufruct.

36.6 More on hubus

36.6a Death of a beneficiary

If one of the people of the hubus dies, his share goes to the rest.

Male or female or equal in this.

36.6b Those in need are preferred
People in need of lodging and revenue are preferred for the hubus.

This is when the beneficiary is not specified, like saying that it is for the poor. Then the people of need and dependents are preferred to others for lodging and revenue according to ijtihad because that is the aim of the waqfs. If the beneficiaries are specified, then they are all equal, and the poor is not preferred to the wealthy.

There is some disagreement in the School about whether the poor are preferred or not.

36.6c Evictions

If someone is resident, he should not be evicted for someone else unless that is a precondition in the hubus which is carried out.

Even if the new person does not have a dwelling nor revenue, and even if the current tenant has become rich after he started to live there because the important thing is the need at the beginning, not one that is constant. There is no security that it will not come back. If other than the most needy came first and lived there and then he is evicted, then they will then be of equal need. So whoever lived there first is more entitled to stay. If, however, it is a term stipulated in the waqf, it is carried out.

36.6d A waqf is not sold

The hubus is never sold, even if it falls into ruins. If a horse which is a hubus becomes rabid, it is sold and the price used for another one like it or to help in paying for one. There is disagreement about replacing a ruined building with a building not ruined.

When it becomes unusable, even if is not hoped to restore it. It is not permitted to sell its rubble. This is restricted to when the founder has not put a stipulation that it be sold. If he did so, than his stipulations are followed.

[There is a counter position which states that if leaving it will result in harm and there is no hope of restoring it, then it can be sold.]

There is an exception mentioned in the Mukhtasar about the amount which is needed to expand the mosque, i.e. the Jumu'a mosque, not any other mosque. Similar to the Jumu'a mosque are Muslim graveyards and roads because the use of the mosque, road and graveyard is greater than the use of the waqf. It is close to the aim of the founder. There is disagreement about exchanging for a price.

In the case of a horse, rabies is a form of madness which can infect a horse. If it is sold, then the price is used to buy another horse or given as sadaqa for jihad.

There is disagreement replacing a ruined building. Some of them take this literally as exchanging ruined property for unruined and giving it for the unruined. Others say that the ruined property is sold and the price used to purchase what is sound and so what was waqf ceases to be waqf and what was not waqf becomes waqf.

36.7 Pledges [rahn]

36.7a Legal status of pledges

The use of a pledge is permitted and it is only accomplished by possession of the article pledged.

Pledges are permitted at home or on a journey. The journey is specified in the words of Allah azza wa jall, "If you are on a journey and cannot find a writer, something can be left as a security" (Holy Qur’an 2:282) since that is when it is more common one cannot find a scribe to provide evidence. The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) pledged his armor when he was in Madina. That indicates its permissibility while one is resident.

It would appear from what he says is that a pledge is valid before it is actually taken, and that is true, but it is only by actual possession that the pledgee has a special right to it rather than other creditors. Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that if that is delayed until the bankruptcy or death of the pledger, it is agreed to be nullified.

36.7b Witnessing pledges

Testimony about possession is only useful if the witness actually saw possession take place.

Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) said that this is when it is a distinct item and is handed over so that there is a transfer. When the pledge is not a distinct item and is not handed over, testimony is useful is they both confirm it [e.g. it might consist of certain palm trees].

36.7c Responsibility for the pledge

Responsibility for the pledge is that of the one who takes it if it is something which can be hidden. If it is something which cannot be hidden, he is not liable. The responsibility for the fruit of palm trees in pledge is that of the pledger. The same is true for the revenue of houses.

This is when he takes the pledge if it is not lodged with a trustee who takes it from the pledger. He is responsible for something which can be hidden, like jewelry, unless there is evidence that it has been destroyed, Then he is not liable. He is not liable for things like houses and gardens according to the well-known position. This is the case even if the pledgee were to stipulate that he is not liable for what can be concealed or the pledger were to stipulate that the pledgee is responsible for what is not hidden.

[Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that the precondition is void because it is contrary to what is entailed by the contract. Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that the precondition is binding.]

Someone who is suspect swears, "It is lost and I was not negligent nor destroy it. I did not misuse and I do not know where it is." The one who is not suspected only swears to lack of neglect in particular because it is not suspected that he has concealed it.

Responsibility for fruits is that of the pledger, whether the fruits exist or not at the time of the pledge and whether they are pollinated or not, unless the pledgee stipulates that it included. The same applies to revenue of houses. That is the responsibility of the pledger in the well-known position unless the pledgee stipulates that he has that.

36.7d Children of a slavegirl in pledge

If a slavegirl bears a child while she is acting as a pledge, her child is also a pledge. The possessions of a slave do not go into pledge with him unless that is stipulated.

If he stipulates that the child is not part of the pledge, that is not permitted and the pledge is invalid.

In the case of the possessions of a slave, whether they are known or unknown.

36.7e Responsibility for the pledge if destroyed

If the pledge is destroyed in the possession of a trustee, it is the responsibility of the pledger.

If it can be hidden. It is not the liability of the trustee because there is no liability for the trustee.

36.8 The 'Ariyya [Loan for temporary use]
The 'ariyya is assigned for a time. The borrower is responsible for what is can be hidden, but not for what cannot be hidden, like a slave or a riding animal, unless he misuses it.

Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) defines it as transfer of ownership of the usufruct of a specific thing without compensation. It is recommended, and even more so in the case of relatives, neighbors and friends. Its basis in the Book is the words of Allah azza wa jall, "Do good, so that perhaps you may be successful" (Holy Qur’an 22:75) and in hadith, the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) borrowed some armor from Safwan* and he asked, "Is it misappropriation, Muhammad?" He (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Rather it is a guaranteed 'ariyya."

He explains the question of liability in the 'ariyya. The borrower is liable for something which can be hidden unless there is evidence of its destruction. Then, in the well-known position, he is not liable because liability is based on suspicion which is removed by evidence. In the case of things which cannot be hidden, Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) says that he must take an oath, whether he is suspect or not. If the lender stipulates the borrower's liability, that is of no use. It is the same if the borrower stipulates to the lender lack of liability in that for which there is liability. That is of no use and he is liable according to one of the positions of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi). They also say that it is effective and one acts by the preconditions because the 'ariyya is a known topic, i.e. there is no liability in the known.

The exception to lack of liability is when the borrower abuses it and then he is liable. There are many types of abuse, including increasing the load and increasing the distance. He is also liable in another case, which is when it is clear that he is lies as when he says that it was destroyed in a certain place and none of his companions heard that it was destroyed.]

[*Safwan ibn Umayya who was still an unbeliever at that time.]

36.9 Deposits [wadi'a]

Deposit [wadi'a] comes from wada'a, which is "to leave". Allah azza wa jall says, "Your Lord has not abandoned you nor does He hate you." (Holy Qur'an 93:3) i.e. not abandoned His custom of being good in revelation to you. In technical usage it is property which is entrusted to someone's keeping and which must be returned whenever the owner asks for it without excuse. He is believed about returning it to the depositor unless there was evidence in that and then he is only free by clear proof of that.

36.9a Statements about the deposit
If someone given a deposit says, "I have returned the deposit to you," he is believed unless he received it in the presence of witnesses. If he says, "It has disappeared," he is believed in any case. In the case of an 'ariyya, however, he is not believed about its destruction if it is something which can be concealed.

If there were witnesses to his taking it, he is only believed when there are witnesses to its collection as his trust was not enough. Evidence must be intended for ensuring security. Witnessing is only considered when he says someone along the lines of "Bear witness that I have deposited such-and-such with him." It appears from his words, "He is believed" that he does not have to take an oath. They derive from the Mudawwana that he must take an oath.

When he says that the item is destroyed, he is believed whether there was testimony or not. The one under suspicion rather than others swears an oath in the well-known position. It is said that both the one who is suspect and others swear.

Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi'Allahu anhu) stated that and Shaikh at-Tata'i (rahmatullahi alaihi) said it. He repeats the point about the 'ariyya to differentiate it from the deposit.

36.9b Abuse of a deposit
If someone abuses a deposit, he is liable for it. If it was dinars, which he returns to their original bag and then they are lost, there is disagreement about whether he is liable for them.

There are many things that comprise abuse, including putting it with someone else without an excuse, while on a journey or resident. Another is traveling with it without excuse and using it so that it is destroyed. He indicates this here.

If it is dinars or dirhams which were tied or sealed and he lends them or part of them and then returns the same amount to the bag and then they are destroyed, it is said that he is liable because he misused by opening them. It is said that he is not liable. That is the position of Shaikh ibn a-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) and others. It is well known. It states in at-Tawdih, "He owes it and it only believed with an oath."

36.9c Trading with a deposit

It is disliked for someone to trade with something deposited with him. If he does so with money, the profit is his. If the deposit was goods and he sells them, the owner can choose between taking the price or the value on the day he infringed.
He has any profit or any loss because he is responsible. It is disliked to do so, even if it is the deposit is money. Shaikh al-Aqfashi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that. If the goods no longer exist, the owner has a choice between taking the price for which they were sold or their value on the day he sold them. If they are still present, he can choose between canceling the sale and taking back his goods, or taking the price for which they were sold.

36.10 Found property

36.10a Announcing the article which has been found

If someone finds something, he must announce it for a year in a place where it is hoped that it will be recognized. If, after a year, no one comes forward, he can make it a hubus or give it away as sadaqa. If he does that, he is responsible for it if its owner should then come forward.

It is mandatory to announce it immediately. If he delays until it is lost and then its master comes, he is liable for it. Shaikh at-Tata'i (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that. It is mandatory to describe it since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) commanded that. In the Muwatta' it states that a man came to the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) and asked him about an item which is found. He (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Publicize its purse and its strap. Then publicize it for a year." Publicizing it for a year is applies if the item is large. As for something insignificant to which one pays no attention, which is less than the legal dirham, as Shaikh Abu'l-Hasan (rahmatullahi alaihi), the commentator of the Mudawwana, said, it is not publicized. What is more insignificant and less than a lot is publicized for some days if someone might look for it. As for what will go bad by delay, like fruit, it is for the finder and he does not announce it.

The announcement is made in a place where that will achieve a result, and it is in the place in which he found it. When he announces it, he does not mention its category, but mentions it in a general manner, saying, "Who has lost something?"

If he then gives it away as sadaqa, it is on his behalf or on behalf of its owner.

36.10b Using the article

If the finder makes use of it, he is responsible for it. If it is destroyed before or after the year is up without action on his part, he is not responsible.

He is responsible if it is destroyed. If he does not destroy it, he must pay its rent to its owner if it is like something which is rented, like animals. If he did not do anything to abuse it, even permitted action, as when it is fodder, he is not liable because it is a trust with him.

36.10c Claiming the article

If the claimant recognizes the purse and the strap, he may take it.

It would appear that both matters must exist. That is not the case, because one of them is enough because he may have forgotten the other. It also appears that knowing the number of dinars and dirhams is not a precondition, and that is true according to Shaikh Asbagh (rahmatullahi alaihi). Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) consider that. Revenue from the item during the period of publicizing it belongs to the finder. [Revenue can be milk, butter, cheese and the like.]

36.10d Lost animals

A man may not claim a stray camel in the desert, but he can take a sheep and eat it if it is found in uninhabited wasteland.

[Hashiyyat: This is when the camel is safe from wild animals and thieves. Then he can take, although it is also stated that he does not take it in any case.]
Horses and donkeys are not the same category as lost camels: they are part of lost articles. If he finds them, he takes them. An uninhabited area is like a desert.

He is not liable or eating a sheep in the desert or uninhabited area, but if he brings to an inhabited area alive, he must announce it because then it becomes like a found article.

36.11 Compensation for consumption of another's property

If someone consumes merchandise, then he owes their value. If the goods are weighed or measured, he owes the equivalent.

This is the well-known position. Opposite it is what Shaikh al-Baji (rahmatullahi alaihi) reported from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) that he has a position which states that all damages are replaced with their equivalent, as is stated by Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Imam Shafi'i (rahmatullahi alaihi). According to the well-known position, one considers the price and the place of the consumption, whether intentional or accidental. Intentional and accidental are the same in respect to people's property.
If it is weighed, measured or counted things which are not differentiated, like eggs, he owes the equivalent in the place where he consumed it.

[If the amount is undetermined, he is liable for the value of a heap of it.]

36.12 Misappropriation [ghasb]

This is the final topic of this chapter. Ghasb in technical terms is to take property by force by encroachment without banditry. Its is forbidden because of what has come about in the ayats of the Holy Qur'an and the hadiths of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam). Among the ayats is, "Allah does not love those who go beyond the limits." (Holy Qur'an 2:190) There is the hadith in the two Sahih collections where the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "No one unjustly takes a piece of land measuring a hand's width but that Allah azza wa jall will encircle him down to seven earth’s on the Day of Rising."

One of its rulings is liability as he indicates here.

36.12a A misappropriater is liable

A misappropriater is liable for what he misappropriated. If he returns it in its original state, he owes nothing. If it has changed while in his possession then the owner can choose between taking it with the defect or making him liable for its price.

Shaikh al-Qarafi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "The term misappropriater applies to every human who is Muslim or a dhimmi since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said 'The hand owes what takes until it returns it,' i.e. obliged to return it if it exists, or its price or equivalent if it is gone."

The well-known position is that liability takes note of the state of the misappropriation. If it is returned unchanged, he owes nothing. He is obliged discipline, repentance and asking forgiveness for the wrong action. If it is changed in a negative way by something divine, the owner can take it as it is with its defect without a fine or be paid the price on the day he took it.

36.12b When he has caused the damage

If the loss was due to his misuse, the owner has a choice between taking it and taking it with compensation for the damage. There is a difference of opinion about that.

Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "Or he is liable for the price on the day he misused it. It is reported from Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) and one position of Shaikh ibn al-
Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) that he can take the price or take it imperfect with nothing with it. This is the source of the disagreement.

36.12c Income from usurped property

The misappropriater has no right to the revenue and must return what he consumed of the revenue or pay for any use he had from what he took. If he has intercourse with a slavegirl he takes, then he is subject to the hadd-punishment and his child is a slave of her owner.

It is clear that it is mandatory to return the revenue absolutely, whether land, animals, slaves or other things, and that is the position of Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh ibn Ziyad (rahmatullahi alaihi) from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi). Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that the literal text of the book specifies responsibility for the revenue of land rather than slaves and animals, and that is the position of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) in the Mudawwana.

If he has intercourse with a slavegirl he has wrongly taken, he is subject to the hadd if fornication is established by evidence or confession because it was unlawful intercourse with no quasi-legal justification. The child belongs to the owner because every child, from fornication or marriage, follows its mother in respect of ownership.

36.12d Past revenue

The usurper of property has no right to its profit up until the time he returns it to the owner. Some of the people of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) prefer that he give it away as sadaqa. There is something about this in the chapter on judgments.

Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that when he misappropriates some money and trades with it and it increases in his possession and it is connected to his responsibility, the profit is his as the liability is his, but it is disliked since it comes from property to whose use the owner did not consent. When he returns the capital as it was and is allowed it by the owner, that is permitted for him when the owner is agreeable about it. Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) recommended that he give it as sadaqa to expiate what he committed of the wrong action of misappropriation based on what the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Sadaqa extinguishes errors as water extinguishes fire."

There is something about misappropriation in the next chapter on judgments.
Chapter 37. Judgments on Homicide and Hadd-Punishments

This chapter deals with reprisal (qawd), blood money, retaliation (qisas) and related topics, like the ghurra [slave paid in compensation].

Hashiyya: Qisas concerns retaliation for limbs and qawd is retaliation for loss of life.

This chapter also deals with the crimes which result in the hadd punishments, like illicit sex, slander, drinking, and theft. Hadd means prohibition, and legally is what is imposed to prevent the criminal from reverting to the like of he did and to deter others.

Hashiyya: The chapter also deals with its legal consequences, like exile, and its size. Ta'zir (discretionary punishment) is also dealt with. The hudud are deterrents to protect loss of sanity, life, religion, honor and property, and lineage. Qisas [retaliation] protects lives. Amputation for theft protects property. The hadd for illicit sex protects lineage. The hadd for drinking protects minds. The hadd for slander protects honor. Execution for apostasy protects religion. It is said that the hudud are expiation’s, which is sound.]

RETALIATION FOR HOMICIDE

37.1 Conviction for homicide

37.1a. Necessary evidence

No one may be killed for homicide except on the basis of just evidence, confession, or by the qasama when that is necessary.

A life is only taken for another life equal in freedom, Islam and protection when the killing has been proven by one of three matters. The first is evidence, the second confession and the third is the qasama oath. There are certain preconditions in the killing which will be dealt with.

Hashiyya: A consequence of equality is that a free man is not killed for a slave nor a Muslim for a non-Muslim because the higher is not killed for the lower. As for protection, a harbi is not entitled to retaliation since he is not safe from being killed. This, of course, is as long as the person is not killed for financial gain. In such a case, the higher is killed for the lower. The criminal in this case must be one with legal responsibility [adult, sane], intend the blow, and the victim must have protection, either by Islam, safe conduct, or jizya. Retaliation is not carried out on a child or mad person or someone who errs nor someone who kills someone with no protection.

For evidence, the minimum is two men. Homicide which obliges retaliation is not established by one man and two women. The right to blood money, however, is established by that. In al-Jawahir, it states that the precondition for the validity of the testimony is agreement about the description of the killing. If the two witnesses differ in their description, as when one says that he slaughtered him and the other that he burned or wounded him, and the accused denied what they say and the relatives claim both, there is no entitlement to his life. If they swear the qasama to one version, the testimony of one is canceled since the accused and the relatives agree that it was untrue. Confession is when the accused make a voluntary confession without being forced to do so.

The qasama can be obliged when the killer in sane, adult and equal to the victim in respect ofdeen and freedom and is not his father, and the relatives agree on killing. The oath is taken by two or more. Furthermore, there is suspicion, i.e. circumstances which strengthen the claimant's side and it is probable that he is telling the truth, as when a reputable person sees the victim in his blood and the accused to close to him with the trace of killing on him, as he is stained in his blood and the knife in his hand.

37.1b Form of the qasama

The form that the qasama takes is that the relatives [of the victim] swear fifty oaths and then they are entitled to take the life of the accused. If it was premeditated murder, then the minimum required is that two men swear the oaths. More than one man is not put to death as a result of the qasama.

The relatives, who must be 'asaba [paternal relatives] of the victim, whether they are his heirs or not, swear the oaths. If there are fifty of them, they each swear one oath: "By Allah. There is no god but Him. So-and-so killed him or he died from the blow he struck." According to the Muwatta', then they are entitled to the life of the accused. In premeditated murder, not less than two men of the 'asaba must swear in case of inadequate evidence, and that takes the place of evidence. As the testimony of one man is not enough for evidence, it the same applies here. One is not enough.
[Hashiyya: If there are no ‘asaba by lineage, then the ‘asaba by clientage swear. The qasama obliges retaliation if it was deliberate and blood money if it was accidental. The oaths are sworn one after another and then they are entitled to his life. The Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Will you swear fifty oaths so that you will be entitled to the blood of your companion?"]

If a group are accused of homicide, and there is a qasama, it is said that the qasama is against one man, and it is said that it is against the entire group and then they choose one of them to execute.

[Hashiyya: When a group deliberately kills someone acting together out of aggression and he dies immediately or is mortally wounded, and the actions of each of the group cannot be distinguished and it is unclear which was the mortal injury or all the injuries led to death, then they are all killed without the qasama. In other words, the murder is established by evidence or confession. If the qasama is required, then only someone directly connected to the murder is killed when the blow was not immediately. Then only one is killed through the qasama process. When this happens, the rest are given a hundred lashes and imprisoned for a year.]

37.1c When the qasama is necessitated
Qasama is obliged by the statement of the dying man, "So-and-so killed me" or there is a witness to the killing, or two witnesses to the wounding if he then survives long enough afterwards to eat and drink.

In the first case, Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) and all his people do not disagree that it is suspicion of deliberate murder which obliges the qasama and retaliation. The same applies to a single eye-witness to the killing, when he is reputable. The relatives swear with his testimony and they are entitled to his life.

[Hashiyya: This is when the victim who makes the statement is adult, free, Muslim and sane. There is disagreement about accidental killing. The well-known position is that the relatives take the qasama and are entitled to blood money. It is said that there is no qasama in that because it is a financial claim, and that is reported from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi).

As for the witness to the killing, it would appear from the wording that the witness can be reputable or not, and this is reported from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi). The well-known position is that that does not constitute suspicion because his testimony is omitted legally. Two women are like one man in this. Death also has to established for the process to continue.]
There is also the case where two witnesses testify to seeing the injury, meaning the blow, or the blow. That is also considered suspicion when there is testimony of one reputable eye-witness to the injury or the blow, deliberate or accidental, according to the statement of the victim, "So-and-so wounded me, or hit me." Then the relatives take the qasama, swearing that he died of that wound or blow. If he dies immediately or is struck a mortal blow, he is killed for him without qasama. "Eating and drinking" is not meant literally, but refers to a delay after eye-witness of the wounding or blow, for a day or more, even if the victim does not eat or drink.

37.1d When the claimants refuse to swear

If those who claim blood refuse to swear, then the one accused must swear fifty oaths. If he cannot find those among his relatives who will swear with him, then the accused himself swears fifty oaths. If a group are accused of murder, then each of them must swear fifty oaths.

If all or some of them refuse to take the oath for the deliberate killing when the qasama is obliged by the statement of the victim or a witness to the killing, then the suspect swears with them. If the accused swears fifty oaths, then he is innocent. If he refuses, he is imprisoned until he swears and he is not released from prison unless he swears.
[Hashiyya: This is when the relatives of the deceased are the same degree in lineage or closer than others, as when the son refuses when the uncle is present. Such a refusal is not considered if the one who refuses has a more distant degree, as when an uncle refuses when the brother is present.]

In the case of an accused group, each swears fifty oaths and is only innocent by swearing fifty oaths.

37.1d Fifty oaths

When the relatives seek blood, fifty men swear fifty oaths. If they are less than that, the oaths are divided between them. A woman does not swear in a case of premeditated murder.

Shaikh al-Aqfahasi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "This is the position of 'Abdu'l-Malik (radhi’Allahu anhu). It is that it is not permitted for only two to swear when there are more present. If there are less than fifty, then the oaths are divided between them. If there are two then each swears 25 oaths." If there are more than fifty, then fifty of them satisfy the requirement.

A woman does not swear in a case of willful killing, whether or not there is a male with her because being male is a precondition to the entitlement to taking blood by the qasama. If there are only women, then the victim becomes like someone with no heirs and the accused must swear the oaths to clear himself.

[If the accused then refuses to swear, he is imprisoned until he does so.]

37.1e Accidental homicide

In the case of an accidental homicide, the heirs, male or female, swear according to what they inherit of the blood money. If the division of the oaths is uneven, then the one with the largest share swears the remaining oath.

In the case of two, each swear twenty-five oaths. In three, each swear 16 and two-thirds oaths, so each mends the shortfall which goes to his portion and so they each swear 17 oaths. If the division is uneven and, for instance, there is a son and a daughter, the factor is three and the male swears 33 and a third and the female 16 and two-thirds, and so the female has the larger fraction and so the daughter swears 16 oaths.

37.1f Oaths of heirs is a precondition

When some of the heirs are present swear to gain the blood money on account of accidental killing, they must swear all the oaths. Then those after them later swear according to their shares of the inheritance.

The oaths must total fifty in Imam Malik's (rahmatullahi alaihi) view. Otherwise they are not entitled to any of the blood money. When those who were absent at the time of the swearing arrive later, then they swear and the oaths of those present before them is not sufficient. Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that that is because part of the precondition of taking this property is to have the oaths. When the one who is present swears, he is entitled to his share of it, and any heir who comes later must swear according to his portion of the oaths and then he takes his share. He does no swear all since the earlier swore all the oaths.

37.1g Manner of swearing

They swear the oaths while standing. People living in the provinces of Makka, Madina or Jerusalem should be brought to those places to perform the qasama. People of other provinces are not summoned to their provincial center unless they are a short distance from it.

This description of taking oath applies to the qasama and to oaths sworn for financial rights. In the well-known position, it is done standing to deter them lest falsehood refute truth.
[Hashiyya: There are two views about what happens if they refuse to swear standing. Shaikh ibn al-Majishun (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that it can be done while sitting. Standing, however, is the well-known position of the School, and refusing to do so nullifies the right to blood money.]

The apparent meaning of the text is that the time is not made hard for them, but the place is.

The meaning of provinces is that those who are subject to those locations are summoned to those places for the qasama to make it hard for them, even if there is a great distance between them and these places, like ten days, because that will deter the liar because of the nobility of the site. That only applies to these three places. What constitutes a short distance varies in definition. Some say three days and some say ten days.

37.1h Not swearing for wounds

There is no qasama in the case of wounds, nor for slaves, or one of the People of the Book, nor if the body is found between the battle lines or found in the quarter of people.

This is when someone wounds someone else and has no evidence. There is no qasama. There is retaliation for deliberate wounding and blood money for the accidental, i.e. when there are two witnesses, there is blood money for the accidental and retaliation for the deliberate. If there is only one witness, he swears one oath with the witness and takes the blood money for the accidental injury and retaliation for the deliberate [when there is equality]. If the claimant does not swear, the wounder is free if he swears an oath. Otherwise he is imprisoned for the deliberate wound and indebted for the accidental.

There is no qasama for killing a slave because he has a lower rank than the free. When it is established that a person killed him by two witnesses, he is liable for his price, whether intentional or accidental, whatever it is, and he receives a hundred lashes and is imprisoned for a year.

There is no qasama between People of the Book. This does not mean if the killer and victim are both unbelievers. What is meant is when a dhimmi is found dying and says, "I was killed by so-and-so," who is a Muslim, and two reputable men witness his statement, there is no qasama for him. He owes his blood money from his own property if it was deliberate and the 'aqila (tribe) pay if it was accidental. If there is only the claim of a relative of the unbeliever against a Muslim, one pays no attention to it.

There is no qasama for someone found between battle lines of Muslims when the two groups are following their interpretation since each group believes it is permitted to kill the other since he takes its money, for instance, and one of them dies, his blood has no legal consequence.

There is no qasama a victim is found in the quarter of a people, and the place where the victim was found was one where people other than the people who live there pass through it. If other than its people do not pass through it and a murder victim is found is from other than its people. That constitutes inadequate evidence.

37.2 Pardon

37.2a No pardon in murder for gain

There is no pardon in the case of murder done for financial gain.

When someone kills a person in order to take his property, then it is not permitted to pardon him, or there is no pardon which is effective, even if the victim was an unbeliever and the killer a free Muslim because killing in this way is hiraba [aggravated robbery] and when the robber kills, he must be killed, even if it is for a slave or an unbeliever. Pardon is not permitted in this because it is the right of Allah azza wa jall. According to this, he is killed by a hadd punishment, not retaliation.
[Hashiyya: Pardon in this case cannot be issued by the victim, relatives or ruler, even if the victim is an unbeliever, because this is a right of Allah azza wa jall and pardon is not permitted in it.]

37.2b The victim pardoning his killer

A man may pardon his murderer if he was not killed for financial gain. He may pardon for accidental killing from the disposable third of his state.

This is when he pardons after he has been dealt a mortal blow, and then the relatives cannot say anything. If it is accidental, that has to come from the third because of the blood money is part of his property and the heirs can forbid him to dispose of more than a third because his financial dealings are restricted while he is in this condition.

37.2c Pardon granted by the heirs

If one of the sons of the victim pardons, then the killer is not killed, but the other heirs still receive their shares of the blood money. Daughters cannot pardon when there are sons.

This is once the right to blood has been established and the son is an adult. The killer is not killed because blood cannot be divided.
If part of it is canceled, it is all canceled. When one of the sons cancels killing or forgoes his share, the other sons still are entitled to their shares of the blood money. When there are sons, daughters do not pardon, nor do sisters pardon when there are brothers. Pardon and taking in full is a right of the 'asaba [male paternal relatives] rather than that of the females equal with them.

37.2d Punishment of a pardoned murderer

Someone who is pardoned for willful killing receives a hundred lashes and is imprisoned for a year.

This also applies when retaliation cannot be carried out on the killer because of lack of equality, as when a Muslim kills an unbeliever. This punishment was carried out by the Salaf, may Allah azza wa jall be pleased with all of them.

II BLOOD MONEY

37.3 The tariff for blood money (diya)

37.3a The tariff for accidental homicide
The blood money for people with camels is one hundred camels. For those who use gold, it is one thousand dinars, and for those who use silver it is twelve thousand dirhams.

Diya is derived from wadi, which means destruction. Since it is obliged by death, it is called that. It is a technical term for the indemnity obliged by killing a human being in recompense for his blood. What is obliged in killing another can be called his value as what is obliged on account of killing a slave is his value. Blood money is obliged by the words of the Allah azza wa jall, "Anyone who kills a believer by mistake should free a believing slave and pay blood-money to his family." (Holy Qur'an 4:91)

In the Muwatta', the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) is reported as stating that blood money is "one hundred camels for a life." There is consensus on that.

It varies according to the perpetuator. People with camels are nomads and tent people. It is one hundred camels taken from five categories. People of gold are like the people of Egypt and Syria, and people of silver are like the people of Iraq. His words imply that blood money is only from these three categories, and that is the case in the well-known position. It is not taken from cattle nor sheep nor goods.
[Hashiyya: If, however, both parties agree on something else, it satisfies the requirement. Those who oppose the well-known position and allow cattle and the like, say that it is two hundred head of cattle and one thousand sheep. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) said in the Muwatta’, "The generally agreed on way of doing things in our community is that camels are not accepted from the people of cities for blood-money nor is gold or silver accepted from desert people. Silver is not accepted from the people of gold and gold is not accepted from the people of silver."

37.3b The tariff for willful killing

The blood money for murder, if accepted, in camels is twenty five four year old she-camels, twenty five five year old she-camels, twenty five three year old she camels and twenty five two year old she-camels The blood money for accidental homicide is twenty of each type and twenty male three year old camels.

If blood money is accepted or retaliation impossible due to the disparity, then the camels consist of these four types: twenty five which are hiqqa, twenty five which are jadha’a, twenty five which are bint labun, and twenty five which are bint makhad. In the case of the accidental killing, there are twenty of each of the four categories, as well as twenty three-year old male camels (ibn labun). The blood money for intentional killing has less categories than the accidental killing, even thought the number is the same. Male camels are less valuable than female ones.

37.3c When a father kills his son

The blood money is made more exacting in the case a father who kills his son by throwing a piece of iron at him and killing him. He is not put to death for his death, but he must pay thirty, five year old she-camels, thirty, four year old she-camels and forty khalifas, which are pregnant camels. It is said that the 'aqila [the tribe] pay that and it is also said that it comes from his own property.

This includes anything which he does without the intention to kill him. He is not executed because of the respect for fatherhood. If circumstances indicate the he actually intended to kill him, then he is killed for him in the well-known position.

Imam Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) takes the position of Imam Abu Hanifa (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Imam ash-Shafi'i (rahmatullahi alaihi) that the father is not killed for his son because he was the reason for his existence. Included in this judgment are mothers and grandparents.
There is disagreement about who pays the blood money. The well-known position is that the killer, father or anyone else, pays it immediately and it is not delayed. If he has property at that time, it is taken from him. Otherwise it awaits his wealth. It is said that this heavier blood money is owed by the 'aqila (tribe). Shaikh ibn al-'Arabi (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that it is the tribe which pays the blood money. It is said that it comes out of his own property if he has property. If he does not, then the tribe pays it.

37.4 The tariff for other than Muslim men

37.4a Half the tariff

The blood money of a woman is half that of a man. The same applies to the blood money of Kitabis, and their women is half of that of their men.

The blood money of a free Muslim woman is half that of a free Muslim man. So her blood money is fifty camels, in fourths or fifths according to whether the killing is accidental or deliberate. The more severe form [if the victim is a daughter] is 2/3rds of sixteen and a third of camels from every type. In money, it is five hundred gold dinars and six thousand silver dirhams.

The same is true for the Jews and Christians. It is half that of the Muslims based on what Shaikh an-Nasa'i (rahmatullahi alaihi) reports that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The blood wit of the people of the dhimma is half that of the Muslims. There is half of that blood money for Kitabi women.

37.4b Magians

A Magian's blood money is eight hundred dirhams and that of their women half of that. The same principle applies to penalties for wounds.

A Magian, who is not a Kitabi, has this amount in silver and in gold it is sixty-six dinars and in camels, six and two-thirds in camels. Their women have half of that. The same portion applies to wounds.

37.5 Blood money for mutilation

37.5a Full blood money for hands, feet and eyes

There is full blood money for loss of both hands or feet or eyes, and it is half for the loss of one of them.

The full money is for the loss of both. There is half for loss of one. Abdullah ibn 'Umar (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "This is for accidental wounding. When it is deliberate, retaliation can be taken from the criminal."
37.5b Full blood money

There is full blood money due for cutting the cartilage of the nose, causing loss of hearing, causing loss of mental understanding, breaking the back, crushing the testicles, cutting off the penis, and cutting off of the tongue or damaging it so that the victim cannot speak. There is full blood money due for destroying the breasts of a woman or for causing the loss of the eye of someone with one eye.

If only part of the nose is cut, then it is calculated according to the damage. There is full blood money for causing loss of hearing. If it only one ear, then it is half, even if he only hears by it. When his mental faculties are impaired because a blow, there is full blood money. When his mental faculties is impaired by the amputation of his hands, he is owed double blood money. If both testicles and penis are cut off, double blood money is owed.

[The is half blood money for one testicle.]

In the case of the tongue, if someone cuts off part of it by which one speaks and he cannot speak, that entails full blood money because the tongue is for speech, not touching. There is discretion [hukuma] on any other part of the tongue. Hukuma means that the one evaluates the victim like a sound slave. If a sound slave is worth ten, for instance, then after the injury is estimated at nine, the difference is a tenth, and so a tenth of the blood money is demanded.

There is full blood money for the breasts of a woman, whether the cutting is partial or total. There is full blood money for the loss of the single eye of a one-eyed person when that is accidental. If it is deliberate, that will be mentioned.

37.6 Tariff for lesser wounds

37.6a. The mudiha and loss of fingers and toes

For a mudiha wound, which is a head wound which exposes the skull, the penalty is five camels. There is the same amount for loss of a tooth. There are ten camels due for the loss of each finger or toe, and three and a third for the tips of fingers and toes, and five camels for the tips of the thumb or big toe.

These amounts are for accidental wounds. There is retaliation for deliberate wounding. In the case of loss of a tooth, that also applies if it becomes very disordered [and turns black or is discolored], and whether it is from the front or the back. In the case of tips of fingers, a finger has three parts, and there is a third of each part. Again, this is in the case of accidental injury. There is retaliation for the deliberate wounding.

37.6b Other wounds

There is fifteen per cent for a munaqqila wound. The mudiha is a head wound which exposes the bone and the munaqqila is one affects the skull, but does not reach the brain. If it reaches the brain it is a ma'muma wound, and there is a third of the blood money for it. The same holds for ja'ifa (abdominal) wound.

Fifteen per cent is 15 camels and intentional and accidental injuries are the same in it and there is no retaliation in such a wound since it can prove lethal.

[Fifteen per cent is one hundred fifty dinars or one thousand eight hundred dirhams.]

The mudiha exposes the bone and removes the skin and flesh which covers it. It is only on the head, forehead and cheeks. A wound is mudiha if it exposes the amount of a needle of the bone.

A munaqqila wound is one which chips the bone but which does not reach the brain. Any wound which reaches the brain, even the amount of a needle, while there still remains a thin membrane on the brain which, if removed, would result in death, is called a ma'muna. It is only on the head or forehead. There a third of the blood money for it, which is $33\frac{1}{3}$ camels, or three hundred thirty-three dinars or four thousand dirhams.

A ja'ifa wound is one which reaches the gut and it is only in the back or abdomen. It obliges a third of the blood money.

37.6c Lesser wounds

One exercises ijtihad [discretion] in the case of a wound less than a mudiha and in the case of other wounds.

Cases whose amounts are not specified by the Shari’ah are decided by judicial determination [hukuma]. It is that one estimates the decrease in the value of a sound slave after receiving such a wound. For instance, if the slave was worth ten on the day of the injury and afterwards is worth nine, there is a tenth of the blood money owed. It is the same in a wound less than a ja'ifa wound which is accidental.

There is only hukuma.

37.6d Waiting for the wound to heal
The blood money for a wound is only paid after it has healed. If a wound less than a mudiha heals without leaving a scar, there is no compensation for it.

It is only paid after it heals because it is not known whether full money is obliged for it or not. Similarly, there is no retaliation taken until after the wound has healed. Shaikh al-Aqfahasi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that. If it leaves no scar and is less than a mudiha or a ja'ifa, there is no blood money. What is understood from what he says is that there is something for something which heals with a scar, and that is based on the principle of hukuma as already explained.

37.7 Retaliation (Qisas)

There is retaliation for deliberate wounds, unless such a wound may prove fatal, such as a ma'muna, ja'ifa, and munaqqila, or breaking a thigh, crushing the testicles, breaking the back, and such injuries. Blood money is paid for such injuries.

In the case of wounds which would probably lead to death quickly, like crushing the testicles, breaking the breast bone and breaking the back, blood money is paid for an intentional injury, i.e. blood money is calculated in it. The blood money is paid in full if the injury demands full blood money, like breaking the breastbone, neck or back, or a third or a tenth or a twentieth as was made clear.

[Hashiyya: In the case of deliberate injury, the Qadi must discipline the perpetrator, whether or not retaliation is taken.]

37.8 The clan's obligation in the blood money

37.8a Responsibility for the accidental, not the willful

The 'aqila (tribe) do not have to pay for deliberate murder nor for homicide based on confession. They can pay for accidental injuries if the amount is a third or more of the full blood money. Amounts less than a third are paid by the perpetrator from his own property.

They do not have to pay the blood money for intentional killing in which retaliation is canceled by pardon or anything else which cancels it. Then it is immediately due from the property of the perpetrator. The aqila do not have to pay for the accidental which is based on confession, and the perpetrator must pay it himself because of possible collusion between the killer and the relatives of the victim.
The 'aqila are called that because they pay ('aqila) the blood money for him.

37.8b Major wounds and the 'aqila

As for a deliberate ma'muna or ja'ifa wound, Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that the blood money paid by the tribe ('aqila). He also said that it is said that it is paid from his property unless the perpetrator is without money. Then the 'aqila pay it because there is no retaliation in the case of such wounds when they are deliberate. It is the same with penalties which reach a third of the blood money when there is no retaliation because that might prove fatal.

The first is the well-known position. Retaliation is not taken when it might result in death.

37.8c The clan does not pay for a suicide

The 'aqila does not pay anything for someone who kills himself either deliberately or accidentally.

It is blood with no consequence since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Whoever kills a believer accidentally.." and so the blood money is obliged for the one who kills someone else. That indicates that it is not obliged when someone kills himself.

37.9 Blood money paid to a woman

A woman is paid the same compensation as the man up to a third of the blood money of a man. If compensation reaches a third, it reverts to her portion of the blood money (which is half).

Up to a third is taken for things like her limbs as it is for the man with the same amount as that for a man. When the amount is more than a third, the tariff reverts to the blood money of women. When three of her fingers are severed, she is owed thirty camels since compensation is equal to a man in what is less than a third of his blood money. When four of her fingers are cut, she has 20 camels because if they were equal, she would be obliged forty and that is more than a third, and so it reverts to half of what is obliged for a man, which is 20. The people of Madina and the seven fuqaha' agree on that.

37.10 Cases where the parties are unequal

37.10a Murder by a group
When a group murder a man, they are all killed for his murder.

Linguistically a group is from three to ten, but for the fuqaha', it is simply a group. They are all killed if they colluded to kill him.

[Hashiyya: It makes no difference between they participated in the actual deed or only some did it while the others were present. It is the same if the victim was a woman.]

37.10b Murder by someone drunk or insane

If a drunk kills, he is killed. If a madman kills, his tribe pay the blood money.

Someone drunk by drinking what is forbidden, like wine, knowing that it forbidden but deliberately drinks it. That is because he voluntarily becomes drunk and so has no excuse. If he becomes intoxicated from medicine, then he has an excuse. This is when he kills someone protected who is his equal or higher.

The mad person is one who does not recover. The 'aqila pay his blood money when it reaches a third.
It is the same when he has bouts of insanity and kills someone in one of those bouts. If he kills someone in a period of sanity and then goes mad, he is executed when he regains his sanity.

37.10c Minors

The deliberate injury inflicted by a minor is the same as an accidental one. It is paid by the 'aqila if it is a third of the blood money or more. Otherwise it comes from his own property.

There is no retaliation taken from a minor.

37.10d When the victim is of the opposite sex

A woman is killed for a man and a man for a woman. Retaliation is exacted from each for wounds.

There is agreement about a woman being killed for a man. The majority say that a man is killed for a woman since Allah azza wa jall says, "We prescribed in it for them: a life for a life," (Holy Qur’an 5:47) and that abrogates His words, "free man for free man." (Holy Qur’an 2:177)

Retaliation is exacted for wounds since Allah azza wa jall says, "Retaliation for wounds." (Holy Qur’an 5:47)
37.10e Free and slave

A free man is not killed for a slave, but a slave is killed for a free man.

A free Muslim is not killed for a slave. A free non-Muslim is killed for a Muslim slave. If a free Muslim kills a slave, he owes his price and the value of any wounds he inflicts. A slave is killed for a free Muslim. Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) says, that that is when the relatives want that because they can choose between killing him or letting him live. If they let him live, the master can choose between handing over the slave or paying the blood money of a victim.

37.19f Non-Muslims and Muslims

A Muslim is not killed for an unbeliever but an unbeliever is killed for a Muslim.

It does not matter whether the Muslim is free or a slave, but an unbeliever is killed for a free or slave Muslim.

37.10g No retaliation between unequal’s
There is no retaliation between a free man and slave in the cause of wounds, nor between a Muslim and an unbeliever.

That is because equality is obliged for blood. In short, if the victim and perpetrator are equal in freedom and Islam, retaliation can be taken from him for homicide and wounds. If the perpetrator is higher in either category, there is no retaliation in wounds or homicide. If the perpetrator is lower than him, there is retaliation in homicide, but not wounds.

There is no retaliation between Muslim and unbeliever in wounds. If a Muslim injures an unbeliever, he owes the blood money for that limb if it has a specific blood money. If it is not specified, there is judicial discretion (hukuma). If an unbeliever injures a Muslim, he pays the blood money in that for which there is a specific blood money, and there is hukuma in what is less than that.

37.11 Cases of no legal liability (hadar)

37.11a Damage done by animals

Someone who is driving, leading or riding an animal is liable for anything that the animal tramples on. If the animal tramples on something which was not a result of what the person did, or while it is stopped without anything done to it, there is no legal liability for that.

The driver drives the animals from behind. They are liable for what the animal destroys with its feet, but not for what it destroys with its tail or mouth, or if it is standing and is not provoked by a blow or goad. There is no penalty for this by the sound transmission that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "There is no blood money for a dumb animal. There is no blood money for a well and there is no blood money for a mine."

37.11b Wells and mines

If someone dies in a well or a mine without any one doing something to cause that, there is no liability.

When someone falls down a well or mine, like someone who works in it and dies. His employer is not charged in it because he has not down anything for which he would be responsible and hence he has no liability.

37.12 When and by whom blood money is paid

The tribe ('aqila) pay the blood money in installments over three years. If it a third of the blood rate is owed, it is paid in a year. If it is half, it is paid over two years. Blood money is inherited according to the shares of inheritance.

Full blood money is paid for the accidental killing of a Muslim or someone else. A third of the tariff is due for injuries like that of a ma'muna and ja'ifa. Half would be due if the victim had lost a hand or foot. Full blood money can also be paid be installments over four years. [The installments are paid in equal amounts. Less than full blood money can be paid in monthly installments]

Blood money, whether willful or accidental, is inherited according to the shares of inheritance. Each of the heirs takes the portion allotted him in the Book of Allah.

37.13 Ghurra penalty for causing a miscarriage

There is a ghurra owed for causing the loss of the fetus of a free woman. A ghurra is a slave or slavegirl worth fifty dinars or six hundred dirhams. The ghurra is inherited by the heirs according to the Book of Allah azza wa jall.

That is a twentieth of the blood money of the father or a tenth of that of the mother. The well known position is that only gold rather than camels is paid for the ghurra. Shaikh al-Aqfahasi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that.
Hashiyya: This ruling applies to free Muslim or Kitabi woman when the father is a Muslim, even if the pregnancy is the result of illicit sex. It is a pregnancy which would accord umm walad status to a slavegirl and can consist of a lump of flesh, a clot or congealed blood. The miscarriage is the result of a blow. This is when the child is born dead. If it is born alive, but dies because of the injury, full blood money is due.]

37.14 Killing a Relative

Someone who deliberately kills someone does not inherit either his property or his blood money. Someone who kills a relative by accident inherits his property, but not the blood money.

He does not veil anyone since the one who does not inherit does not veil an heir. In the case of accidental homicide, he inherits and veils. The form of that is that when there are three brothers. One of them kills another and the third inherits a third from the blood money because there is only one brother with the killer because the killer does not inherit from the blood money but does inherit a sixth from the property because the killer inherits from the brother and veils the other brother, reducing his share from a third to a sixth.
37.15 Ghurra in the case causing a slavegirl to miscarry

There is the same tariff for causing the loss of a fetus of a slave girl pregnant by her master as there is for causing a free woman to miscarry. If she was pregnant by someone else, the fine is a tenth of the value of the mother.

This is when the master is free and she miscarries. A ghurra is due in the form of a slave or slavegirl. The umm walad is called a slavegirl (ama) here, which is not the technical term. If the parent is not the master, then compensation is a tenth for a fetus whatever the sex of the miscarried fetus.

37.16 Killing a slave

If someone kills a slave, he owes his value.

If a Muslim kills a slave, he owes his price from his own property, whether it is accidental or deliberate unless he kills him for financial gain. Then he is executed for Allah azza wa jall's right.

37.17 Collective murder

If a group of people kills someone in aggravated robbery (hiraba) or for financial gain, they are all killed, even if only one of them did the actual killing.
Whether they kill a free Muslim, slave or dhimmi. Killing for money is in order to steal his property and hiraba, according to Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi), consists of every action which is intended to take property when someone cannot normally seek help, whether a man or woman does that.

Anyone who commit highway robbery or causes alarm on the roads is a muharib. The one who commits this must be adult and sane. It can be in a city or a town.

They are all executed when all of them undertake the killing, even if only one of them does it. If one of them decides on that without any collusion on their part before, that is different from hiraba and gain, and they are not all killed for one unless they conspired to kill him or if they all take part in it.

37.18 Atonement for homicide

Atonement (kaffarah) for accidental killing is mandatory. It consists of freeing a Muslim slave, or, if that is not possible, then fasting for two consecutive months. If someone is pardoned for willful killing, this is best for him.

Shaikh at-Tata'i (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it is not a precondition that the killer be legally responsible. That is taken from the property of a child or mad person because that is what is prescribed. A slave freed to fulfill the kaffarah must be Muslim, free of defects and a full slave. In fasting, the kaffarah is two consecutive months. If he does not fast that consecutively and breaks it deliberately, he must start again. If it is due to forgetfulness or illness, he does not start again. This expiation is also recommended for the one who has been pardoned for willful killing because of the gravity of what he did.

III CRIMES AGAINST ISLAM

37.19 Crimes against Islam

37.19a Zandaqa

A zindiq is killed and his repentance is not accepted. He is the one who conceals disbelief while making an outward display of Islam.

This is a hadd punishment, not for disbelief, i.e. when he repents after we have exposed him. The legal consequences are that when he is killed for a hadd, his property goes to his heirs. An example of his repentance after being exposed is that he denies the zandaqa which is proven against him. If he admits it and does not repent, his killing is not a hadd. It is disbelief and so his property is that of an apostate and his heirs do not inherit. His property goes to the Muslim treasury. If he repents, it is not accepted. It is accepted if he comes in repentance before he is exposed. Such a person was considered a hypocrite in the time of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam).

37.19b Sorcery

The same is true for a sorcerer. His repentance is not accepted.

He is killed without being asked to repent once he has been exposed. If he comes in repentance before he is exposed, then his repentance is accepted.

37.19c Apostasy

An apostate is killed unless he repents. He is given three days to repent. The same ruling applies to a woman.

Someone who recants from Islam. Apostasy is disbelief after affirming Islam. If he does not repent, he is killed. One does not execute him immediately but repentance is offered to him. If he refuses then he is killed. It is obligatory to delay execution for three days. If he repents, there is no problem. If not, he is killed after sunset on the third day. This judgment includes men and women. A pregnant woman is deferred until she gives birth.

[Hashiyya: The School is that he is offered Islam every day without being punished by beating or pain or made thirsty and without threats.]

37.19d Someone who refuses to pray

If someone has not apostatized but affirms the prayer and yet says, "I will not pray," he is given a respite until the time of the next prayer. If he does not pray, he is killed.

"I will not pray now and will pray later" or "I will not pray at all." He is still in the daruri time in which he can pray one rak'at without considering being at rest or balance or recitation of the Fatiha. This is to protect blood as much as possible. If he rises to pray, there is no problem. Otherwise he is killed with the sword immediately.

37.19e Refusing to pay zakat

If someone refuses to pay zakat, it is taken from him by force.
Even if it leads to fighting him, and if he dies in that, his blood is of no consequence.

37.19f Refusing to go on hajj

If someone does not go on hajj, he is left to Allah azza wa jall.

He is not threatened by death or anything else since he may not have all the preconditions for the hajj, even if that seems so outwardly.

37.19g Not praying out of denial

Someone who abandons the prayer out of denial of its obligatory is like an apostate. He is asked to repent for three days. If he does not repent, he is killed.

The obligatory prayer. Denial means to reject its obligatory nature. Such a person is killed for disbelief and not by a hadd. Then the funeral prayer is not said for him and he is not buried in the Muslim cemetery and there is no inheritance between him and his heirs and his property goes to the Muslim treasury.

[Hashiyya: The same applies to the one who denies the obligatory nature of zakat.]
37.19h Insulting the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam)

If someone curses the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) he is killed and his repentance is not accepted. If one of the people of dhimma abuses him (alaihi salat wa salam) outside of that which constitutes his disbelief or curses Allah azza wa jall other than what constitutes his disbelief, he is killed unless he becomes Muslim.

When he says something to deprecate him. His execution is a hadd and hence it is of no use if he repents or denies it when there is clear evidence of it. Repentance does not cancel a hadd. This is why he says that his repentance is not accepted.

The same principle applies to someone who curses one of the Prophets (may Allah azza wa jall bless them all)or one of the angels or denies one of the Books of Allah azza wa jall. If someone abuses someone whose prophethood is a matter of dispute, like al-Khidr ✨, he is strongly punished but not killed.

Statements of dhimmis which constitutes their disbelief would be things like a Jew saying, "He is not a messenger to us, Our Messenger is Musa (alaihi salam)." Abuse beyond their intrinsic disbelief would be criticizing the character of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam). An example of that which constitutes his disbelief is saying that God is three or that He has a son.

37.19i Estate of an apostate

The estate of the apostate goes to the Muslim community.

It is placed in the treasury.

37.20 Aggravated robbery (hiraba)

37.20a No pardon

A bandit may not be pardoned when he is caught.

This is when he is captured before he repents because that is a hadd.

37.20b His punishment

If he has killed anyone, he must be killed. If he has not killed anyone, the ruler should exercise his discretion according to the seriousness of his crime and the length of time he has been a robber. He may execute him, or crucify him and then execute him, or cut off his opposite foot and hand, or exile him to another town to be imprisoned there until he repents.

Whether his victim was a slave or unbeliever, he is still executed, even if the relatives of the victim pardon because it is a right of Allah azza wa jall.

This also applies to assisting in the killing by striking or holding the victim. This also applies to adult. A child is not killed, but punished.

If he has not killed, the ruler takes into consideration that which he think will be an adequate deterrent. If is strong, he receives the strongest of the punishments which is the cutting off the alternate hand and foot. If he is not strong, it is the easier punishment, which is exile. The basis of this is the words of the Almighty, "The reprisal against those who wage war on Allah and His Messenger and go about the earth corrupting it, is that they should be killed or crucified, or have their alternate hands and feet cut off, or be banished from the land." (Holy Qur’an 5:35) Execution is in the normal way with the sword or the spear in the throat. Crucifixion is being tied to a post standing, not inverted. Alternate cutting is to cut off the left hand and right foot. If he commits robbery after that, he is killed.

\textit{37.20c When a robber repents before he is captured}
If he is not caught until he comes in repentance, none of these rights, which are Allah's rights, are exacted. The rights of people are taken in the form of blood or property.

None of the penalties for aggravated robbery are applied because Allah azza wa jall says, "except for those who repent before you gain power over them." (Holy Qur'an 5:36)

As for the rights of human beings and other rights of Allah azza wa jall, like those for illicit sex and drinking wine, these are not canceled at all. So he is liable for the crimes he committed in the course of his banditry because repentance has no effect on the rights of people. They are is taken from his property and he is indebted for it if he has no property.

37.20d Individual responsibility

Each member of a gang of thieves is liable for all the property they take. The entire group is executed for the murder of one person in banditry or for financial gain, even if only one of them did the actual killing.

Thief here means the robber (muharib), not a simple thief.
Shaikh ibn Rushd (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that when a group of thieves help one another, they are guilty of aggravated robbery. This is the predominant view. The same applies to rebels and usurpers when they form a band.

37.20e Killing a dhimmi in a robbery

A Muslim is put to death for killing a dhimmi in aggravated robbery or for financial gain.

A robber is killed if he kills a slave in this manner before repenting. If he repents after he has killed, then he owes the blood money for a dhimmi and the price of the slave and is not killed for them.

IV THE HUDUD

37.21 Illicit sex [zina] by a someone who is muhsan

Illicit sex [zina] is the deliberate intercourse of a Muslim who is legally responsibility with a human being with him he or she has no legal right [by marriage or ownership]. It is forbidden as indicated by the Book, the Sunnah and consensus.
[Hashiyya: There must be two, and one of them must be a male. Children and the insane are excluded from responsibility for the action, and that is not legal zina in respect of them. For legal zina, it must be a Muslim. The intercourse of an unbeliever with another unbeliever is not called legal zina and is not subject to the hadd. If an unbeliever has illicit sex with a Muslim woman, he does not receive the hadd, but is severely punished, and she is subject to the hadd. For it to constitute legal zina, it must involve penetration of human private parts by the penis. "Deliberate" intercourse excludes the one who does so in error or in ignorance of the prohibition - as when a new Muslim does that not knowing that it is forbidden.

Proof of its illegality in the Book is, "And do not go near to fornication. It is an indecent act, an evil way." (Holy Qur’an 17:32) In the Sunnah, we find that the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "One of the greatest wrong actions is that you make something equal with Allah azza wa jall when He created You. Then that you kill your child fearing he will eat with you. Then that you commit adultery with your neighbor’s wife." There is no disagreement in the Community that it is forbidden."

There are three punishments for it: stoning, flogging, and exile after flogging. He starts with the first.
37.21a Stoning

If someone commits illicit sex and is a free muhsan, he is stoned to death.

This is a free legally responsible Muslim, male or female. He is stoned with medium sized stones, not large ones to avoid disfigurement or small to avoid torture. People should avoid hitting the face and private parts and throw them at the back or abdomen.

[Hashiyya: According to the School, no pit is dug for this.]

37.21b Who is considered to be "muhsan"

One acquires the status of being muhsan by marrying a woman in a valid marriage and having valid intercourse with her.

Ihsan linguistically means chastity. In the Shari’ah it is when a sane adult male marries a Muslim or Kitabi woman, free or slave, who is adult or not adult but at an age when sexual intercourse is possible, in a valid marriage – the invalid marriage does not count - and has permitted intercourse with her. If he has intercourse with her while she is having her period, this does not create ihsan.
37.22 The punishment for illicit intercourse by a non-muhsan

37.22a The punishment

If he is not muhsan, he receives a hundred lashes and exiled to another town by the ruler and kept there for a year.

And he is free Muslim and responsible. Exile is the distance about three days. If he returns before the year, he sent back there or to another place of a similar distance.

The prisoner pays for the transport there if he has money.
Otherwise the treasury pays.

37.22b Slaves and illicit sex

A slave who commits fornication receives fifty lashes, as does a slavegirl, even if they are married. They are not exiled nor is a woman exiled.

The text comes on the slavegirl. Allah azza wa jall says, "If they commit fornication, they should receive half the punishment of free women." (Holy Qur’an 4:25) Slaves are by analogy with her. It does not matter that they are married, because freedom is one of the preconditions of being ihsan and so there is a difference.

A slave is not exiled because that would cause harm to his master. A woman is not exiled because she needs to be guarded and protected. Exile would expose her to shame and the occurrence of the like of that for which she was exiled.

37.23 Conviction for illicit sex [zina]

37.23a Establishment of guilt

The hadd for illicit sex is only carried out when proven by confession, clear pregnancy, or the testimony of four free men who are adult and of good character who see the actual act, like a kohl stick entering a bottle.

If someone confesses to zina, even once, that obliges the prescribed hadd. Clear pregnancy is proof when the woman has neither husband nor master. The third form of establishing guilt is the testimony of four free men who must see the act of penetration in illicit sex.

[Hashiyya: In the case of confession, it must be someone whose confession is valid by his being adult, sane and not compelled.]
37.23b Testimony to this must be identical

They must testify at the same time, and if one of them does not give the full description, the other three who gave it in full are given the hadd [for slander].

They all testify at the same time, and must agree on what they saw of the penetration. If they meet and one saw it after another, that is not enough because it can be different acts. If one does not describe it in full, as when he says, "I saw him between her legs but that is all I saw," then the other three receive the hadd for slander, but not the fourth. He is punished at the discretion of the ruler, even if it is worse than the hadd.

37.24 Minors

A hadd is not inflicted on someone who has not reached puberty.

He or she is not yet legally responsible, whether he or she is the active or passive party. The authorities must, however, discipline him in order to rectify his state.

37.25 Illicit sex with a slavegirl
37.25a A son having intercourse with his father's slavegirl or vice versa

The hadd is carried out on someone who has illicit sex with his father's slavegirl but not for someone who has sex with his son's slavegirl. He must, however, pay him her value, even if she does not become pregnant.

It is not carried out on the father because of lack of certainty of ownership, which is not the case for the son. The estimation of her price is made on the day of intercourse and the son cannot have intercourse with her after that. After the father pays her price, he must observe istibra' [a waiting period to ascertain if she is pregnant] if he wishes to continue having intercourse with her unless the son has had intercourse with her. Then she becomes haram for both, but he still must pay the price to his son because he has destroyed her for him.

37.25b A partner having intercourse with a jointly owned slave

A partner in a jointly owned slavegirl is punished if he has sex with her and is liable for her price if he has money. If she does not conceive, the other partner can choose between keeping her or being reimbursed for her value.
This is true even if the partner gives him permission to have intercourse with her because that is not permitted by the simple permission of the partner when he is still a partner. He must be disciplined, but less than the hadd since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Avert the hudud on account of doubts." He owes her price if she becomes pregnant and then the partner cannot keep his share in her and continue the partnership because of the establishment of the respect for birth, and she becomes his umm walad. He owes no price for her intercourse because he is like someone having intercourse with his property. If she does not become pregnant, the partner can choose to keep his share. He does not pay any fee or bride price nor her depreciation. If the one who did this is wealthy, his partner can take his share from him. If he is not, then he is in debt for the price according to what they agree on, immediate or delayed.

37.26 A raped woman's proof of innocence

If a pregnant woman says that she was forced, she is not believed and receives the hadd unless there is a witness that she was carried off until the abductor disappeared with her or she comes seeking help at the time of the event or comes bleeding.

A free woman with no husband. The is not believed because the basic principle is that sex is normally voluntary and so that is assumed to be the case unless compulsion is established and because believing her is a means to a lot of illicit sex, given women's inclination to sex, whether she is someone who can be forced or not. She must produce evidence of her truthfulness.

There are three ways of establishing her truthfulness. The first is a reputable witness to her abduction.

It is said that one witness is adequate because it is a report, and a report is sufficient to bring about a doubt which cancels the hadd.

The second is when she calls out for help during the event. The third is when comes in a state which indicates her truthfulness, even if she did not cry out in the event. That cancels the hadd.

"Bleeding" refers to a virgin. In the same of a woman who is not a virgin, some physical evidence of violence is required.

37.27 A Kitabi rapist

If a Christian rapes a Muslim woman he is killed.

Or a Jew. When the rape is proven by four witnesses because this action violates their contract. When one of them breaks the contract, he is killed.
If he rapes a Kitabi woman married to a Muslim, there are two positions about whether he is executed. If he marries a free Muslim woman and she does not know that he is a dhimmi, she receives no hadd and there is disagreement about killing him. If she knows that he is a dhimmi but does not know that it is forbidden for her to marry a dhimmi, she receives no hadd. He is not killed, but is punished severely. Four witnesses to the actual act are required, and the child has the mother's deen, not that of the father. He must pay the bride-price to her.

37.28 Voiding conviction based on confession

If someone retracts a confession to illicit sex, he is released and let go.

Whether it is based on a doubt or not, during the hadd or before it. If he flees during the hadd, that it is like retraction. Flight in the hadd indicates retraction by tasting the punishment. A doubt would be like when he says, "I had intercourse in an invalid marriage and thought that it was illicit sex." He can also say that he was lying in his confession. When the hadd is canceled, the bride price of the woman is not canceled when she was forced.

37.29 The one who carries out the hadd punishment on slaves
A master imposes the hadd punishment for illicit sex on his slave or slavegirl is she becomes pregnant or if there is other evidence in the form of four witnesses, or confession. But if the slavegirl has a free husband or her husband is the slave of someone else, the hadd punishment is only carried out on her by the ruler.

He also carries out the hadd punishments for slander and drinking, but not the hadd for theft. That has several preconditions. The status of a slavegirl married to other than a slave of the master is different out of the fear that he might misconstrue their being together. Such a case goes to the ruler since the spouse has a right if he is free and his master if he is a slave.

37.30 Homosexual sodomy

When someone commits the action of the people of Nabi Lut (alaihi salam) with a consenting adult male, they are both stoned, muhsan or not.

The words are general, including free and slave and unbeliever. The action of the people of Lut was anal intercourse between males, whether the male is a slave or not. He excludes the female from this ruling. A person is not stoned for that, but if she is someone with whom intercourse is lawful for him, he is punished severely. If she is not lawful for him, he receives the hadd for illicit sex. A precondition for stoning the passive partner is that he is adult. That is also a precondition for the doer. If they are not legally responsible, then there is only discipline.

37.31 Slander (qadhf)

Qadhf in technical usage is something which indicates illicit sex or sodomy or denial of paternity. It is forbidden by the Book, Allah azza wa jall says, "Those who accuse women who are chaste" (Holy Qur'an 24:23) The Sunnah is that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) flogged those who delved into the Lie (about 'A'isha (radhi'Allahu anha)). It has preconditions which concern the slanderer and the slandered. He begins with the penalty.

Linguistically, it means "to throw stones at". It is used metaphorically for accusing of disliked things, and it is one of the major wrong actions.

37.31a The penalty for slander

A free person who slanders is given eighty lashes, while a slave is given forty lashes for slander and fifty for fornication. An unbeliever who slanders also receives eighty lashes.

An adult slanderer, Muslim or unbeliever, even drunk or a father, receives 80 lashes. The slave receives half of that, male or female, Muslim or unbeliever. What is required is discrimination. A free unbeliever also receives 80 lashes because the ayat is general.

Shaikh ibn 'Arafa (rahmatullahi alaihi) mentioned from the Mudawwana that there is no hadd applied on the harbi, and Shaikh ibn Marzuq (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that as well.

37.31b Slander which is not punished

There is no hadd for someone who slanders a slave or unbeliever. There is a hadd on account of accusing a girl of fornication if she is of an age in which she can have intercourse, but there is no hadd on account of slandering a boy, nor is the punishment carried out on a minor for slander or intercourse.

Slander means to accuse someone of illicit sex. A person is not flogged for slandering a boy because there is no shame connected to him whereas there is for the girl. A child is not punished because his deeds are not recorded.
If he slanders a slave or unbeliever, he is punished, but not with the hadd, according to at-Tahqiq.

37.31c Impugning someone's paternity or accusing someone of sodomy

A hadd for slander is imposed on someone who denies a man's parentage or implies that. If someone calls a man a sodomite, he also receives the hadd.

This is about a free Muslim man or woman. It is the same if those slandered are children or mad. It applies if someone attacks a person's lineage, however high. An example of that is saying, "You are not the child of so-and-so." He receives the hadd because the suggestion that a man is a bastard is worse than accusing him of illicit sex because the shame of illicit sex is removed by repentance while the shame of being a bastard is never removed. This also applies to implication as when he says to a person, "I am not a fornicator," meaning that the one he is speaking to is. Expressions can imply their opposite.

Accusing someone of sodomy also carries the hadd because he ascribes to him a foul action whose doer is subject to the hadd.
37.32 Multiple infractions

37.32a The penalty for slandering a group

If someone slanders a group, then one of the group may oblige the hadd once, and then the rest have nothing from him.

This when it is done in one statement. The hadd in slander is for the sake of removing shame from the slanderer and denying the slander. When the slanderer receives the hadd, then the shame is removed and the desired goal of the Shari’ah achieved and there is no need to repeat the hadd.

37.32b The death penalty takes precedence

If someone drinks wine or fornicates more than once, there is one hadd for all of that. It is the same with slandering a group of people. As for someone who has both hudud punishments and killing obliged on him, killing him is sufficient in that – except in the case of slander. He receives the hadd for that before he is killed.
There is one hadd for multiple infractions because the genus is one, and one hadd satisfies several of the same infraction. The same principle applies to slandering a group of people.

If someone is obliged to receive hudud punishment and execution, like someone who fornicates, drinks wine, steals and kills a Muslim, the execution satisfies all of that and no hadd is carried out on him except for slander. The hadd must be imposed to remove the shame from the slandered.

37.33 Drinking wine

If someone drinks wine or intoxicating nabidh, he receives a hadd of 80 lashes, whether he is intoxicated or not, but he is not imprisoned for that.

Wine includes all that has been fermented from grapes so that it causes intoxication. Nabidh results from soaking dates or raisins in water.

The punishment is administered to free responsible Muslims out of free choice without being compelled, even if the person is ignorant of the hadd or the prohibition. Khamr is made from pressed grape juice. It must be swallowed. The hadd is not administered to dhimmis or harbis. The evils resulting from drinking are worse since that can lead to committing other crimes.

The punishment is eighty lashes once he is sober again if that is established by confession of the testimony of two witnesses who saw him use it or smelled it. There is a disagreement about whether there is a hadd for nabidh which does not intoxicate. He is not imprisoned even if he does it a lot because it is not reported from the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) nor from any of the Companions that they imprisoned for that.

37.34 Administration of the hadd

The one who receives a hadd is stripped, but a woman is only divested of what would protect her from the blows. They receive the flogging sitting down. A pregnant woman is not flogged until she gives birth, nor is a very sick person until he recovers.

A male is stripped of everything except what covers the private parts. A woman is stripped of things like a fur because the goal is restraint from the like of what was committed, and it is supposed that the pain of the beating will be a deterrent to the wrongdoer. It is recommended that she be put in a basket and some earth under her and moistened with water for the sake of covering.
In flogging, it is the back and shoulders which are hit.

A pregnant woman is not beaten until she gives birth and finds someone to care for the child, based on the hadith of Ghamidiyya woman who came to the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) while pregnant and said, "Purify me." He told her, "Go away until you give birth." A very sick person is not flogged until he recovers out of fear of causing death.

37.35 Bestiality

Someone guilty of bestiality is not killed, but is punished.

Shaikh ibn Najis (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that he is punished since it is possible that one might understand that he has the hadd of a virgin, but that is not the case. "He is punished" indicates that what is meant is that he does not receive any hadd. He is punished as the ruler sees fit since he has done something forbidden.

Hashiyya: This is based on the hadith of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) "Whoever comes to an animal, receives no hadd." Shaikh at-Tirmidhi (rahmatullahi alaihi) related it. That is the action of the people of knowledge and the transmission that he and the animal are killed is not established.
37.36 The hadd for stealing

37.36a The penalty for theft

If someone steals a fourth of a dinar of gold or the equivalent of goods worth three dirhams or the weight of three dirhams in silver on the day of the theft, his hand is cut off if he stole that from a protected place. His hand is not cut off if he snatches them.

This penalty is for men and women, free and slave, Muslim or others. The position of the school is that the value of the object is calculated on the day of the theft, not the day of the judgment. The dirhams are pure silver and one does not any attention to whether they are equivalent to a fourth of a dinar.

This is when there are dirhams in circulation in the land where the theft occurred.

The basis for this is what is in the Sahih collection where the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The hand of a theft is only cut off for a quarter of a dinar or more." In the Muwatta' it is reported that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The hand of a thief is cut off for a shield worth 3 dirhams."
The thief must also be adult and sane and not own the stolen object. Also excluded is a mother or father stealing the child's property. If someone is forced to take part in a theft, his hand is not cut off. This would be like the case of someone who is starving.

It must be stolen from a protected place, which is in a place in which is normally put for safety. That varies according to individuals and property. Some places are secure for one person but not for another, or are secure for some goods rather than others.

The hand is not cut off for snatching, which is when he takes something openly in when someone is inattentive.

37.36b Multiple cases of the same crime

In such a case of theft, the hand applies of a man, woman or slave is cut off. If the person steals a second time, his left foot is cut off. If he steals a third time, his left hand is cut off. If he steals a fourth time, his right foot is cut off. If he then steals again, he is flogged and imprisoned.

The amputation takes place at the wrist and at the ankle. If he is imprisoned, it is until he repents or dies.
The expense of his imprisonment comes from his own property. If he has no property, then from the Muslim treasury.

37.37 Voiding a conviction based on admission

If someone confesses to theft, his hand is cut off. If he retracts, he is let go.

One confession is enough for this. If he retracts his confession by a doubt or something as when he says, "I took my deposited property," and he thought that that was theft. A case of no doubt is when he says, "I lied in my confession."

37.38 Return of stolen goods

A thief must return what he stole if he has it. Otherwise, he is indebted for that amount.

He pays the value. Otherwise he remains liable for it.

37.39 Mitigating factors

37.39a The item stolen must be removed from its place of keeping
If someone takes something from the place where it is in safe keeping, his hand is not cut off until he actually removes the stolen object from its place of keeping. The same applies to stealing a shroud from a grave.

This is whether he removed it himself or threw it outside or removed it on the back of his animal or a group lift it on the head or back of one of them and he takes it out while they remain in the secure place or they go out with him. For all of that there is amputation. When it has not been taken out of the secure place or it is destroyed in it and then removed, there is no amputation. There is no amputation for someone who steals a shroud until he takes it from the grave if it is worth a fourth of a dinar or more.

37.39b Stealing from a house one is permitted to enter

If someone steals from a house he has permission to enter, his hand is not cut off. The hand of someone who snatches is not cut off.

That is because he is not a thief. He is treacherous. The treacherous one does not have his hand cut off. The basis is what Shaikh at-Tirmidhi (rahmatullahi alaihi) related: the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Neither a looter, treacherous person or snatcher has their hand cut off." A looter is the one who takes property openly with strength and force. The treacherous person and snatcher do not have their hands cut off. This point is repeated.

Hashiyya: If a spouse steals from the other spouse from a place he or she is forbidden to enter, their hand is cut off. If it is from a place he or she is not forbidden to enter, it is not cut off. This is not just a verbal prohibition, but the place has to be locked.

37.39c A slave's confession

If a slave confesses to something which obliges a hadd or amputation on his body, his confession is binding. In that which concerns his person, he cannot confess.

This is when admits to a crime for which the hadd is amputation, like drinking, slander or illicit sex, i.e. for any matter which obliges punishment on his body, that is obliged by his confession, even if his master denies it, as is in at-Tata'i because he is not suspected of wanting to cause this to himself.

If he admits to what would oblige to his being taken possession of, as when he admits to cutting off the hand of a free person, that is not accepted from him because he is suspected of wanting to be transferred.

37.39d That for which there is no amputation
There is no amputation for taking fruit hanging on a tree, a palm pith, or for taking grazing sheep or goats unless he stole them from their pens, nor for taking fruit unless it is from a barn.

The same applies to fruit hanging in gardens. As for fruit hanging in houses or rooms, there is amputation for that. When palm piths are on the tree, there is no amputation for them. There is no hadd for sheep or goats which are grazing, whether or not there is a shepherd with them unless they are taken from the pens where they go after grazing. The same principle applies to fruits in the barn wherever it is located.

37.40 Intercession

37.40a Once the crime is reported to the ruler, there is no intercession

There is no intercession once a case of theft or illicit sex has reached the ruler.

The same applies to drinking wine. Once the case reaches the ruler, then it is the right of Allah azza wa jall and the ruler cannot pardon nor can he be asked to pardon, even if the fornicator or thief repents. The lack of permission to pardon is derived from the hadiths about Ma'iz and the Ghamidiyya woman.

Ma'iz ibn Malik confessed four times to illicit sex. The Ghamidiyya woman came to the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) and asked to be purified of the sin of illicit sex. They were both stoned.

37.40b Slander is an exception to this

There is disagreement about that in case of slander.

Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi)said that it is permitted based on the fact that the hadd for slander is a right for the slandered. Another time he said that it is not permitted based on its being a right of Allah azza wa jall. It is permitted to intercede before it reaches the ruler.

37.41 Pick pocketing and stealing public property

37.41a There is amputation for pick pocketing

If someone steals from someone's sleeve, his hand is cut off. If someone steals from the granary or treasury or booty, his hand is cut off.
Pick pocketing applies to stealing from a sleeve, pocket, turban or belt. The thief's hand is cut off because that is protected place. The granary is the place where the ruler puts the food and goods and the treasury is repository for money. Stealing from the booty is after it has been set aside. The hand is cut off for any such theft.

37.41b A possible exception

It is said that that if what he took is three dirhams more than his share of the booty then his hand is cut off.

That is when he exceeds his right by that amount.

That is the position of Shaikh Abdu'l-Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi), while the first position is that of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi).

37.42 Prosecution for stolen goods

When a thief has his hand cut off, he is prosecuted for the value of missing stolen goods if he is solvent. If he has no property, he is not prosecuted. He is, however, prosecuted for an amount which does not reach the level at which the hand is cut off.
Its value is taken from him. If he still has the stolen property, it is taken from him after his hand is cut off because amputation is not compensation for it. If the thief is insolvent, it satisfies the time between his theft and amputation and it is canceled for him so that he does receive two punishments. He is prosecuted for petty theft which is below the nisab for amputation.

Chapter 38. Judgments and Testimony

Qada' [plural aqdiya] is used for judgments, finishing, destruction performance, sending, carrying out, going, and determination. Technically, as Shaikh ibn Rushd (rahmatullahi alaihi) says, it is reporting about a legal ruling in a binding way. It is one of the fard kifayas, i.e., there must be a number who undertake it since it contains necessary public welfare. It can become an individual obligation, as when there is one man who fulfills its preconditions and it is feared that rights will be lost for their people if he does not undertake judgment. It can be forbidden, when someone is ignorant and aiming for this world by it or tyrannical. Judgment with justice is one of the best pious actions and injustice in judgments is one of the greatest wrong actions and greatest sins. Allah azza wa jall says, "The degenerates will be firewood for Hellfire." (Holy Qur'an 72:15) The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The most arrogant of people to Allah and the most hated of people by Allah and the furthest of people from Allah is a man whom Allah appoints over anything in the Community of Muhammad in anything and is not just to them."

Being is a qadi is a test for the one who undertakes it. The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Whoever is made a qadi has been slaughtered without a knife." It has certain preconditions: being Muslim, sane, free, male, adult, equitable, intelligent and capable of ijtihad.

One of its preconditions is ijtihad. It is not sound to appoint an imitator when there is a mujtahid available.

It is permitted when there is no mujtahid. He must act according to the well-known position in the school of his Imam. Know that he means an absolute mujtahid. A lesser mujtahid is in the position of an imitator. There are two categories: a mujtahid of the school, who can establish the proofs, and a mujtahid in fatwa, who can exercise preference.

He begins the topic with the sound hadith.

38.1 Court procedure

38.1a The onus is on the claimant
The plaintiff must produce testimony and the one who denies it takes an oath.

One of the shaikhs said that the claimant is the one who says that something is true and the defendant is the one who says it is not. The claimant must produce evidence because he is someone who seeks to establish something. The oath is taken by the one who denies it because he has the stronger side since he claims the basis and the basis is lack of liability.

38.1b No oaths unless the case is plausible

There is no oath taken unless it is established that they have had dealings or that is suspected. That was the practice of the judges of the people of Madina. 'Umar ibn 'Abdu'l-'Aziz (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "People have new cases according to the extent that they have new iniquity."

Dealings are established by the admission of the claimant or by the testimony of two just witnesses or one witness and the oath of the claimant. "Suspicion" is in respect of the theft and usurper. "Dealings" is in business and probability of suspicion is in unlawful appropriation or use of property.
Hash.: The Mukhtasar says that "dealings" are established by a woman's evidence.

The people of Madina agreed on the evidence, and it is singled out by the hadith where the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The claimant produces evidence and the oath is for the one who denies it." The literal meaning of the hadith is that the oath is generally directed, but it is specific requirement that there were dealings between them. That is because there are modern cases according to what people devise of new forms of iniquity which is stressed by what 'Umar ibn 'Abdu'l-'Aziz (rahmatullahi alaihi) said. Cases are decided according to ijtihad in that in which there is no text. There is no doubt that 'Umar ibn 'Abdu'l-'Aziz (rahmatullahi alaihi) was one of the Imams who are imitated in word and deed. This is not contradicted by his words, "Leave what the moderns innovate" because that is not based on the Book, Sunnah or consensus.

38.1c When the defendant refuses to swear

If the defendant refuses to take the oath, judgment is not given to the claimant until he swears an oath to what he claims to the best of his knowledge.

When he says "I will not swear", for instance. The claimant does not receive his claim simply by the refusal of the defendant to swear. The claimant must swear to what he knows of the description of what he claims and its amount. This is for a claim of identification. As for an accusation, as when he suspects a person of stealing property, the claimant does not swear, but the defendant must pay when he refuses to swear. The oath is only taken by the claimant in a claim of identification.

38.1d The form of the oath

The oath is "By Allah, there is no god but Him." [Billahi alladhi la ilaha illa huwa]

This is the oath for all rights. Nothing is added or taken form this form. This is general to all people, Muslims and Kitabis. It is said that the Kitabi only says, "By Allah."

The later is the apparent position of the Mudawwana.

38.1e Where the oath is taken

He takes the oath standing by the minbar of the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) if it concerns something worth a quarter of a dinar or more. Outside of Madina, he takes the oath in the central mosque at the most esteemed place in it. The unbeliever swears "By Allah" in a place he respects.
He takes the oath standing to make it harsh. If he swears seated, that is not adequate. This is what is relied on it. The oath in Madina is taken at the minbar to deter the one who takes the oath. Other places, it is the Jumu'a mosque, and at the mihrab. If he refuses to swear there, he is considered as refusing to swear.

The Kitabi swears in a place he respects. For a Jew, he would swear in the synagogue and a Christian in the Church and a Magian in his temple.

38.1f Later evidence

When the claimant finds evidence which he did not know before after the defendant has taken an oath, judgment can be given in his favor by it. If he knew of it before, it is not accepted. There is also a view that it is accepted.

Whether the evidence was absent or present, if it is close to the time, like about the length of a week. Shaikh ibn al-Majishun (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that judgment is given in his favor after he swears an oath that he did not know. If he knew about it and it was present, then the evidence is not accepted in the well-known position. Shaikh ibn al-Qassar (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that it is accepted.
Hash: He moves on to discuss testimony which is a fard kifayah. If there is only one person capable to giving testimony, then it is an individual obligation. If he then refuses to testify in such a case, he is disobedient and can be dealt with by beating and imprisonment. Testimony has different ranks. The first is testimony in the case of illicit sex and sodomy. The second rank is dealt with here.

38.1g One witness and an oath in property cases

Judgment can be given on the basis of a single witness and oath in the case of property,

And that which leads to property, as when one of them claims that he has an option to withdraw in a sale and the other that the sale was final. The statement accepted is that of the one who says it was final and the one who claims there is an option must bring a witness and take an oath. It similar to hire, accidental wounds and recording.

38.1h Not for other cases

but one witness and an oath is not accepted in the case of marriage, divorce, and hudud punishments,

This is the third rank.
Two witnesses are required in marriage, divorce and the hudud. It states in al-Mudawwana that if someone claims he has married a woman and she denies it, he cannot take an oath to it, even if he produces a witness. Marriage is only established by two witnesses. An example of that in divorce is when the woman claims that her husband divorced her and she has one witness. She does not swear an oath with him and the divorce is not obliged. An example of that in the hudud is that one man states that another man has slandered him and produces one witness. He does not swear with him and there is no hadd.

38.1i Not in homicide or deliberate wounding nor is one witness and an oath accepted in deliberate wounding or homicide. Homicide is only decided by the qasama process. There is another view that wounds can be decided on that basis.

As when he claims that someone else has deliberately injured him and has only one witness. He does not swear with him. The oath is offered to the accused. If he swears, he is free. If he refuses, he is imprisoned. If he remains for a long time, he is indebted and removed. This does not mean that one judges in homicide by a witness and an oath along is with the qasama about the life.
It is also said that judgment can be made about injuries by one witness and an oath in general, whether deliberate or accidental. He presents this and it is well-known while putting the other first which is not well-known.

The view about accidental wounding being decided by one witness and an oath is because it leads to property in the form of the blood money.

38.2 Women's testimony

38.2a Their testimony regarding property

The testimony of women is only permitted in respect of property.

And what is connected to property, like hire.

38.2b The weight of a woman's testimony

A hundred women count as two women. Two women count as one man. Judgment is given on the basis of that with one man or an oath in cases where one witness and an oath are permitted.
That is like one man, since the rule that it is possible with an oath when in such cases.

38.2c Cases where women's testimony is accepted

The testimony of two women alone is accepted in matters which men do not observe, such as childbirth, the crying of a new-born child and the like.

This is the fourth rank of testimony. Their testimony is accepted in what men do not witness, like birth and the cry of a new-born. The fact that he cries means that he was born alive and then he inherits and is inherited from. The like of that are things like defects of the vagina and body. This does not contradict what he said about the testimony of women only being accepted in property because that is particular to what we defined of his words.

38.3 Rejecting a witness because of character or relationship

38.3a Rejection of testimony

Neither the testimony of an adversary nor someone who is suspect is not allowed.
This is the testimony of an opponent against his opponent. Someone suspect is suspect in his deen because of committing something not permitted in the Shari’ah. It is also said that his testimony is suspect.

Hashiyya: This is an opponent for material gain which is not insignificant. It is permitted if it is about something insignificant or it is a difference in the deen, as a Muslim testifying against an unbeliever. It, however, there is a long-standing feud, it is not accepted. As the evidence of an adversary is not accepted, it is not accepted against the mother, father or son of his adversary, nor is his son's testimony accepted. Someone's testimony itself being suspect is when he is suspected of bias in his testimony.

38.3b Acceptable witnesses

One only accepts the testimony of reputable witnesses.

Being reputable ['adala] is not that a man is investigated for obedience so that no act of disobedience sullies it because that is impossible and only the true are capable of it. What is meant is he usually is obedient to Allah azza wa jall and avoids wrong actions.

Someone who is 'adl is free, Muslim, sane, adult, free of iniquity, debarment due to foolishness, and free of innovation. Innovation includes Mu'tazilites and Kharijites. Shaikh al-Qarafi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "In our view, 'adala is Allah azza wa jall's right from the judge. He is only permitted to give judgment with reputable witnesses. Imam ash-Shafi'i (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "Since it is Allah azza wa jall's right, even if the litigants agree to accept the testimony of an unbeliever or one with whom Allah azza wa jall is angry, the judge is not permitted to give judgment on that basis." Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that.

38.3c Those who have been punished for a hadd are not acceptable as witnesses

One does not accept the testimony of someone who has been given a hadd punishment nor the testimony of a slave, child, or unbeliever. If someone who has received the hadd for illicit sex repents, then his testimony may be accepted except in cases involving illicit sex.

This is when someone has not repented. If he repents, there is a text on that.
A slave's testimony while still a slave is not permitted because testimony is one of the ranks of the Shari’ah which obliges rights against another and a slave is not worthy of it. The limitation is only while he is a slave. He can testify once he is free.
The testimony of a child is not accepted although it can be accepted against another child.

The testimony of an unbeliever is not acceptable either against a Muslim or an unbeliever. If he was an unbeliever and becomes Muslim, his testimony is accepted in what does not refer to the time he was an unbeliever. It is not accepted after his Islam because he is suspected of removing the imperfection which his testimony rejects because of it is natural human natural to seek to remove shame.

If someone repents of illicit sex, his testimony is not accepted in illicit sex. It is only accepted in other cases than for which he received a hadd. This is general, even if he became the best person after his repentance.

38.3d Kinship bars testimony

It is not permitted for a son to testify in favor of his parents or vice versa, nor a husband to testify in favor of his wife or vice versa. It is permitted for a man of good character to testify in favor of his brother.

The point is that the branch does not testify to its root nor the root to its branch. As for the testimony of the branch for the branch of the root or the reverse, that is permitted as is the testimony of one of the parents for one of the sons against another son if there is no bias for the one in whose favor the testimony is given. Otherwise it is forbidden, as when a parent testifies for his pious son against the impious. A spouse cannot testify for the other spouse while they are married or in a revocable divorce. The same does not apply once they are divorced.

The point about root and branches is that the principle extends upwards to grandparents and downwards to grandchildren.

It is permitted for a brother in favor of his brother, but only in cases of property and injuries which entail property, not that which would bring his brother honor or rank, like testifying that he married in such a way that would bring him honor or rank.

38.3e Others whose testimony is inadmissible

One does not allow the testimony of a habitual liar, someone who openly commits a major wrong action, someone seeking his own self-interest or seeking to avert harm from himself, or a guardian in favor of his orphan. A guardian may, however testify against his ward.

Hash: A habitual liar lies time and time again. A single lie has no effect. This is also unlawful lying. As for permitted lying, as when it is done in an effort to make peace between two people with a feud, that does not detract from his character.

Someone who openly commits a major wrong action or commits a small of minor action which involves baseness like stealing a morsel or stinginess about a grain in the measure. As for the minor wrong actions which do not indicate baseness, like looking at a woman, that does not detract unless that is habitual.

It is not permitted for someone to testify for his own benefit, as when someone testifies for his partner about something regarding shared property, as when one of the partners claims money from a man and that money which he claims is part of the property of the partnership. His partner cannot testify for him because it would bring him benefit. Averting harm is like when a man owes a debt to another and another man claims a debt and this one testifies that he paid his debt. He is suspected of defending himself in the quarrel between him and the other claimant, so he will say, "I will divide the property of the debtor with you," or "I will have it alone and you have no debt."

The same applies to a guardian because this is part of bringing about self-interest by his testimony. The point is repeated because he can testify against him. The expression in the Mudawwana is that if someone cannot testify in favor someone, is permitted to testify against him.
38.4 Testifying to the character of a witness

38.4a Such testimonial is not permitted from women

It is not permitted for women to testify to the good or bad character of a witness.

Neither about men or women. Their testimonial is not accepted in either case.

38.4b Form of testimonial about character

Declaring someone to have good character [tazkiya] is only accepted when someone says, "He is reputable and pleasing ['adlun rida]." A single witness to the character or bad character of a witness is not accepted.

Justice is a firm form in the self which is compelled to have constant taqwa. One witness is not accepted outwardly.

Hash: Reputability is in action and pleasing means for testifying. It is said that reputability it between a person and people, and being pleasing is between him and Allah azza wa jall.

38.5 Testimony of minors
The testimony of minors may be accepted on wounds before they have dispersed and no adult has been with them.

This is about what happens among them. Their testimony is also accepted in killing in the famous position as well as in wounds, but only before they separate, out of the fear that they might be coached by an adult.

Hashiyya: There are further preconditions. They must be male, free and Muslim. Two or more of them must testify and they must have the same testimony. The one who gives evidence must not be a relative of the one in whose favor he testifies nor an enemy of the one he testifies against. They must have discrimination about the action. They must have been in the same group. It is also said that the child must be at least around the age of ten.

38.6 Sale disputes

When two parties to a contract disagree, the seller is asked to swear an oath and then the buyer either accepts that or swears an oath and is free of the contract.

They may disagree about the price as when the seller says that it is a dinar and the buyer half a dinar. First the seller swears. The School obliges that the seller begins with the oath and takes an oath denying the claim of the buyer and confirming his claim in the same oath. He says, "By Allah, I did not sell it for half a dinar, I sold it for a dinar." Then the buyer can take the goods for what the seller says, or swear to deny the claim of the seller and affirm his claim. He would say in this example, "By Allah, I did not buy it for a dinar, I bought it for half a dinar." Then he is freed of the binding nature of the sale, and he can choose between taking the goods for what the seller swore or swear and be quit of the transaction.

38.7 Ownership disputes

38.7a Contention over ownership

When two claimants disagree about something in their possession, they swear oath and then the disputed property is divided between them.

This is when each of them claims ownership and neither has any evidence nor proof of his truthfulness and no one else contends with them in it, and it is part of which either of them can acquire. It is shared between them because their claims are equal and one cannot be preferred over the other. If one of them refuses to take an oath, then his right is canceled in favor of the other.
If there are three, it is divided between the three.

38.7b When there are character witnesses

If the two produce witnesses, judgment is given in favor of the one with better character. If the two witnesses are equal, then the two parties swear an oath and the property is divided between them.

If each of them has a witness who testifies for him and one of the dominates the other in justice, then judgment is given in favor of the more just after he swears that he did not sell that thing nor give it him nor did it remove from his property by any aspect at all. If neither witness is preferred, then the two witnesses must be the same in justice and one does not prefer by number unless it reaches the level of mutawatir. They swear and the disputed thing is divided between them because it is not more fitting to give judgment for one of them than the other.

37.8 Retracted testimony

When a witness retracts after judgment, he is liable for any losses in which his testimony resulted if he admits to perjury. The people of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that.
Shaikh ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that the apparent meaning of the words demands that all the people of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) differentiated between him admitting that he gave false testimony or not admitting it. In the first, he is liable but not in the second. That is not the case, Shaikh Mutarrif (rahmatullahi alaihi), Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh Asbagh (rahmatullahi alaihi) said in the Wadiha that he is liable absolutely because the error and deliberate regarding people's property is the same.

38.9 The statement of an agent

38.9a His statement is accepted

When someone says, "I have returned to you what you entrusted to me to pay" or "to sell" or "I paid you its price" or "I have returned your deposit or your loan," then his statement is accepted.

As when he entrusts him with an amount to repay a debt he owes to someone and the agent does not find him and returns it. If the one who entrusted him contends with him, then one takes the word of the agent since he is a trustee. The same applies in cases of a deposit.
In all these cases the statement accepted is that of the one entrusted. It maybe that the author follows what the shaikhs of the Mudawwana said when he makes a statement on it, his word must be accompanied by an oath and so the statement accepted is when he swears an oath to it.

38.9b Proof of delivery

If someone says, "I gave it to so-and-so as you commanded," and that person denies it, then the one who delivered it must produce proof. Otherwise he is liable.

He must have evidence that he gave it to him, otherwise he is liable for it.

Hashiyya: This is when the custom is to produce witnesses or he was commanded to have witnesses. Then not having witnesses is negligence on his part. If the custom is not to have witnesses, then he is not liable, as this is a case of acting according to custom ('urf).

38.10 The statement of a guardian [wali]

The same is true in the case of an orphan's guardian. He needs proof about what he spent on them or gave to them.
If, however, they are in his direct custody, then he is believed about their maintenance when it seems probable.

This is when the orphans dispute with him about spending and claim that he has not spent on them or they contest the amount he has spent when they were not in his custody as when he spent on them is feasible or well-known, if they are in his care. That is because of the difficulty of having witnesses in the later case and so the onus is lightened.

38.11 Amicable settlements [sulh]

An amicable settlement is permitted unless it leads to the unlawful. It is permitted in both affirmation or denial.

Unless it involves something forbidden in the Shari'ah, like paying gold for silver on a delay. It is permitted in affirming a sale, as when it is goods or animals and is settled for dirhams, or denial when he claims a house and the defendant denies it, but satisfies him with something. It is permitted in contracts.

Hashiyya: Abu Dawud (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Shaikh at-Tirmidhi (rahmatullahi alaihi) report that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Reconciliation between the Muslims is permitted except for a reconciliation which makes the lawful unlawful or the unlawful lawful." An example of the first is when about a house which is claimed for wine or pigs, and the second is exchanging goods for a garment provided that one who takes it does not wear it or sell it."

38.12 A slavegirl who marries claiming she is free

If a deceitful slavegirl marries a man on the basis that she is free, her master can reclaim her and claim the value of any child on the day of the judgment.

She deceives him by her actual words or by giving the appearance that she is free to the one who wants to marry her. The husband owes the minimum of what is named and the bride price of a woman like her. The price of the child is paid by the father since the child is not one whom the master has to free. If the master has to free him, there is no liability for the deluded husband to pay the price of his child, as when she deludes the son of his grandparent and he marries her thinking she is free and then he learns that she is a slave. The child is freed by his grandfather or grandmother.

38.13 Establishing a claim to a slavegirl

38.13a The right of the legal owner
When someone establishes his claim to a slavegirl who has borne (her new master) a child, he is entitled to her value and the value of her child on the day of judgment.

The case is when she has borne a child to a free person who did not acquire her illegally, whether by ownership, gift, inheritance, purchase or whatever manner of ownership. The real owner is entitled to the price of the slavegirl and the price of the child on the day of judgment and the child is free and his lineage established.

38.13b Other views

It is also said that he takes her and the price of the child, and it is also said that he only takes her price, unless he chooses to take the price. If he choose to take her price, he takes from the abductor who sold her.

He takes her value on the day he had intercourse with her. All three statements are made by Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi). He takes the price from the abductor when he chooses the price as is confirmed by the sale of the usurper.

38.13c If the usurper still has her
If she is still in the possession of the abductor, then he receives the hadd and the child and its mother are slaves of her true owner.

If, after birth, the slavegirl to whom someone is legally entitled is still in the unlawful possession of the one who abducted and he knows she is not lawfully his, then he receives the hadd because he had illicit sex.

The child is a slave since it is without father. It would have been better to say that the child is ascribed to the lineage of the mother because it is connected to her and not him.

The ruling regarding someone who purchased her from the abductor, knowing about his abduction, is the same as that of abductor: his lineage is severed when there is evidence that he knew before intercourse that she was unlawfully abducted.

38.14 Establishing a claim to land

38.14a If land has been build on

If someone establishes his claim to land after it is has been built on, he should pay the price of the buildings which are standing. If he refuses to do that, the buyer should pay him the price of the undeveloped land.
In the case of someone entitled to take land from someone who has bought it or someone else who has not unlawfully acquired it after there are buildings, planting and the like on it, he can pay for the improvements and take the land with its structures or the buyer can pay him the value of the empty land.

38.14b When the owner refuses either course

If the buyer refuses, then they become partners in the property according to the value of which of them owns.

Hash: One version has, "either of them refuses."

Or when either of them refuses to pay the other. They become partners according to the value of each of them. If the land is worth ten dinars and the buildings worth twenty, then one owns two-thirds and the other one-third. One assesses the value on the day of the judgment, according to the famous position, not the day of construction of the buildings.

38.14c The case of the usurper

A usurper, however, is ordered to remove his buildings, crops and trees. If he wishes, their owner can be paid the price of the debris and trees, after deducting the cost of hiring someone to remove that. He owes nothing for what has no value after it is uprooted or demolished.

It is not permitted for the two of them to agree to have that remain in the land in exchange for rent because that would lead to selling crops before they are ripe in exchange for letting them remain because the owner would be able to take it free of charge in the first division or by the value uprooted in this second division after it is sold to him.

Hash: If the time for planting that land has passed, the owner does not command him to remove the crop, but he is paid rental for that year.

Then the trees can be taken as firewood. He is allowed to gives the owner the price of its debris and crops. The like of that is that its price uprooted is 10 dirhams and the wage for removing it is four dirhams. He can pay him six dirhams. He is not liable for things like engravings, or plants or trees before they are of any use.

38.15 Increment in usurped goods

38.15a Any increment must be returned
Someone who unlawfully acquired it must return any revenue, but no one except someone who has acquired it unlawfully is obliged to return it.

This includes the thief, treacherous person, pickpockets and the like and all of those about whose unlawful possession is clear without any uncertainty. That is also based on the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam), "The property of a Muslim person is only lawful when he is happy about it." The non-usurper is one with a doubt, even if he bought it from an usurper when he did not know.

Since the child is not part of the revenue and he fears that it might be included, he continues:

38.15b Offspring

In the case of the offspring of animals and slavegirls, if they have children by other than the (new) master, they are taken by the one entitled to the mothers from the person who purchased them or has gained possession of them for some other reason. If someone unlawfully abducts a slavegirl and has intercourse with her, the child is a slave and he receives the hadd punishment.
Other means would be like someone who was given her as a gift or sadaqa because the ruling of the child is that of the mother since she is property of the one to whom she belongs and so the owner takes him. The usurper does not owe the bride-price, but a fine for the lowering of her value due to intercourse.

38.16 Building Regulations

38.16a Responsibility of the owner of the ground floor

The owner of the ground floor is responsible for maintenance of ground floor as well as for the wood of the ceiling and the support for the rooms above it when the ground floor becomes weak and dilapidated until it is sound. He is compelled to make the repairs or to sell it to someone who will repair it.

This is when someone owns the rooms above him. If the ground floor becomes weak, it is feared that the house will collapse. The owner of the ground floor must make the repairs since he is able to do that. He is responsible for the wood of the ceiling and the supports. Since the solidity of the house depends on the occupant of the ground floor, he must either repair it or be made to. If it is sold to someone else and he refuses to repair it, then must either repair it or sell it to someone who will put it right.
38.16b Alterations not allowed

"There is no harm nor exceeding harm done." He must not do anything which will harm his neighbor: like opening a window facing him by which he can see his neighbor, opening a door directly in front of his door, or digging anything that will harm his neighbor, even in his own property.

This is a sound hadith. There is no harming the one who does not harm you. That is the meaning of "no harm". There is no doing to him more than he does you and so exceeding his harm. As for the like of his action or less than it, that is permitted as Allah azza wa jall says, "So if anyone oversteps the limits against you, overstep against him the same as he did to you." (Holy Qur'an 2:194) This is in relation to the common people. As for the great people and the elite, they meet evil with correctness.

If there already is a window onto the house of the neighbor, he does not have to block it, but he is forbidden to look at his neighbor from it so that the male can be distinguished from male. He does not open a door opposite his neighbor because that would entail looking at the private parts of his neighbors. He does not dig something which will harm him, even if it is in his own property, like digging a well next to his wall or his lavatory.
38.16c Judgment on a wall

Judgment on the ownership of a wall is given in favor the one whose house has wooden or masonry joints in the wall.

Qumut means the wood or palm fiber joints put in the middle of a wall to keep it from breaking and the masonry joints are stones which support the structure. The terms are interchangeable.

38.17 Water Supplies

38.17a Excess water

Excess water may not be denied in an effort to prevent people from grazing animals.

The form of that is that there is pasture next to water where some people camp, desiring to graze in it and the owners of the water prevent them from getting water so that they will leave their pasture.

38.17b Use of wells

People with wells for their livestock have the first claim on water for their animals and then the rights of other people are the same.
The animals of the people who own the wells water their animals and then the animals of the travelers can be watered. People are equal in the right to the water afterwards.

When the well are not on private land, and there is a conflict between those who dug the wells and travelers.

38.17c Springs or wells on private land

If someone has a spring or well on his land, he may prevent others from using it unless his neighbor’s well has caved in and he has plants he fears he will lose. Then he cannot deny him his excess water. There is disagreement about whether he can take payment for that or not.

Or if the well dries up. In this case he is obliged to let his neighbor use it with three preconditions. The neighbor has crops which depend on water, his well has collapsed and he fears the crops will be lost and he has begun to repair his well without delay. There is disagreement about whether he can take payment for that. It is related from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) that he does, and it is stated in the Mudawanna that he does not. The reason is that it is an obligation to give the excess of water by way of help, so he should not take payment for it. The reason for the first opinion is that he uses the property of someone else to revive his own property.

Hash: The relied on position is that he does not take payment.

38.18 Another building regulation

Someone should not refuse to allow his neighbor to insert beams into his wall but he cannot be compelled to accept that.

The meaning is that it is recommended. It is confirmed that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "No neighbor should prevent his neighbor from inserting a piece of wood in his wall." It is recommended which is why he says that he cannot be compelled. That indicates the refutation of the position of Shaikh ibn Kinana (rahmatullahi alaihi) and Imam ash-Shafi'i (rahmatullahi alaihi) that he can be compelled.

Hash: The prohibition is one of dislike.

38.19 Damage done by animals

If livestock ruin crops and gardens during night, the owners of the animals are liable for that. They do not owe anything for damage done during the day.
The details of this are in the Muwatta' and elsewhere. It is related from the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) that the owners of a garden must guard it in the day, but what animals damage in it at night is the liability of the animals' owners. The place of the liability for what the animals destroy at night being that of their owner is when there is no shepherd with them. Otherwise it is the shepherd who is responsible.

Hash: This is when he lets them loose at night and does not die them up. If he ties them up, he is not liable. It refers to animals which are normally tended, and not creatures like bees and doves for which they are not liable. When he is liable for damage, he pays the value or replaces what has been destroyed.

38.20 Bankruptcy claims

If someone finds his goods in the possession of someone who has become bankrupt, he can either take his share [with the other creditors] or recover his actual property if he can identify the individual item. If, however, the debtor has died, he must take his share with the rest of the creditors.

If he finds his goods which he sold to a man which are not lost and for which he has not been paid before the buyer goes bankrupt, then he has this choice. He either shares with the other creditors in the property as a whole and takes his share or, if it is something like an animal or a slave, he can recover it. If it is something like wheat, he can only take a share. If the bankrupt person has died, and he has not received the price before the buyer dies, he is not more entitled to his goods than the other creditors. He must take a share.

38.21 Guarantee of debts

The one who gives a guarantee is liable, and the one who guarantees the appearance of the debtor is liable if he does not bring the person unless he stipulated that he would not be liable.

When he is unable to fully satisfy the creditor. If someone who guarantees an appearance fails to bring the debtor present at the time he is required to bring him, if is liable for the amount the debtor owes unless he stipulated that that was not binding for him to be responsible for the money if the debtor failed to appeared. Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) stated that if he is able to bring him and neglects it, then he is liable.

38.22 Transfer of Debts [Hawala]

38.22a A transfer is not revocable
If someone agrees to have his debt transferred to a third party, he cannot go back to the first debtor, even if the third party becomes bankrupt, unless the first one deceived him.

If he deceives him, that means that he knew that the person to whom it was transferred was insolvent and still transferred it to him. If that is the case, the original debtor is not freed of responsibility and the debt reverts to the first debtor.

38.22b The transfer

The transfer is based on an original debt. Otherwise it is a guarantee.

If it is not on the basis of a debt, then he is a guarantor, i.e. responsible, because a transfer is transferring the responsibility for a right to the responsibility of another. If there is no basic debt, there is no transfer, even if the term "transfer" is used. The point of that is that the creditor can go back to the original debtor who is not free is liability by that because the guarantee does not eliminate the responsibility of the one guaranteed. It is another liability. If it had been an actual transfer, he would be free of responsibility and the one who transferred it would not be able to return to him.
38.23 More on the guarantee of debts and bankruptcy

38.23a When a guarantor must pay the debt

A guarantor is not liable except in the bankruptcy or the absence of the debtor.

This refers to his words that the guarantor is liable. The situation in which he is liable is the absence of the debtor when the creditor has not ready money with which he can pay the debt. If he is absent, but not far away, he is considered as present. Then he is not liable.

38.23b In case of death or bankruptcy

The death of the subject or his bankruptcy makes every debt he owes immediately due, but not debts which other people owe to him.

What is meant bankruptcy is when a judge orders the stripping of his property, not just the position of creditors. That which is deferred is not immediately due. As for deferred debts becoming due by death, that is because the debt is attached to blood, and it is ended by death and the creditor no longer has a connection to liability. Therefore what was deferred becomes due immediately and the liability moves to the legacy because it is not connected to other than the two. When one is gone, only the other remains.

As for its becoming due by bankruptcy, it is because the creditors made their agreement based on full responsibility, and that is destroyed by bankruptcy and so that no longer remains.

The debts that others owe him do not become due by his death or bankruptcy, because their place, which is the responsibility, still exists.

38.23c A slave with debts is not sold to settle them

A slave permitted to trade is not sold in order to discharge his debts nor is his master prosecuted for them.

The master is only prosecuted if he tells them, "Employ him" and they do so.

38.23d Detaining a debtor whose financial situation is unclear

A debtor may be imprisoned until he is cleared. He is not imprisoned if he is known to be insolvent.
He is imprisoned until his state is known. When his insolvency is confirmed by the testimony of two just witnesses who testify that they do not know that he has money either public or hidden. Then he is not released until he takes an oath that he has no wealth either outward or hidden and his oath is absolute and he does obtain property, he will pay his debt, even if he any beyond his immediate needs.

Hash: Someone who is well off and refuses to pay his debts is imprisoned and flogged time after time until he pays what he owes. That is at the discretion of the judge.

A man is imprisoned with other men and a woman is lodged in the protective custody of a trustworthy woman.

38.24 Apportionment of jointly owned property

38.24a Division of property

Buildings and property which can be divided without harm are divided [in case of dispute].

Such property includes animals, goods and measured and weighed things. This is when there is a dispute and some of the owners want to divide it and some do not. The one who refuses to do that is compelled to do it.
38.24b Enforced sale

In the case of something which cannot be divided without harm, if one party wishes to sell it, the other partner can be compelled to sell it.

This is something like a single slave. If the object would be destroyed by division or would be harmed by it, like a pair of leather socks, when division would destroy its use. If the partners contend about any of that and are not happy about using it jointly, and one wants to sell it while the others refuse to do that, they are compelled to sell it because it is not possible to divide it to end the dispute. Therefore it must be sold in order to end the dispute.

38.24c Division by lots

Division by lots is only done with the same category of thing. None of the partners can be given a price [while the other takes the goods]. If they decide to equalize the shares, the division is only permitted when they both consent to it.

It is not permitted to draw lots when the items consist of two categories and or disparate types, like apples and peaches. Each category is put on its own so that there no clear uncertainty in the lots. There is no paying a price since that would result in the existence of two different categories and lots can only be used in the same category.

Hash: Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi) adds that the property on which lots are drawn is shared property. Each category is divided on its own. You cannot have one lot consist of houses and the other a garden, for instance. Doing that would involve uncertainty [gharar].

An example of equalization is when there are two garments. One is worth two dinars and the other worth one. Lots are drawn for them, and the one who gets the garment worth two dinars gives the other five dirhams to equalize them. That is only permitted with mutual consent as when one says the other, "You have a choice: either you choose that whose value is two dinars and give five dirhams or you take that whose price in one dinar and take five dirhams."

38.25 Function of an executor [wasi]

38.25a Appointing an guardian-executor

A guardian appointed by the original guardian is like the guardian. A guardian can trade with the property of orphans and arrange the marriage of their slavegirls. If an untrustworthy guardian is appointed, he may be removed.

If the basis is appointment by the father, not by the Qadi. If he is appointed by the qadi, then he cannot appoint someone else. He cannot buy his property himself. If he does that, the ruler should examine the sale. If he sees in good in it, he allows it, Otherwise, he cancels it.

Hash: The executor must be Muslim, adult, sane, legally responsible and reputable.

38.25b The sequence is which the estate is dealt with

One begins with the cost of the shroud, then paying debts, then paying bequests and then inheritance.

After specific requirements like the umm walad and woman whose emancipation is stipulated at a certain term and the like. Then comes the cost of the shroud and then debts which are firm by evidence or admission when he was healthy or ill, but that is when there is no suspicion. Then the bequests are paid and finally the inheritance is distributed.

38.26 Squatter's Rights
If someone lives in a house belonging to someone else for ten years, it then becomes his if the owner was present and then did not claim anything from him. Living in the house of a relative or in-law this for this period of time does not establish this for him.

Or it can be land which is more general. The owner being present means present and sane, and not a relative or a partner. The owner must know about his occupation and his ownership. If he does not know and says, "I did not know it was my property while this person had it and I only just found the documentation with so-and-so," or he is an heir and claims that he did not know that it was his property, his word is accepted.

Hashiyya: Hiyaza, which includes the claim to the right of possession. Such claims do not extend to animals and goods.

This is when he does not claim anything and nothing prevents him from claiming. If the squatter has a force and he stays, even a long time, the claim is heard. After that time his evidence is not heard because custom denies it since he was silent about the claim for this entire time outside of the right of Allah azza wa jall. If it is Allah azza wa jall's right, it is not lost by occupation, even for a long time, as when someone occupies the road of the Muslims or a part of it or a mosque or a place which is a waqf for someone else.
38.27 Bequests

38.26a Debt owed to an heir

It is not permitted for a sick person to admit to a debt owed to an heir or to state that the heir has paid him a debt he owes him.

This is in an illness from which it is feared that he might die. He cannot affirm the debt which he owes by simple admission or say that he has been paid a debt as when he says, "So-and-so is owed such-and-such", and the form of its admission of taking it is that he says, "I took the debt which I am owed." This is because there is the suspicion that if his heirs consist of his daughter and nephew, there is basis for his daughter and so one judges by suspicion and his affirmation of taking it is only because of his love for her.

38.26b A bequest to perform hajj

If someone leaves an instruction in his will that the hajj be performed (on his behalf), his instruction is carried out, but we prefer a bequest of sadaqa.

This is paid out of the disposable third. The Malikis prefer sadaqa to a bequest for hajj because there is no disagreement about the deceased benefiting from sadaqa whereas there is disagreement between scholars about whether the deceased benefits from the hajj. The position of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) is that it is of no benefit for him.

38.26b Someone employed to perform hajj

If the one hired to make hajj dies before completing it, he receives the fee for the amount he traveled and the rest is returned. What he spent is his liability, unless he took it on the basis that he would be paid on completing it. Then the liability is that of those who hired him. If anything is left it is returned.

This is when he dies on the way to Makka or before completing the practices of hajj. He is paid according to the distance he traveled in respect of difficulty or ease and fear, not simple distance. So a quarter of the distance may be equal to half the wage. The rest is returned because he is only entitled to the wage by completing the task. He is liable for as spent because it is recompense for the task.

In the second case the liability is that of the hirers since they were negligent in not stipulating liability which is more careful. The form is that he is given money to make hajj and it is his if he completes it, and he has nothing if he does not.
Chapter 39: Shares of Inheritance

Fara’id is the plural of farida, meaning "duty". Part of its excellence is indicated by the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) "Learn the shares and teach them to people. Knowledge will be taken away and sedition’s appear until two people disagree about the share and do not find anyone who can decide between them." [Shaikh al-Bayhaqi (rahmatullahi alaihi) and others]

39.1 List of heirs

39.1a Male heirs

There are only ten male heirs: the son, the son's son, to the furthest generation, the father, the paternal grandfather, to the furthest generation, the brother, the son of the brother, to the furthest generation, the paternal uncle, and the son of the paternal uncle, to the furthest generation, the husband and the male client.
Brothers includes full brothers and half brothers by the father (consanguine). The same is true of paternal uncles. The client is one who has been freed by a person.

39.1b Female heirs

There are only seven female heirs: daughter, daughter of the son, mother, grandmother, sister, wife and female client.

This is the full sister or the consanguine sister.

39.2 Husband

If the wife has no children or grandchildren, the husband inherits half. If she has children or grandchildren by him or by another husband, he gets a fourth.

If she has children by another marriage or by illicit sex or li’an, by a free man or slave, Muslim or unbeliever. This is taken from the Book of Allah azza wa jall.

39.3 Wife
If the husband has no children or grandchildren, the wife inherits a fourth. If he has children or grandchildren by her or by another wife, she gets an eighth.

This is taken from the Book of Allah azza wa jall.

Hashiyya: In the case of spouses inheriting from one another, they must both be Muslim, free, and not the killer of the spouse, and the marriage must be sound.

39.4 Mother

39.4a The basic rule

A mother inherits a third from her son if he leaves neither child or grandchild or two or more brothers except in two cases.

When there is any sort of sibling, full or half, provided they are free Muslims and not the killers.

39.4b The first exception

The first is when he leaves a wife and both parents. Then the wife gets a fourth and the mother a third of what remains and then the rest goes to the father.
What remains is two shares. If the grandfather is in place of the father, she takes an actual third of the estate because she inherits the share with him and if it is the father, it is by virtue of agnation [males who are residual heirs].

39.4c The second exception

The second is when a woman leaves a husband and both parents. The husband gets a half and the mother a third of what remains and the rest is taken by the father.

She receives a sixth. The husband has three sixths, the mother one sixth, and the two remaining sixths go to the father.

These two cases are called Gharawayn because the mother is "duped" [gharrat] in them, and takes a third in expression, not meaning because in the first she has a fourth and in other a sixth.

39.4d 'Awl [Accommodation]

In other cases, the mother receives a third unless her share is decreased by 'awl [accommodation].

In other than these two cases, she receives a full third. Accommodation occurs when there are more shares than the estate. That is when the number of shares is multiplied, as twenty-four shares is like two-thirds and two-sixths. The share is not denied by it, and it is not possible to cancel some of the shares without an excluder, and none of those with a share is singled out for decrease. Then the number of shares are increased so that the loss is divided out between all the people of shares after the people owed debts. That is called 'awl and the originator was ibn Abbas (radhi’Allahu anhu) and the Companions agreed with him.

That arose when a woman died in the khalifate of 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) leaving a husband and two sisters. The Companions met and he said to them, "Allah has allotted half to the husband and two-thirds to the sisters. If I begin with the husband, the sisters will not have their right. If I begin with the sisters, the husband will not have his right." Al-'Abbas ibn 'Abdu'l-Muttalib (radhi’Allahu anhu) suggested 'awl. He (radhi’Allahu anhu) said, "I think that when a man dies and leaves six dirhams, and a man is due three and another four that the property is divided into sevenths." The Companions adopted his (radhi’Allahu anhu) position.

39.4e When the mother gets a sixth

If the deceased leaves a child or grandchild through by a son or two or more brothers, of whatever sort, then the mother has a sixth.
He mentions the exclusion off the mother from a third to a sixth by two brothers. That is the school of all the Imams except ibn Abbas (radhi’Allahu anhu) He (radhi’Allahu anhu) said that she is only excluded by three brothers, seeing evidence in the words of Allah azza wa jall, "If you have brothers or sisters your mother gets a sixth" (Holy Qur’an 4:11) The disagreement derives from the minimum of the plural.

39.5 Father

39.5a When the father is the sole heir

If the father is the only heir, he inherits the entire the estate of his child.

Whether it is a son or a daughter.

39.5b When there are other heirs

If the deceased has a son or grandson by the son, the father takes a sixth. If the deceased has neither child or grandson by the son, the father has a sixth and all the others entitled to shares are given their shares and then he takes the rest.
Other heirs are the daughter, daughter of the son, or two of more of them. If there is anything left, he takes it by virtue of agnation since it is confirmed that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Give shares to their people, What is left is for the most entitled male." That exists in the father.

39.6 Son

39.6a When the son is sole heir

An only son inherits the entire estate, or he takes what is left after the shares of those entitled to a share, like a wife, parents, or grandfather or grandmother.

He inherits it all when there is no one else entitled to a share. When he has one or more brothers, they inherit all the property and it is shared between them. One begins with the people of shares because they are the basis in respect of the asaba because they have specific shares in the Book and Sunnah. If he only has a wife, the question is one of eighths. She has an eighth and he has the rest. If he has only two parents, it is in sixths. The parents have two-thirds and he has the rest. If there is a grandmother or grandfather, it is also sixths and the grandfather or grandmother has a sixth and he has the rest. If he has a mother and two parents, it is 24ths and the wife has the 3 of her eighth and the parents the 8 of their third and the rest is his.
39.6b A son's son

A son's son is in the position of the son when there is no son.

This is the case if there is no direct son, but he is not like the son in all aspects because the son is never dropped whereas the son of the son is dropped if there are two parents, two daughters and the son's son. He also does not exclude those the son excludes. He also is not the same in respect of agnation. The son is an agnate in relation to the daughters but the son's son is not.

39.6c A son and a daughter

If there are a son and a daughter, the male receives twice the share of the female. It is the same whether there are several or few sons and daughters. They inherit at this ratio either the entire estate or what is left after people take their shares.

This ratio applies is either case. For instance, there are five sons and five daughters. They divide the property into fifteen shares and it is distributed in that manner.

39.6d If there is no son
The son of a son is like the son in his absence in respect of inheritance and exclusion of other heirs.

This is repeated.

39.7 Daughters

An only daughter inherits half the estate. Two daughters inherit two-thirds of it. If there are more, they do not receive more than two-thirds.

Her inheritance is based on the words of Allah azza wa jall, "If she is one on her own she gets a half." (Holy Qur’an 4:11) The case of two or more is also based on what the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did.

39.8 Son's daughters

39.8a Their ruling

The daughter of a son is like a daughter when there is no daughter. Similarly, the son's daughters are like daughters when the deceased himself has no daughters.
So the consensus is that she inherits half, and if there are two or more they inherit two-thirds.

39.8b A daughter and a son's daughter

If there is a daughter and the daughter of a son, the daughter gets one half and the daughter of the son gets a sixth to complete the two-thirds. If the son has several daughters, they do not get more than the sixth if they have no brother with them. The remainder goes to the agnates.

Her receiving a sixth is based on the judgment of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam). The case when there is a brother present will be discussed later.

39.8c If there are two daughters

If there are two daughters, then the daughters of the son get nothing unless they have a brother. In that case the remainder of the estate is divided between them, the male getting twice the share of the female.

They get none of the sixth because the two-thirds is already complete without them. If nothing remains, they get nothing because they inherit by agnation and the agnate only inherits what is left over.
39.8d A male below the son's daughters

When there is a male in the generation below them, the estate is also shared between him and them.

On the basis of agnation.

39.8e A son's daughters

It is the same if the daughters of the son inherit a sixth with the daughter, and in the generation below them there are daughters of a son or a generation below them which contains a male: the residual estate is shared between him and his sisters or paternal aunts in the same way. The daughters of the son who take a share in the two-thirds have no share in the residual estate.

This causes agnation and so a male receives the portion of two females. Ibn 'Umar said that the son of the son causes agnation in his generation and above, but not below.

39.9 Full and consanguine sisters

39.9a. The share of the full sister
A full sister inherits half. Two or more sisters share in two-thirds.

Since Allah azza wa jall says, "If a man dies childless but has a sister she gets half of what he leaves." (Holy Qur'an 4:175) The two-thirds is because Allah azza wa jall says, "If there are two sisters they get two-thirds of what he leaves."

39.9b Brothers and sisters

If there are several full or consanguine brothers and sisters, then the entire property is divided between them, with the male receiving the share of two females, whether they are many or few.

Because Allah azza wa jall says, "If there are brothers and sisters the males receive the share of two females." (Holy Qur’an 4:175)

39.9c Sisters' share when there are daughters

If there are daughters, then the sisters become like the 'asaba (agnates) inheriting what is left over, but they are not enriched at the daughters' expense.
They receive no specific share. They take what is left on the basis of agnation, in taking the residual estate, but they are not like the agnates in taking all the estate.

39.9d When they inherit nothing

Brothers and sisters receive no inheritance when there is a father or a son or a grandson.

Because they are a lower generation than the father. When someone is lower than someone else, he does not inherit along with him. He is excluded and omitted. In the case of a son, he is stronger in agnation than them. As for the second, the son of a son has the same position as the son.

39.9e The absence of full siblings

In the absence of full siblings, consanguine siblings are like full siblings, both male and female.

If there are several. If there is only one she inherits half. If there are males and females, the estate is divided between them with the male getting twice the share of a female.

39.9f Remaining cases
If there is a full sister and one or more consanguine sisters, the full sister gets half and the remaining sisters share in the sixth. If there are two full sisters, the half-sisters receive nothing unless there is a brother with them. Then they take whatever remains, with the male receiving the share of two females.

The sixth is to complete the two-thirds. Ibn Mas’ud (radhi’Allahu anhu) said that the consanguine sister has no share in this case. If there are two sisters, they take the full two-thirds and the others are removed and only inherit on the basis of agnation.

30.10 Uterine brothers and sisters

39.10a Their share

The inheritance of a uterine sister and brother is the same: a sixth, the same for either.

If there is only one and there is no distinction between male and female.

39.10b When there are several

If there are several of them, then the third is shared between them, each receiving the same amount.
Whether males, females, or both. They agree that what is meant by the brother and sister is His words "If a man or woman has no direct heirs but has a brother or sister, each of them gets a sixth," (Holy Qur’an 4:12) is only the uterine sister. The one without heirs is the one who has no children or parent.

39.10c When they are excluded

They are excluded from the inheritance by a child and his or her children, a father, or a paternal grandfather.

This is complete exclusion. "Child" is a daughter or a son. A maternal grandfather does not exclude because he does not inherit.

39.11 Full and consanguine brothers

39.11a The share of brothers

The brother inherits the entire estate if he is the sole heir, if he is full brother or has the same father (consanguine). A full brother excludes a consanguine brother.
He is all 'asaba. A consanguine brother has this judgment when there is no full brother. If there is a full brother, he excludes the half brother.

39.11b When there are several brothers

If there is one or more brothers and sisters, full or consanguine, then the estate is shared between them, with the male having twice the share of a female.

This is when there are no full brothers. This is repeated.

39.11c When there are other fixed heirs as well

If there are those entitled to specific shares as well as the brother, one begins with those with specific shares and he takes what is left. Similarly what remains goes to the brothers and sisters, with a male receiving twice the share of a female.

That is because the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "What remains after the shares goes to the more entitled man," and the brother is included in this. So what is left goes to the full brothers or if, there are none, the consanguine brothers, and that is divided between them.
If nothing is left, they receive nothing unless there are uterine brothers among the people of shares who inherited a third. Then any full siblings, male and female, share equally with the uterine brothers in their third. This share is called "shared" (mushtarika). Consanguine brothers do not share with the uterine brothers because they do not have the same mother.

Males only, or females only, or both. The rest of the heirs inherit two-thirds, like the wife, mother or grandfather and that completes the estate.

They share by virtue of having the same mother.

It is called "shared" because the brothers share in the third, and is every question in which there is a husband and mother or grandmother, and two or more of the mother's offspring, and 'asaba in in the form of full siblings. This is also known as the Himariyya case. That is because the case was presented to Umar ibn al-Khattab (radhi’Allahu anhu) and he wanted to judge the elimination the full brothers, and one of them said, "Give. Even if our father was a donkey (himar), do we not have the same mother?" So he (radhi’Allahu anhu) judges a third for all of them equally, full and uterine siblings, the portion of the man the same as the portion of the female.
39.11e Remaining sisters are accommodated

If there remains any full or consanguine or sisters, accommodation is made for them.

The sharing is invalid and it becomes one of the questions of 'awl. The accommodation is that a half becomes three-sixths and is reduced to three-tenths. The two-thirds of the sisters becomes four-sixths, and is reduced to four-tenths.

39.11f Other cases

If there is only one uterine brother or sister, the case is not mushtarika. The residual estate goes to the siblings whether they are males, or males and females. If there are only full or consanguine sisters, there is accommodation for them.

What is left is a sixth. If there are males and females, the males receive twice the share of the female.

39.11g Consanguine brother

A consanguine brother is like the full brother in the absence of a full brother, except in the case of mushtarika.
The full preconditions for full brotherhood are missing as they do not share the same mother.

39.12 Nephews

The son of a brother is like the brother in the absence of the brother, whether he is a full or consanguine brother. The son of a uterine brother does not inherit.

He is in that position in agnation in particular, not in all aspects. One of the aspects in which he differs is mentioned. The reason that the son of uterine nephew does not inherit is that his father is one of the people of specific shares and does not enter into agnation, and so he is like the son of the daughter.

39.13 Exclusion of heirs

39.13a The full brother

A full brother excludes a consanguine brother, but a consanguine brother takes precedence over the son of a full brother. The son of a full brother takes precedence over the son of a consanguine brother.
This point is repeated. A consanguine brother is a degree higher than the son of a full brother.

39.13b Exclusion and the paternal uncle

A son of a consanguine brother excludes a full paternal uncle. A full paternal uncle excludes a consanguine paternal uncle. A consanguine paternal uncle excludes the son of a full paternal uncle. The son of a full paternal uncle excludes the son of a consanguine paternal uncle. So the nearer relative always has the greater entitlement.

This is all by the closer level of degree, and the principle is general to all relatives.

39.14 Non-heirs

39.14a. Those who are non-heirs

Those who do not inherit include the children of sisters of whatever sort, the sons of daughters, the daughters of a brother of whatever sort, the daughters of a paternal uncle, the maternal grandfather, and a uterine paternal uncle.
Shaikh al-Fakhani (rahmatullahi alaihi) said some texts have, "Nor the maternal grandmother." It is also includes uncles.

39.14b Slavery is an impediment

A slave does not inherit, nor does a slave who is in the process of being freed.

This includes the umm walad and mudabbar.

39.14c Difference of religion is an impediment

A Muslim does not inherit from an unbeliever nor an unbeliever from a Muslim.

The majority position is that a Muslim does not inherit from an unbeliever and there is consensus that an unbeliever does inherit from a Muslim.

39.14d Others

Others who do not inherit are: the son of a uterine brother, the maternal grandfather and the mother of the maternal grandfather.

Already mentioned.
39.15 More excluded heirs

39.15a. Others who are excluded

Nor does the mother of the paternal grandfather inherit along with her son, the father of the deceased.

She, in fact, does not inherit at all.

39.15b Uterine brothers

Uterine brothers do not inherit with the paternal grandfather, nor with the sons or daughters or grandchildren through a son. Siblings of any sort do not inherit with the father.

This is repeated.

39.15c Paternal uncles

A paternal uncle does not inherit with the paternal grandfather nor the son of a brother with the paternal grandfather.
Because the level of the grandfather is that of the brother, and the brother excludes his son and those in his rank.

39.16 Impediment of homicide

39.16a Homicide is a bar to inheritance

The murderer does not inherit either the estate or blood money. Someone guilty of accidental homicide does not inherit any of the blood money, but does inherit from the estate.

This is about the person who kills the deceased. As for the one who kills deliberately without transgression, like the ruler executing someone from whom he inherits for a hadd obliged on him, or like someone killing his father who is a bandit, they do inherit.

In the case of accidental homicide, he is excluded in one place and not in another. For example, there are two brothers and one of them kills the other, then the mother inherits a sixth from the brother and the rest is for the two brothers together, because the brother excludes her from a third to a sixth and she inherits a third of the blood money because the killer does not inherit blood money and so he does not exclude her.
39.16b Other impediments

Other impediments to inheritance are negation of lineage by the li'an divorce, and difference in the order of death, as when a relative dies on a journey or under a collapsed building and the earlier is unaware of that the precondition is missing, i.e. the death of the heir must be after the death of the one who leaves the inheritance.

39.17 Effect of exclusion

Anyone who does not inherit for some reason cannot then exclude another heir.

Except in the five cases mentioned in the Usul.

39.18 Inheritance by a spouse divorced or married in the final illness

39.18a A woman finally divorced in the final illness

A woman who has been trebly divorced in the final illness of her husband inherits from her husband, but if she dies first, he does not inherit from her. The same ruling applies if the divorce was a single one and he dies of that illness after her ‘Idda has finished.
She inherits from him because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade excluding an heir by doing that. 'Uthman (radhi’Allahu anhu) judged that the wife of 'Abdu'r-Rahman ibn 'Awf (radhi’Allahu anhu) inherit from him after her ‘Idda was over. He (radhi’Allahu anhu) had divorced her absolutely when he was ill and he died of that illness. The man does not inherit from her because she is unrelated to him by virtue of the divorce. Even if her ‘Idda is over, she still inherits if he dies of that illness.

39.18b Divorce while he is in good health

If someone in good health pronounces a single divorce against his wife, they still inherit from one another as long as she is still in her ‘Idda. If the ‘Idda has finished, they do not inherit from one another.

There is no suspicion about divorce when the person is healthy.

39.18c Marriage in the final illness

If a man marries in his illness, they do not inherit from one another.

Because the marriage is invalid.
39.19 Grandmothers

39.19a. The ruling

A maternal grandmother inherits a sixth as does a paternal grandmother.

Absolutely because it is established that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) gave her a sixth. (Muwatta')

39.19b When there are two grandmothers

If there are both of them, then the sixth is shared between them, unless the maternal grandmother is a degree closer, in which case she is more entitled to it because there is a text about her. If it is the paternal grandmother which is closer, then the sixth is shared between them.

The other inherits by way of analogy with the maternal grandmother. The sixth is equally divided unless there is a generational difference. If, however, it is paternal one which is closer, they share in the sixth because her position is based on analogy, not text.

39.19c Which grandmothers inherit
According to Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi), only two grandmothers inherit: the father's mother and the mother's mother or their respective mothers. Zayd ibn Thabit is reported to have allowed three grandmothers to inherit: one on the mother's side and two on the father's side: the father's mother and the mother of the father's father. None of the Khalifs is reported to have allowed more than two grandmothers to inherit.

They take their place in their absence since the nearer excludes the further as we stated.

39.20 Paternal grandfather

39.20a His share

If there is only the paternal grandfather, he takes the entire estate.

This is when there are no full or consanguine brothers or sisters or any others of the people of specific shares, like a daughter and daughter of a son.

39.20b If there are other heirs
If there is also a son or a son's son, the paternal grandfather takes a sixth. If there are people with specific shares other than brothers and sisters, he is given a sixth. If there is anything left over, it is his.

If there are people with specific shares, he has a sixth of the basic estate as was mentioned. After the grandfather takes the sixth and the people take their shares, then he inherits any residual estate by agnation.

39.20c When there are brothers with the people of shares

If there are also brothers along with the people of shares, the grandfather has three choices and he can select whichever he prefers, i.e. whichever is best for him. He can share with the brothers, take a sixth of the total estate, or take a third of the residue.

Full brothers or consanguine brothers. He can choose whichever course he prefers.

39.20d When there are only brothers

If there are only brothers inheriting with him, he shares with them if it is one or two brothers, or what is their equivalent: four sisters. If there are more than two brothers, he takes a third. So when inheriting with brothers, he takes a third, or he divides the estate with them, whichever seems better for him.

And there are no people with specific shares. A third refers to the total estate.

39.20e Consanguine brothers

Consanguine brothers inherit with the grandfather in the same manner as full brothers if there are no full brothers. If there are both full brothers and consanguine brothers, the full brothers may count the consanguine brothers with them to reduce the share of the grandfather. Then they are more entitled than them to that.

An exception to this is the mushtarika case which was already mentioned.

39.20f An exception

An exception is when there is, in addition to the grandfather, a full sister who has a consanguine brother or sister or both. She takes her half of the estate and surrenders what is left to them. Sisters are not enriched at the expense of the grandfather, except in the case of al-gharra' which will be explained later.

She takes what she would have taken if she had been alone. The sister does not get anything when there is a grandfather except in the case known as the Akdariyya or Gharra', in which the sister receives a share with the grandfather.

39.21 The patron [mawla]

39.21a The ruling of the client

When the mawla [patron] is the only heir, he or she inherits all of the estate, whether the patron is a man or a woman. If there are people with shares as well, then the patron takes what is left after they have taken their shares.

The mawla is the emancipator. When the deceased has no one with a fixed share nor any agnates, the emancipator inherits by virtue of agnation. The wala' goes to the person who sets a slave free because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The wala' is to flesh like flesh of lineage."
If there are those entitled shares, and there are no agnates, he takes the remainder because he inherits by agnation and that was the judgment of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam). An example is when he leaves a daughter: she takes half and he takes the rest.

39.21b When there are agnates

A patron inherits nothing when there are agnates (‘asaba), but he is more entitled than uterine relatives who have no share in the Book of Allah azza wa jall. Only uterine relatives who have a share in the Book of Allah azza wa jall inherit.

When the deceased has agnates because they inherit by lineage. He is more entitled than uterine relatives because they have no agnation and so share.

39.21c A female patron

A woman only inherits by wala' from those she herself set the slave free, or through subsequent freeing or childbirth [by the slave she set free].

Only those she herself set free, or those set free by the one she set free, without or without her permission. Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) says, "Freeing is clear since a woman frees a slave and he in turn he frees a slave. The freed slave dies first and then the one he freed dies."

As for childbirth, there are further details regarding it. When she frees a slavegirl who is pregnant, then the wala’ of the slavegirl and the child belong to the woman who set her free. The wala’ of those the freed slavegirl bears after being frees goes to the patron of their father, i.e. those who freed the father. If the father has no patrons, it goes to the treasury.

39.22 Accommodation by reduction [Awl]

39.22a When it takes place

When the combined shares known in the Book of Allah azza wa jall are more than the estate, then all of them are reduced and the shares are reduced proportionately.

What is said in this question is that the asl of the share is established to solve the case. Each heir with a fixed share is given his share and then they are all added together. If the total is equal or less than the total estate, there is no accommodation. If, however, the sum is greater than it, you know that there must be accommodation, like the Minbariyya case. Its thirds, sixth and eighth are more than twenty-four, When there is accommodation, the share is put in the place it reaches in the shares, which is twenty-seven. The Minbariyya is an example of that. It is a wife, two parents, and two daughters. The two daughters have two-thirds, each of the parents has a sixth and the wife has an eighth. The share of the parents is combined and we are content with one, which is one of six. We add to it the share of the daughters. The share of the wife agrees with the product of six by half and so three times eight gives twenty-four. The daughters have sixteen for the two-thirds, the father's six is four, and the mother has four. This is twenty-four. Then we need the wife's share, so accommodate her eighth into three shares and then the total is twenty-seven.

There is no accommodation for a sister when there is a grandfather except in the gharra' case. This is when a woman dies leaving a husband, mother, full or consanguine sister and a paternal grandfather. The husband gets half, the mother a third, and the grandfather a sixth. Since the estate is exhausted, there must be accommodation for the sister's share of half, which is three. Then the share of the grandfather is added to her share, and the total of that is divided between them in thirds. She has a third and he has two-thirds, and so there are twenty-seven shares.
Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) named the case this. The question is one of sixths. Half is three, a third is two and a sixth is one. So by accommodation, the question becomes one of nine. Then the grandfather says to the sister, "You cannot have more in the inheritance because you are with me like a brother, so return what you have, which is three, to what I have, which is a share so that we can divide it with the male having twice the share of a female. Four to three is not sound and does not agree and so three, the number of the separate parts for accommodation of the shares, is multiplied, which gives 9 and so it is two: the three for the husband multiplied into the three by nine. The sister and grandfather have four multiplied by three which is twelve and the sister takes her third which is four and the grandmother takes her third, which is eight.

Chapter 40. A General Chapter on the Legal Status of Various Practices

This deals with things which are fara'id [obligatory], mandatory or stressed Sunnah or recommended. He starts with fiqh topics:
40.1. Wudu’

40.1a Its status

Wudu’ for the prayer is obligatory. It is derived from wada’a [cleanliness].

It is obligatory for both obligatory or voluntary prayers. Shaikh Zarruq (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "This is outwardly by removing filth and inwardly expiation of wrong actions." Lest someone imagine that all its elements are obligatory, he goes into further details.

40.1b Sunnah elements

However, rinsing the mouth, inhaling water through the nose and wiping the ears in it are Sunnah.

Each of these parts is a Sunnah.

40.1c Siwak [Cleaning the teeth]

Siwak is recommended and desired.

This is when doing wudu’. It is very desirable.
40.1d Wiping over leather socks

Wiping over leather socks is an allowance (rukhsa) and mitigation.

It is permitting something normally not allowed. It is permitted both while resident and while traveling with certain preconditions which were already mentioned.

40.2 Ghusl

40.2a Obligatory ghusl

Ghusl on account of janaba, menstruation and lochia is obligatory.

Janaba is due to ejaculation or penetration.

40.2b Sunnah ghusl

The ghusl on Jumu'a is Sunnah.

It is a stressed Sunnah. If it is for attending the Jumu'a, it is mandatory.
40.2c Recommended ghusl

A ghusl for the two ’Ids is recommended.

This is the well-known position. It is also said that it is Sunnah.

40.2d Ghusl when becoming Muslim

It is obligatory for someone who becomes Muslim to perform ghusl because he is in janaba.

This is a general assumption. The ghusl is on account of janaba. If it is verified that there has been no janaba, it is not mandatory.

Hashiyya: The well-known position is that one has a ghusl before saying the shahadah.

40.2e Washing the dead

Ghusl for the dead is a Sunnah.

Washing him unless he is a martyr from a battle or a miscarriage who has not cried. It is forbidden to wash the martyr.
Hashiyya: The well-known position of the Maghribis is that it is Sunnah while the Iraqis say that it is fard kifayah.

40.3 The Prayer

40.3a The obligatory prayer and its elements

The five prayers are obligatory, as is saying the takbir al-Ihram. The rest of the takbirs are Sunnah.

Hash: Saying, "Allahu Akbar". This is for those who can say it properly. If one cannot properly articulate it, he begins the prayer by the intention. Imam Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that all the takbirs are one Sunnah which differs from the position of Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) that each one is a Sunnah.

Beginning the prayer with the intention of performing the obligation is obligatory.

The intention is within the words of the takbir. If it is later than that, it is not satisfied. Nor is it satisfied if it is a lot before it. If it is made a little before it, it satisfies the requirement. The most complete form is that the intention accompany the takbir.
Raising the hands is Sunnah.

Raising the hands only refers to the takbir al-ihram and not the rest of the takbirs. It is also said that it is recommended.

They are raised opposite the ears or a little below them.

Recitation of the Fatiha in the prayer is obligatory and reciting more of the Holy Qur'an is a mandatory Sunnah.

Recitation of the Fatiha is obligatory for the Imam and the person praying alone in every rak'at. The obligation is satisfied by the Imam in the case of someone following an Imam.

Standing, bowing and prostration are obligatory.

Standing in the prayer is obligatory for the one who is able to do it. If someone omits any of the obligatory standing, bowing and prostration, the prayer becomes invalid.

The first sitting is Sunnah and the second is obligatory.

The first sitting contains the two tashahhuds.
Saying the salam is obligatory and turning the head to right while saying it a little is Sunnah.

The final salam which ends the prayer is obligatory for every prayer, but not the prostration of recitation.

Not speaking in the prayer is obligatory and the tashahhud is Sunnah.

The only speaking allowed in the prayer is to correct the Imam, which should be kept to a minimum or else it invalidates the prayer. The two tashahhuds are Sunnah according to the well-known position.

40.3b Qunut

The Qunut in the Subh prayer is good, but not Sunnah.

The Qunut done silently is recommended, but not a strong Sunnah and so there is no prostration owed by the one who forgets it.

Facing qibla is obligatory.

Facing the qibla is obligatory in every prayer with bowing and prostration and other prayers like the funeral prayer, except in intense fear in face of the enemy or illness when there is no one to move the invalid towards qibla. He then prays however he can.

40.4 Other prayers

40.4a The Jumu'a prayer

The Jumu'a prayer and going to it are obligatory.

Hash: It is individual obligation for every free adult male. There must be a special intention for it as Jumu'a. Shaikh al-Lakhmi (rahmatullahi alaihi), however, said that it is a fard kifayah and Shaikh ibn Wahb (rahmatullahi alaihi) reported that it is Sunnah.

40.4b The witr prayer

The witr prayer is a mandatory Sunnah,

Mandatory Sunnah’s are stressed, and the most mandatory of them is the witr, then the ‘Id prayers, then the eclipse and then the rain prayer.

40.4c Other mandatory Sunnah’s as are the two ‘Id prayers, the eclipse prayer, the rain prayer, and the fear prayer.

Hash: The position which is relied on is that the prayer for a lunar eclipse is recommended.

40.4d The fear prayer

The fear prayer is mandatory Sunnah since Allah azza wa jall commanded it. It is an act by which they obtain the excellence of the group prayer.

Allah azza wa jall commanded the fear prayer when He says, "When you are with them and are leading them in the prayer" (Holy Qur’an 4:101-3) The prayer in itself is obligatory, and Sunnah in the form mentioned.

40.5 Ghusl before entering Makka

It is recommended to have a ghusl before entering Makka.

40.6 Joining prayers

40.6a. Rainy nights

Joining prayers on a rainy night is mitigation. The Rightly-guided khalifs did it.
Joining Maghrib and 'Isha' when it is dark and muddy. The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did it and he is the model as did the Rightly Guided Khalifs.

40.6b Joining in the hajj

Joining at 'Arafa and Muzdalifa is a mandatory Sunnah.

At 'Arafa it is Dhuhr and 'Asr and at Muzdalifa it is Maghrib and 'Isha'.

40.6c Travelers

A traveler joining prayers in an urgent journey is an allowance.

In a mandatory journey like performing the obligatory hajj or recommended or permitted journey, like a voluntary hajj or for commerce. The apparent meaning is that the journey must be urgent, and that is what is in the Mudawwana, but that is not a precondition in the Mukhtasar.

Hash: There is no allowance for it in a forbidden journey, like one involving robbery, or a disliked one, like hunting for pleasure.
40.6d A sick person

A sick person joining prayers when he fears he will lose consciousness is a concession. The same applies to joining them because it is easier for him.

This is an allowance. When he joins the prayers and then does not lose consciousness at the time of the second prayer, he repeats the prayer. When he joins because of weakness, he joins them with one wudu' and then it is an easement.

40.7 Fasting and prayer in a journey

Not fasting while traveling is an allowance and shortening the prayer while traveling is mandatory.

This is in a journey in which he can shorten the prayer. He can fast or not fast. The well known position is that fasting is better. Shortening the prayer, however, is mandatory as it is one of the confirmed Sunnah’s, but it is not unlawful to pray in full.

40.8 Supererogatory prayers

40.8a Fajr
The two rak'ats of Fajr are desirable, and it is said that they are Sunnah.

With a particular intention. The well-known position is that they are desirable, and the second position is that of Shaikh ibn al-Hajib (rahmatullahi alaihi), who follows Shaikh ibn 'Abdu'l-Barr (rahmatullahi alaihi).

40.8b Duha

The Duha prayer is supererogatory.

The nafila is what is less than the Sunnah and the desirable.

Hash: The Mukhtasar states that is excellent. Its minimum is two rak'ats and its maximum is eight rak'ats with the majority of the people of the School. It is also said that it has no maximum. Its time begins with the nafila becomes permitted.

40.8c Night prayers

Praying at night in Ramadan is supererogatory and there is great virtue in it. If someone does it with faith and in anticipation of a reward, he will be forgiven his past wrong actions. Praying at night in Ramadan and other times is desirable and supererogatory.
This is the tarawih prayers. The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said in a sound hadith, "Whoever prays at night in Ramadan in faith and anticipation of the reward will be forgiven his past wrong actions."

Hash: Night prayers are a sign of the righteous. They are best done in the last third of the night. This is the tahajjud.

40.9 The Funeral Prayer

The prayer over dead Muslims is obligatory and the duty is satisfied by those who perform it. The same applies to taking them to burial. Washing them is a mandatory Sunnah.

It is a fard kifayah or Sunnah kifayah. As for the Sunnah of washing, whoever says that the ghusl is Sunnah says that the prayer is Sunnah, and those who say that it is mandatory, say they are both mandatory. It is most likely that both are mandatory.

40.10 Knowledge
The same is true of seeking knowledge. It is a general obligation which is satisfied by those who perform it except for that knowledge which is obliged individually for a man.

It is mandatory for all the Muslims. Individually obliged knowledge is like tauhid, wudu', prayer, hajj, buying and selling by what is confirmed and established that it is not permitted for anyone to embark on a matter until he knows the ruling of Allah azza wa jall in it. This is about individual obligations which no one can do for another.

40.11 Jihad and forts

40.11a Jihad

The obligation of jihad is general and is satisfied by those who perform it, unless the enemy attack the settlement of a people in which case it become obligatory for them to fight them provided the enemy are not twice their number or more.

It is a general obligation for the Muslims as a whole. If the enemy suddenly attacks the settlement of the people, then it becomes an individual obligation for male and female, free and slave. When, however, the enemy is twice the number of the Muslims, they are permitted to flee.

40.11b Ribat

Ribat at the frontiers of the Muslims and defending them and fortifying them is mandatory and the duty is satisfied by those who undertake this.

Staying at the frontiers. This is a fard kifayah.

40.12 Fasting

40.12a Obligatory fasting

Fasting the month of Ramadan is an obligation.

For every responsible Muslim who is not menstruating or bleeding after childbirth.

40.12b I'tikaf

I'tikaf is supererogatory.

Nafila. It is staying in the mosque for dhikr and reciting the Holy Qur'an. It is also said that it is Sunnah.
Voluntary fasting is desirable. It is desirable to fast the day of 'Ashura', the month of Rajab, the month Sha'ban, the day of 'Arafa and the Day of Tarwiya. Fasting the Day of 'Arafa is better for someone not performing hajj than for the one on hajj.

This is fasting at times when it is not forbidden to fast. It is better explained by the words of the Almighty, "The steadfast will be paid their wages in full without any reckoning." (Holy Qur'an 39:10) Steadfastness is explained as meaning fasting.

'Ashura' is the 10th of Muharram.

[Hash: It is desirable to fast it based on what Sahih Muslim states that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said when he was asked about fasting the Day of 'Arafa. He (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "It expiates the past and future year." He was asked about fasting 'Ashura' and said, "It expiates the past year."

'Arafa is the 9th of Dhu'l-Hijja and Tarwiya is the eight of Dhu'l-Hijja. It is better for the hajji not to fast the Day of 'Arafa.

40.13 Zakat
Zakat on money, crops and livestock is obligatory. The zakat al-fitr is a Sunnah made obligatory by the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam).

Hash: Money means gold and silver, to exclude new filus, even if it is the currency. Trading good are also included.

Zakat al-Fitr was made mandatory by the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam).

Hash. It is said that it is Sunnah.

40.14 Hajj and 'Umra

40.14a Its ruling

Making hajj to the House is obligatory and 'umra is a mandatory Sunnah.

It is obligatory once in a lifetime. 'Umra is a confirmed Sunnah once in a lifetime.

40.14b Its elements
The talbiya is a mandatory Sunnah. The intention to perform the hajj is obligatory. Tawaf al-Ifada is obligatory and the sa'y between Safa and Marwa is obligatory. The tawaf connected to it is mandatory and the Tawaf al-Ifada is more stressed than it. The tawaf of Farewell is Sunnah.

The Tawaf al-Ifada is after the return from 'Arafa. The tawaf connected to Sa'y is the Tawaf of Arrival. If it is omitted, there is a sacrifice owed for its omission. The Mukhtasar says that the Tawaf of Farewell is recommended.

40.14c Further elements

Spending the night at Mina on the Day of 'Arafa is Sunnah. Joining prayers at 'Arafa is mandatory and standing at 'Arafa is obligatory. Spending the night at Muzdalifa is a mandatory Sunnah. Stopping at the Mash'ar al-Haram is commanded. Stoning the jamras is a mandatory Sunnah.

There is no sacrifice owed by someone who misses the night at Mina. "Commanded" here means recommended.

40.14d Shaving the head and kissing the Black Stone
That is also true of shaving. Kissing the Black stone is a mandatory Sunnah.

Shaving the head is a mandatory Sunnah for a man, not a woman. Kissing the Black Stone is in the first circuit.

Hashiyya: Shortening the hair is also allowed. Sacrifice is obliged for the one who omits it or delays it. For women, the duty is to shorten it.

40.14e Ghusl during hajj

A ghusl for assuming ihram is Sunnah and two rak'ats at that time is Sunnah.

A ghusl at 'Arafa is Sunnah and a ghusl for entering Makka is recommended.

Ghusl for assuming ihram is Sunnah for both a man and a woman, even if she is menstruating or has lochia. Ghusl at 'Arafa is Sunnah for standing at 'Arafa.

40.15 Group prayer

40.15a Its excellence
Doing the prayer in a group is twenty-seven times better than praying alone.

One version has 25. It is certainly far better than praying alone.

40.15b The prayer in particular mosques

Praying in the Masjid al-Haram and the Masjid of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) alone is better than praying in other masajid. There is disagreement about the difference in the amount of excellence between the Masjid al-Haram and the Masjid of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam). There is no disagreement that praying in the Masjid of the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) is better than a thousand prayers in other masajid except for the Masjid al-Haram. The people of Madina say that the prayer in the Holy Prophet's (alaihi salat wa salam) Masjid is better than the prayer in the Masjid al-Haram, but less than a thousand times better. This is all about obligatory prayers. As for voluntary prayers, they are better done at home.

The Mosque of Jerusalem is next in excellence. This is the disagreement about whether Makka or Madina is better. The well-known position of the School is that Madina is better. The meaning of the difference in their excellence is in the reward for action done in one of them is more than the other. There is also a difference of opinion about whether the prayer in the masjid of Madina or better or in the Masjid al-Haram. Some say that the prayer in the Holy Prophet's (alaihi salat wa salam) Masjid is 700 times more excellent.

Voluntary prayers are better done at home because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Put some of your prayers in your houses."

Hash: Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) related from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) that he preferred nafila prayers at home to nafila prayers in the Masjid of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) except for visitors. He preferred that they do their nafila in the masjid.

40.15c The difference between prayer and tawaf

We prefer for the people of Makka to do supererogatory prayers than to do tawaf, but tawaf is better than the prayer for visitors because of the little opportunity they have to do.

This is the position of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi). This is so that they do not crowd the visitors.
40.16 Looking at women

It is an obligation to lower the eye and not look at forbidden women, but there is no harm in the first glance when it is not deliberate, not in looking at woman who does provoke desire nor in looking at a young woman for a legitimate reason, such as identifying her and the like. There is a similar allowance for someone proposing marriage.

Shaikh ibn al-Qattan (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that there is consensus that no major wrong action is connected to the eye, but it is the faculty which brings the greatest harm to the heart and is quickest in destroying the din and this world. It is forbidden to look at a woman who is not related within the prohibited degrees or a beardless youth for pleasure since Allah azza wa jall tells the believers, "Lower your eyes." (Holy Qur’an 24:30)

There is no wrong action in the first glance which is not intentional nor at looking a woman for there is no attraction for men. Identification is for marriage, or for sales purposes. The same principle applies to the doctor and surgeon, which is what is meant by "the like".

There is an allowance for someone who intends to marry who wants to know what the woman is like. This is confined to the face and hands. There is an allowance for looking at the face since the face indicates beauty and the hands indicate the plumpness of the body. The origin of that is the command of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam).

40.17 Immoral speech

It is an obligation to guard one's tongue from lying, perjury, obscene language, backbiting, gossiping, and all falsehood. The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Anyone who believes in Allah azza wa jall and the Last Day should speak well or be silent." The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Part of the excellence of a person's Islam is his leaving alone what does not concern him."

This is one of the mandatory matters.

Lying

Hash: Lying is forbidden because Allah azza wa jall says, "And call down the curse of Allah upon the liars..." (Holy Qur'an 3:60) and the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "There is no good in lying." The consensus is that it is forbidden.

Perjury
A person should guard his tongue against perjury, which is testifying to what he does not know, even if it actually happened.

Hash: It is confirmed that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Shall I tell you of the greatest of wrong actions?" and he repeated that three times. They said, "Yes, Rasulullah." He (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Associating others with Allah, azza wa jall, disobeying parents." He was reclining and sat up and said, "And lying words and perjury." He (alaihi salat wa salam) continued to repeat until they wished he would be silent.

Obscene language [Fahsha']

He should guard his tongue from obscene language, which is every forbidden word or deed.

Backbiting [ghiba]

He should guard it against backbiting which is that someone says something about another which he dislikes behind his back. That excludes him disliking for his obedience to be mentioned, because this is praise, and praise is not like that. If he praises him for what he dislikes and does not have, that is forbidden because it is a lie, not slander.
Gossiping [namima]

Gossiping is passing on words about someone to someone else for corruption.

Falsehood [batil]

All falsehood means words since their source is the tongue. What is meant by falsehood are words and falsehood is too varied to be enumerated. It is the opposite of the truth.

Then the author (rahmatullahi alaihi) offers evidence in the form of two sound hadiths. Even if they stem from specific cases, they are obligatory in general. It is generally seeking to guard the tongue against lying. In the first hadith it appears that he can choose between speaking good or being silent about it. That is not sound because some words can be mandatory, like commanding the correct and forbidding the bad. This is why it is not taken literally. It means: He should speak good or be silent about evil, i.e. seeking by both courses to do good.

A person should leave all that does not concern him, which means all that does not bring him benefit in his deen or the Next World. That which concerns him is that whose abandonment will cause him to miss the reward. He (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Part of the excellence of a person's Islam," not "part of a person's Islam" because that it is not the attribute of Islam, but part of its excellence.

40.18 Taking a Muslim's life or property

40.18a The basic ruling

Allah azza wa jall has made the blood of Muslims, their property and their honor inviolable except for a right.

Allah azza wa jall says, "Do not kill any person Allah has made inviolate, except by a legal right." (Holy Qur'an 17:33) The same applies to the people of dhimma and treaty. Allah azza wa jall has made their property inviolable when He says "Do not consume one another's property by false means" (Holy Qur'an 4:21) and the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The worst of usury in the sight of Allah azza wa jall is making a Muslim's honor fair game." What is meant is speaking about his honor, which is making it fair game.

40.18b The exceptions to that rule

The life of a Muslim is not lawful unless he apostasies after belief, commits illicit sex after he is muhsan, kills someone when it is not a case of retaliation, or engages in corruption in the earth or renounces the deen.

The exception to this inviolability is for a legal right, which refers to the three matters which he mentioned. In property, anyone who destroys something must pay for it.

The cases when taking life is permitted are indicated here. In the case of apostasy, he is asked to repent for three days. "Corruption in the earth" is banditry and highway robbery. Renouncing the deen is to embrace the dogma of the people of the sects about whom the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "They will pass through the din like an arrow passes through game." In the Misbah, it goes through one side and comes out the other.

40.19 Sexual and related restrictions

40.19a Avoiding the unlawful

You should keep your hands from what is not lawful to you in property, body or blood. Do not let your feet move after what is not lawful for you.

In property it is like theft. In body it is touching other than one's wife or slavegirl. Blood includes both killing and wounding.
40.19b Sexual restrictions

Do not let your private parts or any of your body touch what is not lawful for you, Allah azza wa jall says, "those who guard their private parts – except from their wives or those they own as slaves, in which case they are not blameworthy; but those who desire anything more than that are people who have gone beyond the limits." (Holy Qur’an 23:5-7)

Do not advance to illicit sex.

40.19c Prohibition

Allah azza wa jall has forbidden obscenity, whether open or secret, and approaching women sexually when they are bleeding from menstruation or lochia. He has forbidden marriage to the women who were already mentioned.

Allah azza wa jall says, "My Lord has forbidden indecency, both open and secret." (Holy Qur’an 7:3) Shaikh at-Tata’i (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that fawahish includes every ugly word or action which appears on the limbs or is in the consciousness and hearts. Allah azza wa jall forbade vaginal intercourse with women during menstruation or lochia. Other than looking is forbidden to enjoy what is between the waist and knee, even without intercourse, and from above a barrier. There is nothing wrong in looking. The confirmation of this is the words of the Almighty, "Do not approach them until they have purified themselves." (Holy Qur’an 2:220) He already mentioned the women it is forbidden to marry.

Hash: The consensus is that it is permitted to enjoy what is above it. As for what is below the waist other than the vagina, there are two positions. The most famous is that it is forbidden. There is disagreement about the reason for the prohibition. It is said that it is based on devotion (i.e. no logical reason) and it is said that it is feared that any child conceived from such intercourse will suffer from leprosy, and it is said that it is feared that it will harm the man. This prohibition applies to non-Muslim women as well as Muslim women because the prohibition is directed to the husband.

40.20 Doing what is good and avoiding doubtful things

40.20a. Good is commanded

Allah azza wa jall commanded eating what is good, which is the lawful. It is only lawful for you to eat what is lawful or to wear what is lawful or to ride what is lawful or live in what is lawful. Everything else which you use must be lawful.
The halal is that which has no consequences and is not connected to the a right of Allah azza wa jall or a right for others, That is indicated by His words, "O you who believe! Eat of the good things We have provided for you." (Holy Qur'an 2:171) What is meant here by eating (akl) is use. When you know that Allah azza wa jall has commanded you to eat what is lawful, it is only lawful for you to consume what is lawful. Ibn Abbas (radhi'Allahu anhu) said, "Allah azza wa jall does not accept the prayer of someone who has the haram in his belly." Also, "If someone eats a morsel of the haram, Allah azza wa jall will not accept his actions for forty days."

In riding, it is not lawful to ride a usurped or stolen mount. Living in a dwelling bought by stolen goods is unlawful.

40.20b Doubtful things

Besides good things there are doubtful things. If someone leaves them, he is safe, and if someone takes them, he is like someone who grazes around a private preserve: he is likely to stray into it.

Besides the lawful, there are things whose legality is uncertain. A private preserve linguistically is that which is protected by power and which others are forbidden to graze in it. What is meant is to avoid the doubtful and confine oneself to the lawful. This is based on the famous hadith: 'The halal is clear and the haram is clear. But between the two there are doubtful things about which most people have no knowledge. Whoever exercises caution with regard to what is doubtful, shows prudence in respect of his deen and his honor. Whoever gets involved in the doubtful things is like a herdsman who grazes his animals near a private preserve [hima]. He is bound to enter it.'

40.21 Injury to property rights

Allah azza wa jall has forbidden taking property falsely. False acquisition includes misappropriation, transgression, treachery, usury, bribery, gambling, risk, adulteration, deceit and duping.

i.e. taking it in an impermissible manner. What is meant is not actually "eating"

The text uses 'akl'. It is a metaphor for taking because consumption is often done by eating.

Usurpation [ghasb] is taking wrongful possession of someone else's property.

Hash: This is not like highway robbery (hiraba) where the rightful owner has no access to help.
Transgression (ta'addi) is in the 'ariyya and renting.

Hash: Like increasing the size of the land loaned to a person or increasing the burden carried by a rented animal.

Treachery [khiyana] is to be treacherous towards someone regarding his property, family or trust or himself.

Usury is to increase the price or term in a manner not permitted.

Suht is a bribe which a witness takes for his testimony or a judge for his rulings.

Hash: This also includes things like the earning of a prostitute.

Gambling is earning by backgammon and other forms.

Risk [gharar] is excessive risk like buying a bird in the air or a fish in the sea. A small risk is allowed because sales cannot be achieved without it like grains sold which might contain some mud.

Adulteration [ghashsh] is to mix something base with the goods.
Deceit [khadi‘a] is by word or deed to achieve a worldly desire. This is like when he says to a man who comes to him, "Your day is blessed. You have your desire," until he buys from him. Duping [khalaba] is like deceit.

40.22 Forbidden meat

40.22a Meat which is forbidden

Allah azza wa jall has forbidden carrion, blood, pork and what is hallowed to other than Allah azza wa jall and what is sacrificed to other than Allah azza wa jall, and that whose death has been caused by falling from a mountain or being hit with a stick or something else, or strangled with a rope or something else.

Carrion other than that of the sea.

Hash: There is disagreement about the reason for the prohibition of the first three. It is said that is a pure act of devotion. It is said that the reason is logical: carrion is dangerous to the health, blood causes the heart to become hard, and pork removes shame [i.e. leads to open lewdness].
"Hallowed" means slaughtered with the voices raising mentioning other than Allah azza wa jall, like the name of the Messiah (Isa [AS]). He also forbade what is sacrificed to things like idols. There is nothing wrong, however, in eating the food of the People of the Book, which is a seeming contradiction inasmuch as the slaughtered animals of the People of the Book are mostly directed to Nabi 'Isa (alaihi salam), for instance, which would be slaughtering for other than Allah azza wa jall. Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) answered what was said here means the sacrifices of the Magians. In short, it would seem that the slaughtered animals of the People of the Book are absolutely eaten, whether they are hallowed to other than Allah azza wa jall or not, but that is not the case. The fiqh of the matter is that the animals of the Kitabis are not lawful when they are specifically hallowed to other than Allah azza wa jall and the slaughtered animals of the Magians are never lawful.

What falls from a mountain is not eaten, even if it is slaughtered because one does not know what the cause of death was, Helping to die is with an arrow or stick or the like the stone. Strangled animals includes what is strangled between two branches. The evidence for prohibition is the words of Allah azza wa jall, "Forbidden for you are carrion, blood and pork" (Holy Qur’an 5:4)

40.22b Dire necessity
Unless there is dire need of such meat, like carrion.

When one is forced to eat that, it is not unlawful to eat it, like carrion of animals which are eaten or that of animals which are not eaten, except for the human being.

40.22c The extent to which it is allowed

When an animal reaches a state after which it cannot live due to those reasons, then there is no slaughter of it. There is no harm in someone compelled by necessity eating carrion and having his fill and taking provision from it. When he has no need of it, then he throws it away.

This is what will customarily result in death. It appear from what he says that this is the case whether you administer the mortal blow or not. This is different from the School. The specifics in the School is that if has definitely or probably receives a mortal wound, there is no slaughter in that. If that is not the case, slaughter is accomplishes in it, even if it must die. The one forced by necessity can eat. One might think that not eating is better, but that is not the case. Eating is mandatory as Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) said since the Almighty says, "Do not kill yourselves." (Holy Qur’an 4:29)
He eats his fill as Shaikh ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi) says. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that he only eats what will sustain life. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that he can take provision from it. It is also said that he does not do that. It is mandatory to discard it when it is no longer needed.

Hash: The position of the majority is that he eats his fill.

40.22d Skins of carrion

There is no harm in using its skin when it as been tanned, but one does not pray on it nor sell it.

The skin of carrion. If it has not been tanned it is used at all. One does not pray it or sell it in the well-known position.

40.22e Skins of beasts of prey

There is no harm in praying on the skins of beasts of prey when they have been slaughtered, and they can be sold.

40.22f Hair and wool

The wool and hair of carrion are used as well as what is removed from them while alive. We prefer that it be was washed. One does not use its feathers, horns, claws or teeth. It is disliked to use the tusks of elephants.

Shaikh ibn Habib (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that it is mandatory that it be washed. What is meant by feathers is the quills of the feathers of dead birds because the down is like hair in its purity by cutting. As for horns, they are not used at all absolutely, either the tip or the base. This is when the elephants have not been slaughtered, although some take it to mean that it is forbidden.

40.22g Pigs

All of a pig is forbidden, but there is an allowance to use its hair [bristles].

The meat, fat, bones and skin of a pig are forbidden: eating it or using it. The bristles are allowed because they are not impure in the well-known position.

40.23 Forbidden drink

40.23a Its definition

Allah azza wa jall has forbidden drinking wine, a little or a lot. The drink of the Arabs at that time was date wine. The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) made it clear that if a lot of something intoxicates, then a little of it is unlawful. Any drink which drugs the mind and intoxicates it, whatever it is, is considered to be 'wine'. Furthermore, Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The One made it unlawful to drink it made it unlawful to sell it."

It says in the commentary of the 'Umda al-Ahkam that one of the shaikhs said, "Even he puts the amount on the end of a needle onto his tongue, he receives the hadd." What was drunk at the time of the prohibition was date wine. That was made by crushing dates and putting them in vessels and putting water on it and leaving it to ferment. A little of it is unlawful, even if it does not intoxicate.

What is meant is not everything which drugs the intellect, but what drugs it as a result of intoxicate, i.e. rapture and joy. In Sahih Muslim, the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Every intoxicant is wine, and every wine is unlawful."

The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade selling it. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) related in the Muwatta' that ibn Abbas (radhi’Allahu anhu) said "A man gave the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) a small water-skin of wine. The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said to him, 'Don't you know that Allah azza wa jall has made it haram?' He said, 'No.' Then a man at his side whispered to him. The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) asked what he had whispered and the man replied, 'I told him to sell it.' The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, 'The One who made drinking it haram has made selling it haram.' The man then opened the water-skins and poured out what was in them."

40.34b Mixing drinks

The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) also forbade mixing drinks, whether they are mixed when they are set aside for fermentation or are mixed when they are drunk.

This is a prohibition of drinking them because the prohibition is connected to actions. There are two forms. One is ripening dates and raisins and then mixing them and putting them in one vessel, pouring water on them and then leaving them to ferment. The second is when they are fermented on their own and then mixed for drinking.

40.34c Fermentation vessels

He (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade storing/ fermenting juices in gourds or in pitch-lined containers.

These are gourds which are lined with pitch which are quick to cause fermentation.
40.24 Other forbidden meat

40.24a Beasts of prey and domestic animals

The Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade eating every animal with fangs and the meat of domestic donkeys. Included with donkeys is horsemeat and the meat of mules since Allah azza wa jall says, "both to ride and for adornment." (Holy Qur’an 16:8) None of these are slaughtered except wild asses.

It is all beasts with fangs with which it attacks and which prey, like tigers, panthers, and wolves. The fox is not a best of prey, even though it has fangs, because it does not attack or prey.

Horse meat and mules as well as donkeys are forbidden. That is because Allah azza wa jall mentioned flocks and said, "There is warmth for you in them, and various uses and some you eat." (Holy Qur’an 16:5) When He mentioned these, He only mentioned riding and adornment. That indicates that only that is permitted in them. Slaughtering any of these, including beasts of prey, does not render it eatable with the exception of wild asses.

40.24b Birds of prey
There is nothing wrong in eating birds of prey and those with talons.

All such birds are eatable.

_Hashiyya:_ One does not eat bats because they are unclean.

40.25 Treatment of parents

It is an obligation to be dutiful to one's parents, even if they are evildoers or idolaters. One should speak kindly to them and keep their company with correct politeness, but not obey them in disobedience as Allah azza wa jall states. A believer must ask for forgiveness for his parents if they are believers.

Whether they are evildoers in action or creed. Part of correct behavior is to lead the one who is blind to the church and to carry them to it, and to give them what they spend in their festivals. He must not raise his voice above their voice. He should be kind to them in all that the Shari’ah allows.

One does not obey them in disobeying Allah azza wa jall as Allah azza wa jall says, "If they endeavor to make you associate something with Me about which you have no knowledge do not
"obey them." (Holy Qur’an 29:7) He must ask forgiveness because of the words of Allah azza wa jall, "Say, 'Lord, show mercy to them as they did in looking after me when I was small.'" (Holy Qur’an 17:24) He does not ask forgiveness for them after their death if they are unbelievers by consensus.

40.26 Treatment of Fellow Muslims

40.26a Love for fellow Muslims

A believer must always protect believers and give them good advice. No one reaches the reality of faith until "he loves for his brother believer what he loves for himself." That is related from the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam).

This is friendship and showing love to them and not doing what would alienate them, like envy and other such things. He must give them good advice because that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said in a sound hadith, "The din is good counsel," i.e. most of the deen is good counsel, as he said, "Hajj is 'Arafa." Those present asked him, "For whom, Rasulullah?" He (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "To Allah azza wa jall, His Book, His Messenger, the leaders of the Muslims and their common folk."

Good counsel to Allah azza wa jall that you describe Him with what He describes Himself of necessary attributes and disconnect
Him from what is not appropriate for Him. Good counsel for His Book is to recite it properly and obey its commands and avoid its prohibitions. Good advice for His Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) is to believe in him and all that what he brought. Good counsel for the leaders is to obey their commands and to follow the laws which agree with the Shari’ah in measures and weights and other things. Good counsel for the common is to guide them to their best interests and to treat them with truthfully.

He mentions the extent of love which is to want for your fellow believer what you want for yourselves because it is the greatest pillar and necessary for the maintenance of the pillars, and it is not related that faith has any other pillars. The "brother" is mentioned to exclude the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) from that because "A person is not a believer until he loves the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) more than his wealth, his children and himself."

20.26b Maintaining ties with kin

He must maintain ties with his relatives.

That is every relative by lineage through mother or father.

Hash: This maintaining of ties includes visiting relatives, spending on those who are in need, good words, asking about how they are, overlooking their faults and helping them. It varies with different relatives. What is meant are believing relatives, not unbelievers, except for dutifulness to parents. Visiting means those who live nearby. Otherwise it is achieved through letters.

20.26c Duties owed to fellow Muslims

A believer must greet another believer when he meets him, visit him when he is ill, wish him well when he sneezes, attend his funeral when he dies and defend him when he is absent, publicly and in secret.

He should initiate the greeting when he meets him. As for visiting the one who is ill, part of the adab of that is that when he asks about his condition, he shows him compassion and does not make him despair. Wishing him well when he sneezes is to say to him, "May Allah have mercy on you" when he hears him praise Allah azza wa jall. He must attend his funeral: both the prayer and the burial. He should not slander him in his absence nor should he wish him ill.

Hash: Visiting the ill is a fard kifayah. He should also make supplication for the person who is ill and place his hand on his hand or his forehead to see how he is. He should not look at the private areas of the house or things one would normally not wish to be seen.
20.26d Impermissible shunning

One does not shun his brother for more than three days. The greeting ends the shunning, but he should not leave off speaking to him after the greeting.

Shunning is not speaking to him or greeting him. Three days is based on the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) "It is not lawful for a Muslim to shun his brother for more than three days." It is understood from this that shunning for three days is allowed, even if shunning is forbidden in general since that is difficult because of human nature which is rarely free of anger. The greeting, if he intends it, ends the shunning. If the other returns it, they both end the shunning. Otherwise only the greeter ends it. It is recommended that he be easy and continue to speak to him, because leaving it after giving the greeting is a bad opinion of him.

20.26e Permitted shunning

Permissible shunning is to shun someone with an innovation or someone who openly commits major wrong actions provided he cannot punish him and is unable to admonish him or the individual will not accept admonishment.
This means a forbidden innovation like the Qadariyya who said that good and evil come from man, not from Allah azza wa jall.

_Hash:_ Innovation is divided into forbidden and disliked. Forbidden innovations also include saying that the Night Journey was only a dream and the _Rafidiyya_ [extreme Shi'a] who reject Abu Bakr (radhi’Allahu anhu) and ’Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu).

Someone who openly commits major wrong actions and makes no attempt to conceal them is like someone who drinks wine openly. The place for shunning someone who openly commits wrong action is when he cannot punish him by the Shari’ah by discipline and the like, like types of ta’zir. If he cannot admonish him by the difficulty to of mending him or if he will not accept it because of his lack of sense and the like.

20.26f _When talking about someone is not backbiting_

In these two cases, mentioning the situation of someone is not backbiting nor is it backbiting when someone is consulted about someone's character for the sake of marriage or joint enterprise or the like, nor for the purpose of assessing the character of a witness and the like.
In these two cases, mentioning their state of iniquity in creed or limb. When he is asked about them, he says about the innovator, "So-and-so's dogma is false since it differs from the people of the Sunnah." In respect of the one who openly commits wrong action, he says, "So-and-so persists in major wrong actions." It is permitted to mention what he displays but forbidden to mention his other faults. This is not backbiting.

If someone is asking about someone to marry, as when he says, "I want to marry the daughter of so-and-so but I do not know his state," then he can mention his state to advise him and nothing more. The same is true if the inquirer is planning on entering into a partnership and the like and the person wants to know if he can be trusted. The same holds for assessing the character of a witness, or someone for which act as an Imam for the prayers. They ask about him and he can inform them of his shortcoming. Indeed, he must do that. It is the same in dealing with the character of a transmitter out of fear that he will attribute something to the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) which he did not say.

20.26g Noble character

It is noble character to pardon the one who wrongs you and to give to the one who refused you and to join the one who cut you off.
That is because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "My Lord commanded me to connect those who cut me off, to give to those who deprive me, and to pardon those who wrong me."

20.26h Four hadiths about good character

The sum of good adab and its peak can be derived from four hadiths.

These are the qualities which amount to good character. They are called adab because they are learned. The peak is the acme of good.

1. The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Anyone who believes in Allah azza wa jall and the Last Day should speak well or be silent."

The whole hadith is: "Anyone who believes in Allah azza wa jall and the Last Day should not harm his neighbor. Anyone who believes in Allah azza wa jall and the Last Day should honor his guest. Anyone who believes in Allah azza wa jall and the Last Day should speak well or be silent." He should speak good and be rewarded for it or be silent from an evil for which he will be punished.
2. He (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Part of the excellence of a person's Islam is his leaving alone what does not concern him."

It is that in which there is no benefit for him either in this world or the Next.

3. He (alaihi salat wa salam) told the one who asked him for succinct advice, "Do not get angry."

He (alaihi salat wa salam) repeated it several times. The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) meant that not keeping angry is an immense matter because anger has ruinous consequences in this world and the next and not getting angry has benefits and fruits in the Next World which are beyond number because Allah azza wa jall created anger from the Fire and kneaded it in the clay of man. When one of his desires is opposed, the fire of anger is kindled in him and it bubbles up and the blood of his heart boils and spreads in the veins and rises to the top of his body like water in a pot and then it diffuses his face and eyes so that they become red since the skin is like glass, conveying what is behind it. The aim of the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) was that he should not do that which will provoke anger, not to stop something on which he is formed and which cannot be removed from him.
4. He (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "A believer wants for his brother believer what he wants for himself."

It is in Sahih al-Bukhari as, "None of you will believe until he wants for his brother what he wants for himself," i.e. of obedience and permitted things.

40.27 Things one should not listen to

It is not lawful for you to deliberately listen to all of a falsehood nor to take pleasure in listening to the words of a woman who is not lawful for you nor to listen to musicians and singers.

Falsehood is like backbiting or action like listening to musical instruments and their sound.

Hash: According to Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu), listening to it is not haram.

It is not lawful for you enjoy the speech of a woman with whom you cannot have intercourse, and so it would be permitted to enjoy the words of a wife or slavegirl. It is not permitted to enjoy the voice of a beardless youth. It is not lawful to listen to things like lutes and singing.
40.28 Recitation of the Holy Qur’an

It is not permitted to recite the Holy Qur'an with quavering melodies as in the quavering used in singing. The Mighty Book of Allah azza wa jall must be respected and recited with calm and gravity in a way which is certain to please Allah azza wa jall and bring one near to Him with attention and understanding of that.

Nor should one listen to it with musical tunes. It must be respected and recited with stillness. One should not fiddle with his hand not look at what amuses him. A result of respect is that when he is about to break wind or yawns, he refrains from reciting until it is finished and the like. He must seek to please Allah by being in purity and facing qibla and sitting as a student before a master or standing in prayer. "Bringing one near to Him" is that one is certain that Allah azza wa jall is near to the reciter and the reciter draws near the Master means that he is accepted. He should pay attention to what he recites. When he recites an ayat of prohibition, he is certain of the prohibition, or one of command, he is certain of what is commanded. This is one of the fruits of understanding.

40.29 Commanding the correct
It is an obligation to command the correct and forbid the bad for everyone who has authority in the land and whoever can achieve that. If he cannot do that, then it is with his tongue. If he cannot do that, then it was with his heart.

The correct is what Allah azza wa jall and His Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) have commanded and the bad is what Allah azza wa jall and His Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) have forbidden. If someone has authority, like a ruler, he should put it right. If he cannot change it with his hand, then with his tongue. Changing it with the heart is that when he sees something bad he says to himself. "If I had the power to change it, I would do so." When he sees something correct being abandoned, he says in himself, "If I had the power to command it, I would do so." He likes someone who does what is correct and dislikes someone who does what is objectionable.

40.30 Right Intention

It is an obligation for every believer to desire the Noble Face of Allah azza wa jall by every word and deed. If someone desires other than Allah azza wa jall in that, his action is not accepted. Showing off is lesser shirk.
The action must be meant for the sake of Allah azza wa jall, not for reputation or showing off. There are two levels in the intention: the perfect is not to intend the Garden or the Fire. The imperfect is to intend to enter the Garden and be far from the Fire. If the word or action is mean for other than Allah azza wa jall, it is not accepted. Showing off, which is to do an action which may be an act of devotion, wanting people to see it, although that can be in other things which are not acts of devotion, like dressing, that is lesser shirk since Imam Ahmad (rahmatullahi alaihi) related that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The greatest thing I fear for you is lesser shirk." They asked, "Rasulullah, what is lesser shirk?" "Showing off," he (alaihi salat wa salam) replied.

40.31 Repentance [Tauba]

40.31a. Its obligatory nature

Repentance from every wrong action and not persisting in it is an obligation. Persisting in it is to continue in the wrong action and intend to return to it.

It is regret for what he misses and leaving the wrong action immediately with the intention not to return to it. "Not persisting" is repetition because repentance is not valid when one persists in the wrong action.
40.31b Part of what repentance requires

Part of repentance is to restore wrongs and avoid forbidden things and to intend to not revert to the wrong action.

Restoring wrongs to their people is by giving them to them, if that consists of property, or returning them to the person's heir if the wronged person is no longer alive. If there are no heirs, then he gives it as sadaqa to someone wronged. If it is honor, like slander, rectifies that about the slandered. It is also a precondition to avoid forbidden things and not to return to them.

40.31c Asking forgiveness

The one who repents should ask forgiveness of his Lord and hope for His mercy and fear His punishment while remembering His blessings to him. He should thank Him for His favor to him by actions, meaning by obligations, and by not doing what is disliked to do, He should draw near to Allah azza wa jall by doing voluntary acts of good which are feasible for him.

Asking forgiveness is one of the pillars of repentance. He should act, even if it is a little. This is like the prayer since it is confirmed that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) reported that Allah azza wa jall says, "My slave continues to draw near to Me with supererogatory actions until I love him. When I love him, I become his hearing with which he hears, his sight by which he sees, his hand with which he strikes and his foot with which he walks. If he asks of Me, I give to him. If he seeks refuge with Me, I give him refuge."

40.312d Missed obligations

He should make up any obligations which he missed immediately, asking Allah azza wa jall to accept them and turning to Him in repentance for missing them.

This is like the prayer. They are immediately obligatory. He should hope that Allah azza wa jall will accept them and pardon him.

Hash: This is if it is not too difficult for him and then he makes them up as best he can. He cannot do any supererogatory actions until he has made up the obligatory, with the exception of stressed Sunnah like the witr, Ids and Fajr.

40.31e Seeking Allah azza wa jall's help
He should seek refuge in Allah azza wa jall when he finds it difficult to direct himself or is confused about what to do. He should be certain that Allah azza wa jall can reform his state, grant him success, and direct him. He should not abandon that because of any good or ugliness in him and he must never despair of the mercy of Allah azza wa jall.

What he seeks is success in going straight in obedience to Allah azza wa jall. He should not cease seeking refuge and certainty according to his state. The good is obedience and the ugliness is disobedience. Wrong action should not prevent him from that because Allah azza wa jall says, "Allah loves those who repent." Tawwab means the one who, whenever he commits a wrong action, repents.

40.32 Reflection

Reflection on the command of Allah azza wa jall is the key of worship. So seek help by remembering death and reflecting on what comes after it, the blessings of your Lord to You, and his deferring you while punishing others for their wrong actions. Reflect on your past wrong actions and the outcome of your affair and how suddenly and soon your death will come.
The command of Allah azza wa jall means His creation because when you reflect on the products of the Creator, you know the necessity of His existence, the perfection of His power and the reality of his Lordship, and so must worship Him. Looking at the creation of Allah azza wa jall is, as the Shaikh (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, the key to worship.

Seek help against yourself is also in reflecting on death because death is harder than what went before and what comes after it is worse than that. Also seek help against it by reflecting on the blessing of your Lord since when you reflect on His blessings to you, you are too shy to commit wrong actions. Also seek help in reflecting on the end of your business since you do not know what the seal will be. Your term will come soon, i.e. the end may be at the end of the day or sooner because that makes obedience is easy and lessens hopes and desire. When you reflect on death, that is preparation for it, for when comes suddenly regret will be of no use, O Ever-Kind, be kind to us! There is no strength and no power except by You! May Allah bless our master Muhammad and his family and Companions and grant them peace.
Chapter 41: The Natural Form (Fitra):
Circumcision, Shaving the Hair, Dress,
Covering the Private parts and the Like

The fitra refers to the qualities by which a person is complete so that he has the best of qualities in his form and demeanor. The author (rahmatullahi alaihi) deals with what is commanded and forbidden under this topic, like forms and images.

41.1 The fitra (natural form)

Five things are part of the fitra: 1) trimming the mustache, which is the curve which is the hair which curls around the lips, not shaving off the mustache completely, and Allah knows best, 2) trimming the nails, 3) plucking out the hair of the armpits, 4) shaving pubic hair, – and there is nothing wrong in shaving the hair off the rest of the body. 5) Circumcision is a Sunnah for men and honorable for women.
1. Trimming the mustache, i.e. the hair which grows over the lip, meaning that which comes down over the lip. This is the Sunnah for shortening it, but it is not removed completely.

2. Trimming the nails for men and women.

3. Plucking out the hair of the armpits which is Sunnah for men and women.

4. Shaving pubic hair which is Sunnah for men and women. It is disliked to pluck out the hair for men and women because that weakens the area. It is permitted to use a depilatory. It is permitted to shave the hair on the hands and feet, and the rest of the body other than the head and beard. It appears it is permissible for men and mandatory for women to remove that whose removal entails beauty, because not doing it is mutilation.

Hashiyya: Shaving is best because that was the Sunnah of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam). Shaikh Abdu'l-Wahhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that removing other bodily hair is either permissible or Sunnah for men. Women should remove extra hair for beauty, even the hair of a beard if she grows one. She must let hair remain whose existence is part of beauty and so she is forbidden to shave her head. There is some disagreement about a man shaving his head. Some say that it is permitted for someone who wears a turban and disliked for the one who does not wear a turban.

5. Circumcision is Sunnah for men, adult or not adult, but the adult should do it to himself so as not to expose his private parts. It is removal of the foreskin. It is a stressed Sunnah.

41.2 Beards

The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) commanded that the beard be left and allowed to become thick without being cut off. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that there is nothing wrong is shortening it if it becomes too long. Many Companions and Tabi'un said that.

It recommended to remove some of it if it too long. There is no limit to what is taken of it if one leaves it relatively full.

41.3 Dying hair

It is disliked to dye the hair black, but not forbidden. There is nothing wrong is using henna and katam.

It is a prohibition for the sake of abstemiousness. This is particular ruling in relation to selling and jihad. It is forbidden in selling (i.e. to make a slave appear younger), but there is a reward for doing it in jihad to confuse the youthful enemy. There is nothing wrong with henna or katam, which makes the hair yellow. Henna makes it red. It is recommended or permissible, more likely the later.

41.4a The prohibition of using gold for men

The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade men to wear silk and gold or iron rings. There is nothing wrong in using silver to decorate a seal ring, a sword or a copy of the Holy Qur'an, but that should not be used in bridles, saddles, knives or in other such things.

He means that the ring is made of silver, as it states in the two Sahih collections that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) had a silver ring made and wore it on his hand and then Abu Bakr (radhi’Allahu anhu) wore it after him. Then 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) wore it and then 'Uthman (radhi’Allahu anhu), until it fell into the well of Arish. 'Uthman (radhi’Allahu anhu) searched for it and drained the well for three days but did not find it. It indicates that the khalifate was represented by the ring. Engraved on it was "Muhammad is the Rasulullah." Silver is not used on weapons of war in general.
Hash: It is permitted to use silver or gold on swords. It is said that that is because it will alarm the enemy. It is used on copies of the Holy Qur'an to show esteem for it. The permission to use silver on swords is for a man's sword. It is not used on a woman's sword, even if she uses it for jihad.

41.4b Women's use

Women can wear gold rings, but he (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade them wearing iron rings.

It is preferred that they use silver. Iron is forbidden for both men and women.

41.4c Manner of wearing rings

What is preferred, according to what is reported about rings, is that they are worn on left hand, since the right hand is used for taking things. A person takes something with the right hand and puts it into the left.

This is the majority position, including that of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi). It is related that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) wore his ring on the little finger of the left hand. He (alaihi salat wa salam) turned the face towards his palm.
When he (alaihi salat wa salam) did istinja, he removed it and he removed it when he went to the lavatory. Also the left hand is further from pride.

41.4d Khazz [fabric containing silk]

There is disagreement about wearing khazz. Some permit it and others dislike it. The same is true about silk badges on garments except for a thin strip.

Khazz is cloth whose warp is of wool, cotton or linen and its woof is silk. The first position is in the Qamus while Shaikh ibn Rushd (rahmatullahi alaihi) takes the second position. There is a third that is unlawful. Shaikh al-Qarafi (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "It is the apparent position of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) by the words of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) on the robe of 'Urtarid which was mixed with silk and he wore it and he said, "This is one who has no portion in the Next World." Badges are less than a finger in length.

41.5 Clothing

41.5a Women's dress

When women go out, they should not wear thin clothing which lets their shape be seen.
That which lets the attributes of body be seen, like breast and rear end. In their house with they husbands, they can wear such clothes.

41.5b Arrogance in dress

A man should not drag his waist-wrapper out of pride nor his garment out of arrogance. His garment should reach the ankles, as that is cleaner for the garment and shows more godfearing.

In this case, the dragging originates from arrogance. The same would apply to a woman if she did it out of arrogance. It shows more taqwa for it to reach the ankles because he guards against pride, and vanity. Pride refers to a person regarding himself as perfect while forgetting the blessing of Allah azza wa jall and the vanity to thinking little of others, Pride is more specific than vanity.

41.5c Samma'

It is forbidden to wear a samma' garment over nothing else. It is lifted up by the arm on one side and hangs down on the other. That is when there is nothing under it. There is disagreement about when there is garment under it.
Like wearing it over a waist-wrapper. It is explained in the hadith of Abu Sa‘id (radhi’Allahu anhu) that a man puts his garment on one of his shoulders so that his side shows. Linguists explain it as a man wearing a garment in which he is wrapped and there is no way out for his hand. When he wants to put his hand out, his nakedness shows. The Qamus says that it means he brings the garment from his right side over his left hand and left shoulder, and then brings it back again over his right hand and shoulder and covers them all. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) has two positions about when it is worn over a garment. One is that it is forbidden, taking the hadith literally, and the other that it is permitted since the legal cause does not exist, which is avoiding exposure of the private parts.

41.6 Covering the private parts

41.6a Covering the private parts is obligatory

One is commanded to cover the private parts. The waist-wrapper of a believer reaches mid-calf.

To hide the private parts from people's eyes is mandatory by consensus, and recommended in private in the well-known position. There is also a position that it is obligatory in private. The man's waist-wrapper should reach mid-calf since the "Muwatta' reported that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The waist-wrapper of a Muslim should reach his mid-calves, and there is no harm - i.e. there is nothing wrong - in what is between that and the ankles. Anything lower than the ankles will in the Fire. Allah azza wa jall will not look at anyone who drags his wrapper out of pride."

41.6b The thigh

The thigh is a private part, but not an intrinsic private part.

What is between the thigh and the hip is a private part. This means it is not an actual private part, and the strictest position that it is disliked to show it with other than close friends and relations is unlikely because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) had his thigh uncovered with Abu Bakr (radhi’Allahu anhu) and 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu). In Sahih Muslim, 'A'isha (radhi’Allahu anha) reported that the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) was reclining in his house with his thighs and calves uncovered. Abu Bakr (radhi’Allahu anhu) asked for permission to enter and he (alaihi salat wa salam) gave him permission while he (alaihi salat wa salam) was like that. He spoke and then 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) asked for permission and he gave him permission while he (alaihi salat wa salam) was like that and he (radhi’Allahu anhu) talked with him. Then 'Uthman (radhi’Allahu anhu) asked for permission and the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) sat up and straightened his garment. He (radhi’Allahu anhu) entered and spoke with him (alaihi salat wa salam) and then left. 'A'isha (radhi’Allahu anha) said, "Abu Bakr (radhi’Allahu anhu) entered and you were not concerned. 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) entered and you were not concerned, (meaning you did not worry and cover your thighs). Then 'Uthman (radhi’Allahu anhu) entered and you sat up and straightened your garment." He (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Should I not be modest before a man before whom the angels are modest?" Modesty is a virtue.

41.6c Bathhouses

A man should not enter the bathhouse without wearing a waist wrapper. A woman should only enter it for a reason. Two men or two women should not be together under a single cover.

Hash: The ruling for men is when there are other people present. If the bathhouse is empty, then it is permitted without one.

A reason for a woman to enter is like illness or lochia, not for menstruation or janaba.
Hash: Abu Dawud (rahmatullahi alaihi) reported that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The lands of the non-Arabs will be opened to you via conquest and you will find houses in them called bathhouses. Men should only enter them with a waist wrapper and forbid women to enter them unless they are ill or bleeding after childbirth." Shaikh ibn Rushd (rahmatullahi alaihi) says it is disliked for them and is less than an actual prohibition.

The rule about the single cover or cloth is when their private parts are not covered. This is a prohibition, whether they are relatives or not based on what Abu Dawud (rahmatullahi alaihi) related that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "A man should not look at another man's private parts nor a woman at another woman's private parts. Two men should not lie naked under the same cover nor two women under the same cover."

41.7 Women going out and music

41.7a Women going out

A woman should not go out unless she is covered for what she must do in being present at the death of her parents or relatives or the like which is permitted.

Like funerals and weddings.
41.7b Unacceptable gatherings

Furthermore she should not attend a funeral where there are women wailer’s or gatherings with playing of flutes or lutes or similar instruments, except for the tambourine in weddings. There is disagreement about kabar drums.

It is not permitted to attend such gatherings. The kabar is a small drum with a skin on one side. Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) permitted it and others forbid it.

41.8 Seeing Women

A man should not be alone with a woman for whom he is not a mahram. There is no harm in him seeing a woman for some reason like identifying her or the like of that, or when he proposes marriage to her. As a woman who does not provoke desire because of her age, there is nothing wrong in him seeing her face in any case.

He means a young woman who is not related to him since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade that, saying that Shaitan is the third of them. He can see her for a legitimate reason. The "like" includes a doctor looking at her.

41.9 Hair extensions and tattoos
Women are forbidden to add someone else's hair to their own or to tattoo themselves.

Since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Allah azza wa jall has cursed anyone who joins hair together and the person to whose hair it is joined, women who tattoo and are tattooed, women who pluck their eyebrows, and women who file their teeth to make gaps for beauty, altering Allah azza wa jall's creation!" Plucking is to remove the hair of the eyebrows until they become thin for cosmetic reasons, and making gaps is to file the teeth so they are far apart. It is understood that the prohibition is when it is done for beauty. When it is done for treatment or a defect, there is no harm in it.

41.10 Putting on footwear

When putting on a sock or sandal, begin with the right and when removing it, begin with the left. There is nothing wrong in putting on sandals while standing. It is disliked to walk in only one sandal.

This is a recommendation. One can put them on sitting down or standing, either being preferred. It is disliked to walk in only one sandal because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade that.
41.11 Images

It is disliked to make images on beds, tents, walls and rings. Designs on clothing is not part of that but it is better not to do it.

These are images of animals. Tents includes a cloth put over a howdah.

Chapter 42: Eating and Drinking

This chapter is about the \textit{adab} of eating and drinking.

42.1 Invocation before and afterwards

When you eat or drink, it is mandatory for you to say, "In the name of Allah" - "\textit{Bismillah}" and to take the food using your right hand. When you finish, you should say, "Praise be to Allah" - "\textit{Alhamdulillah}.

This is the \textit{Sunnah}, to say "In the Name of Allah," aloud and not add "the All-Merciful, Most Merciful". It is recommended to use the right hand for eating and drinking. After eating, one says, "Alhamdulillah" silently.

Hashiyya: If one forgets to say "In the Name of Allah" when he begins, then when he finishes, he says, "In the Name of Allah, the first of it and the last of it." It is recommended to say it aloud to remind others who might forget it and to instruct someone who does not know that. One does not add "the All-Merciful, Most Merciful" because chewing is punishment, and punishment is not combined with mercy, just as one does not add that when slaughtering an animal. Some, however, like Shaikh Abu Mahdi (rahmatullahi alaihi), the Shaikh of Shaikh ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi), prefer to add that.

One is recommended to say "Alhamdulillah" silently so as not to embarrass someone who is eating and is not full.

42.2 Eating manners

42.2a Licking the hand

It is good to lick your hand before wiping it.
One version says "fingers" since it says in Muslim that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) used to lick his hand before wiping it. One eats with three fingers.

Hash: Qadi 'Iyad (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "(Eating with fingers is) part of the adab and Sunnah of eating. Eating with more than them is greed and bad manners unless more are needed because of the fineness of the food.

42.2b Thirds

The manners of eating include leaving a third of your stomach for food, a third for drink and a third for breath.

So when someone eats a lot of food, he has no space for breathing.

42.2c Eating from in front of one

If you are eating with others, you eat from what is in front of you.

When you are eating with other than your family, you eat from what is in front of you because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) commanded that.
42.2d Finishing one bite before taking another

Do not take another bite until you have finished the previous one.

Until you have swallowed it so that you are not greedy for food and so that you do not choke and become embarrassed. Part of the proper adab is that you eat small morsels and take your time while eating, even if that is not your habit.

42.2e Drinking

Do not breathe into the vessel while you are drinking. Take the cup away from your mouth and then return it if you wish, Do not drink in gulps, but sip it.

The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade breathing into the vessel. It is permitted to drink in one gulp. That is the position of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi). It is said, however, that it is disliked, because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "When one of you drinks, he should take three breaths. It is more healthy and satisfying.

42.2f Chewing properly

Chew your food properly before swallowing it.
That is better for enjoyment and for digestion.

42.2g Cleaning the mouth after eating

Clean your mouth after eating. It is good to wash your hands of grease and milk. It is good to pick out any food between your teeth.

Clean your mouth after eating by rinsing and using the siwak to prevent bad breath. It is good to wash your hands after licking it to remove grease and fat and milk. That is recommended. One removes food from between the teeth because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) commanded that.

The Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade eating or drinking with the left hand.

That is because Shaitan eats and drinks with his left hand.

42.2i Passing to the right

When you drink, you pass it to the one on your right.
That is based on the report is the Muwatta' that the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) was given some milk mixed with water. There was a bedouin to his right and Abu Bakr as-Siddiq (radhi’Allahu anhu) to his (alaihi salat wa salam) left. He (alaihi salat wa salam) drank and then gave it to the bedouin, saying, "The right and then to the right."

42.2j Not blowing on food or drink

It is forbidden to blow on food or drink or on a book, or to drink from a gold or silver vessel.

What is meant by book is a book of fiqh or hadith. In the case of food or drink, it is to protect it from dirt, and it is for respect in the case of books.

The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) in the two Sahih collections, said, "Do not drink or eat from a gold or silver vessel nor their plates They have them in this world and you have it in the Next World," meaning the unbelievers.

42.2k One can drink standing

There is nothing wrong in drinking standing up.
As it is related in at-Tirmidhi that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) used to drink both standing up and sitting down, and 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) and 'Uthman (radhi’Allahu anhu) also did that. That is the position of the fuqaha'.

42.2l Not entering a mosque after eating garlic

It is not permitted for someone who has eaten raw leeks, garlic or onions to enter a mosque.

It is disliked because Shaikh ibn al-Qasim (rahmatullahi alaihi) heard from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) that more than one preferred that that is prohibited. Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) took the works of the author to mean that.

42.2m Not eating reclining

It is disliked to eat reclining.

It is to lean on one's left side on the left leg and rest on the left elbow with the right thigh upright.

42.2n Not eating from the top

It is disliked to start eating from the top of tharid (bread soaked in broth).
Since it is confirmed that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) was brought a bowl of tharid and said, "Eat from its sides and do not eat from its middle. The blessing descends on the middle."

42.20 Eating two dates at the same time

It is forbidden to eat two dates at the same time, but it is said that this prohibition only applies to co-owners of the dates they are eating. There is nothing wrong in doing that with your own family or people you are feeding.

The prohibition is one of dislike either because of being bad manners or because of self appropriation. If the people are partners in the dates, then it is a forbidden. He is permitted to do that in his own family because it is his, or with those he is feeding if the reason is appropriation. If it is bad manners, the prohibition remains.

42.2p When there are different fruits on the plate

When eating dates and other fruits, there is nothing wrong in reaching your hand around the dish to eat what you want of them.
When, for instance, there are dates and raisins. Then you can reach to take them wherever they are on the plate. That is reported in the Sunnah.

42.3 Washing the hands

42.3a Washing the hands before eating

Washing one's hands before eating is not Sunnah unless they are dirty.

Indeed, it is disliked if they are clean according to the well-known position of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi). One does not act by his (alaihi salat wa salam) words, "Washing before eating removes poverty and after it removes pains." It is not the action of the people of Madina, i.e. their action is put before the hadith, even if the hadith is sound. That is because the fact that their action was contrary to the hadith must oblige that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) acted differently which indicates that it was abrogated. If, however, they are dirty, they are washed to honor the food.

42.3b After eating

After eating, a person should wash his hands and mouth free of grease and rinse the milk from his mouth.
Shaikh Yusuf ibn Umar (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that this is a ruling particular to milk because it has fat and that is strengthened by the hadith in which the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) drank milk and then called for water and washed his mouth. He (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "It has fat."

42.3b Not using foodstuff for cleaning the hands

It is disapproved to clean one's hands with food or any bean flour or even the chaff of grain, but there is disagreement about the latter.

The disagreement is about whether it is permitted or disliked.

42.4 Going to a wedding feast

If you are invited to a wedding feast, you must go unless there is well-known or objectionable entertainment there. It is up to you whether you eat. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) stated that it is allowed not to go if it is too crowded.

It is said that this is a recommendation and it is said that it is an obligation. It is obliged to accept the invitation when one is specifically invited. He adds more preconditions: that there are not forbidden musical instruments there and disliked things like men and women mixing and silk couches.

Chapter 43: Rulings Concerning Speech

Greetings, Asking Permission to Enter, Conversation, Recitation, Supplication, Dhikr'Allah, and Travel

43.1 Greeting

43.1a The Form of the Greeting

Returning a greeting is mandatory. Initiating it is Sunnah and desirable. The form of the greeting is that a man says, "Peace be upon you," [as-salamu 'alaikum] and the reply is, "And upon you peace," [wa 'alaikum salam] or "Peace be upon you," [salamu 'alaikum] as was said to him.

A fuller greeting which ends with blessing is that you say in reply, "On upon you peace and the mercy of Allah and its blessings." [wa 'alaikum-salamu wa rahmatu'llahi wa
barakatuh] Do not say in your answer, 'The peace of Allah be upon you.' [salam'Allah 'alaik]

Returning the greeting is a fard kifayah in the well-known position. Initiating it is a Sunnah kifayah and is stressed. The plural form is used whether it is one or more people greeted, thereby including the guardian angels. Shaikh ibn Rushd (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that the best is to greet with as-salamu 'alaikum and to reply with wa 'alaikum-salam.

The optimum reply is wa 'alaikum-salamu wa rahmatu'llahi wa barakatuh, and it is innovation and excess to add more than that.

The last form (salam'Allah 'alaik) is not used because it is not reported that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) used it and it is not transmitted from the Salaf.

43.1b One of a group is enough

If one of a group makes the greeting, that suffices for all of them. The same applies when one of them returns the greeting.

Because it is part of the Sunnah al-kifayah.
43.1c Who greets whom

Someone riding greets someone walking, and someone walking greets someone sitting.

This is based on the command of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam).

43.1d Shaking hands

Shaking hands is good. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) disliked embracing, but Shaikh ibn 'Uyayna (rahmatullahi alaihi) allowed it.

It is recommended according to the well-known position. There is a counter transmission of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) from Shaikh Ashhab (rahmatullahi alaihi) that it is disliked.

Hash: Shaking hands is recommended based on what the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) is reported as saying in the Muwatta': "Shake hands and rancor will disappear. Give presents to each other and you will love each other and enmity will disappear."
Shaikh Sufyan ibn Uyyayna (rahmatullahi alaihi) was one of the great people of knowledge and excellence.

43.1e Embracing and kissing the hand

Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) disliked kissing another's hand and did not accept what is related about it.

This is kissing the hand of another person, whether it is a scholar, master or father. It is the apparent meaning of the text of the people of the School because it is the action of the non-Arabs which can lead to pride and self-importance. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) did not accept the hadiths related about it. One is that when the delegation of 'Abdu'l-Qays came to the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) they went to kiss his hands and feet. It is sahih. Another is Sa'd ibn Malik (radhi’Allahu anhu) kissing the hand of the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam).

Hash: If Imam Malik's (rahmatullahi alaihi) criticism of the hadiths was based on transmission, he was the Imam in hadith. If it is fiqh, it is based on ijtihad. Shaikh ibn Battal (rahmatullahi alaihi), a Maliki Imam, says that it is disliked to kiss the hands of tyrants, but it is permitted to kiss the hand of a parent or righteous man whose barakah is hoped for.

43.1f Greeting People of the Book
You should not initiate the greeting to a Jew or Christian. If a Muslim inadvertently greets a dhimmi, he does take it back. If a Jew or Christian greets a Muslim, he should answer, "On you ("alaik)." It is also said that one may answer with "And on you silam." "Silam" means a stone. That used to be said.

It is confirmed that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade initiating it. This prohibition is one of dislike. If someone greets one of them, thinking he is a Muslim, he does not seek the reply by saying something like, "I greeted you thinking that you were a Muslim. If I had known that you were an unbeliever, I would not have greeted you. Return to me the greeting I gave you." When he replies to their greeting, he says, "On you" without the waw so that it is against him.

43.2 Asking permission to enter and visiting the sick

43.2a Asking permission to enter

Asking permission to enter people's houses is mandatory. Do not enter a house where someone is present without asking his permission three times. If you are given permission, enter. Otherwise, go away,
It is a mandatory obligation because Allah azza wa jall says, "When your children reach puberty, they should ask permission to enter." Whoever abandons that disobeys Allah azza wa jall and the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam). It makes no difference whether the house is locked or unlocked, Asking three times is the limit, whether a mahram or someone whose private parts it is not lawful to look at him, as opposed to a wife or slavegirl.

Hash: This does not include public places like mosques, bathhouses, hotels, and the much-frequented houses of scholars, qadis and doctors (not their private dwellings, but areas which are more public.

The form of asking permission is to say, "May I enter?"

43.2b Visiting the sick

It is recommended to visit the sick.

This was already mentioned earlier and is out of place.

43.3 Whispering to the exclusion of a person

43.3a Not whispering to the exclusion of another person
Two people should not converse together to the exclusion of a third. Nor may a larger group do that while excluding one of them. It is also said that they must not do that except with his permission.

This is whether it is done while resident or on a journey.

43.3b. Not shunning

Shunning people was already mentioned in an earlier Chapter [Chapter 40].

43.4 Dhikr

Mu'adh ibn Jabal (radhi’Allahu anhu) said, "No action of a human being is more likely to save him from the punishment of Allah azza wa jall than Dhikr’Allah." 'Umar [ibn al-Khattab] (radhi’Allahu anhu) said, "Better than the remembrance of Allah azza wa jall on the tongue is the remembrance of Allah azza wa jall by obeying His commands and prohibitions.'

Regarding Mu'adh ibn Jabal (radhi’Allahu anhu) the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The one with the most knowledge of the halal and haram is Mu'adh ibn Jabal." Mu'adh's (radhi’Allahu anhu) statement can refer to dhikr by the tongue or by the heart.
The perfect dhikr is that which is with the heart and tongue both. 'Umar's (radhi'Allahu anhu) statement does not contradict the fact that the most perfect dhikr, is all of them.

Dhikr of the heart has two types. The most majestic is reflection on the immensity of Allah azza wa jall and His majesty, might and His signs in the Heaven and the earth. Then there is remembering with the heart in the command and prohibition and obeying what He commanded and avoiding what He forbade.

43.5 Supplications

43.5a A supplication for the morning and evening

One of the supplications of the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) morning and night was, "O Allah, by You we start the day and by You we end it, and by You we live and by You we die."

He (alaihi salat wa salam) also used to add in the morning, "To You is the gathering," and in the evening, "To You is the return."

This is transmitted in the four Sunan collections: at-Tirmidhi, Abu Dawud, an-Nasa'i and Ibn Majah.
43.5b Another supplication

Also related in that is: "O Rabb, grant me a portion in every blessing with Your slaves who have the greatest portion with You which You distribute on this day and in afterwards: in the light by which You guide, the mercy which You spread, the provision which you expand, harm which you remove, wrong actions which You forgive, hardship which you drive away, temptation which You avert and pardon which You bestow by Your mercy. You have power over all things."

It is related that it is a marfu' hadith. Shaikh al-Aqfahasi (rahmatullahi alaihi) stated that. It is related that it was part of what Abdullah ibn 'Umar (radhi'Allahu anhu) said. The author's (rahmatullahi alaihi) style seems to indicate the later.

43.6 A supplication before going to sleep

Part of his (alaihi salat wa salam) supplication when he went to sleep was that he put his right hand under his right cheek and his left hand on his left thigh and then said, 'O Allah, in Your Name I have lain down and in Your Name I will rise. O Allah, if You keep my self, then forgive it. If You release it, then guard it as You guard the righteous among Your slaves. O Allah, I have surrendered myself to You and I commend myself to You. I entrust my affair with You and have turned my face to You fearing You and desiring You. There is no where to flee or refuge from You except to You. I ask for your forgiveness and I turn to You. I have believed in Your Book which You sent down and in your Prophet whom You sent, so forgive me what I did in the past and will do in the future, what I conceal and what I make public. You are my Lord. There is no god but You. My Lord, protect me from Your punishment on the Day You resurrect Your slaves."

43.7 A supplication when going out

It is related that when he left the house, he (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "O Allah, I seek refuge with You from misleading or being misguided, from slipping up or making others slip, or wronging or being wronged, from being ignorant or being treated ignorantly."

This is in the four Sunan Collections.

43.8 A supplication after the prayer

It is related that he (alaihi salat wa salam) said after every prayer one should say, "Subhan’Allah" 33 times, "Allahu
"Akbar" 33 times and "Alhamdulillah" 33 times and end the hundred with "There is no god but Allah alone with no partner. His is the kingdom and praise is His and He has power over all things."

This is after every obligatory prayer.

43.9 A supplication after going to the lavatory

After going to the lavatory, you say, "Praise be to Allah who provided me with its pleasure and removed from me its discomfort and let its nutrition remain in my body."

This is related from the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam). This hadith is mursal. The version in the Sahih Collections, "Praise be to Allah who removed harm from me and protected me from affliction." In the Sahih collections, when the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) entered the lavatory, he (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "O Allah, I seek refuge with you from foulness and the foul ones [Shaitan’s]."

43.10 Supplications against danger

43.10a Supplication against danger
You should seek protection from everything you fear and when you camp in a place or sit in a place or sleep somewhere, saying, "I seek refuge with the complete words of Allah from the evil of what He created."

According to Muslim, you repeat this three times. "The complete words of Allah" means the Holy Qur'an.

43.10b Another supplication

Or you may say, "I seek refuge with the noble face of Allah and with the complete words of Allah which neither a pious or impious person can overlook, and with all the Most Beautiful Names of Allah, what I know of them and what I do not know, from the evil of what He created, originated, and produced, and from the evil of what descends from the sky and from the evil of what ascends in it, and from the evil of the trials of the night and day, and from the evil of from the evil of every visitant at night except that which knocks with good, O All-Merciful."

One may add, "And from every beast whose forelock my Lord has taken, My Lord is on a Straight Path."

There are more than ninety-nine Names. Shaikh al-Qushayri (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "Allah azza wa jall has a thousand names: three hundred in the Torah three hundred in the Zabur and three hundred in the Gospel and ninety-nine in the Holy Qur'an and one in the Pages of Ibrahim (alaihi salam).

43.11 Supplication on entering a house

When someone enters his house, it is recommended that he say, "As Allah wills. There is no strength except by Allah."

He also says this when he enters his garden or his shop after giving the greeting if someone is there. If there is no one there, he says, "Peace be upon us and upon the righteous slaves of Allah." That is because Allah azza wa jall says, "Why, when you entered your garden, did you not say, As Allah wills, there is no strength but in Allah?" (Holy Qur’an 18:38)

43.12 Disliked activities in mosques

43.12a. Not doing work

In mosques it is disliked to do work like sewing and the like.

This is a prohibition or dislike.

43.12b. Other disliked activities
One should not wash his hands in a mosque nor eat in it unless it is something light, like sawiq and the like. He should not trim his mustache or nails there. If he does so, he collects the clippings in his garment. He should not kill lice or fleas there.

He should not eat things which might soil the mosque. Sawiq is roasted wheat or barley mixed with ghee or honey. Nail clippings and the like are considered dirt. Even if he puts it in his garment, it might fall out. The prohibition against killing lice is stronger than that about fleas because lice can release blood which is not the case with fleas.

43.12c An allowance to sleep in the mosque

There is an allowance for strangers to spend the night in mosques in the countryside.

This is out of necessity. It is understood that that is not an allowance in the mosques in towns since there are hotels there for which he can pay. If it is a case of necessity, then he can spend the night there.

43.13 Reciting the Holy Qur'an
43.13a In bath houses

In bathhouses one should not recite more than a few verses and not a lot.

That is because it is a place of uncleanness.

43.13b When one can recite

One can recite the Holy Qur'an riding, lying down, or walking from one town to another, but that is disliked to recite it while walking to the market, although it is said that a learner can do that.

One can recite in all these positions because Allah commanded remembrance in all states. He says, "Remember Allah standing, sitting and on your sides." (Holy Qur'an 4:101) "Walking to the market" means the market in towns, not in the one in the countryside which is not disliked.

43.13c The length of time one takes to recite the entire Holy Qur'an

It is good for someone to recite the entire Holy Qur'an in seven nights, but to recite less with understanding is better. It is related that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) did not recite it in less than three nights.

It is good because that was the practice of most of the Salaf. It is better to reflect on the meanings because Allah azza wa jall says, "Will they not ponder the Qur'an?" (Holy Qur'an 4:82)

43.14 A supplication for beginning a journey

It is recommended for a traveler to say when he mounts, "In the Name of Allah. O Allah, You are the Companion in the journey and the substitute in the family. O Allah, I seek refuge with you from the hardship of the journey and from the trouble of reversal and finding family and possessions in a poor state."

Hash: This is related in sound hadith. He says this when he puts his foot in the stirrup.

43.15 A supplication after mounting an animal

When the traveler is upright on his mount, he should say, "Glory be to Him who subjected this to us. We could never have done it by ourselves. Indeed we are returning to our Lord!" (Holy Qur’an 43:12-13)
43.16 Trading abroad

It is disliked to trade in the land of the enemy or the land of the blacks.

The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Travel is a portion of punishment."

That is because he exposes his permission and property to attack and abasement to their deen. The land of the blacks refers to the land of those who are unbelievers. The full hadith in the Muwatta' is: "Traveling is a portion of punishment. It denies you your sleep, food and drink. When you have accomplished your purpose, you should hurry back to your family."

43.17 Women traveling

A woman should not make a journey of a day and a night or more except with a relative except in the case of the obligatory hajj according to the position of Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi). Then she may travel in a safe group, even if she has no relative with them.

She can travel without a mahram provided that it is a safe group of Muslims.
Chapter 44: Medical treatment, charms, omens, stars, castration, branding, dogs, and compassion to slaves

44.1 Charms and medical treatment

44.1a. Making charms

There is nothing wrong in using charms (ruqa) against the evil eye and other things, nor in using prayers for refuge.

Charms [written or spoken] can be used against bites of scorpions and snakes. The evil eye is a poison which Allah azza wa jall puts in the eye of the looker when he admires something and does not ask for blessing. If he asks for blessing when he sees him, nothing befalls the person he looks at since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said to the one with the evil eye, "Did you not ask for blessing?" There is no disagreement that it is permitted to make charms using the Names of Allah azza wa jall and His Book.
There is nothing wrong with using the refuge prayer. Muslim reports that when the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) had a complaint, he recited the refuge verses over himself: al-Ikhlas, al-Falaq and an-Nas and spit without actually spitting on his hand and wiped the part of his body which was afflicted.

44.1b Medical treatment

There is nothing wrong in using medical treatment, drinking medicine, being bled and cauterization. Cupping is good.

Using medicines for illness is acceptable. Cupping is recommended at all times.

44.1c Kohl

It is permitted for men to use kohl for treatment and it is a cosmetic for women.

Kohl is antimony. Men only use it for necessity.

Hashiyya: This is one of two positions from Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi). The other position is that it is permitted at night.
44.1d What one is not permitted to use in treatment

Wine, impurities, that which comes from carrion or anything which Allah azza wa jall has forbidden are not used for medical treatment.

It is not permitted to use wine inside or on the outside the body. Nothing of carrion is used since it is unclean. It is not permitted to treat the itch by wearing silk, although there is some disagreement about that.

44.1e Cauterization and charms (ruqa)

There is nothing wrong in cauterization and using charms with the Book of Allah azza wa jall or using good words.

Good words means words in Arabic. It is related in Sahih Bukhari and Muslim that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) uttered a refuge prayer for one of his family. He (alaihi salat wa salam) stroked the person with his right hand and said, "O Allah, Lord of people, remove the harm. Heal. You are the Healer. There is no healing but Your healing, a healing which does leave any illness behind."
One does not use charms consisting of unclear words since Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) was asked about foreign words and said, "What will inform you? Perhaps they are disbelief." The ruling in that is that it is not permitted to use for a charm that whose meaning is not known.

44.1f Amulets

There is no harm in amulets which contain something of the Holy Qur'an.

These are used for protection, whether for someone ill or healthy after it is put inside something.

44.1g Plague

If the plague breaks out in a land no one should enter it and those there should not flee from it.

One does not flee from the plague because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade that. It is disliked.

44.2 Portents

The Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) said about evil omens, "If they exist, they are in houses, women, and horses." The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) disliked bad names and liked good omens.

Bad omens in a house is in the form of bad neighbors. In a woman it is like her lack of lineage or bad character, and in a horse, it is the fact that it has not been ridden in expeditions. The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) disliked names like Hanzala [colocynth] and Harb [war].

He (alaihi salat wa salam) liked good omens, In the Sahih it is reported that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) was asked, "Rasulullah, what is the good omen?" He (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "A good word which one of you hears when he leaves on a journey or to visit a sick person and did not intend to hear." He hears something like, "O Ghanim (successful)! O Salim (safe)." If he intends to hear the omen so as to act on it, that is not permitted. That is akin to arrow drawing. They had three arrows. One said "Do it", the second "Do not do it" and the third was blank. When the person drew the one that said, "Do it", he would do what he was going to do. If "Do not do it" came out, he went back. If he drew the blank, he repeated the process.

44.3 Curing the effect of the evil eye

The manner of washing on account of the evil eye is that the person responsible for the evil eye washes his face, hands, elbows, knees, ends of his feet and under his waist-wrapper over a basin. Then that water is poured over the one afflicted.

He must do this, And he is forced to do it if he refuses when death is feared for the one afflicted and that is the only means of saving him. By under the waist-wrapper he means the area near the private parts.

44.4 Stars

One should only look at the stars to find the direction of qibla and the time of the night and not other things.

A third purpose is permitted, and it is to use them for direction when traveling since Allah azza wa jall says, "It is He who has appointed the stars for you so you might be guided by them in the darkness of the land and sea." (Holy Qur’an 6:98) Other things means things like astrology.

44.5 Dogs

Dogs should not be kept in houses in the towns nor in houses in the countryside except for those used for guarding crops or livestock where the dog accompanies the flock into the desert and then comes home with them, or dogs used for hunting for livelihood, but not for sport.

They are said to be permitted for guarding houses. If the dog is vicious, then it is forbidden to keep it unless it is a guard dog or a sheep dog. The general prohibition is one of dislike.

44.6 Gelding animals

There is nothing wrong in castrating sheep and goats if it improves their meat. It is forbidden to geld horses.

It is forbidden to geld horses because that weakens them and removes the possibility of using them for stud. It is permitted to geld mules and donkeys. There is consensus that it is unlawful to castrate a human being.

44.7 Branding animals

It is disliked to brand on the face. There is nothing wrong in branding them elsewhere.

It can be done elsewhere on the animal other than the face because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade branding on the face and allowed marking the ear because the owner needs to distinguish his animals.
44.8 Kindness to slaves

One should be kind to slaves and not oblige them to do work they are incapable of doing.

One should be kind to them in eating, drinking and work. The master is not permitted to oblige his slave to do what is hard for him or what he or she cannot physically do.

Chapter 45: Dreams, Yawning, Sneezing, Playing Backgammon and other games, Racing Horses, shooting and the like

45.1 Dreams

45.1a The good dream

The Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "A good dream of a righteous man is a forty-sixth portion of prophethood."
It is the same for a righteous woman. This means someone who obeys Allah azza wa jall's commands and avoids His prohibitions. It is considered to be part of prophethood because it gives information about what is unseen in a certain way. As for the details connected to that, that is particular to the one who is a Prophet.

45.1b The bad dream

If someone has a dream he dislikes, when he wakes up, he should spit three times to his left and say, "O Allah, I seek refuge in You from the evil of what I have seen in my dream lest it harm me in my deen or worldly affairs."

One version has, "He should seek refuge with Allah from the Accursed Shaitan three times and then turn onto his other side." The wisdom of changing sides is to move to what is more favorable as it is hoped that Allah azza wa jall will change the disliked to the good.

45.2 Yawning

If someone yawns, he should put his hand over his mouth.

The right hand, either side, or the back of the left hand. When the yawn is over, he spits without spit, even if he is in the prayer.
45.3 Sneezing

If someone sneezes, he should say, "Praise be to Allah," [Alhamdulillah] and the one who hears him praise Allah azza wa jall should say, "May Allah have mercy on you" [Yarhamuk'Allah]. The sneezer then replies, "May Allah forgive us and you" [Yaghfiru'Allahu lana wa lakum] or "May Allah guide you and make you thrive" [Yahdikumu'Allah wa yuslih].

[When he sneezes, he can also say, "Praise be to Allah, the Lord of the Worlds." ]

Shaikh ibn Naji (rahmatullahi alaihi) transmitted from al-Bayan that the best known position is that the reply is an individual obligation which is indicated by the hadith of Sahih al-Bukhari, "It is a duty for every Muslim when he hears it to say, "May Allah have mercy on you." In the reply of the sneezer, the second reply is better because guidance is better than forgiveness and forgiveness is only on account of a wrong action.

45.4 Games and Betting

45.4a. Backgammon and chess
Playing backgammon and chess is not permitted. There is nothing wrong in greeting someone who is playing them. It is disliked to sit with someone playing them and to watch them.

Whether for winnings or not since it is confirmed that the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The one who plays backgammon has disobeyed Allah and His Messenger." Ibn 'Amr (radhi'Allahu anhu) said, "Backgammon are pieces of ivory or colored wood which are played with in which there is no skill, but based on chance. It resembles playing with dice."

It is not disliked to greet him while he is not playing. As for while he is playing, it is not permitted because they are involved in disobedience. Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) says that his status as a witness is only revoked if that is habitual. The habitual may violate oaths. If it is rare, then he should abandon it and his status is not canceled.

45.4b Contests

There is nothing wrong in racing horses and camels and in holding archery competitions.
For a prize or without a prize. Competition outside these three is not permitted unless it is not for a prize.

45.4c Rules of prizes

If two contestants stake a prize, they should put another contestant between them. If the third party wins, he takes the stake. If one of the other two wins, the third party gets nothing of it. This is the opinion of Shaikh ibn al-Musayyab (rahmatullahi alaihi).

45.4d Another view on prizes

Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) said that it is allowed for a man to set a stake. If someone beats him, then that winner takes the prize. If the one who set the stake wins, it goes to the one who came after him. If there is only the one who put the stake and one another and the one who put the stake wins, then the stake goes to the spectators.

45.5 Killing snakes and other creatures

45.5a. Snakes

It is reported that when the snakes of Madina appear they are asked to leave for three days. Doing that in other places is good, but this is not done in the desert and they are killed when they appear.

This is reported from the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam). The evidence for asking permission is in the Muwatta' that the Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "There are jinn in Madina who have become Muslim. When you see one of them, call out to it for three days. If it appears after that, then kill it, for it is a Shaitan."

The form of asking them to leave to say, "If you believe in Allah azza wa jall and the Last Day and you are Muslim, do not appear to us today. If you appear to us, we will kill you." There is no announcement made in the deserts or roads.

45.5b Lice and fleas

Killing lice and fleas by fire is disliked.

This includes other such creatures like bedbugs and gnats. If, however, they are causing harm by their numbers, then it is permitted.

45.5c Ants
There is nothing wrong, insha’Allah, in killing ants when they cause harm and cannot be removed, but it is better not to kill them.

If it is possible to remove them, that is better.

45.5d Geckos

Geckos are killed.

Hash: They are killed wherever they are found because the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) commanded killing them.

45.5e Frogs

It is disliked to kill frogs.

As long as they are not harmful.

Hash: The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) forbade killing them." It is said that their croaking is glorification

45.6 Not boasting about ancestors

45.6a. The Boasting of the Jahiliyya
The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Allah has removed from you the stupidity of the Jahiliyya and their boasting of their ancestors. Whether you are godfearing believers or wretched deviant, you are the sons of Nabi Adam (alaihi salam), and Adam (alaihi salam) came from dust."

Stupidity is arrogance and tyranny. If you obey the commands of Allah azza wa jall and avoid His prohibitions, you are elevated with Allah azza wa jall by taqwa, even if you have no noble lineage. If you are a deviant unbeliever without taqwa, you are base, even if you have noble lineage. Rivalry in ancestors does not bring about anything at all. How can you be arrogant and proud when you are all from dust?

45.6b Genealogy

The Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said about a man who learned the genealogies of people, "A useless knowledge and ignorance of it will not harm one."

It is of no use either in this world or the next.

45.6c Useful genealogy
'Umar (radhi’Allahu anhu) said, "Learn about your lineage’s enough to be able to maintain ties of kinship."

So that you know who your relatives are.

45.6d Imam Malik's (rahmatullahi alaihi) dislike of tracing ancestors

Imam Malik (rahmatullahi alaihi) said, "I dislike of tracing genealogies back to ancestors before Islam."

45.7 Dreams

45.7a. The general ruling

A good dream is a forty-sixth part of prophethood. If someone has a bad dream he should spit to his left and seek the protection of Allah azza wa jall from the evil which he has seen.

This is repeated because of the context.

45.7b Dream interpretation

Someone who has no knowledge of the science of dreams should not interpret them, nor should he interpret it as indicative of something good when he knows that it indicates something disliked.

This is forbidden. To give an interpretation without knowledge is lying and contrary to the words of Allah azza wa jall, "Do not pursue what you have no knowledge of." (Holy Qur'an 17:36) Changing the interpretation is forbidden because it is lying and deceit. If there is good, he mentions it. If it is something bad, he says, "Good, insha’Allah."

45.8 Poetry

There is nothing wrong in reciting poetry, but a small amount is better. One should not spend too much time with reciting or composing it.

This is when it does not criticize someone. One should not spend too much time on it because it is vanity and it is better to be occupied with something better.

45.9 Religious knowledge

45.9a The best knowledge

The best and most fitting type of knowledge and the closest to Allah azza wa jall is knowledge of His deen and His laws regarding what He commanded, forbade, summoned to and encouraged in His Book and on the tongue of His Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam). One must have understanding and a grasp of that and be concerned with observing that and acting according to it.

The knowledge which contains the religious dogma, like recognition of the Maker and knowledge of His existence and all His attributes, and knowledge of the laws which is the halal and haram, and other laws which are obligatory and recommended and what is forbidden and disliked. One should know what Allah azza wa jall and His Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) encouraged. One should have understanding of the deen of Allah azza wa jall and know its laws. Acting by it is the best of actions and the one which will bring one closer to Allah azza wa jall because the fruit of knowledge is action.

45.9b The best action

Knowledge is the best of actions. The closest scholar to Allah azza wa jall and most entitled to Him is the one with the greatest fear of Him and desire for what is with Him. Knowledge directs to good things and guides to them.

This is knowledge of the deen and the laws since the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) has said, "The best worship is fiqh and the best of the deen is scrupulousness." The Rasulullah (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "Whoever travels a path in which he seeks knowledge, Allah azza wa jall will make his path to the Garden easy."

45.9c Refuge

Salvation lies in seeking protection in the Book of Allah azza wa jall and the Sunnah of His Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) and following the path of the believers and that of the best of generations of the best community produced for mankind.

The path of the believers means consensus. The best generation are the Companions, may Allah azza wa jall be pleased with all of them.

45.9d Deliverance

Reliance on that is protection. Salvation lies in following the righteous Salaf. They are the model with regard to the interpretations which they made and the results of their deductions. Even though they differed in the secondary ruling, no should leave their group.
Praise belongs to Allah azza wa jall who guided us to this and were it not that Allah azza wa jall has guided us, we would not have been guided.

The righteous Salaf are the first three generations of the scholars of action and the later ones described with their qualities. Interpretation is moving the expression from its literal meaning, as the Holy Prophet (alaihi salat wa salam) said, "The neighbor of the mosque has no prayer except in the mosque." That would appear that he has no sound prayer. What is indicted by the basic expression negates the reality, which is that it is absolutely invalid. One turns to what is near it, and it means it is not perfect. Because the consensus of the Companions is evidence, it is mandatory to follow it and it is forbidden to oppose it.

Epilogue

Shaikh Abu Muhammad 'Abdullah ibn Zayd (rahmatullahi alaihi) says: "We have now done what we stipulated on ourselves to do in this book of ours. Insha’Allah, it will be of use to those children who desire to learn that and adults who are in need of it. What is contains will lead the ignorant to knowledge of what to believe in his deen and what obligations he must perform. It will give him much understanding of the basic principles and secondary rulings of fiqh as well as the Sunnah’s, desirable practices and manners.

I ask Allah azza wa jall to let us and you benefit by what we know and to help us and you perform what we owe Him in what He obliged on us. There is no power nor strength except by Allah, the All-Knowing, Immense. May Allah azza wa jall bless our master Muhammad, His Prophet, and his family and Companions and grant them much peace. Amin!
